LOCATE ROMAN WALL

LONDON (CP) — Part of a Roman wall, built about 100 AD to replace timber defences, has been uncovered in Cecil Street, Lincoln

Lawgiver Epitome of Epics

TIMNA, Israel (AP) — It is 3,200 years after Mount Sinai. Burt Lancaster has finished his portrayal of Moses, led his people to the Promised Land and delivered the law of the Lord. Things are quiet now.

The wind machines which blasted dust and cotton candy across the desert in late 1973 are gone. So are the catering trucks which dished up hot plates, sandwiches and ice-cooled lemonade to the hard-working movie folk near this drowsy desert outpost.

But in New York, CBS-TV officials are only starting to look at segments of The Lawgiver, a major TV work based on the Book of Exodus but whose trials seem drawn from the Book of Job.

CBS first announced plans for the biblical epic in April, 1973, and said The Lawgiver would appear as six one-hour dramas during the 1974-75 television season.

Filming began in September, 1973, near Elath, 10 miles south of Timna and 170 miles south of Tel Aviv. A month later, the Yom Kippur War broke out and disrupted the filming until December.

The epic, a co-production of Italy's RAI Television and Associated Television Corporation Ltd of London, wasn't finished until February, 1974.

And, a CBS spokesman said, there was post-filming difficulty, most of it in the editing process, which delayed delivery of segments of The Lawgiver until mid-February, 1975.

CBS doesn't know yet whether the $3-million spectacular will be aired this year, or whether it still will run as six separate dramas.

In December, 1973, a visitor to these historic lands inspected the work in progress and it was a sight to behold.

Nomadic Arab herdsmen from the Central Sinai had saddled up their camels, packed their meagre possessions, wives and kids and travelled for days across a forbidding landscape, past Egyptian and Israeli minefields and past old ceasefire lines to reach filmdom's promised land.

Girls in granny dresses and bearded young men from the United States, Australia and a half-dozen European countries had abandoned the coffee houses of Tel Aviv and cheap hotels in Jerusalem to live near here in caves, on beaches or in wind-blown Bedouin tents.

All came to be close to Moses—for $9.50 a day, the pay for the real and make-believe children of Israel in The Lawgiver.

It wasn't hard to find the Promised Land Road signs simply inscribed Moshe (Hebrew for Moses) pointed off the highway between Elath and Tel Aviv toward the glistening mountains of the Central Sinai.

But because of the Yom Kippur War and technical difficulties, Mount Sinai, 95 miles southwest of here, couldn't be used for the scene in which Moses receives the Ten Commandments. So mountains southwest of Timna, which resemble the original location, were used instead.

The valleys reverberated with the words of Moses—not to mention a good many four-letter ones tossed in by Lancaster when the 59-year-old star wasn't happy with the way things were going.

And sometimes things didn't go according to plan. The Italian director originally wanted to use only the real nomadic Bedouin tribesmen of the Sinai to play the multitudes involved in the Exodus. About 200 Bedouins and their camels were needed for such big biblical scenes as the orgy around the golden calf or the crossing of the Red Sea. But only about 70 showed up.

And after two weeks on the job, some of the nomads were preparing to leave, despite the good pay, because they felt hemmed in by the canyons and the discipline of the film-makers.

Those remaining quickly adapted to the temperament of temporary stars. One day they walked off the job because the catering vans hadn't arrived at the accustomed hour.

They asked for equal rights with Italian, Israeli, British and American film crews, demanding bus transportation to various film locations, leaving the camels with their wives and kids.

The film company agreed, provided the nomads would remount their camels on camera when asked to do so and hide all the plastic cups and other modern artifacts they had bought with their earnings as movie extras.

The camels used in The Lawgiver earned the same $9.50-a-day pay as the human extras.

One of these four-footed thespians, a female named Shoushou, almost was called on to make the supreme sacrifice for cinematic art.

The script called for young Moses, played by Lancaster's 27-year-old son Michael, to slaughter a camel to survive in the barren Sinai desert.

The film company paid 2,500 Israeli pounds—about $600—for Shoushou to be killed on camera. Oldtimers said it may well have been the highest price ever paid for a single Sinai camel.

Fortunately, the film's soft-hearted Italian producer, Vicenzo Labella, cancelled Shoushou's demise.

He later offered to sell the camel back to the original owner. The Bedouin offered $60 and no more.

No dice, said Labella, adding that he'd rather donate Shoushou to an Italian zoo.

Projectionists Recounts Early Days in Films

WOODSTOCK, Ont. (CP) — For hours on end Len Tyler cranked his handle steadily and Valentino leapt into the saddle to carry maidens into the deserts of Araby, Chaplin ambled through his endless duel with the ironies of life and Erik the Phantom skulked through the secret passages of the Paris Opera.

The movies were a lot different when Mr. Tyler made his debut in 1925 as projectionist at the Griffin Opera House.

Mr. Tyler, 67, is in his 19th year as projectionist at the Capitol Theatre, successor of the old Griffin, where he started at $6 a week.

When the Griffin was in its glory as the entertainment hub of Oxford County, projectors were hand-cranked and every self-respecting movie house had an eight-piece orchestra.

"You had to crank that film 66 feet a minute to keep time with the orchestra. You always got a blast from the orchestra leader if you got ahead of them."

The Griffin also ran stage shows.

"We ran stock companies in the summer," Mr. Tyler said. "They'd come in for two or three weeks and perform a different play each night.

"The Dumbells would come through. They started during the First World War, men dressed up as women. That was a popular show."

Vaudeville remained a part of the Capitol's Saturday night fare as late as 1956.

Mr. Tyler almost gave up the job the night he showed his first color movie.

"It was The Black Pirate with Douglas Fairbanks Sr. We had six breaks in the film in one reel. It was like running cardboard through the projector. It wasn't flexible enough."

The coming of sound intensified his interest, since electronics had been his hobby.

In the early films, the sound for 1,000 feet of film was contained on a giant record and problems arose when broken film had to be spliced and a corresponding amount of sound had to be deleted. A few months later the problem was solved when the sound appeared on the film.

The early nitrate film, capable of exploding with one spark brought strict safety regulations in the projection booth which are still maintained although modern film is no longer a fire hazard.

Early feature films were shorter but the program included a chapter from the latest serial, a 20-minute comedy short, trailers and a travelogue.

"We ran a lot of Fitzpatrick's travel talks," Mr. Tyler recalled. "He'd take you on a 10-minute trip to Ceylon or Burma."

In 1938 Mr. Tyler moved to the Royal Theatre, where he remained until 1956.

In the war years the Royal ran all day. There was a camp with 1,800 soldiers just outside town and the local factories were on continuous shifts, creating a need for daytime entertainment.

Mr. Tyler frowns on the off-color language and scenes that have become commonplace in today's films.

"I really believe the pendulum is going to swing the other way," he said. "People have had it up to the neck."

Boys Save Man

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Four young brothers pulled an elderly man from the cold St. John River on Tuesday afternoon, then kept it a secret from their mother, fearing they would be in hot water for playing under the Reversing Falls Bridge.

The boys, Gerald Caissie, 10, and his brothers, Douglas, 9, Robert, 8, and Barry, 6, are credited with saving the life of Clarence William Myes, 70.

Speed Drains

KOMOKA, Ont. (CP) — A law designed to reduce delay in construction of municipally-created drains applied for by farmers should be enacted by July, Lorne Henderson, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Lambton, said Wednesday.

He told members of the Middlesex Municipal Association in this community about five miles west of London that the new law means drain construction might be initiated within six months of a farmers application to the municipality.

Mr. Henderson said drain construction now can be held up for years if there are objectors.

NAMED CHAIRMAN

To Your Good Health

Reducing Weight Slow Procedure

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Why do some people have such a hard time losing weight? I am a female, 35 years old and 100 pounds overweight. I've been on a diet for six weeks and have lost only five pounds, all during the first week. I am eating between 700 and 900 calories a day.

I had my thyroid checked three years ago and it was fine. I work every day on my feet and I'm very active. I am getting very discouraged—Mrs. P.

Don't be impatient. It took you a long while to put on the excess poundage, so, unless you are going to endanger your health with a crash diet, it is going to take a while to remove it.

In the vast majority of cases, glands, especially the thyroid, have little to do with weight gain. I keep telling my readers that obesity is quite simply a matter of overeating. It's been shown that persons who have been fat since childhood have an increased number of fat cells, and these cells are larger than normal ones. Such are the facts of the matter.

The formula for losing weight is simple, also. If you do not consume excessive calories you won't gain weight. If you cut down on them, you lose weight.

So you are on a proper course with your restricted diet. One point, though. You don't mention salt restriction. Salt promotes water retention, and dieters do tend to consume more liquids than they normally would. This sounds pretty obvious but I've known many to ignore this fact and then wonder why they weren't losing weight. Eventually, water retention becomes less of a factor as dieting progresses, and the pounds begin slipping off.

But you are right. Some people do lose faster than others, and if we knew why, we'd have the answer to a sure-fire weight-loss program. We don't.

But remember that weight loss is not a matter of steady decline, but of slips and plateaus. You lost five pounds your first week, then reached a plateau. I'll bet that by the time you read this you will have reached another plateau after your second decline. That is, if you have not given up in frustration in the meantime.

Keep at it. When you are at the weight you desire, you will find that after all the dips and declines, ups and downs, your average weight loss was something like two pounds a week.

If you can't do it alone, join one of the several weight-loss therapy groups around.

You are a young woman, and getting back into your old dress size is going to be worth all the waiting.

It does no good to scold you about having allowed yourself to put on all that extra weight. Yet, it remains a source of amazement to me why folks will let themselves get into such obesity problems when all the road signs leading to them are so clearly marked.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Last year I had a major operation. Steel wire was used in suturing. Will this in time come out and puncture tissues or organs?—Mrs. E.N..

Very fine steel wire is often used in suturing (stitching), especially in deep surgery where relatively large sections of tissue must be joined, or where great pressure might be exerted.

The wire is perfectly antiseptic and causes no reaction. Steel and tissue seem to get along pretty well together. Surgical techniques have developed to such a fine art that any chance of such suturing becoming loosened is virtually non-existent. Your surgeon would have removed it had he deemed it necessary.

RUNS MARCH 29

The Santa Anita Derby for three-year-olds will be run March 29.

Rain Chamber Simulates Any Shower

MANCHESTER, England (CP) — A rain chamber, which can simulate rain in intensity, drop size and velocity, has been developed by the Shirley Institute, Britain's largest independent textile research centre, to help manufacturers produce better rainwear. It will enable realistic tests to be made on complete articles of rainwear; at present laboratory shower tests are suitable only for fabric cuttings.

The chamber will simulate everything from light showers to tropical storms, using hollow needles which can vary the size of the drops. Hitherto, tests have been unable to take into account the various angles between fabric and rain that can occur in a coat.

The performance of garments in rain is influenced by such design features as the construction and positioning of the seams, pockets, buttonholes and zip fasteners, and the nature of the outer fabrics, linings and interlinings.

The cost of the project to each participating firm will be &500 ($1.150) in 1975-76 and the results will be shared among them. Elain Clulow, the Shirley Institute scientist leading the research, says overseas firms will be welcome to join the project.

Caught Big Fish

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — Two Bulgarian fishermen aged 30 and 68 caught the fish of their lives when they landed a 320-pound sturgeon in the Danube River, the news agency BTA said. The roe weighed 39 pounds.

When Tristram de Lyonesse arrived at King Arthur's court, he was thought to be a country bumpkin. But it did not take him long to prove himself with sword, lance and shield. He became one of the two or three most feared Knights of the Round Table

It took him a trifle longer to show that he could handle himself just as well at the bridge table A few hands such as today's did the trick for him.

He sat East and as anyone can plainly see, South is cold for seven hearts with all finesses working for him. In addition to this West opened the four of clubs South played dummy's seven and Sir Tristram played the king without any apparent thought.

Declarer put on the ace and then did some thinking. That four spot might well have been fourth best of five, in which case South wanted to do anything possible to prevent a club ruff. He laid down his ace of hearts and played a second heart. Tristram took his king and proceeded to lead a club to give his partner the deadly ruff that South had tried to avoid.

Once he saw a man who appeared to have a bigger head than his own and asked him where he bought his hat. "But the man took it as an affront and called police who told me to move on and stop making fun of the man," he said.

Strike Over, But - -

Commons Debates Until Wee Hours

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative MPs forced the Commons to sit until 3:26 a.m. EST today debating an issue that appeared all but settled before they started—the strike by blue collar workers and the resumption of international grain shipments.

But they justified the abnormal 7½-hour overtime session on grounds that grain shipments run into snags caused by far more than the one labor dispute.

The debate, which brought little new information to light, was precipitated by John Fraser (PC—Vancouver South) who sought and won approval Wednesday afternoon for emergency consideration of the issue.

He argued that labor unrest has jeopardized Canada's reputation as a reliable grain exporter, made idle workers in related fields and caused unnecessary hardship.

The strike by 18,600 federal blue collar workers, including grain weighers and samplers, was still on when Mr. Fraser

Speaker James Jerome agreed that the issue was as important as any facing MPs and set 8 p.m. EST as the starting time for the debate.

Normally the Commons adjourns at 6 p.m. on Wednesdays.

When the overtime sitting began, Treasury Board President Jean Chretien rose without warning to announce that a settlement had been reached.

Liberal MPs roare dwith applause and demanded cancellation of the debate. New Democrat and Social Credit members agreed but the Conservatives said the debate should go on.

Deputy Speaker Gerald Laniel, in the chair at the time, said the debate had been ruled in order and the decision could not be changed.

Across the country, spokesmen for most grain weighers and samplers said the men would be back on the job today, despite reservations over terms of the proposed settlement.

But an official for a separate group of grain inspectors at Vancouver, Prince Rupert and Victoria, said a study session is planned today to consider the proposal.

It was not known what impact the inspectors might have on the resumption of grain movements.

But it appeared that a second labor dispute by 4,000 West Coast longshoremen likely would not interfere. Their executive has voted to accept a mediated settlement and a general vote is scheduled this weekend.

Mr. Fraser said the major danger from longshoremen is the possibility of picket lines that other dock workers might refuse to cross.

Until their settlement is ratified, the longshoremen are remaining off the job. Their gain-related tasks include hatch removal aboard grain ships, setting spouts and trimming loaded vessels.

MPs, most of them Conservatives talked far later than expected but attendance was low, at times dropping below the minimum of 20 required for a quorum.

Liberal strategists discussed the possibility at one point of formally objecting to the below-minimum attendance. But they refrained after two of their members decided to speak.

Jury Cannot Reach Verdict

WOODSTOCK, Ont. (CP) — Efforts by an 11-member Ontario Supreme Court jury to reach a verdict in the murder trial of Brian and Bonnie Lee Hluska ended unsuccessfully Wednesday after three days of deliberations.

The Hluskas, both 22, were on trial for murder punishable by life imprisonment following the death of their infant daughter, Brenda Lee. The four-month old daughter died in a fire which started Feb 7, 1974 at the Hluska residence near Mount Elgin.

During the six-week trial, the Crown attempted to prove that the Hluskas deliberately set the fire to their rented farmhouse to collect $1,000 insurance on the contents.

U.S. Firms May Get Dredging Contracts

OTTAWA (CP) — American dredging companies are being considered as possible candidates for government business this summer because of the countrywide dredging scandal.

Public Works Minister C. M. Drury told the Commons public works committee Wednesday that this is one of several alternatives his department is studying. But he indicated later that the proposal bothers him as Canadian dredge crews might be affected.

The public works department study illustrates the dilemma the government faces in awarding dredging contracts this summer. The 13 companies facing criminal charges in the dredging case account for much of the industry.

Mr. Drury said his department must decide urgently what to do because contracts must be awarded soon for this summer. He said there is consultation among federal departments and agencies about the problem.

Replying to James McGrath (PC—St. John's East), Mr. Drury said that because some Canadian companies have been charged with criminal conspiracy on some contracts does not necessarily mean that the government "isn't able to get them to continue to work provided the costs are adequately controlled."

Max Saltsman (NDP—Waterloo-Cambridge) said the government should set up a Crown corporation to handle government dredging contracts. Transport Minister Jean Marchand has already indicated he thinks the idea is worth considering.

The problem with the government doing all its own dredging is that it would be saddled with idle equipment for much of the year, he said. This was uneconomic.

'Dirty Tricks' Campaign Seen

TORONTO (CP) — Margaret Scrivener (PC—Toronto St. David) says funds are being held up by the federal government as part of a "dirty tricks" campaign against the Ontario government.

"I firmly believe the Ottawa Liberals and politicians are cutting back federal financial assistance for housing to embarrass the provincial Progressive Conservative government of William Davis and to assist Liberal Robert Nixon in his campaign to become premier of Ontario," Mrs. Schrivener said Wednesday in a speech to the Concordia Club.

Mrs. Schrivener, parliamentary assistant to the minister of housing, said the use of federal power for this purpose is "cheap and disgusting, a dirty trick."

Worst of all is the exploitation of families on low incomes who are in desperate need of housing.

Congressmen Not Interested in CIA Sub Hunt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional committees investigating the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) show little interest in opening full-scale inquiries into the partial recovery of a Soviet submarine from the bottom of the Pacific Ocean.

Public disclosure of last summer's secret operation prompted few questions about the legality of the CIA's attempts to raise the diesel-powered vessel.

Deep-sea salvage operations in search of another country's sunken vessels are acceptable under international law once the ship is given up for lost.

Meanwhile, NBC-TV said United States and British forces once recovered electronic gear from a Soviet aircraft which crashed in the North Sea and U.S. personnel recovered electronic equipment from a sunken Soviet vessel in the Sea of Japan and a nuclear weapon from a Russian airplane that crashed in the Sea of Japan.

The publicity about the Soviet submarine may have killed plans to go back for the most valuable items, believed still on the ocean floor. About one-third of the vessel was raised, but this did not include communications codes and atomic warhead missiles, military sources said.

The submarine was in four or five pieces on the ocean floor, the Washington Post says. The Post quotes one unnamed source as saying the portion of the submarine successfully recovered included part of the conning tower where the submarine's missiles were housed. It says this indicated that at least one of the nuclear missile warheads may have been salvaged.

The Soviet G-class submarine went down in 1968 in 16,000-feet of water about 70 miles northwest of Oahu, Hawaii, with the loss of 70 men.

The recovery operation was carried out by the Glomar Explorer, a salvage ship built for the project by billionaire Howard Hughes.

Close PSAC Vote Likely

By The Canadian Press

Results of a ratification vote on a tentative contract by 18,600 federal blue-collar workers in the Public Service Alliance of Canada (PSAC) are expected to be ready early next week.

A release from the union in Ottawa initially said Thursday results would be ready by Monday morning, but an alliance spokesman said results will be known later because some locals are not holding meetings until Monday night.

A spokesman in Ottawa said the ratification vote is expected to be close.

Most federal services affected by PSAC revolving strikes begun eb. 17 returned to normal Thursday except for export of grain from the West Coast.

Grain-handlers were on the job at some Prairie points but remained off work in Vancouver, where a strike by West Coast longshoremen begun March 1 complicated the grain-export problem.

None of the 13 million bushels piled up at Vancouver will move until longshoremen are on the job. A spokesman for strikers in Vancouver said Thursday they decided at a closed meeting to return to work Monday. spokesman for grain weighers and samplers in Vancouver, said they planned to meet tonight to decide on the proposed contract negotiated in Ottawa Wednesday.

Nestor Bropko, strike captain of PSAC Local 60 in Vancouver, said grain workers in the local are "absolutely dissatisfied with the terms of the proposed agreement."

Ninety-three empty ships Thursday awaited grain cargoes on the coast, where no wheat has been shipped since PSAC strikes started.

Chretien Planning To Prosecute

OTTAWA (CP) — The government intends to prosecute all blue-collar workers who went on strike illegally, Treasury Board President Jean Chretien said Thursday.

Despite their tentative contract settlement which treasury board, court action will proceed in all cases, he told reporters outside the Commons.

"I'm following the law as it is."

Bridge Talk

Ald. Jean Smith was among municipal politicians who met on Bay Bridge replacement project with provincial government experts in Belleville Thursday night. Between discussions, attended by about 40 area councillors, she chats with Peter Pinfold, environmental planner with the transportation and communications ministry. Bridge Route Problem

Secrecy Shrouds Location Of Archaeological Sites

By HARRY MULHALL

Staff Reporter

Provincial government experts say they're anxious to get as much public opinion as possible on the new Bay of Quinte Highway 14 route.

So they're preparing for public discussion meetings; getting brochures ready for delivery to rural householders in the involved sector.

But there's one area they will not deliberately talk about in public.

It's archaelogical sites.

A meeting between the project study team from the transportation and communications ministry and local government politicians in Belleville Thursday night was told the reason:

Government authorities want as few people as possible tramping around such sites until they've been thoroughly evaluated or explored.

After the meeting Peter Pinfold ministry environmental planner said there are a number of sites — Indian burial grounds or habitats — in the area under study for a new across-the-Bay traffic link.

Some already are known; others just suspected.

But the study group has instructions from the natural resources ministry not to reveal the whereabouts of such sites so they won't be spoiled before archaeologists have a chance to probe them.

Meanwhile, some 3,000 brochures on the route study now underway to locate a satisfactory site for the new traffic route are being prepared. These will be delivered to country householders in the study area — reaching from Point Anne to CFB Trenton.

They will prepare the public for open discussions where ministry officials can be quizzed on the project.

Schedule of the public meetings: April 8 — Loyalist College; April 9 Ameliasburgh township hall. Both sessions will be staged at similar times in afternoon and evening — 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 10 p.m.

School Costs Ceiling Raised

Staff and CP

Hastings educators are reacting with "guarded optimism" over Thursday's announcement by education minister Thomas Wells that the province is raising educational spending ceilings.

The education minister said the spending ceilings will be raised by $50 a pupil so that revised ceilings are $926 an elementary school pupil and $1,441 a secondary school pupil.

He also warned in the legislature that the government will not accept "exorbitant and unreasonable" salary demands on the part of the teachers.

Jean Hutchison, chairman of the Hastings County Board of Education, said today "it looks good now but we have to wait and see what grant structures will come down in April."

She agreed an additional $50 per pupil would help but she also said previous spending ceiling increases have resulted in little actual funds for spending.

Acting director of education L.F. Reid said today "we are happy to see they (the ministry) have retained the ceilings." Mr. Reid said this ensures a degree of equality of educational opportunity for smaller boards across Ontario.

He also said the increase will mean about $1.1 million additional expenditure ceiling fo Hastings county. It is expected if ceilings are increased then the province will increase grants.

Mr. Reid said about 70 per cent of the additional ceiling would be grants and about 30 per cent would have to be raised by local taxes.

Revised ceilings could cost Ontario taxpayers up to $20 million extra, most of it going toward secondary school spending costs.

Mr. Wells said that last October's announced 13-per-cent increase was, in the best judgment of the government, adequate to cope with inflation.

"Today, however, school boards find themselves faced with new realities brought about by continuing inflation," he told the legislature. ..

"Increasing costs of such essential items as heating fuel, light maintenance, paper and classroom supplies have continued to squeeze board budgets even more than anticipated."

Mr. Wells said the adjusted education spending ceilings are fair and reasonable.

"There is not a school board in the province that should not have funds at its disposal to maintain the present quality of education, and at the same time to bargain with their teachers towards settlements that are fair, equitable and reasonable," he said.

The education minister added that teachers are entitled to fair and reasonable salaries which reflect increases in inflation, and should have the right to bargain for improved compensation and working conditions.

"But to withdraw services to support demands that are, by any standard, exorbitant and unreasonable, is grossly unfair to students, and to taxpayers who pay 100 per cent of the costs of operating the schools," he said.

Mr. Wells also cautioned that the government strongly believes that reason and restraint in wage increases are absolutely necessary today.

"We believe that all employees—those in the public sector and those in the private sector as well—must be reasonable in their wage demands."

Meeting with Richardson Sought

Trenton Mayor Fearful Supply Unit Will Leave

By AL ZABAS

Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Trenton Mayor Bob Patrick wants a meeting with Defence Minister James Richardson before any action is taken that he fears will "for all practical purposes" close AMDU at CFB Trenton.

The loss of the Air Maintenance Development Unit (AMDU) which employs 430 people would have a serious economic impact on the area says the mayor.

In a February letter to the minister Mayor Patrick says he has learned several sections of AMDU are to be moved out of CFB Trenton to Cold Lake Alberta and to Ottawa and Montreal.

A defene department spokesman in Ottawa Thursday dismissed the mayor's contention as mere speculation.

He said a study of armed forces supply units of which AMDU here is one is now underway and may have given rise to numerous rumors.

People, said the spokesman, speculate on the nature of the recommendations the study will make.

In Mayor Patrick's letter which became available this week he strongly urges the defence minister to reveal the contents of the study to the town and allow comment.

Relocation of any units at AMDU he says "will undoubtedly reduce the numbers of the AMDU personnel to such an extent that for all practical purposes it will have to be considered closed".

Many of the 70 civilians and 360 military staff have families in Trenton and their loss as residents would have an economic impact, says Mayor Patrick.

He said Thursday "we want them (the defence ministry) to know that we wouldn't want it to happen."

His fears stem from newspaper reports that led him to believe AMDU would be "pulled out".

The study of AMDU here was first announced by Col. W. G. Doupe in November 1974. At that time, he said all unit commanders have been requested to review and assess their operations and place each on a priority list.

"If it turns out that because of inflation the department can't live within its budgets and additional dollars aren't forthcoming . . . then some defence activities will have to be dropped," Col. Doupe indicated.

Acting AMDU commander, Lt.-Col. Frank Harvey-Smith said Thursday the study at the base is now complete, and is part of an over all across Canada study.

He said that "no decision has been made to restructure or move it (AMDU) but it is an alternative".

Some recommendations have been made to Ottawa, but mainly AMDU staff looked at the impact of options presented originally by the defence department.

Lt.-Col. Harvey-Smith declined to reveal study contents. He added that any move by AMDU would take years to implement and would require new facilities elsewhere.

In Ottawa, the defence department spokesman said the study report is due later this spring. However, before any proposals from it are drafted for federal Cabinet presentation, local municipalities will be given the opportunity to comment on any possible change in status at AMDU.

In the event of any closure, the department follows a policy that provides "that the community be advised before anyone else".

South Vietnam Troops Lose Base on Saigon Approaches

Refugees

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government lost another district capital in the central highlands today and one of the bases guarding the outer western approaches to Saigon.

The government threw more than 1,000 paratroopers into the defence of its capital, rushing them to positions within 10 miles of the city on the western flanks. The reinforcements were flown in from the northern provinces around Hue which President Nguyen Van Thieu is abandoning.

Sharp fighting was reported south of Hue, the former imperial capital on the north coast. Field reports said about 80 per cent of the city's 200,000 people had fled south toward Da Nang, 40 miles down the coast.

Military sources said the district capital of Kien Duc, in the lower central highlands, was lost after a 500-round artillery barrage and an infantry assault. The fall of the town threatened to cost the government the entire province of Quang Duc.

The Saigon government already has written off four provinces in the highlands—Kontum, Pleiku, Darlac and Phu Bon—plus Quang Tri and Thua Thien in the north and Phuoc Long end Binh Long, north of Saigon.

Government forces have abandoned all this territory except Hue and Thua Thien, and they are in the process of pulling out of there.

In the Saigon region, tank-led North Vietnamese forces drove a militia force from the Duc Hue base camp near the Cambodian border 30 miles northwest of the capital.

Why Wait for Spring?

Winter weather doesn't bother Eric Winter, 52, of Brantford — he sunbathes most of the year. Since he has sunbathed in temperatures as low as five degrees above zero, this week's temperatures in southern Ontario must have felt like summer to Mr. Winter. His circular snow wall serves as a windbreak. (CP Photo)

Museum Musical Display Features Quinte Artifacts

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

The new Instruments and Music display which opened this week at the Hastings County Museum has a distinctive Quinte area flavor.

The exhibit is describbed in a release from the Hastings County Historical Society as "a medley of artifacts, instruments, photos and memorabilia of the musical background of this area".

Appropriately, the opening was heralded by an afternoon concert perfomed by the Eastern Ontario Violin Quartet through the co-operation of the Belleville Federation of Musicians Local 357 AF of M and courtesy ofe the Music Performance Trust Fund.

And quartet members are all local residents — Marion Stratton, Stephen Choma and Joachim Reimann of Belleville and William Grant of Stirling.

Highlight of the display is a violin handmade locally in 1968 by Ed. Schlievert, a Belleville railroader who died two years ago.

The instrument collecton also contains reproductions of the important violin makers of Germany and Italy. The oldest piece is a violin from the 1730s made in Germany.

Among the exhibits, which bring on a touch of nostalgia, are artifacts and documents of such former groups as The Kilties Band of The Gordon Highlanders in Belleville, the Belleville Philharmonic Society and Griffins Opera House in Belleville, originally the Carman Opera House, erected in 1883.

The Kilties were organized in 1900 by T. P. J. Power and became world-famous. There is a copy of an advertisement on view which outlines their endorsation of Conn musical instruments.

A philharmonic society concert program for March 17, 1904, is included, as well as a poster reproduction from the former R. A. Becket, Bookseller and Stationer, of Front St., in Belleville.

An interesting piece of sheet music displays a local attempt to compose the national anthem. It is entitled God Bless Canada with words by Effie Chapman James, music by George Moffat James and published and distributed by The James Texts of Belleville.

Oshawa College Band Makes First City Visit

By EUGENE LANG

A large audience Thursday evening at Centennial Secondary School heard the Kingsway College Concert Band in its initial appearance in this city.

The band under the able direction of Miss Joanne Klassen is made up of 50 young players from the college in Oshawa which is owned and operated by the Seventh Day Adventist Church of Canada. Belleville was the first stop on their current Eastern Canadian tour.

After a ceremonious opening Trumpet Fanfare by C.P.E. Bach the band performed the well-known Finlandia by Jean Sibelius. The group had the balance between their various choirs to impart into such music as this a colorful rendition which they did but certain passages were too mechanical and stilted needing more curve of phrase than the angular jig-saw blocking that we heard.

All numbers following this were of sacred intent featurings elected groups from the ensemble proper. Listeners were treated to a trombone trio a trumpet trio a saxophone quartet and a clarinet trio all of these giving good exemplifications of their musical abilities. The young conductor not only is the baton wielder but appeared as piano accompanist a member of the sax quartet and played a flute solo of sweet sounds in tranquil vein. Golden tones emanated from the French Horn as another young musician soloed on this difficult instrument. Also mention must be made of the baritone solo and the young female vocalist who sang with religious intent not to forget the male singer that accompanied himself on the guitar.

The band has a lot of promise and is made up of some fine young musicians as exhibited by their playing. Although the printed program listed some numbers that would have shown the band to advantage it was drastically changed last evening and little chance was had to hear them except in hymns and slow songs of religiosity. This could be done in future concerts to give the program more movement and life.

The principal speaker of the evening was Pastor Frank McMiller of the local Seventh Day Adventist Church which was the sponsoring organization. Pastor McMiller mentioned that all proceeds of the concert were to be given to the Canadian Bible Society's local chapter. Rev. T. Rex Norman of the Quinte District of the Society spoke for a few moments as to the projects and aims of the society.

Moonlighting Employees Concern Picton Official

PICTON — Picton town councillor Russell Aleaxander refuses to "name names" but he is annoyed by town employees who hold second jobs in addition to their regular work.

At Thursday's special meeting of council he asked town solicitor Jack Ward for his observations.

Mr. Ward termed the situation "moonlighting" commenting that council is responsible for deciding its own policy in the matter.

He stressed the secondary employment cannot be stopped unless it interferes with the town employee's reulgar job efficiency.

The lawyer added that the Public Utilities Commission was confronted by a problem of this sort with one employee and the moonlighting was interfering with his regular work. When asked to stop the secondary job he terminated his employment with the PUC.

Picton mayor Donald King suggested such incidents should be dealt with on an individual basis but noted unless councillor Alexander provided council with names no investigations could be made.

Councillor Alexander moved that the town should be the sole employer of all its employees but later withdrew his motion after several councillors and the town solicitor indicated it was too strong and too broad.

Town solicitor Jack Ward agreed to draft a motion for presentation at the next council session that will stress carefully that the employees' prime responsibility is to the town.

Councillor Alexander observed: "I can't see it when the town employs a man and pays the shot and he works for the man down the street who doesn't pay him as much and is not the one who pays his unemployment."

Hastings Teachers in Toronto To Discuss Course Selection

The annual Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation (OSSF) begins today in Toronto with four area teachers representing the Hastings Division.

Judie Carty, OSSTF president for Hastings Division, said this year's delegation will not submit any resolutions. The Hastings Division, which is part of District 19, represents about 500 secondary school teachers.

Mrs. Carty, a teacher at Centennial Secondary School, said the Hastings delegation will vote on several key issues affecting OSSTF policy. OSSTF represents 34,000 secondary school teachers across the province.

She said delegates will vote on a controversial policy which if implemented would establish a minimum core of compulsory subjects and regional exams.

The report, initiated at last year's assembly, says there is a concern across the province about the standard of education. Mrs. Carty said the delegation is still discussing their reaction to this resolution.

The ministry of education requires each secondary school to take English and Canadian Studies in Grades 9 and 10.

County secondary schools now offer students "package programs" which normally include English, Math and Canadian Studies. Secondary schools set their own exams. Up to 1967 the ministry required all Grade 13 students to write provincial exams.

Mrs. Carty said other issues will include OSSTF membership, dues, principal's membership in the OSSTF and whether or not local divisions should subsidize political action.

Other OSSTF members from this area attending the four-day conference are Ralph Gorcey, from Marmora Secondary School, Gerry Daca, from Trenton Secondary School and Dave Brazeau, from Centre Hastings Secondary School.

No Betting Planned For Country Race Track

PICTON — The direcorate of the Prince Edward Agricultrual Society today issued a release clarifying recent statements that a parimutual racetrack eventually will be built at fairgrounds here.

The track was mentioned by county council's representative to the agriculture society North Marysburg deputy reeve Kenneth Hicks during debate on the recent community swimming pool.

Horse racing with parimutuel betting has never been planned or even discussed by fair board members, says a statement issued by the directorate of the 400-member agriculture society.

As part of a long range program to improve the county fairgrounds as a recreation centre and park, the society named a committee to investigate the possibility of buying four acres of land adjacent to the fairgrounds with the idea of locating the track entirely at the north end of the grounds. The track now used must be crossed by pedestrians going from the main gate, the arena, the curling club, and three softball diamonds, all located in the infield.

About 15 harness rasing horses are being trained on the track creating an additional hazard.

The society is not only interested in staging the county fair but in developing the grounds for multi-recreational purposes. The society owns the arena, the curling club and the lighted soft ball diamond — all operated by organized groups for the benefit of the public the release states.

Prince Edward County councillors, members of the agricultural society and the swimming pool committee will meet Saturday at the fairgrounds to discuss installation of a pool there.

County council this week moved that the pool should be located at the site of the ball diamond at the fairgrounds provided the site meets the approval of the society.

Taylor Fears Big Hike Coming in Hydro Rates

TRENTON — Town utility commissioners expressed fears Thursday that Trenton may face a 20- to 25-per cent increase in the cost of bulk power next year.

The fears stem from statements by Ontario Hydro chairman R. B. Taylor, who recently said increases for 1976 can be expected to be considerably higher than those in 1975.

In January this year, Ontario Hydro raised its wholesale price for power by 12.4 per cent. The higher cost to the PUC will be passed on to the Trenton power consumer in the form of a possible eight to 10 per cent increase.

Higher costs will be passed on in 1976, but it's not yet known what they will be.

PUC chairman Jim MacDonald said he wouldn't be surprised if it's in the 20- to 25-per cent neighborhood: "All we know for sure is that it's going up."

Trenton will know what price jump it'll face in April when Hydro presents its cost proposal to the Ontario Energy Board. Any rate increase finally approved will come into effect Jan. 1, 1976.

Town consumers, who already face a rate increase this year on August 1, will see another jump in their bills the same date in 1976.

The 1975 increase to consumers has yet to be approved by Hydro. When it is, the rate will reflect not only the increase in the cost of power to the PUC this year, but also the expected jump in 1976.

Trenton's utilities commission carries the cost of Jan. 1 increases for seven months before it increases its rates Aug. 1 to town consumers to cover those increased bulk power costs.

Salary Boost Opposed

PICTON — Picton town councillor Russell Alexander Thursday refused to vote for recommended salary increases for town employees, declaring that the raises unfairly ranged from four to 25 per cent.

He was the only member of council to oppose the suggested increases.

Foreman of the town works department Carl McConnell received a proposed 12 per cent raise from $10,025 to $11,229 a year. Leonard Jones, a public works employee received a recommended four per cent increase from $6,510 to $6,750. Raises of 25 per cent were recommended for recreation director Richard Hall, now receiving $8,200 a year and P. Gifford of the recreation department who is now paid $4,680.

Authority to Meet

PICTON — The Prince Edward Region Conservation Authority will hold a full Authority meeting Wednesday March 26 at the Macaulay Mountain Conservation Area recreation and education centre.

Reports of current projects and chairmen's reports are included on the agenda.

OPP Short of Staff

MADOC — The Ontario Provincial Police detachment here will be short two officers until appointments are made. Constable Bill Young has resigned to take a job with the Unemployment Insurance Commission in Barrie and Cpl. Ralph Lawrenson has been transferred to the Kitchener detachment.

Homes to be Built

TWEED — Clarke T. Rollins Hastings MPP has announced construction should begin this month on 20 additional geared-to-income rental units for senior citizens in the village. Ontario Housing Corporation now is conducting a survey to determine the need for an additional 40 similar units in Tweed.

Cemetery Board Named

TWEED — At the annual meeting of the Victoria Cemetery board Stewart McConnell was named chairman of the board succeeding the late Gilbert Cotton. Other officers appointed were Archie Sinclair Jr. secretary-treasurer and Lorne Holmes. Trustees are David Morton Merritt Metcalfe Raymond Cotton and Harold Varty. Honorary trustees are Roy Hall and Archie Sinclair Sr.

Carrying Place Guides

Carrying Place Girl Guides attended Murray Township Council meeting this week as part of their citizenship training. The girls got first hand knowledge of at least one type of civic function when Gladys Bodding, seated at end of table, appealed to council for a roadway to be fixed up leading to a new home she and her husband, Henry own.

Ill Health Forces Picton Reeve to Quit

PICTON — Picton reeve Ross Cronkwright has resigned from office because of ill health.

"I feel I can no longer continue my work on council," he stated in a letter read by Picton mayor Donald King during a special council session Thursday night.

Council accepted the letter of resignation with regret.

Reeve Cronkwright initially was elected as a councillor and became deputy-reeve in 1973 at the death of Picton mayor H. J. McFarland. He succeeded reeve of Picton James Bird, who moved up to fill the mayor's seat.

In the 1974 municipal elections, Reeve Cronkwright sought re-election against former Picton reeve Albert Piroth and was successful in his bid for office.

He became ill shortly after the new council term began and was unable to attend recent council sessions.

Council moved Thursday night to declare the reeve's seat vacant and to take the required action to fill it.

Picton deputy-reeve Larry Richardson pointed out the vacancy must be filled by a member of council.

A special meeting may be called to make the appointment or it can be included on a regular council meeting agenda.

Deputy - reeve Richardson commented on reeve Cronkwright's resignation noting that he had been ill for a number of months but his health had improved before the recent municipal elections, permitting him to seek re-election.

"This must be a [illegible]ment for him," he added.

"I have [illegible]ly. It hasn't been the same. He could be countted on for opinions," he observed.

ROSS CRONKWRIGHT

Petition to Establish Need for Street Lights

WOOLER — Residents of Roseland Acres in Murray Township will be petitioned to see if they want street lighting. The move follows two homes being broken into.

Clare Dainard appeared before Murray Council this week to discuss the matter.

There are 80 properties in says it would install 30 light fixtures. Clerk Ken Rose figured the average cost per household would be $18.

Council decided that the majority necessary to approve light installation on Roseland streets would be the same as a liquor vote, which is a 66 per cent majority.

Clerk Rose told Mr. Dainard he would draft a petition and send it to him. Property owners only can sign it, tenants are prohibited, council said. It was noted that neighboring Princess Acres was a different matter since wiring there is underground.

In other business, Murray council announced it has received the deed to Mount Carmel School. Therefore, council is going to spend some money to make it into a better community centre.

Council plans on having a wall ripped out to make one big utility room, and will install a kitchen at one end of the building. Exits will be provided to comply with LCBO regulations so permits can be obtained for functions.

It was decided to leave the three blackboards since they would be valuable if Loyalist extension courses or some similar activities were planned.

Building Begins On New Units

BANCROFT — North Hastings senior citizens are one step closer to having their own housing centre following the start of construction of the 88 units in Bancroft this week.

The units which are located on Station St. on the old arena site are being constructed by Taro Properties Ltd. of St. Catherines under the direction of the Ontario Housing Corp.

Total cost of the project will be approximately $1.5 million including the purchase price of the land from the village of Bancroft.

Trenton Offering Free Trees to Residents

TRENTON — The town parks board is giving away 300 trees this spring in what it hopes is a shrewd move to end the destruction of young trees it once planted on town boulevards.

Homeowners can simply ask the parks board to plant a tree on their front lawn, away from overhead wires, sewer and other obstructions. The householder need only dig the hole — the parks board crews do the rest — plant, the tree, and provide the top soil and fertilizer.

Sharon Gandaur, assistant recreation director, said Thursday the aim of the new program is to stem the tide of vandalism on trees planted in town-owned boulevards.

"When a tree is along the boulevar, children come along and snap it off," she said. "If it was up on a person's property, they might stop and think."

The death rates has been high, but she could not give a precise figure of damage of previous years. Last year, between 200 and 250 trees were planted on town-owned property.

Response to the program, first publicized less than two weeks ago, has been good. Over 100 requests for trees — Red, Norway, and Silver maples, Locust, Flowering Crab, and Mountain Ash — have been received at Trenton Community Gardens.

Requests can be placed at TCG, Mondays through Fridays between 9 a.m. and 12 noon.

Students in the Middle

The heading on the letter to the editor of the Ottawa Journal read: "Real Tragedy: Some Students May Not Return".

Parent Graeme Fraser includes in his comments on the current Ottawa teachers' strike: "I know of some parents who have been struggling to keep their kids in school, but with the example they are now getting from their responsible professional teachers, I'm not sure I want to be around my Canada in another generation or so."

There is a genuine problem here. In Toronto secondary schools there was a 24 per cent dropout rate last year, meaning that one in four students who began high school failed to graduate.

It would be unfair to blame the Toronto situation on teaching labor problems, but such issues as the current Ottawa strike certainly don't make a student's life any easier.

What seems to bother most people about the traumatic labor-management troubles we are experiencing is not so much how much anyone is paid, as how much more they want to be paid than they were in their last contract.

Few would disagree that an Ottawa high school teacher of the highest category with 11 years' service should earn $22,000 in 1975 (the Ottawa Board of Education offer).

What disturbs many is that this increase would be $5,600 more than the same teacher earned last year.

Some don't earn a full year's pay as great as that raise.

It's these 30 per cent, 40 per cent, and yes — now from the Canadian Union of Postal Workers — 70 per cent wage demands that upset the inflation-conscious among us.

When people who sort or deliver mail start asking around $8 an hour for that somewhat less than overpowering bit of mental manipulation, it's time we — as some have suggested — farm the postal service out to private industry, where it could be put on a paying basis at far less cost to the taxpayer.

One of these days, someone is just going to have to sit down and say a prime minister should be paid more than a plumber, or a university dean deserves a higher salary than a hockey player.

But that's a decision for all the people to make, and some may have to be prepared to make sacrifices.

With the Tory defeat in the last federal election largely blamed on their wage and price control platform, the chances of the former happening are about as good as those of a snowball surviving some of these mild March days.

Objectives

Now that the federal ministry of consumer and corporate affairs has seen fit to breathe new life into the Citizens' Bureau in the form of a $12,000 grant, it would be nice to hear of a specific project to which the directors might devote this princely sum.

Since its inception in 1972, the Citizens' Bureau has been a vague ombudsman-like entity, purporting to stand up for "the little guy", conjuring up visions of men with big "CBs" on their chests holding off wicked landlords while Little Nell could scrape together the rent money.

The bureau has, in fact, been of great service to a number of Quinte individuals, and has to its credit the publication of a booklet designed for the unwary consumer entitled "Dollars and Sense."

More of this type of activity should be forthcoming, and, 50,000 federal treasury dollars after its inception, the Citizens' Bureau should be thinking in terms of positive objectives, not of being a glorified complaint department.

Women in Uniform

If clothes make the man, as the saying goes, what about women — and especially women in uniform?

Consider the plight of women traffic wardens in London, England. A leading designer has said the clothes they wear "are monstrous and shriek of aggression." They must be, for haven't at least two of their number been assaulted or threatened by irate motorists?

In one case a driver rammed an unwanted ticket down a lady warden's throat, while in another a broken bottle was wielded menacingly. The inference is that these uniforms — rather shapeless and, horrors, including a peaked hat — are bad news.

Leaving the London wardens to find a remedy for this situation, what about the RCMP's new women's corps? Well, if the Canadian girls find themselves dealing with obstreperous citizens, it will not be because of their uniforms. Of course, you never know, but to judge from pictures, including those on the front cover of the current issue of Weekend, the girls look very nice.

Whether makeup is permitted is another thing, but if the magazine cover is any criterion, it would appear their faces are innocent of so much as a trace of lipstick.

Regulations perhaps, but what matter. They are a good-looking group of girls, these first graduates from the Mounties' rigorous training program. Canadians may be proud of them, as they are of the RCMP as a whole. They represent not only one of the world's finest police units, but something uniquely Canadian.

Beer and Returnables

There have been two break-ins within a week at the Station Street Brewer's Retail outlet.

One might say, with tongue in cheek, that with the price of a case of 24 having just hit the $7 plateau, one might expect more of the same.

What is of a more serious concern about Ontario beer-drinkers is the 67.9 million bottles they didn't return last year.

Many of them end up adorning our roadsides or bobbing in some of our most scenic lakes.

The province took a step in the right direction by raising the value of beer bottle returns to five from two cents.

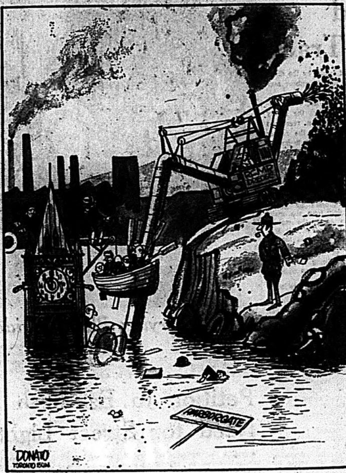
And Premier Davis got an idea what conservationists think about non-returnable containers when he was presented with a token protest of 5,000 nickels, representative of what could have been realized by the return of that many soft drink bottles.

In an age when everything costs more money, how can we justify throwing more things away?

Letters

Readers are reminded that handwritten signatures are required on letters to the editor. We have one from "A Grateful Citizen," without benefit of signature, but will pass on its message anyway.

The letter expresses appreciation of Trenton high school's fine performance of The Boy Friend and makes a suggestion for future performances: that the stage and facilities generally might be improved.



Auditor-General Fingers Ad Scene

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — There were odors, as usual in recent years, in the auditor's report which was made public the other day.

Tales of loose spending and other items of maladministration which titillate the public and the reporters who, in turn, like to titillate the public.

Actually there were far fewer odors in this year's report than there have been in those of the last few years.

In fact the reporters were saying "ugh." There was nothing much they could really get their meat-hungry hands into.

What they finally did pick on, and a subject to which Auditor Norman Scott gave exceptional attention, was something on which they should have known better.

This was the fact that the government had spent more than 3.2 million in the fiscal year on advertising "without tender."

This was ridiculous because the simple fact is that there is no practical, or even possible, way in which advertising contracts can be "tendered."

Advertising agencies receive their revenue in commission from the media in which they place the product.

This is standard.

There is no legitimate way in which they can undercut prices.

The procedure in getting bids on advertising is to call for "proposals."

And the basis of judgment on these proposals must be on quality. Who can do the best job?

This is a simple fact of life that any newspaper man and, really any auditor should know.

And to criticize a government for not calling for "tenders" is ignorant.

If it doesn't call for "proposals," yes it is acting arbitrarily.

But "tenders?" No!

Tenders can be called on films, of course. Also on publications printing

Though in each case the quality judgment must enter.

But on "advertising," no.

There is a gradual change occurring in the advertising industry in that it is beginning to switch to a fee basis.

This might allow some room for tendering, though the quality standard would still be important.

But this basis hasn't entered Canada to any extent as yet. And lacking it there is absolutely no way you can "tender" on advertising.

Ottawa's Lopsided Priorities

Aid Bill Is Up by $200 Million to $933 Million

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — The basic old age pension in Canada in April inches up from $120.06 to $123.42.

And just last month, Canada's foreign aid bill soared $200 million from $733 million to $933 million.

The figures, those for the old age pension as reported by the Department of National Health and Welfare, and those for foreign aid as accounted for by the Canadian International Development Agency, are official.

They are down in black and white in the current Treasury Board Estimates.

"It makes you wonder," lamented New Democratic House Leader Stanley Knowles, who in his 35 years on and around Parliament Hill very probably has done more than any other MP to plead and assist the cause of pensioners, "about the government's priorities."

It makes you wonder even more when you bear in mind the indecent haste with which Director Paul Gerin-Lajoie of CIDA and his staff of 985 foreign aiders recently scurried to get rid of the $117 million they had somehow failed to spend of their budget last year.

They had to dump it fast — in India, Africa, and other parts of the Third World — so they could argue for an increase in their $733 million Treasury Board allotment.

They managed to do it — shovelling out an unwanted and embarrassing $117 million surplus in an international giveaway can't be the toughest task in all the world — for they got their increase.

It was that extra $200 million that took their budget from $733 million to $933 million.

Niger got a piece of the action. So did Senegal, and other former French colonies in western equatorial Africa.

A $117 million-in-a-rush to round out the $733 million budgeted so CDA could claim $200 million more for a $933 million program to help people, as former Saskatchewan Conservative MP Jack McIntosh not long ago said, "who don't know us, will never meet us, and because we're giving them a handout will probably hate our guts."

Jack Mcntosh thought of foreign aid like the late Tallulah Bankhead regarded charity, when she said of a former friend suddenly turned hostile: "Why should she be so nasty to me when I've never done anything nice for her?"

So Paul Gerin-Lajoie and his 985 aides got their $200 million more for a total $933 million.

And the old age pensioners get their $3.36 to make it a basic monthly $123.42.

The priorities wouldn't look so out of whack — presupposing you believe that charity should begin at home — if all those foreign aid millions were being spent wisely.

But what's wise about lending millions through CDA to Algeria at a token three or four percent when the Algerians are the hard-noses in the Arab oil cartel blackmailing the industrial world, including Canada, in the great ripoff by the OPEC (Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries)?

Foreign aid is being funnelled out into 68 countries around the world by the free-wheeling dreamers at CDA to such places as Zaire.

Free-wheeling and dreamers, because if help for poverty-stricken African states is the name of the CDA game, Zaire hardly qualifies.

For it was able to afford presenting a diamond worth $100,000 as a token of affection, a few years ago, to Mrs. Hubert Humphrey.

Ask about the CDA program and they give you an earful about the "focus on man," and the "quest for economic and social justice," not to mention "humanitarian support for liberation movements" which, former External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp conceded, freed local money for guns and ammo for revolutionaries, terrorists and guerrilas in their undeclared wars on the legally elected governments of southern African states.

Any "focus on man," Stanley Knowles has said, might be more usefully taken closer to home with the old age pensioners.

And they could do with a little of that "social and economic justice," that CDA is providing with its $933 million for strangers in strange lands.

The rationale for foreign aid is that is builds goodwill and future business opportunities. But history is replete with benefactors getting kicked in the teeth whenever it suits a beneficiary's mood and purpose.

The Handling of Bereavement

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

The first financial decision that must be made by or on behalf of a widow is usually the choice of funeral arrangements.

Because of the emotional stress of the time it can be a difficult choice—although it need not be.

Not all funeral directors, certainly, are as venal as they have been depicted by their critics. A good funeral director will try to see that funeral arrangements are kept within the widow's means.

This is one matter that can easily be taken care of in advance, of course—although relatively few families overcome their natural reluctance to face such a task before it is forced upon them.

But there is much to be said for advance planning—consulting a number of funeral directors, choosing a sympathetic one, deciding on a price range, providing for payment, and having all details put into writing.

The major items of expense are the funeral directors' charges, the coffin, the purchase of a cemetery plot, the cost of opening the plot for interment and then closing it, the burial vault and the marker.

The purchase of a cemetery plot, like the choice of a funeral director, ought to be decided upon well in advance. Cemeteries tend to run out of space as time passes, and costs have been increasing faster than the inflation rate in many parts of Canada.

Purchasers should determine whether the upkeep of the cemetery plot is included in the purchase price, or is to be paid for periodically. The plot-ownership document should also be examined carefully for regulations about markers, before any decision is made to order one.

At the time of the funeral, the funeral director will take over such tasks as notifying the cemetery to open the grave at an agreed time, and will help with the selection of pall-bearers, the writing of newspaper obituary notices, and the disposal of flowers after the interment.

Here are other steps that usually need to be taken by the widow or those aiding her, as listed in a recent publication of the federal department of corporate and consumer affairs:

—Decide on time and place of funeral service.

—List the names of close relatives, friends and associates to be notified by telephone.

—Prepare a list of distant persons to be notified and by what means.

—If desired, decide on an appropriate memorial to which gifts may be made.

—Delegate a responsible person to handle visitors and telephone calls, keep a careful record of them, and prepare a list of persons to receive appropriate acknowledgements.

—Arrange for attention to routine tasks such as child care, meal preparation, housecleaning, and providing hospitality for visiting relatives.

Many of the funeral arrangements require an outlay of funds—some large, some small. To the fullest extent possible, these expenses should be provided for well in advance when decisions can be made without stress or tension.

Needs of Animal Care

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

City Council's discussion regarding the Ontario Humane Society undermines my confidence in their capability and our city manager's figures lack sound business sense.

To suggest that we could duplicate or even come near to duplicating the society's services using the figures put forward by our city manager is little short of laughable.

Some of us will recall a similar decision made by a previous city council, much to our regret.

On this occasion, our city bus service was run by a private enterprise who requested a $10,000 p.a. subsidy. City council refused and undertook to run their service themselves, then promptly, lost approximately $45,000 the first year. This year the deficit is in the neighbourhood of $275,000. (These figures could be subject to correction but to the best of my recollection are as published in The Intelligencer).

Past performance suggests that once again, we are going to have to pay for a foolish costly blunder.

If, of course, we are not going to care for the animals in the same manner as the Humane Society, and in fact are going to surrender the animals for research after a minimal retention, then at least let the citizens of Belleville know.

We may be humane and businesslike and not approve.

BUSINESSLIKE BUT HUMANE.

Mayor Ross Burtt of Trenton, announced this morning that work on the town's sewage disposal plant will begin this year. He stated that the first phase of the program will likely cost $500,000. Completion of the plant is expected to go a long way towards elimination of raw sewage in the Trenton river below No. 1 dam.

The Board of Directors of the Corby Public Library pared $2,000 from 1955 estimates Friday night and approved a budget of $23,823. Committees were formed to investigate the possibility of establishing a cumulative sick leave program for library staff and to investigate ways and means of bringing the library basement into service.

Crafty Ways for Kids To Keep Entertained

By ISABEL HUGGAN
FLORENCE WATSON

With any luck the coming spring school vacation will be a week of sunny skies and balmy weather so that children can spend the week outdoors.

But don't plan on it!

Spring weather is remarkably uncertain, and you should prepare for at least two or three "indoor only" days.

Here are a number of suggestions for activities suitable for young children who need a little guidance to keep both busy and happy.

Parental assistance may be necessary at the beginning of any of these projects, but once under way the children should need no supervision.

The projects are designed to give the kids something to show for their efforts, something useful, or pretty, or edible.

EASTER BUNNY BOX

This bunny box makes a great container for candy eggs and chocolate goodies on Easter morning.

First, find a shoe box. Cover the lid with white paper, using either glue or staples or tape. Then cover the rest of the box, on the sides and the bottom.

Use some heavier white paper (so that the ears will stand up) to cut out long ovals with a little flap on the end for fastening on the end of the box. Use heavy pink paper to cut out centre of the ears, and for front paws and hind feet. These four pieces should have an extra "flap" at the end for fastening on the sides of the box.

Cut out two fringed curved pieces of dark paper for eyelashes and a triangle of pink paper that can be folded to make a pert little nose.

Paste the pink strips in the centre of the ears, and fasten them to the box. Fold both the pink paper front paws and hind feet around the edge of the box, so that they stick out at the front (as in the photo), and fasten them securely. Use a large cotton puff for a tail, fasten it on with glue on the back of the box. Paste on the eyes and nose, and your bunny box is done.

This same method can be adapted for other animal characters. Out of brown paper and orange and yellow yarn, Lovey the Lion can take shape. Grey or black or striped paper and broom straws will make a cat — along with yarn for the tail, of course.

PAPIER MACHE ART

Creating objects coated with papier mache is an easy and satisfying task for children. You can buy commercially prepared clay (mixed with water for use) at a local hobby store. It costs $1.75 for one pound but it goes a long way, according to Florence Watson, papier mache artist and teacher.

Or, you can make your own. Parental assistance will likely be needed here. This "recipe" makes eight ounces, and can be easily doubled or tripled to make more.

Tear newspaper or magazine paper in ½ inch squares, until you have four cups of ripped paper. Soak overnight in water.

The next day, add two tbsp. of wallpaper paste and one heaping tbsp. of white glue, and put the whole mixture in a blender or in a bowl with an electric mixer. After it has been thoroughly blended, put the pulp through a strainer, and press the liquid out of it.

Mix this with two tbsp. wallpaper paste and one tbsp. white glue. A drop or two of linseed oil will make the "clay" more smooth.

It is now ready for use.

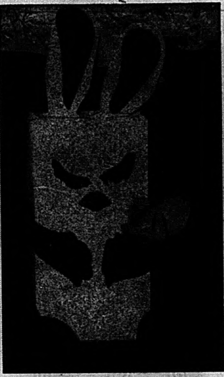
This clay can be applied to objects, to make wall plaques, figurines, puppets and vases.

Here's a method for making the head of a hand puppet. All in all, the whole process will take two, or possibly three, days.

Blow up a round balloon about half way, and tie off the end tightly. Fasten it to a cardboard paper towel inside roll, so that there's a base to hold.

Apply a thin layer of petroleum jelly to the balloon. Apply strips of paper (about one inch wide and six inches long) to the balloon, using ordinary wallpaper paste mixed to a thick consistency. Apply two layers of paper strips to cover the balloon completely, and let dry overnight.

The next day shape a face for the puppet with aluminum foil, using small pieces crumpled into shapes for the nose, ears, eyebrow "overhang" and chin. Attach these features with heavy tape or masking tape. Coat the entire face and head with gesso, an acrylic polymer emulsion available at a hobby store.



Easter bunny box and a pretty paper tulip

Gesso dries very quickly, so any spills should be wiped up immediately. Brushes should be washed out immediately, and old clothes should be worn so that stains won't matter.

When the gesso is dry, the head can be painted with ordinary poster paint. Eyes can be painted on, or can be made from buttons, beads, or cardboard.

With Easter only a week away, children may want to make a "Humpty Dumpty" character, or an Easter rabbit. (Ears can be fashioned from paper-coated wire, attached with tape to the balloon once its paper covering has hardened.

Papier mache elf, and household craft supplies

CRAFT CLAY

For young children, an older brother or sister or parent will have to help prepare this homemade clay mix. Once it's made, this clay is an ideal material for making jewellery, or a pretty Easter centrepiece of chicks and bunnies.

Mix one cup corn starch with two cups of baking soda (a one-pound box) and add one cup of water (possibly a little more). Cook this in a small saucepan over medium heat, stirring all the time, until it has thickened to a dough-like substance.

Turn out on a pastry board, and let it cool a little, and knead it slightly. Cover with a damp cloth until cool, and then use for molding. Keep unused portion wrapped in aluminum foil to keep it moist and pliable. For larger items, you may need a double batch of clay.

This clay can be applied to heavy cardboard to make plaques, can be rolled into beads and then threaded on a thin plastic straw to dry before being painted and shellacked. A thin layer of petroleum jelly on the straw prevents the beads from sticking.

BUNNY CENTREPIECE

You will need a small soft drink bottle, heavy white cardboard, tissue paper, masking tape, pipe cleaners, pink felt or paper, ribbon, spring flowers (real or plastic) and a cotton puff.

Wrap crushed strips of white tissue paper around the bottle and secure it with masking tape. Use enough tissue to form the contours of the head and body.

Roll out craft clay and cut it into strips two inches wide. Apply it to the bottle, molding the shape of a rabbit as you do so. Don't cover the top of the bottle with the clay.

Cut long ovals from the white cardboard for ears, and paste pink paper or felt strips down the centre. Stick these ears into the clay before it dries, near the mouth of the bottle.

Cut three pipe cleaners in half, and stick them into the clay on the cheeks of the rabbit for whiskers.

Let the bottle dry. Paint it white with poster paint or gesso, and then paint on a pink nose and little blue eyes. You can paint flowers all over the rabbit if you like.

Carefully place a few flowers in the mouth of the bottle. If they are real, first put water in the bottle, using a small funnel so that none drips on the rabbit.

Place eggs and candies around the rabbit in the centre of the table.

Simple Spring Break Recipes for Young Cooks

Youngsters like nothing better than an afternoon snack. If they're old enough to work safely in the kitchen, they might like to try these simple recipes for a rainy day treat.

RAISIN COOKIES

one cup margarine, softened 1½ cups sugar
one cup seedless raisins
1½ cups flour
one tsp. baking soda
2½ cups rolled oats (quick cooking, but not instant)

Preheat the oven to 350-375 degrees.

Cream the margarine in a large bowl. Add the sugar slowly, until the mixture is light and fluffy. Stir in the raisins. Mix the flour and baking soda together and sift into a bowl of oats. Transfer this dry mixture to the first bowl, mixing the batter every so often.

Use (clean) hands to mix the cookie dough thoroughly, and to roll it into one-inch-balls. Place these on a greased cookie sheet — at least one inch apart — and bake in the oven for about 15 minutes, or until golden brown.

Let them cool a little before you try them.

CRANBERRY TEA

32 ozs. cranberry juice
one quart water
one cinnamon stick
one-third cup honey
a few whole cloves
one tbsp. instant lemon tea mix OR one tbsp. lemon juice

Heat in a sauce pan and serve in mugs with a slice of orange or lemon.

OUR WORLD OF WORDS

"Man does not live by words alone, despite the fact that sometimes he has to eat them." — Adlai Stevenson.

A grandmother told us the other day her youngest grandson aged five said, when he was ready to go home:

"Well, Granny, I've got to split . . . !"

She said: "It made me think. I know I'm old fashioned, but what is happening to our language?"

Her concern is a valid one. One might say it is an international one. Several years ago, while my husband and I were holidaying on the Island of Majorca, the following, written by Stella Pugh, appeared in the Majorca Daily Bulletin, and read in part:

"Examining some of many words and expressions used today in modern jargon, though the spelling is the same, how different their newer meanings have become from their true definitions in the English language dictionary.

Do you remember the days when a spade was a spade and DIG was what you did with it?

Perhaps you are not SWITCHED ON and only remember this phrase as applicable to lights and other electrical equipment which if should be the case, makes you a SQUARE and doesn't mean in this sense the geometrical form either!

Remember when BREAD was the nostalgic lump of dough that mother baked and came out of an oven and not from a mint, whereas CHICKEN was poultry and POT was the vessel it was cooked in?

HIGH meant the opposite to low, GRASS was the green fields of the English countryside, while COOL described the temperature.

FIX was something you got yourself into or were able to mend or repair and NEAT meant tidy and methodical at all times.

SPEED was fast motion and CAMP, a site where one lived temporarily outdoors, usually under canvas. In those days ROCK was a stone and ROLL was a bun. CAT, one of our first kindergarten words rhymed with the mat it sat on ... POP the first word in the last line of the nursery rhyme taught us how the weasel went ... Just what have they done to our words?

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Anderson

Anderson — Ketcheson

Gail Ann Ketcheson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Ketcheson of RR 1, Foxboro, became the bride of Ronald James Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Anderson of Aylmer, in a service February 22 at Emmanuel United Church in Foxboro.

Rev. Abel Parsons performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her mother and father, the bride wore an empire-waisted gown of crepe maracaine jersey which flowed into a long cathedral train. Three tiny buttons accented the bodice and white rabbit fur trimmed the mandarin collar and cuffs A four-tier fingertip veil edged with daisy lace fell from a fur headpiece entwined with seed pearls. She carried orange roses and trailing ivy.

Barbara Murray was Matron of honor in a forest green crushed velvet gown with an empire waist and mandarin collar She carried a large yellow mum and three orange roses tied with a yellow bow.

Sheila Ketcheson, the bride's aunt and Cheryl Latchford, the bride's cousin, were bridesmaids, and Sharon and Louri Ketcheson, the bride's sisters were junior bridesmaids. All the attendants were dressed the same as the matron of honor.

The bride's sister Corrine Ketcheson was flower girl in a gown like the other attendants, but carried a white fur muff decorated with orange roses. The bride's brother Wayne Ketcheson was ring bearer.

The groom's best man was Robert Cooke and his ushers were his brothers Robert and Ray Anderson.

After a dinner and dance reception at Gilead Community Centre the newly married couple left on a honeymoon trip that took them to their new home at 1031 96 Ave., Grande Prairie, Alberta.

People and Events

ROSLIN WI

The March meeting of Roslin Women's Institute took place in the United Church hall recently, with guests present from Tweed-Chapman Bethel-Zion and Plainfield, welcomed by President Dorothy Sills.

Pat Isaac was in charge of the program, during which a paper titled "Book are the key to wisdom's treasures" was read by Margaret Emmons.

Brooks Allen of Lonsdale gave an illustrated talk about his trip to Alaska last August. He showed slides taken on the coast of British Columbia, and in far northern settlements such as Inuvik. Such various scenes as Indian dances, mountain ranges and lush flower gardens were viewed by the audience, as Mr. Allen described the forests, glaciers, totem poles and historical sites he had encountered.

MISSIONARIES PRESENT PROGRAM

A World Day of Prayer family service was held Friday evening, March 14 in Wesley United Church, Mountain View, joined by Anglican and United Church families from Ameliasburg, Northport, Massassaga, Rednersville, Albury and Victoria.

Mr. and Mrs. Morris Bradshaw, who recently returned to Belleville after spending three years in Zambia on a teacher exchange, spoke on their work there and showed slides.

The Bradshaws organized a Sunday School, helped build a church during their stay, and also helped the natives market their crafts.

Mrs. Roy Hawker led the service and Leslie and Hilary Farmer sang a duet. The service was followed by a fellowship hour in the church hall, where all had a chance to view a variety of Zambian crafts.

Salute to Spring

First day of spring —
Herald of warm south winds
Uncurling leaves and bursting buds;
Enticing fleet gay birds
To fly back North.
First day of Spring —
Uncertain as a kite,
Whimsical as a child at play,
Welcome as the smile
Of a true Love!

— Mabel Jenkin.

Dear Doris: I am a widow of four years and lonely for company of my own age.

I have a widower friend whose wife, while she was alive, was not faithful to him: so he can't seem to enjoy women.

When I go to a dance, he wants me to ask him for a dance He says he is too shy, and he hangs his head most of the time. I've done the asking a few times but I feel it looks as if I'm chasing him.

When I see him I do a flip. At my age I never thought I'd feel this way, but I do. We are both 49. Maybe I'm just an old fool, but I really can't help it. Is there anything I can do?

Flips At Fifty.

Dear Flips: Just a normal Canadian lady in love.

What is shyness? It is a backing away from your fellow man, probably because you don't trust him — or yourself. In your man's case, his previous wife gave him an inferiority complex — and how!

If you are mature and poised enough, keep encouraging him Right now he is concentrating on himself. If you encourage him to think about others, to consider how you feel, and about the kindnesses he could be giving by trusting a little, dancing a little, and reaching out a helping hand, you could transform this self-distrusting male. Give it a try.

Dear Doris: I'm five-foot-five, weigh over 160. My son was killed in 1971 (only 26) and it seems ever since then I have eaten more as I get very lonely and depressed for him. All I do is cry every night.

I need your "Simple Reducing Diet" and the "Low Calorie Menus and Recipes" and am enclosing 50 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for them

Maybe if I lose some weight I may have a better outlook on life, but Doris, sometimes. I would like to end it all. I have a good husband and children, but it is not the same. I just feel —

So Empty

Dear Empty: I'm sorry. Anyone would consider it tragic to lose a son in the prime of his life. But do you plan to let this sad experience break you down completely? What about those lovely people who count on you?

If your son could speak to you he would tell you to live for your family and the future. If you believe in a hereafter you must realize that anyone as fine as your son, is at peace.

Get your mind on some activities that need you and move on. Losing the weight will strengthen your resolution and your hopefulness; and the leaflets are on the way.

Ann Landers

Hooked Smoker Advises Teens to Quit Now

Dear Ann Landers: I read your response to the 14-year-old girl whose parents didn't want her to smoke so she did it behind their backs. She thought it would have been a lot smarter if her folks had given their permission rather than making a "sneak out of her."

I know a little about smoking because started at 15 for the same reasons that most teen-agers start. They think it's cool. They like the feeling of freedom and independnece it gives them. They feel grown up. Never mind the holes burned in their clothes, the bad breath, the $300 a year spent on the damned things. Their smoking friends won't say anything—except maybe, "Got a cigarette? I'm out"—but their non-smoking friends view them as weak and hooked by a dirty habit.

If I sound like a square, let me tell you that I've tried such an assortment of illegal drugs it would make your head swim. I've had pot, LSD, upers and downers, mescaline, cocaine and even heroin. But the only thing I can't get off of is cigarettes.

So please, Ann, print this letter for your teen-age readers with this message from me. Quit now. You might not be able to later—and it's a lousy habit that can ruin your health—Old Enough To Know Better

Dear Better: Thanks for your letter. And now a message from me to you. There is no such thing as can't—only won't. Millions of nicotine addicts have kicked the habit and you can, too. Suffer a little now for the added benefits that will last you a lifetime.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are taking care of my sister's son who is 18 months old. She asked us if we'd keep him until we got tired of him.

He is such an adorable little guy I do't see how anyone could ever get tired of him. Our own little girl will be four years old next month.

My sister is 22. This is her second out-of-wedlock child. The first one died of neglect. She is the type who moves from guy to guy and won't listen to anyone.

My husband and have always wanted two children, a boy and a girl. This little nephew is just like a son. Is there any way we can adopt him legally? We love him very much—which is more than I can say for his mother. She rarely calls and hardly ever comes to see him. Can you help us?—Want Him Desperately

Dear Want Him: Your sister is the only person who can give you permission to adopt this child legally. I hope with all my heart, that she will. Obviously he has a wonderful home with you and it would be an act of wisdom and generosity if she would sign the papers.

Show her this column if you think it will hep. I'm keeping my fingers crossed.

Women Don't Fare Well In Canadian Tax System

OTTAWA (CP) — Women, and particularly wives, generally fare poorly under the Canadian tax system, as they will discover when filling out their income tax returns.

Lowest status of all is reserved for the non-working housewife.

Consider the tax treatment for income from bank accounts held jointly. The so-called attribution rule requires that the wife's income be added to her husband's to be taxed at his personal rate, to the extent her income results from money he supplied her.

So a frugal housewife who sets aside some household money to earn investment income is penalized. If she has $100 of interest income from a bank account, it may be taxed at her husband's rate of, perhaps, 40 per cent even though it is under the normal taxable minimum.

Partly offsetting this negative treatment is a recent amendment to the Icn moe aTx cAt ment to the Income Tax Act that exempts the first $1000 of savings interest from taxable income. This applies to 1974 and future years.

Numerous inequities in the revenue department's tax treatment of women were noted by the 1970 report of the Royal Commission on the Status of Women, and halting steps toward reform have been started.

For example, working mothers now are permitted to deduct certain child care expenses from their taxable income. And from 1974 onward, there is a more lenient treatment for registered retirement savings plans (RRSP).

A husband entitled to contribute up to the maximum $4,000 annually for an RRSP can split that between a personal fund and one set up for his wife. The result is that, while he still gets a $4,000 deduction from taxable income, when the pensions are drawn the income is split between husband and wife and usually results in a lower tax rate than if it were only in the husband's name.

One problem pointed out five years ago by the status of women report relates to the tax treatment for wives who work for their husbands. Any salary paid a wife is not regarded as a deductible business expense, although if it is paid to a female secretary it is a legitimate deduction from taxable income.

No such restriction exists for parent-child partnerships but in the case of wives the revenue department feels it is necessary to prevent abuse of the tax laws.

Quits Job in Protest

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — Margaret Ballard, mother of three, begins a new job today, a month after quitting her last job as a protest against what she says was her employer's attitude to women's liberation.

Mrs. Ballard, an accountant at Victoria and Grey Trust for four years, said she had clipped three large newspaper advertisements announcing International Women's Year and placed them on her office walls.

She said the manager and other staff members had "laughed and joked" at the advertisements, which were on the walls for several weeks.

But they were gone one morning when she came to work, Mrs. Ballard said in an interview Tuesday.

She said she was told the ads were removed on order of a company executive who saw them through the office window one evening, and told that the company "is not in the business of promoting women's lib."

Mrs. Ballard said she told manager Carl Sties that the ads were placed in newspapers by the federal government to promote International Women's Year.

"But the men are frightened and they look on the ads as a threat."

Mrs. Ballard, who plans to attend community college this September, says she hoped her resignation would motivate other women to ask for better pay and advancement opportunities.

First Policewoman Dismissed

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — Mayor Betty McMillan said Tuesday that the city's first and only woman police constable was dismissed March 15 because it was "a case of her doing only 70 per cent of a police officer's duties."

Mrs. McMillan, a member of the police commission which fired 22-year-old Jacqueline Hall, said by telephone from St. Petersburg, Fla., that the commission had been informed by the Stratford Police Association that Mrs. Hall was not performing the duties of a constable.

Poilce Chief E. K. Anderson said the commission spelled out Mrs. Hall's duties when she was hired. She was not to perform any "hazardous jobs," he said, and added that "for her three-quarters pay, the duties she performed were limited."

He said, however, that Mrs. Hall had completed her assigned duties.

J. Waldo Monteith, a commission member and former Progressive Conservative member of Parliament, said Monday that he didn't think Mrs. Hall could perform a constable's duties "from a physical stand point."

"I'm just an old-fashioned character," he said. "I wouldn't want my own daughter to do it. I don't mean anything against Mrs. Hall—she's a lovely girl."

Mrs. Hall, who joined the police department in 1973, now is working in the department as a civilian dispatcher. She has refused comment on the dismissal.

AROUND TOWN
LANA ROBINSON

(. . . an advertising feature designed to keep you better informed of what's new around town.)

Well, Hello Spring

Today is the day . . . at last . . . at last, Spring, we welcome thee. All of us welcome thee, including the cobwebs that have been hidden by the winter sun or lack of it; the dirty windows with the dust and grime from the furnace and the fireplace, not to mention the odd pipe smoker (I've got one at my house); the floors welcome you and the obvious work that needs to be done on them and on the wall surrounding them. And maybe you just don't have the time or the energy to tackle all this spring cleaning all by yourself. In this case, all you have to do is to welcome ServiceMaster. They'll do it all — and well. Just call 967-1672.

What A Great Week

This is the reaction of Murray Atkinson and members of his staff to the tremendous anniversary business they experienced last week. And you know Murray. He always learns something from everything. He found advertising on Monday so successful that he's going to do it all the time, which means his specials will be published in Monday's Intelligener and be in effect all through the week. You don't have to wait until Wednesday's paper to know where the specials are and what they are. Murray will have them already for you starting Monday. That's Murray's way of saying thanks for a great year and thanks for a great week.

A New Showroom

Gibbs and Son, 37 Albion St. have a new showroom in the works, so much in the works that it's really hard to get around. This new showroom will have carpet types available to show you how which vacuum functions on what type of carpet. A good idea, right? But Gibbs and Son can still take the time from their renovating chores to come out and give you a demonstration on their great super-duper vacuum, the Air-Way. Just call this special Air-Way number, 968-9197 and you'll see one of the great vacuum cleaners of all time go to work at your house.

Just As I Said

When I wrote last week's column, and in particular when I mentioned the Cameron Art Gallery, 1½ miles west of Rednersville on the Rednersville Rd., I was hoping that we would have the weekend weather that we did. That was perfect 'visit the Cameron Gallery' weather. And I hope that you did. But if you didn't, there's today, tomorrow and Sunday from 10 a.m. until 9 p.m. This is the time of year that many people think of renovations. Any change in a living or dining room decor or den or office could well centre around a Cameron painting. But it can't, if you don't go out and see the paintings can it?

Rainwear Headquarters

Jean Smith tells me her West Wind Boutique is litterly bursting with great spring wear. And part of that great collection is her array of rainwear, including capes. I love capes and I hope I beat you up to Jean's before her selection of all-weather capes runs out. Jean has short capes for pant suits and also imported rainwear from Germany. Some of these have hats to match too. So for singing in the rain, or just walking in it, visit West Wind Boutique on Hwy. 7 at Actinolite. You'll never have spring clothes so good.

What Are You Really Getting?

Trenton Optical, 54 Bridge St. East has some words of caution to pass along which the thoughtful consumer should take to heart when buying glasses. That phrase "same day service" may mean just that: Or it may mean that, sure you get your glasses, but the quality of the operation has suffered in the process. Trenton Optical prides itself on its prompt service. But if they had to make a choice, the quality of the service would always come ahead of any speed priority. Service to Trenton Optical is providing an excellent pair of glasses which are going to do the job of helping you see. Your eyes are always first at Trenton Optical.

Night Pickings

That title sounds as if I'm in the night crawlers business doesn't it? Well, I'm not, and neither is Ruddy Electric's Consumer Division, 291 Coleman St. But, if you want to see some of Ruddy's new lighting fixtures aglow, you can drive by at night and see for yourself. Ruddy Electric has a new collection of bathroom swag lamps and Schonbek chandeliers brightening up the window and the night. You can pause and take a good look and I'm sure you'll see the one that's just right for you. That's the showroom that really lights up the night — at Ruddy Electric's Consumer Division, 291 Coleman St., open 9:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday to Saturday, Fridays 'til 9:00 p.m.

More On The Way

I hear that the demand for vinyl siding from Highland Construction's Home Improvement Centre, 257 North Front St. is catching on and that new supplies are being picked up and delivered. The great news about this great siding is getting around . . . and so it should. This siding has all the magic features you know from the other great works and wonders of vinyl: good looks, color-fastness and wearability. When you put this siding on at your house, it's there to stay and stay and stay. For an estimate on your house, just call Highland Construction at 962-1184. And you'd better do it soon; the orders are coming in fast and you don't want to miss the great advantages of this miracle siding for long.

You've Got The Incentive

Now that we have Spring, we also have spring driving and the more welcome call to the highways and by-ways for weekend excursions. And Holiday Car and Truck Rentals have just the Chrysler product to get you there and back safely and comfortably. They've also got the knowledge of routes, mileage and estimated times of arrival which will save you a lot of frustration and a lot of mistakes. The car and the know-how is just a voice away from you. All you have to do is to call Holiday Truck and Car Rentals at 962-9114 or drop in at 11 Moira St. West.

Part of the Plan

Earlier in the column, I mentioned that many people are thinking of making improvements to their homes. The Spring sun always seems to inspire us with ambition, for some reason. (Maybe it's that warning: No home improvements done, no golf.) But here's one improvement to your home that requires little or no effort on your part. And that's the addition of an Aquafine Water Refiner from Moira Schuster. A phone call to 962-4504 can mean that you will have the safety and softening powers of Aquafined water at your house. And if you don't think that's improvement in the highest sense of the word, ask your family after they've tried it!

That Great Lunch

I'm willing to bet it's time for a Terrace Bar lunch for you. If you've never enjoyed the Terrace Bar of the Four Seasons at lunchtime, then it's time you did; if you have, it's time to go back for more. You can enjoy a steaming bowl of delicious consomme and either a top sirloin on a hot French loaf for $1.85 or hot pastrami for $1.65. But you get more than a good tasty lunch. You get the view of the bay, which is getting more interesting everyday with its signs of impending spring; you get comfort in relaxing and tasteful surroundings with good service. And you get a break in the day which is well worth planning for. You'll see. Just drop in from noon until 2 p.m.

Local Hiring Only May Pose Several Legal Problems

A city councillor's suggestion that all Belleville municipal workers in future be hired from within the city limits — where possible — has spurred an edgy reaction in the city's workforce.

Spokesmen for two organized labor groups say they now are awaiting legal advice on the validity of such a move.

Also pondering the effects of such a regulation is a representative for the city's firefighters association.

The proposition was put before city council Monday by Ad. Joe Cox as a notice of motion, to be debatable at the next council assembly in two weeks.

It calls for a resolution that:

(1) All employees hired by the city after March 17 live in Belleville;

(2) A condition of employment be they continue to live in Belleville while city workers.

Where Bellevillians are not available for prospective posts, hiring can be extended to other municipalities.

Peter Ouderkirk, spokesman for city hall clerical and technical staff as president of the 43-member Local 140 Canadian Public Union of Employees (CUPE), said he has discussed the proposal with the union's international representative.

The representative is checking with the union's lawyers to ascertain the legality of such a move, he said.

A number of city hall staff already live outside town — as do several members of CPE Local 907 — the major union unit which is the bargaining agency for 85 public works, parks and arena-recreation workers.

Work contract probleme could also be posed by the suggestion said Mr. ouderkirk.

His local CUPE counterpart, Bob Cook, president of Local 907, agrees.

"It is not in our contract and I don't see how they can enforce," said Mr. Ouderkirk, whose group reached a new work agreement late last month with city hall management. "But I'm not sure of the legal position until we hear from our union representive."

Mr. Cook, who himself lives two miles outside Belleville in Sidney Township and has been a city-employee for 13 years, said such a restriction already had been negotiated out of contracts with his local some time ago.

"There used to be a three-mile radius stipulation," he said. "But we checked on those who lived outside and they had good work records. This is why they agreed it (the restriction) was really not necessary.

Meantime, a regulation that city firefighters live within a three-mile radius of the city, was dropped by agreement during 1973-74 contract negotiations, said a spokesman for the 60-man Belleville Professional Firefighters Association.

A recent agreement signed for 1975 also excludes the stipulation, said Robert Andrus, association negotiation chairman.

However, he said there is a "gentlemen's agreement with the fire department's administration that no firefighter live outside the long-distance calling area. It's an approach that "as long as it works it's acceptable at this time."

The city's 82-man police force have no residency requirement and are hired by the Belleville Police Commission, said Police Chief Douglas Crosbie. He believed any such move would have to be discussed by the commission.

Ald. Cox, meantime is out of town on vacation, was not available for comment.

New Bridge Must Stay At Same Site Says Meeks

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

If the new Highway 14 Bay of Quinte span is not built at its present Rossmore—Belleville site, the city's multi-million-dollar program for new traffic routes is money wasted.

The warning came Thursday night from a blunt-talking Belleville city council lor — Ald. Stu Meeks.

He made the prediction as a provincial government project team outlined to municipal politicians from both Bay shores their assignment to find a replacement for the aged bridge-causeway linking Prince Edward County to the Belleville area mainland.

Belleville plans for wider cross-town routes to Highway 401 are predicated on an across-the-bay link at the present site, said the councillor.

Projects in the offing or planning include a new bridge across the Moira, widening of Pinnacle St. and a railroad underpass at Cannifton Rd.

If the new Bay facility "is not going in the same location as the old one we don't need all those (projects)," declared Ald. Meeks. "If we're not going to have a traaffice flow coming through here we can save our taxpayers millions of dollars."

Location of the new link was a dominant theme of the two-hour meeting at Hastings County administration buildings as the project team called for questions.

The session was part of a planned progression of meetings to gather public input into the preliminary study now under way before a decision is made on the location — and type — of facility that will take Highway 14 across the Bay.

The route study area involved a 12-mile stretch of the Bay from Point Anne to CFB Trenton and projects four possible points of crossing: Belleville, Wallbridge-Loyalist Rd., Point Anne, or close to CFB Trenton. The last two are based on possible future 401 hookups either through Belleville at Haig Rd., or present Sidney Township overpass.

The present study will take about 15 months, the ministry men said.

'Also to be decided is the type of facility best suited to the location — whether a high level bridge, a lower-level buscule drawbridge, or a tunnel.

This in turn complicates predicting deadlines for completing the project, the meeting was told, and the ministry spokesmen did not make any commitments on construction.

A site decision is going to take at least two years, predicted Reeve George Foster of Sophiasburgh Township.

"So," he pressed, "how long is it going to take to build it?"

Replied Ignacio Ardizone, ministry area manager: "There are so many unknowns at this point in this, it's impossible for us to pursue the answer as to when this is going to be built."

He noted Transportation and Communications Minister John Rhodes had said recently it would be constructed "as soon as possible". At present that was the "best possible comment," said Mr. Ardizone.

The route study involves at least 17 diverse areas from safety to silt pollution. Later this year traffic studies will be done on all access routes into Prince Edward. A count will also be made of the type of marine craft using the bay.

Arguing the Alternatives

Ald. Stu Meeks argues possible alternatives to present Bay Bridge site with councillors from other area municipalities at meeting with provincial government experts in Belleville Thursday night. Ald. Meeks warned if replacement for present Belleville-Rossmore span is not at same location, city's road-building programs would be needless.

Cyclist Injured

A nine-year-old cyclist, Paul Webb, 85 Pinnacle St., was taken to hospital Thursday after being struck by a car at the corner of Church and St. Paul St.

Driver of the car was Shirley Kleinsteuber, 56 South John St. Police said the vehicle was southbound on Church St. and had turned onto St. Paul when the mishap occurred.

Two Still Critical

A 57-year-old Belleville man and a 67-year-old Pembroke woman remain in intensive care units today following a two-car collision Wednesday which took the life of a Pembroke physician, Dr. Ernest Reinke.

A Kingston General Hospital spokesman said Charles Edgar Jones, 77 George St., Belleville, remains in serious condition today with neck and internal injuries.

Mary Reinke, wife of the accident victim, is still in intensive care but according to a Belleville General Hospital spokesman she has improved since yesterday.

Ontario Provincial Police are still investigating the incident which occurred on Highway 37 about one-half mile south of Plainfield and about six miles north of Belleville.

Going Home

Today is the first day of spring break for students throughout Ontario. At Sir James Whitney School, Thursday was a day of packing for students heading home for the holidays. Sitting on their luggage are Lisa Paterson, right, from Montreal and Debbie Carleton, who doesn't have far to go since she lives in Belleville. In rear, are Gordon Kennedy, right, from Dunvegan, Ont. and Eileen Thomas, St. Regis, Que.

Councillor Questions Accuracy of Studies

A provincial government study showed 1,000 vehicles a day using the Bay of Quinte Skyway at Deseronto — the high-level bridge which carries Highway 49 from Highway 401 into Prince Edward County.

Another study showed the average daily traffic across the old Bay Bridge between Belleville and Rossmore — now scheduled for replacement — averaging 8,000 vehicles a day, reaching 10,000 in peak summer months.

The comparisons were marked by Stu Meeks, Belleville city councillor at a meeting Thursday night between municipal politicians and transportation and communications ministry experts studying replacement of the Highway 14 Bay Bridge route.

Ald. Meeks said such figures make studies "look a little ridiculous."

"I think it's marvellous it's there," he added. "I just mean when they're doing studies to show needs they don't go where there is the most need."

Police End Free Ride

City police were called to the Canadian National Station Thursday when a passenger was found to have no money, no ticket and no identification.

The man, Arthur Joseph Bourgeois, 24, of 86 Thomas St., in Kingston, was arrested on several outstanding chagres. He boarded the train at Kingston.

Proposed New Boundaries Revamped by Queen's Park

Proposed boundaries for a new provincial riding amalgamating Hastings with much of the Peterborough constituency, have been revised.

The alteration has its major, most agreeable, effect in the Peterborough city area.

But the proposed constituency still remains a challenging electoral district for a politician to represent — reaching from Deseronto to the Haliburton district northeast of Peterborough.

Hastings has been held for the Conservatives since 1959 by Clarke Rollins, who already has said he plans to seek his party's election nomination in the new electoral district. Mr. Rollins supported the latest changes, he says.

The original report of the electoral boundaries commission — assigned to revised Ontario ridings — called for adding Hastings to much of Peterborough county.

The commission's report — tabled in the legislature late last year — sparked criticism in the Peterborough area.

John Turner, Conservative MPP for Peterborough was among opponents of the new structure. His includes both the city and county of Peterborough.

The critics won a point when the revised proposals were tabled in the legislature this week.

Two townships, western neighbors of Peterborough city —Smith and Ennismore — were reshuffled out of Hastings-Peterborough and into Peterborough.

Mr. Rollins told The Intelligencer he also spokes for the change in agreement with his Peterborough colleague. Because of the township's geographic location it was important they be part of the proposed new Peterborough-centred riding," he said.

The 10 Peterborough municipalities still remaining in the suggested new Hastings-Peterborough voting district have much in common, said Mr. Rollins.

Weekend Concerts At Bayside

Young Salvationists — and the sounds of music — will fill Bayside Secondary School March 22-23.

The event is the rally of youth councils of the Salvation Army's Mid-Ontario division — an area reaching from Whitby to Gananoque.

The weekend begins with a spring music festival scheduled for 7:30 p.m. and featuring massed youth musicians under the direction of Major Norman Bearcroft, one of the Army's leading musicians and its one-time national bandmaster in Britain.

The event is open to the public.

Sunday will be given over to devotional periods and more musical presentations under Capt. Bill Ratcliffe, who has played key roles in Canada and abroad in the Army's youth work.

The sessions are open to all young people between 14 and 30.

Kinsmen Assume Band Sponsorship

Those who attended last year's Kinsmen Highland Weekend may remember the Quinte Loyalist Pipe Band. The group will be back for this year's Highland Weekend but under a new name and sponsorship, the Kinsmen Pipe Band of Belleville.

The decision came during a Kinsmen meeting this week in which Kinsmen members agreed to donate money to buy doublets for the band and to sponsor them.

The band which now numbers 22 members, both male and female, has been in Belleville for 14 years. They were first called the Hasty Pees Band, then the Army, Navy Band and after that the Quinte Loyalist Band.

Pipe major is Dougal McCamley and the band has both bagpipes and drums.

The band, which appears in competitions and special events, has competed in competitions all across Ontario and last year finished fourth in their particular category.

The band practices every Tuesday night at Sir James Whitney School from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. Anyone interested in becoming a member may attend these practices. Mr. McCamley said that beginners are taught.

Stereo Stolen

City police are investigating a break and enter at 65 Donald St., Apartment 2 which netted thieves a $650 stereo amplifier.

Tenant Robert Roscoe reported the incident Thursday between 9.45 and 12 p.m.

City Cabs Amalgamate

Belleville taxi riders will continue to ride in cabs with Central and Checker on their roofs, but they will be operated by one owner, Grant Devolin of Central Taxi.

The sale of Checker Radio Taxi to Central Taxi Leasing and Sales (Belleville) Ltd. was completed Thursday night at six o'clock, Bill Moreau, Central's general manager, confirmed. Sale price was not revealed, but Mr. Moreau said Checker owner Arnold Duffy "did all right."

At February's meeting of the city's police commission, permission to sell his business was sought by Mr. Duffy. It was granted by the commission, Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said.

The overnight changeover caused some inconvenience to Checker patrons, Mr. Moreau said, as some telephone lines could not be switched to the Central dispatcher on short notice. This, he said, will be cleared up as soon as Bell Canada crews can make the switchover.

The combined operation will be operated from Central's Bridge and Front streets depot.

Involved in the sale were 15 taxi licences. Transfer is expected to be approved at the next police commission meeting, said Chief Crosbie.

UCS Names Committees

In the first meeting of the 1975 United Community Services board of directors chosen last month, board members were chosen to head up various standing committees.

At the meeting Thursday, Geoffrey Green was chosen to head the budget and admission committee while Carson McLaughlin will be in charge of the liaison committee. Both committees come under the agency review category.

Cintra Cassidy, Gloria Jones and Marion Scott, will be in charge of public relations.

Jim Wiseman will head the house committee while Rev. David Murphy will handle the social planning committee.

Firefighters Get Pay Hike

PICTON — Picton town council Thursday voted to approve a $75 increase in the annual honoraria for volunteer firemen.

The volunteers, now receiving $500 a year will receive $575 this year.

The volunteer firefighters also will be paid $6 an hour while attending out-of-town fire emergencies. A maximum of four volunteers will be permitted to respond to these emergency calls.

Fire chief Leonard Tripp's salary will be increased from $10,000 a year to $11,100 effective January 1, 1975.

Police Report Few Drivers with Old Stickers

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

An afternoon survey Thursday of 15 area police departments stretching from Apsley to Picton and Brighton to Sharbot Lake reveals a wide majority of car owners must have been conscientious in purchasing their 1975 licence plate stickers before the midnight deadline March 14.

It is either for that reason or as one police officer remarked, "some could be taking the back roads."

At any rate, the survey shows only about 18 drivers have been charged or stopped by police in six departments.

And of the 18 drivers, at least seven were nabbed last Saturday, the first day after the deadline.

Belleville was the only municipal police department which encountered such drivers. Chief Douglas Crosbie said five people were charged, including one on Saturday.

The other municipal forces which did not encounter stickerless cars were Deseronto, Napanee, Picton, Trenton and Tweed.

The leading Ontario Provincial Police detachment was Napanee where court officer Larry Green said, "about a half dozen charges were laid."

Worst first-day record was recorded by Brighton OPP where three drivers were caught last Saurday.

Kaladar had two (one on Saturday), and Apsley and Madoc one apiece, both on Saturday. Detachments free ofoffenders were Bancrot, Belleville, Picton and Sharbot Lake.

New Record for Futility

Stars Hand Capitals 61st Loss

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Washington Capitals dropped a 5-1 decision to the Minnesota North Stars on Thursday as they continued to make hockey fans forget the ineptitude of the original New York Islanders and the awful Chicago Black Hawk teams of the early 1950s.

The loss was their 61st, eclipsing the 60-losses mark set by the Islanders in a full 78-game schedule in 1972-73. Washington has eight games left in an 80-game schedule to make its record for ineptitude even more difficult to match.

In Thursday's other NHL games, Buffalo Sabres whipped New York Rangers 6-3, Chicago downed Detroit Red Wings 6-2 and Los Angeles Kings edged St. Louis Blues 3-2.

"That was the worst officiated game I've ever seen," Washington coach Red Sullivan fumed after Thursday's contest. "We had a good hockey game going, the people were up and all of a sudden zip-zip-zip and the ballgame was over."

Sullivan referred to three penalties called on Washington by referee Steve Dowling during a 1:28 span of the second period, just after a goal by Dennis O'Brien had given Minnesota a 2-1 lead.

The North Stars followed with power-play goals by Dwight Bialowas and Doug Hicks and the Caps no longer had a chance to win their seventh game in 72 starts.

Meanwhile, the Capitals have set a number of other unenviable records—the most consecutive road losses (35), the most losses at home (26) and the most goals allowed (395).

On Saturday night, they can tie the record losing streak of 15 games set by Philadelphia Quakers in 1930-31. With only six wins, they appear certain to establish a new low for wins in seasons of 70 or more games.

That record is 12 victories, established by Chicago in 1753-54 and matched by the 1972-73 Islanders.

The Sabres got goals from Gilbert Perreault, Danny Gare and Pete McNain a span of less than three minutes early in the game. The outcome increased Buffalo's commanding lead to 14 points over the second-place Bruins in the Adams Division.

Mickey Redmond, who scored 103 goals for the Wings in his two previous seasons, returned to the Detroit lineup after a 51-game absence resulting from a back injury.

His brother Dick set up two Black Hawk goals. Stan Mikita scored twice and Ivan Boldirev, Jim Pappin, Pit Martin and Dale Tallon once each for Chicago.

Los Angeles' Mike Murphy and Danny Maloney scored third-period goals after outstanding goaltending by the Blues' Eddie Johnston stymied the Kings for the first two periods.

The 39-year-old veteran turned back five breakaways while his team took a 2-0 lead on goals by Larry Sacharuk and Floyd Thomson.

Tonight's schedule has the Canucks at Atlanta Flames and St. Louis at California Golden Seals.

Foresters Are Back In Picture

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — Brantford Foresters defeated Whitby McDonald's 5-3 Thursday to reduce Whitby's lead to 2-1 in the best-of-seven Ontario Hockey Association Senior A semi-final.

The fourth game will be played in Whitby Sunday night.

Duffy McCarthy led Brantford with three goals. Bob Thompson and coach John McMullen got the others.

Whitby's goals were scored by Pete Vipond, Carl Ahlsten and Wayne Weller.

Brantford took a 2-1 lead in the first period and the teams were tied 3-3 at the end of the second.

Thompson broke the deadlock at 13:42 of the final period when he stole the puck from a Whitby defenceman and went in alone to beat goalie Bruce Durno.

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP) — Cornwall Royals exploded for five goals in the second period to defeat Shawinigan Dynamos 7-1 in Quebec Major Junior Hockey League action Thursday night.

Ken Chadwick and Luc Prud'homme added singles for Cornwall in the final period. Daniel Lessard scored Shawinigans lone goal. Cornwall outshot Shawinigan 55-30.

Maybe a few shifts at centre were just what was needed to get Murray Hall moving again for Houston Aeros.

The balding, 34-year-old veteran came off the bench Thursday night to play a regular shift at right wing and score two goals for the Aeros in a 5-3 win over Quebec Nordiques.

In Thursday's other WHA games, Chicago Cougars topped San Diego Mariners 4-2 and Indianapolis Racers downed Edmonton Oilers 3-1.

"I've been standing around just like the Fox (Dineen) said," Hall said. "Playing the shifts at centre helped—you have to keep skating when you play centre."

Hall scored 58 goals in his first two seasons with Houston after stints with four National Hockey League teams, but he had only 10 goals going into Thursday's game and was spending most of his time on the bench or doing spot duties.

Before joining the Aeros, Hall's only full NHL season was 1970-71, when he scored 21 goals for Vancouver Canucks. He also had trials with Chicago Black Hawks, Detroit Red Wings and Minnesota North Stars.

His goal early in the third period broke a 3-3 tie for the Aeros, who all but assured themselves of the homce-ice advantage in all three rounds of the WHA playoffs.

The WHA playoff format gives the deciding game in each playoff series to the team with the most point sduring the regular season.

Young's Goal Gives '67s Tie

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Tim Young's 56th goal of the season with 21 seconds left to play salvaged a 3-3 tie for Ottawa '67s over St. Catharines Black Hawks Thursday in Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A series action.

In other games, Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds managed a home-ice, 6-4 win over London Knights and Peterborough Petes beat Kitchener Rangers 9-4 in Peterborough.

Young now has 162 points, sharing the scoring lead with Bruce Boudreau of Toronto Marlboros. Both are one point above the previous single season record of 161 points set by Brian Cullen of St. Catharines Teepees in 1953-54 when the schedule was 59 games.

The tie partially spoiled another outstanding goaltending display by the Black Hawks' Bill Cheropita, who faced 36 shots, compared with 27 fired at Ottawa's Barry Ashby.

St. Catharines marksmen were Ken Breitenbach, Kevin Kennery and Doug Caines.

Dan Blair, Doug Wilson and Young replied for the '67s.

Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds kept playoff hopes alive by scoring four power-play goals in their 6-4 win over London Knights.

Gary Gill scored a pair of power-play markers, while single goals were by Romano Carlucci, Cary Farelli, Doug Petey and Bruce O'Grady.

Dennis Maruk and Terry Martin each scored twice for the Knights.

London and Sault Ste. Marie are fighting it out for the eighth and last playoff spot along with idle Kingston Canadians. The Canadians are eighth with 60 points, while the Greyhounds and the Knights each have 59 points.

The Greyhounds close out the season with a home game Saturday against Peterborough, while London is in Sudbury Friday and at home against Kitchener Sunday. Friday, Ottawa is at Kitchener and St. Catharines at Toronto.

Tony Cassolato's three goals led Peterborough Petes to a 9-4 win over Kitchener Rangers giving the Petes a second-place tie with Hamilton Fincups in standings. The Petes have two games left in regular season play while the Fincups have finished their regular season.

Doug Jarvis scored one goal and got three assists to bring his total career points to 284, breaking his club's all-time record held by Doug Gibson.

Other Petes' goals were scored by John Pollock with two, with singles from Mark Connelly, Gary McMonagle and Paul Evans.

Kitchener goals were scored by Dan Djaklovic with two, and Joe Fortunato and Dwight Foster with one each.

32-team Tournament Could Go to 63 Games

The annual Trenton Golden Hawk Midget Hockey Tournament definitely a 62-game presentation and possibly stretching to 63 games gets its ambitious program off and skating at the Community Gardens, tomorrow morning at 8:30.

The 32-team event has 12 games scheduled each of the first four days (Saturday Sunday Monday and Tuesday); 10 matches Wednesday and four Thursday. If you're counting that should add up to 62.

Since it takes two losses to knock each team out, the possibility of a 63rd game exists should the team with a perfect record lose to the B side representative (one loss) in the final game Thursday. If Game 63 is necessary it will be played Saturday March 29 at 3 p.m.

Belleville Yardmen Minors aren't picking any soft touch in their first tourney start. They tackle last year's champion Nepean in a 3:30 p.m. contest tomorrow.

This city's other representative in the tournament, the Lions Majors, help launch the big show as they did in 1974 when they match skills with Trenton's Minor Midgets in Game 1 at 8:30 a.m.

Both Belleville clubs could see action twice on the event's first day. Should Lions top the Trenton club they'll meet either Kingston Township Majors or Peterborough Minors at 5:30 p.m.

A win for Yardmen in their opener would match them against Kingston City Minors or Oshawa Majors at 9:30 p.m.

Opening game losses would put Lions and Yardmen in Sunday's schedule. Lions would then play at 8:30 a.m. Sunday and Yardmen at 12 noon.

The teams will play two 10-minute periods and a 15-minute third frame. And it's all stop time.

Standby teams had to be called in to replace entries that were busy with Ontario Minor Hockey Association playoff commitments.

As of 11 a.m. Thursday the lineup looked like this: Major teams, Belleville, Kingston Township, Kingston City, Toronto Blues, Thorold, Camp Borden, Wexford, Trenton, Smiths Falls, Oshawa, Ottawa West, Lindsay, Greenwood, N. S., Ottawa South, Galt Gores, Gloucester and Oromocto N.B.

Minor entries are Trenton Peterborough Ajax Belleville Kingston City Burlington Bowmanville, Wexford and Aurora.

Rounding out the field are Nepean, Napanee, Stirling, Gananoque Toronto Kings and Campbellford.

SLICES — Belleville Rollins Peewee Majors are on the road this weekend with games scheduled today Saturday and Sunday in the Ottawa area.

The Rollins squad with that important Belleville Shrine Peewee Tournament date fast approaching (April 4-5-6 at Memorial Arena) is getting all the action it can line up before then.

The club will play two games each with Nepean and Ottawa opposition during the visit.

Markham fought back in its Metro Junior B Hockey League final set with Bramalea and now trails 3-3 in the best-of-seven series. Game 6 is on tap tonight in Bramalea.

One of baseball's elder statesmen, the South Hastings League is unique in more ways than one.

Not only does it outdate most, if not all organized leagues in any sport in this area at least, the loop set some kind of a record locally when it got everything lined up for the coming season at its first meeting.

Many soccer, fastball and softball leagues here (not including the Belleville and District Ladies' Softball League and Minor organizations which have done quite well thank you) had their work cut out for them to generate interest.

The South Hastings loop has been operating for more than 50 years and this time around has grown from six teams to eight with the acceptance of entries from Foxboro and Deseronto.

Pope's Goal Propels Builders to Final

With 1:15 remaining in Thursday's game Norm Pope scored to give Cornerstone Builders a 4-3 win and a 3-2 edge in games — enough to hand the Builders their best-of-five Quinte Hockey League semi-final series.

In the other game Reid's Dairy evened their series with Stinson Construction at 2-2-1 (won-lost-tied) with a 4-1 victory.

Phil Meeks scored twice to lead the Cornerstone attack and Terry Pope added the others. Terry and Meeks also assisted on the winning goal.

Wayne Woods, Ron Pointer and Jason Morris scored once each for Belvedere.

Ralph Plane scored twice and Bob Boyle drew four assists in the Reid's victory. Al Ray and Ralph Boomhower added the other markers.

Joe Clark scored the only goal for Stinson.

The Belleville Blueline Club held their draw for the month of March between periods of the Belvedere-Cornerstone game and Tom Purdy, who resides on the Trent Road, won $200.

Stirling Juveniles Hang on for 6-5 Win

STIRLING — Bird's IGA Juveniles very nearly squandered a four-goal lead here Thursday night in the opening game of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association Juvenile De semi-finals. But the home side managed to hang on and escaped with a 6-5 win over Elmvale.

Stirling owned a 3-0 lead after one period and was in front 6-2 heading for the third. Elmvale potted three unanswered goals in the final frame to make it close.

Dave Jeffs shot two of the winners' goals. Stan Myers, Pat Long, Doug Bastedo and Wally Blakeley collected one each.

Tops for the visitors was John Trace who connected for a brace of goals. John Melnyk, Danny Ritchie and Rick Burnford took care of the other counters.

Second and third games are scheduled for Elmvale, Sunday and Wednesday.

Tonight (Friday) here, Stirling Legion Peewees and the Riverside Structures Bantams have important OMHA games scheduled.

At 7 p.m. Legion will be out to even its semi-final set with Stroud at 1-1 while Riverside Structures faces the same challenge in a 9 p.m. match with Maple.

McDonald's Roster Grows

The Belleville McDonald's now have 11 players signed to Ontario Fastball League cards. Wednesday night, Doug Adams, general manager of the club, signed Dwight Rathwell, Ken Genereaux and Scott Reid. Those three join Wayne McTaggart, Ted Waite, Marve Stacey, Glen Carleton, Steve Ling, Paul Goodfellow and Dale Duvall on the players' roster. Bob Eibler is signed with the team, but he has removed himself, at least temporarily, from the players' list.

All three of the new McDonald's are from last year's Quinte Fastball League champion, Howard and Robert Printing.

Rathwell, although he had problems at the plate in the latter stages of last season, is a consistent hitter and usually carries approximately a .300 average. He also runs the bases well, but those two things are not his strong points.

The five-foot-ten infielder is known throughout the QFL as one of its top defensive players. Seldom does a ball escape the glove of the 29-year-old, 160-pound shortstop.

"We're glad Ratsy (Rathwell's nickname) signed with us," said Adams. "He's got one of the best gloves going and a terrific arm."

"Another thing," added Adams, "he's always talking out there — getting the guys going. A real team man. He's always there when the chips are down. He's smart on the field and he's smart on the bench."

Genereaux played right next to Rathwell on the infield. He held the fort on the left field line. The 28-year-old never ceased to amaze the spectators and Quinte Fastball League teams with his gutsy approach to his third base position.

He would move up the base line and defy a batter to hit the ball. Sometimes the 165-pound, third sacker would play his position closer to home plate than to third. Nevertheless, his glove and arm were nearly flawless.

"Kenny's versatility is going to help us a lot," said Adams. "He knows an infield like the back of his hand. We'll be able to play him anywhere."

Genereaux had his best season ever at the plate last year. He batted .335.

"He's another guy who's great for team moral," said Adams.

An added feature is Genereaux' heads-up base running. In many of the games Howard and Robert won last season it was Genereaux, five-foot-eight, who scored the runs. Whenever there was a one run margin in a game you could almost always count on that run coming from Genereaux.

The other ex-Howard and Robert player to join the McDonald's is pitcher Scott Reid. A right-hander, Reid is well-known for his strikeout records in the Quinte Fastball League.

At five-foot-nine, 170-pounds, Reid and Ted Waite take the task of hurling for the OFL entry until more pitchers are secured.

The 23-year-old is also known for his mixture of pitches.

"He has a real variety," said Adams. "He doesn't try to overpower a batter — he outguesses a batter."

Reid is known as one of the more productive pitchers at the plate and often times batted in the top half of the order for Howard and Robert. He was also used consistently as a pinch hitter.

Nicks Advance To Semi-final

COLLINGWOOD (Special) — Nicholson Catholic College Nicks took their opening game in the Ontario Federation of Secondary School Athletics A Championship here, Thursday, by a 73-51 margin over Merlin Mavericks.

Dale Wilson was top gun with 21 points and Jeff Boyle was right behind him with 19 Bruce Collins popped in 11.

The Nicks were behind 9-8 after the first quarter, but put things together in the second period and held a 36-25 lead at half time. The Mavericks came on in the third quarter, but the Nicks outscored them by two points and forged ahead to outscore them by eight in the final quarter to earn the 21-point win.

Other Nicholson scorers were Mike Hall, with six, Dave Holland, with five, Chris Kalnay and Mark Soule, with four each, and Peter Wilkinson, with two.

The Nicks meet Annandale Marauders early this afternoon and a win in that game would give them a berth in the all-Ontario final tonight at 7:30 p.m.

Birt's One Away From AA Final

TRENTON — It was a night for close calls as coach Roger Drake's Birt's Handy Stand rolled to a commanding 3-0 lead in Ontario Minor Hockey Association Juvenile AA semi-final playoffs by tripping Richmond Hill Rams here Thursday 7-5.

Drake got the "little extra" he was looking for from his charges in the third period of Game 3 when both teams regained their scoring touch after battling to a 3-3 draw in the first 40 minutes.

And the winners' flirted with the 36-minute penalty total finishing with 35 minutes two away from losing their coach for the fourth game in Richmond Hill Sunday.

The Rams will be without coach Len Campbell Sunday. Richmond Hill picked up 59 minutes including a misconduct and game misconduct.

During the interval between the second and third periods Birt's skaters were advised by Drake that it was time to turn it on.

Before the third frame was five minutes old Trenton had a 5-2 lead. Rams fought back for a pair of rapid-fire counters to make it close. A little more than a minute later Brit's made it 6-4 but the stubborn visitors stayed close with a goal at 14:36.

Rick Matheson's third goal of the game scored with only 34 seconds to play gave the home side some breathing room.

Bob Thompson was another three-goal shooter for Birt's. Bob Cameron had the other Trenton goal.

Tops for Rams was Tom Lamb with a pair of goals. Singles went to John Oakley Scott Davey and Tony Robinson.

Game time Sunday in Richmond Hill is 2.30 p.m.

GOTTA WON'T COACH

BIRMINGHAM Ala. (CP) — Jack Gotta coach of Birmingham Americans when they won the World Football League championship last year said Thursday he will not coach the Vulcans this city's proposed new entry in the league. He said he will concentrate on his duties as vice-president and general manager of the club. The new coach will be Marvin Bass defensive co-ordinator of the Americans last season.

South Hastings League Adds Two New Entries

The South Hastings Baseball League (SHBL) has been around longer than most (55 years is the estimate from a spokesman for the group) and in its 1975 season will have a new look while retaining an important feature that has been a fixture for the past seven years.

A six-team grouping since 1968 the league took on two new entries at a well-attended Wednesday night meeting at the Recreation Centre.

Foxboro and Deseronto were accepted, joining returnees, Melrose, Cannifton, Reserve, Read Latta and Shannonville.

So much for the new look.

Belleville's Art Buller is one-of-a-kind when it comes to sports executives. Who serves on the SHBL executive?

Art is the executive. And he's been carrying out his responsibilities for the league as its secretary-treasurer since taking the position in 1968.

"Oh I get plenty of help from team representatives who make many of the decisions" offers Buller.

"And we have a special committee to handle protests and other grievances" adds the baseball enthusiast.

Buller will be busy now drawing up a 21-game schedule for each of the eight teams in the grouping.

Plans call for the league openers to be held Saturday May 17.

The top six teams in the standings at the conclusion of the regular schedule will enter quarter-final playoffs. The first-round sets will be best-of-five series.

That will narrow the field down to three teams. Of those three the club boasting the top record on the season will gain a bye to the best-of-seven final playoff.

The Melrose squad was a double winner in 1974 taking first place honors and winning the playoff championship as well. With the pennant goes the Carl Jones Trophy. Playoff winner takes home the Buck Pascoe and Lee Grills Trophies.

Canada Whips Italy After Loss to Swiss

PERTH, Scotland (CP) — After two successive games in which changing ice conditions ruined what otherwise would have been good matches, Canada's Bill Tetley had things pretty much in control Thursday night.

Tetley's Thunder Bay, Ont., rink took only eight ends and an hour and 50 minutes to subdue Giuseppe Dal Molin's Italian rink 8-2.

The two earlier matches, a defeat and a narrow victory, were played on side sheets and were marred by erratic ice conditions.

The Canadians lost 8-6 to Otto Danieli of Switzerland in a three-hour set earlier Thursday after defeating Klaus Kanz's German champions 4-2 Wednesday night.

Tetley figures his rink will make the playoffs after the final two games in the round-robin tournament—against Denmark in the morning and Norway in the afternoon.

Thursday night's win, combined with an 8-5 win by Ed Risling's United States champions over Switzerland and a 9-7 victory by Axel Sweden of Sweden over veteran Andre Tronc of France left Canada, Switzerland, the U.S. and Sweden tied for first place in the championships with 5-2 records.

Close behind with 4-3 records were Alex Torrance of Scotland and Helmar Strombo of Norway. France and Germany were 3-4, Denmark's John Kjaerulff 1-6 and Italy 0-7.

Today's morning draw, set for 3:30 a.m. EST, also had Switzerland facing Sweden, the U.S. against Denmark and France against Scotland.

Other afternoon games, starting at 8:00 a.m. EST, had the U.S. against Denmark, Switzerland against France, Scotland against Italy and Sweden against Germany.

Tetley said after the game with Italy the ice "is making a lot of easy shots look tough."

Lead Peter Hnatiw said the only real trouble the Canadian rink had against Italy was with one of his rocks which seemed to require a heavier throw on draws than did the other.

Despite Canada's sixth-round loss to Danieli, Tetley said he didn't think the Swiss rink would reach the final. He rated Danieli's rink below last year's Swiss representatives, skipped by Peter Attinger.

The Attinger rink went unbeaten in round-robin play, then lost 3-2 to the eventual champions, Bud Somerville's rink from the United States.

GEORGE FOREMAN

One a Day The Limit Says Law

TORONO (CP) — A proposed April 26 boxing exhibition by former heavyweight champion George Foreman in which he would face five men in succession on the same card could come into conflict with Ontario law.

Tentative plans are to hold the show at Maple Leaf Gardens here but Merv McKenzie, said Thursday the law in this province permits a fighter to have only one bout a day.

The idea is to have Foreman go three rounds or less with Boone Kirkman, Alonzo Johnson, Pedro Agosta, Mac Foster and Terry Daniels. The prize for lasting one round against him would be $5,000 and anyone who knocks Foreman out would collect $20,000.

Plans are to show the exhibition live on Wide World of Sports, carried by ABC-TV in the United States and the CTV network in Canada.

"If Foreman fights five men, those would be five contests," said McKenzie, and that would be against the law.

"Another part of the rule states a fighter who goes less than 10 rounds of three minutes each may not fight again within three days. If he goes 10 or more round, he doesn't fight again within four days."

Boxing promoter Irv Ungerman of Toronto has said that unless the fight is in Maple Leaf Gardens it will not be in this city.

Calgary Clinches Mixed Title

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—Les Roland and his wife Audrey celebrate their 34th wedding anniversary today but the Calgary couple did a little bit of early celebrating Thursday night.

Rowland and his Alberta rink from Calgary clinched the Canadian mixed curling championship with an 8-4 victory over the Harry Stevenson rink from Sydney, N.S.

"It's a great anniversary present," said Mrs. Rowland, the vice on the foursome. "It's the best I've ever had."

The rink, formed two hours before the provincial deadline for mixed entries, now has a 9-1 record heading into today's final round and is two games up on the Prince Edward Island rink skipped by Bob Dillon of Charlottetown and Roscoe Wilson's New Brunswick foursome from Moncton.

Earlier in the day, Alberta topped Newfoundland's representative, skipped by Les Bowering of St. John's 5-3 in a hard-fought match.

One feature of the Alberta rink was the fact that its members use push brooms rather than corn brooms.

"This was good ice for push brooms;" said Dan Schmaltz, the second on the club and husband of Betty, the rink's lead.

Alberta's win kept the Canadian mixed title in the west where it has stayed since the inception of the event in 1963.

The Nova Scotia rink, now 3-7, came back with a single in the third but Alberta drew for two in the fifth and broke the game open by drawing for three in the seventh after Stevenson had drawn for two in the sixth.

P.E.I. rallied for one in the 10th to edge the British Columbia representative skipped by Jake Block of Abbotsford, 6-5, while Wilson's rink had an easy 7-5 triumph over the Quebec rink skipped by Andre Emond of Montreal.

In other 10th-round play, Newfoundland scored an 8-6 triumph over the Northern Ontario foursome skipped by Dale Harten of Sault Ste. Marie, Rick Folk and his Saskatchewan rink from Saskatoon topped Ontario's Dave Reid of Toronto 8-2 and Bill Melnyk led his Territories group from Yellowknife to a 6-4 triumph over Larry Taylor of Brandon, Man.

In ninth-round games, New Brunswick topped the Territories 8-5, Manitoba clipped Ontario 7-4, Saskatchewan topped Quebec 10-7, B.C. crushed Northra Ontario 9-2 and P.E.I. outscored Nova Scotai 9-8.

B. C. Ties Quebec for Lead

SWIFT CURRENT, Sask. (CP) — British Columbia scored two easy victories at the Canadian senior women's curling championship Thursday to tie Quebec for the lead after nine rounds and set up a playoff between the two teams today.

The rinks of defending champion Flora Martin of Victoria and Frida Payson of Lachine, Que., each finished the nine-round event with 7-2 marks. Their sudden-death playoff for the title was scheduled to begin at 9 a.m.

The Martin rink came on strong in the championship, winning its last six games. B.C. routed Nova Scotia 11-5 in Thursday afternoon's eighth round and demolished Prince Edward Island 12-6 in seven ends in the ninth round at night.

Quebec dropped a 10-5 decision to Connie Totten's Fredericton, N.B., crew in the eighth round and bounced back to nip Manitoba 8-7.

New Brunswick and Ontario's Shirley Pilson of Chatham tied for third with 6-3 records. Manitoba and Dagny Kradovill of Weyburn, Sask., ended up at 5-4, followed by Alberta's Phyllis Crist of Calgary at 4-5.

The Nova Scotia rink led by Joan Renouf of Halifax and Newfoundland's Violet Pike from Grand Falls were tied at 2-7, with P.E.I.'s Doris MacDonald of Charlottetown last at 1-8.

In other eighth-round action, Saskatchewan bombed P.E.I. 11-4, Ontario thumped Manitoba 9-5 and Newfoundland nipped Alberta 8-7 in an extra end.

Final-round games saw New Brunswick dump Nova Scotia 9-6, Ontario blast Alberta 11-8 and Saskatchewan beat Newfoundland 7-2.

Defending champion Saskatchewan is alone in fourth place with a 6-4 record with Ontario, Manitoba, the Territories and Newfoundland at 5-5. B.C. is 4-6, Quebec and Nova Scotia are tied at 3-7 and Northern Ontario is 1-9.

In today's final draw of the 11-round competition, the pairings are: New Brunswick-Saskatchewan; Alberta-Northern Ontario; Quebec-Manitoba; Newfoundland-P.E.I.; Territories-Ontario; Nova Scotia-B.C.

Beanball War Erupts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A year-old feud between outfielder Elliott Maddox of New York Yankees and Billy Martin, manager of Texas Rangers, erupted in a spring training beanball war during the Rangers' 3-2 10-inning triumph Thursday.

In other action, Pittsburgh Pirates snapped their six-game losing streak. The Pirates split their squad, with one-half going to Sarasota, Fla., to take an exhibition doubleheader from Chicago White Sox 4-1 and 6-5. The other half, at St. Petersburg, Fla., defeated St. Louis Cardinals 5-3.

Elsewhere, Los Angeles Dodgers shaded Montreal Expos 4-2, California Angels trimmed Cleveland Indians 5-1, Cincinnati Reds whipped Houston Astros 7-2, Kansas City Royals nipped Baltimore Orioles 8-7, New York Mets blanked Atlanta Braves 3-0, Detroit Tigers beat Boston Red Sox 5-3, San Francisco Giants trounced Milwaukee Brewers 8-1, Minnesota Twins defeated Philadelphia Phillies 7-1 and Chicago Cubs downed San Diego Padres 4-1.

BILLY MARTIN

The hard feelings between Maddox and Martin began last spring when, says Maddox, Martin reneged on a promise to give him plenty of playing time, and Maddox thereafter was sold to the Yankees.

Thursday, "I walked on the field before the game and none of the Ranger players would talk to me," Maddox said. "But I knew they had their orders from Martin and I knew it wouldn't end up with just the silent treatment, either."

Texas pitcher Bibby hit Maddox with a first-inning pitch, leading to incidents that ended with the Rangers' Dave Nelson charging Yankee pitcher Mike Tallace in the seventh inning.

Virdon charged from the dugout, and words with Martin and wound up rolling on the ground with Burroughs.

Martin denied he ordered his pitchers to throw at Maddox. But Maddox said two Yankee teammates, who talked with some Texas players, had warned him that Martin was after him.

Bruce Kison and Dave Giusti limited the White Sox to four hits and Art Howe's two-run homer sealed the victory for Pittsburgh in the seven-inning opener. Duffy Dyer's grand slam was the big blow in the nightcap.

Rookie Omar Moreno's eighth-inning single snapped a 3-3 deadlock and helped the Pirates beat the Cardinals.

Joe Ferguson drove in two runs as the Dodgers did all their scoring against Montreal's Dave McNally. Two doubles and a single by Mickey Rivers paced the Angels over the Indians.

Veteran Cincinnati reliever Clay Carroll held Houston to five hits and one run in a five-inning stint.

Kansas City rallied for three runs off Mike Torrez in the eighth inning to stop Baltimore and the Mets blanked Atlanta behind the seven-hit pitching of Jerry Koosman and rookie Randy Tate.

Detroit scored three times off Boston's Luis Tiant in the second inning on four straight singles, a forceout and an error.

Catcher Marc Hill's first hit of the spring, a three-run homer, helped the Giants beat the Brewers. Minnesota's Tony Oliva drove in four runs with a single and a bases-loaded double against Philadelphia. Bill Madlock's two-run single helped the Cubs down the Padres.

Expos Cut 7

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Montreal Expos sent seven players to their minor league training base for reassignment Thursday.

Cut from the National League baseball team's major league roster were pitcher Brian Abraham, catcher Bobby Goodman, infielder Rudy Kinard and outfielder Ellis Valentine.

Non-roster players to be reassigned are pitchers Joe Keener and Larry Landreth and catcher Bob Reece.

Palmer Wants This One

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A four-under-par 68 in Thursday's first round left veteran Arnold Palmer only one stroke back of co-leaders Barney Thompson and Mac McLendon in the $150,000 Greater Jacksonville Open golf tournament.

And the 45-year-old Palmer, who has let two victory opportunities slip away this season, is determined to hang on.

"I took off last week and spent the whole week practicing," said Palmer, who hasn't won in more than two full seasons.

In addition to Palmer, who didn't have a bogey, the group at 68 included Ben Crenshaw, Jim Dent, Grier Jones, Bob Dickson and Lee Elder.

Hubert Green, the defending champion and the one who helped McLendon turn around his golfing life, shot a 71. U.S. Open champion Hale Irwin carded a 73.

Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg and George Knudson of [illegible] shot 73s, Ben Kern of Toronto, the only other Canadian competing in the tournament, had a 77.

Niagara Escarpment History Is Outlined

By JACK TRACY
The Canadian Press

It goes back 300 million years lying under a shallow sea. Then the land warped and it rose and eons of glaciers grinding away at the land failed to wear it down.

Now it's the Niagara Escarpment, wrigging its 450-mile way across southern Ontario from Georgian Bay to a point below the international border in upstate New York.

It holds much of the history of Central Canada, from the early Indian tribal battles through the War of 1812 and Laura Secord and Gen. Sir Isaac Brock to the present-day blast furnaces of Hamilton.

Now governments have moved to save the scenic natural wonder from exploitation and preserve it for farming and public recreation.

In a small paperback book, William Gillard and Thomas Tooke have undertaken to tell the history of the escarpment and its people.

Gillard, who lives on the escarpment, provided the more than 80 photographs in the book. They show phases of the escarpment from the rugged cliffs near Tobermory in the north to the vineyards of the Niagara Peninsula in the south.

Tooke is an English teacher with the Hamilton secondary school board.

With clear maps, the two take the reader on a walking tour from north to south. This is easy because now the Bruce Trail enables hikers to travel the escarpment from Tobermory to the Niagara River which centuries ago wore its way through the hard dolomite to form Niagara Falls.

This is a delightful little book, prepared by two men with an obvious love for the area and a sincere wish that its woods, hills, ravines, rivers, waterfalls and wildlife will be preserved for future generations.

The Niagara Escarpment; From Tobermory to Niagara Falls; William Gillard and Thomas Tooke; $3.95 paperback; University of Toronto Press.

Consumers Are Told Of Con Artist's Tricks

By JACK TRACY
The Canadian Press

From vitamins to dance studios, consumer writer Lynne Gordon, in a new book, tells buyers how they may be cheated by con artists in many fields.

Her book is entitled The Consumer's Handbook and subtitled 99 Commercial Rip-offs and How to Spot Them.

But the book does more than tell the buyer the ways in which he may be conned. It describes the ways to make effective complaints — "Don't be embarrassed or intimidated into suffering in silence."

And its appendix contains a list of government and business agencies across Canada where a cheated consumer may complain.

"I disagree with people who believe that consumerism deals only with products and services," writes Ms. Gordon. "If you are ripped off emotionally, it is as big a rip-off as being defrauded, hustled or taken for a chunk of cash. And when you are ripped off financially, you also lose time and a piece of your dream."

Born in New York and now a Canadian citizen, the author has been involved in consumer affairs for three years as a broadcaster and syndicated columnist.

The Consumer's Handbook: 99 Commercial Rip-offs and How to Spot Them; Lynne Gordon; $3.95 paperback; 186 pages; McClelland and Stewart.

Bonita Hyderman

The 1975 Easter Seal campaign in Belleville has now passed the half-way mark in its attempt to raise $12,000.

Campaign chairman Lloyd Hicks of the Rotary Club of Belleville reports that returns to date total about $6,000 but with only 11 days between now and Easter Sunday, chairman Hick is somewhat concerned that a number of people may have forgotten about that pink envelope they received by mail earlier in the campaign.

Chairman Hicks points out that by supporting your local Easter Seal service club, donors are backing a comprehensive rehabilitation program which includes skilled diagnosis, clinical evaluation, specialized dental service, active rehabilitation treatment, district nursing services, camping and community recreation programs, artificial limbs and other aids, training for employment, counselling and medical research.

The future of handicapped youngsters in Belleville and the rest of this province depends upon this program. These future citizens of your community are putting up a good fight in their struggle for a better break, so why not back and fighter and give to Easter Seals. Mail it today.

Your Horoscope

By BERNCE BEDE OSOL

Saturday, March 22

AIRIES (March 21-April 19) There will be some minor disruptions on the home front, but not enough to disurb what could be a pleasant day. Just keep cool.

TAURUS (April 20-May 0) You'll get some good news. It will have a direct effect upon a decision you must make. It will cause you to revise your plans.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Something you've hoped for of a material nature will be realized though for a time you'll have serious doubts about receiving it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It's not likely your light will be hidden under a bushel today. You'll be the centre of attention in any group.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A condition that kept you hemmed-in the last couple of days will now be alleviated. You'll be able to act more independently.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You will be quietly rewarded for something you've done for another confidentially. Others will be unaware of either action.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) One you're fond of but doubted in the past will prove his friendship through his actions in your behalf today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You will have a sense of accomplishment for completing a task that has been difficult. Others will also recognize your achievement.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your optimistic attitude and far seeking outlook will make you a desirable companion for those you associate with today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) This is a good day to shop for needed household items. Try some out-of-the-way places for unusual bargains.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You treat others in a very fair and just manner today. They will remember this for a long time.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Conditions affecting your material outlook are considerably brighter now. Look for solutions to long-standing financial problems.

Hormones' Effects On Skin Varied

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Can you tell me how hormone imbalance affects the skin?—H. R.

There are many ways. I can list a few of the important ones.

For example acne, as we know, occurs in young people mainly because at the time of puberty the body's glandular system, including the sebaceous glands in the skin and the hormones that control them, begins a period of heightened activity. These glands which secrete an oily substance are controlled by the pituitary gland, which also triggers activity of the sex glands. So you can see that already you have a fairly complex network of glands that are affecting the skin.

The quality of skin, hair and the nails is affected by the thyroid gland. Low thyroid function (hypothyroidism) can cause the skin to be dry and coarse. Overactivity (hyperthyroidism) can make skin extra moist and smooth.

Underfunctioning of the adrenal glands as in Addison's disease is featured by a brownish pigmentation of the skin. In diabetes an imbalance of the pancreas's secretion of insulin can cause localized skin-color changes, even ulceration of the skin, particularly in the lower extremities.

Another skin change due to hormone imbalance is the so-called "mask of pregnancy," or chloasma. In this the face seems shrouded by a brownish mask. It can occur in some women during pregnancy, and in others taking the contraceptive pill. The discoloration disappears with discontinuance of the pill and the estrogen contained in it.

Finally in old age—when the same hormonal-glandular network which became active at puberty becomes sluggish—there can be a wide array of skin problems: dryness, itching, tingling, and the numbness that so many oldsters experience.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a condition called "reflex esophagitis" When I have an attack the symptoms are the same as those of a heart attack. Can you explain this condition?—R. B.

Reflux (not "reflex") esophagitis is a condition where stomach fluid splashes up into the lower gullet, whose tissues are not accustomed to the highly acid contents. Irritation from this can produce symptoms similar to a heart attack. The condition often accompanies hiatal hernia. If you haven't already been checked for this possibility, you should be.

Reflux esophagitis is often caused by a loss of muscle control due to faulty nerve action. If not treated, the continued splashing can cause ulcer in the gullet.

The medicine you mention your doctor having prescribed is to ease the problem by reducing stomach secretions. In an acute attack, a glass of milk or one of the antacids helps. You should elevate the upper part of your body in bed to avoid as much of the splashing as possible

Meanwhile, take the same precautions you would were you told you had an ulcer, including a bland diet and small and frequent feedings. If you have a hiatal hernia, weight reduction would help you Surgery to repair it is usually a last resort.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am told to wash my contact lenses with distilled water that ordinary tap water will leave a coating of chemicals and inorganic material on the lenses. I'm told tap water does the same thing to the arteries and joints. Is this true?—G .H. B.

You're right about the lenses, and for the reasons you state. But you are wrong about the arteries and joints. Minerals in tap water give it flavor and supply trace metals the system can use. Arterial hardening has been reported in some areas having "hard drinking water." This may be what is confusing you.

B.C. Cyclotron Scores First

VANCOUVER (CP) — The nuclear particle cyclotron accelerator at University of British Columbia has scored another world first, says its chief engineer.

Joop Burgerjon said the cyclotron has shot out two beams on to targets simultaneously.

The doughnut-shaped structure produces a stream of subatomic particles at extremely high speeds and beams escape from it tangentially at exits.

Mr. Burgerjon said one beam of high energy protons was directed at a target 100 feet from the cyclotron; the other target was 150 feet away. The double beam means two experiments can be conducted simultaneously.

The cyclotron's initial world first came last December when it was found to produce a variable energy from 200 million electron volts to 500 million electron volts, Mr. Burgerjon said.

The latest success occurred despite an accident in early February in which 1,300 litres of liquid nitrogen, at 320 degrees below zero fahrenheit, poured from a stuck valve and seriously cracked the structure.

He said there was no permanent damage.

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

Here is a good hand with which to test your friends' ability to defend. However, don't laugh at those who fail the test. We doubt if one bridge player in a thousand will make the winning play.

South wins the first club, leads the nine of diamonds and lets it ride after West plays low. If East also plays low, he is a bridge genii. If he goes up with the queen, he is just an ordinary player. Yet some real study will show that the play of the queen can't succeed in defeating the contract.

East should know that his partner holds the ace of diamonds because there would be no reason for South to lead any card but the ace if he held it.

How many diamonds does South hold? Probably exactly two. He has bid two suits and notrump. He surely has 11 cards outside of diamonds. So if East plays low, South will lead a second diamond, play dummy's jack and watch the hand collapse since South will never be able to bring in the diamond suit.

Russian Nuclear Torpedoes Recovered from Submarine

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) is believed to have recovered at least two nuclear torpedo warheads in its effort last summer to raise wreckage of a Soviet submarine that sank in the Pacific Ocean, The Washington Post reports.

The newspaper says sources described recovery of the nuclear-tipped torpedoes as a major victory for U.S. intelligence.

Meanwhile, the head of the Senate's special intelligence committee said Thursday there is a chance the group may subpoena billionaire Howard Hughes, who contracted to build and operate the mammoth oceanographic vessel which was used in the CIA submarine-raising mission.

Senator Frank Church (Dem. Idaho) made the remark in response to a question at a meeting with reporters. However, an aide to Church later said: "There's no big plan to subpoena Howard."

The Post says the two nuclear torpedo warheads were in the portion of the Soviet submarine raised northwest of Hawaii from a depth of 17,000 feet by the Hughes ship Glomar Explorer, under the CIA's direction. The sub sank in 1968.

The newspaper quotes one source as saying about the intelligence value of the find:

"It makes no difference that torpedo warheads are relatively small compared to missile warheads. Any kind of warhead gives us a priceless insight into their technology and their approach to solving nuclear weapons problems."

Shulman Says Police Knew Murder Planned

TORONTO (CP) — Dr. Morton Shulman (NDP—Toronto High Park) said Thursday that police knew in advance that a man who was slain gangland-style and whose body was found Wednesday, was going to be killed.

Dr. Shulman added in the legislature that police did not know who was going to do the killing and subsequently were not able to prevent it.

The body of Jack Ernest Raymond Richardson, 43, was found early Wednesday in an abandoned barn near Toronto.

Police had said that he may have been connected with a flourishing loan-sharking racket in Toronto. They said he was shot after apparently being abducted at gunpoint in Toronto several days ago.

About six hours after the body was found, police arrested Howard Daniel Dean, 39, of Toronto and charged him with murder punishable by life imprisonment.

Dean is formerly of Belleville.

Dr. Shulman, replying as an opposition member to the government's speech from the throne presented last week, said Ontario police need more intelligence officers and more equipment in order to prevent crime.

Inside the legislature, he said police intelligence units are still so undermanned that they are unable to give proper protection.

In his 20-minute speech before the legislature adjourned, Dr. Shulman alleged scandal in the Metropolitan Toronto borough of York, predicted that the government would not introduce new liquor legislation this session, and said Canadians would lose tens of millions of dollars because there is no adequate provincial protection for those who speculate in the commodities market.

Speculators in the commodities market deal mainly in future prices for agricultural products and some minerals.

Urban and Rural Areas Planned

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's plan for its North Pickering project include both an agricultural and urban community, Housing Minister Donald Irvine said Thursday.

Mr. Irvine told the legislature that fundamental decisions on future planning for the 25,000-acre site have been made.

"The recommended plan will provide for two communities," he said. "An urban community with a population of 70,000 to 90,000 persons located on the Oshawa side of the West Duffin Creek, which bisects the site, and an agricultural community of 17,000 acres located in the area west of the West Duffin Creek."

He said that studies showed urban land should be oriented towards Oshawa, with a maximum separation from Metropolitan Toronto.

"The two-community concept forms the basis of the plan which will be submitted to the North Pickering Development Corporation when it is established."

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT!

The Quinte Canada Farm Labour Pool would like to assist you, the Dairy Farmers, in solving your summertime labor problems. In order to have a general idea of how many farmers need summer help, we prepared a questionnaire and mailed approximately 1800 of these to dairy farmers in the district. Of the 1800 questionnaire, 30 were returned.

Is this any indication of the need of a Farm Labor Pool?

Nixon Says Davis Hides Behind Skirts

TORONTO (CP) — Liberal Leader Robert Nixon accused Premier William Davis Thursday of "hiding behind the skirts" of Progressive Conservative backbencher Margaret Scrivener in attacks on federal government housing polisy.

Mrs. Scrivener, housing parliamentary assistant, charged Wednesday that federal housing funds are being withheld from Ontario as part of a "dirty tricks" campaign against the Conservative government.

Mr. Nixon described the remarks as "scurrilous and irresponsible" and asked in the legislature whether Ontario Housing Minister Donald Irvine and the premier agreed with those views.

Mr. Irvine told the house "my parliamentary assistant and myself discuss all matters"

Viet Cong Army Closes in on Hue

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese forces closed in today on the old imperial capital of Hue with heavy attacks that over-ran government positions on the city's flanks.

The attacks coincided with a Viet Cong announcement that they had established governments in the central highlands provinces of Pleiku, Kontum and Darlac, abandoned by the South Vietnamese.

In Cambodia, two United States cargo planes were reported hit by rockets, forcing suspension of the American airlift. The U.S. embassy said there were no American casualties and the airlift was expected to resume later in the day.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong gunners continued shelling attacks against Hue, virtually deserted after most of its 200,000 inhabitants fled south, and attacked government positions on three sides of the city. The Saigon military command said two infantry positions manned by a total of 300 troops were over-run.

Military sources said the attacks against government positions around Hue were the heaviest in days and believed to be the first stage of a massive drive against the city.

Official sources have said the government plans to abandon Hue. The Saigon government has already decided to pull back civil servants and not resupply units defending the perimeter of the city.

Hue was invaded by the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong at the start of the 1968 Tet Offensive. Savage fighting raged through the streets for 26 days before the South Vietnamese army and its U.S. allies regained control. Hundreds of U.S. Marines were killed and wounded in the battle.

South Vietnamese officials said more than 5,000 Vietnamese were massacred, many of them government officials. Afterward, scores of mass graves were uncovered, some of the victims had been buried alive, hands wired behind their backs, rags stuffed into their mouths.

The Saigon government has written off the provinces of Quang Tri and Thua Thien, which includes Hue, in the northern quarter of South Vietnam; Kontum, Pleiku, Darlac and Phu Bon in the central highlands and Phuoc Long and Binh Long in the Third Military Region that includes Saigon and 11 surrounding provinces.

Government forces have abandoned all of the provinces except Thua Thien. All except one, Darlac, were given up without a fight.

The provinces lost by the government represent slightly more than a fifth of South Vietnam's total area of 66,263 square miles and had a total population of nearly two million, roughly 10 per cent of the country's population.

About 250,000 refugees have fled the abandoned provinces, thousands of them still making their way through North Vietnamese and Viet Cong fire, to coastal enclaves still held by the government.

In Cambodian fighting, heavy insurgent attacks continued against Neak Luong and Banam southeast of Phnom Penh. Military sources said both of the Mekong River towns were holding.

Western military sources said the situation in Battambang province was serious as insurgents pressured 500 government troops in Battambang City, 180 miles northwest of Phnom Penh.

Police at Phnom Penh airport said a rocket caused minor damage to an Air Cambodge DC-4 with 40 passengers aboard and none of injured. The flight was cancelled.

Sources in Phnom Penh and Washington say the U.S. government is preparing to extend the emergency rice airlift from Saigon to Phnom Penh for another month. The original 30-day emergency airlift expires March 27.

But a parallel lift of fuel and ammunition from Thailand, scheduled to run through June 30, appeared in jeopardy.

Cardinal Leaves Lachine Parish

MONTREAL (CP) — Paul-Emile Cardinal Leger has left the post of parish priest that he took up here three months ago to help African lepers.

The cardinal, who will be 71 on April 26, left his parish Thursday and moved to a convent in suburban Lachine, a spokesman said Friday. He is to leave on a six-week trip to Africa April 7.

"He had the idea he could lead a parish, conduct a ministry and continue his good works," Father Riendeau said. "He's a man who is never satisfied and when he saw all the work there was to do in the parish, it bothered him a little."

Cardinal Leger retired as archbishop of Montreal in 1967 to devote himself to working among the poor and leprous of Africa.

He returned to Montreal last year because, he said, he could be more useful raising money in Canada for his work than in Africa.

Hooker Wed

TORONTO (CP) — Xaviera Hollander, author of The Happy Hooker, said Friday she was married in October to Frank Allen, a Toronto antiques dealer.

The marriage "was for love, not for immigration reasons," she said.

She said she is taking drama lessons while waiting for appeal of her deportation from Canada.

Labor Congress Urges Tax Cuts

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Labor Congress has predicted that social unrest will continue in the coming 12 months, fuelled by high inflation and unemployment in a stagnant economy.

The 1.9-million-member labor group, in its annual brief to the federal cabinet, urges the government to respond to the economic situation with increased tax reductions to low and middle-income Canadians.

The 20,000-word brief, to be presented Monday to Prime Minister Trudeau and members of his cabinet, says there is a strong possibility the country will have an inflation rate of about 12 per cent acompanied by an unemployment rate of seven per cent in the coming year.

The congress said the wages of all workers, both organized and unorganized, should be fully-indexed in relation to increases in the consumer price index.

It predicted virtually no real increase in economic growth in the next 12 months and a continuation in the decline of exports.

The labor body reiterated its support for a form of guaranteed annual income but said it should not replace social insurance programs such as unemployment insurance and government pension plans.

"The integration of unemployment insurance into a one-shot social security scheme as envisaged by some advocates of the guaranteed annual income would be, in our view, a mistake," the brief said.

Business groups which supported inclusion of these social insurance programs into the guaranteed annual income were interested in doing away with or decreasing employer contributions which currently assist in financing of the plans, the congress said.

Under the current taxation system, if the guaranteed annual income were supported by the government, it would be the workers and low-income Canadians who paid for the plan, the congress said.

Tradesman Unhappy

OTTAWA (CP) — The tentative contract agreement reached between the Public Service Alliance and the government this week has led disgruntled federal tradesmen here to seek a better way of negotiating salaries.

One alternative wanted by some of the tradesmen is a splitting-up of the present 18,600-member general labor and trades (GL) group into separate trades and labor units.

The group held selective strikes for a month, disrupting postal and air services in some places and halting grain shipments.

Only 5,000 of the GLT group are tradesmen and while the whole bargaining unit is winning average pay raises of 18 per cent beginning in March, the trades-electricians, plumbers and carpenters—are getting less. An Ottawa electrician, for example, gets a 12.3-per-cent raise the first year.

The 11.25-per-cent raise provided for the second year of the agreement is across-the-board to all employees.

Tradesmen in Ottawa are holding a rally Sunday and say they want to get across to the alliance that they reject the settlement unanimously, a spokesman said Friday.

The group will present a petition from the tradesmen to the alliance.

Results of a ratification vote on the tentative agreement now are expected to be announced Thursday morning. Union leaders expect the vote will be close.

N.B. Budget $1 Billion

FREDERICTON (CP) — New Brunswick Finance Minitser Edison Stairs brought down a $1-billion budget Friday he hopes will help alleviate both unemployment and inflation.

Mr. Stairs told members of the legislature the government expects to spend about $158 million in labor-intensive capital projects in the next 12 months.

Combined with non-capital expenditures of $810.9 million and loans and advances of $30.2 million, capital projects will push spending to nearly $1.1 billion, an increase of about 13 per cent over 1974.

A deficit of $63.7 million will increase the net debt to about $492 million after sinking fund earnings are deducted.

Outside the house, Mr. Stairs said the government program could probably be more effective in creating jobs and fighting inflation, but was concerned with striking a balance.

However, he said the tax cuts planned by the government, a new prescription drug program for those over 65, higher social assistance payments, and housing aid were all important anti-inflationary measures.

Monarchy Abolished

ADDIS ABABA (AP) — The leftist military government has abolished Ethiopia's 3,000-year-old monarchy, which began with the Queen of Sheba and ended with 82-year-old Emperor Haile Selassie.

Selassie was deposed Sept. 12 and his eldest son, Asfa Tossen, 58, was named crown prince.

But the government said in a brief statement broadcast Friday that Wossen's appointment has been annulled and all royal ranks abolished.

CGE in Trenton To Lay Off 150

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — About 150 hourly-rated workers at Canadian General Electric Company Ltd. will be laid off next week as the plant shuts down in the face of continued slump in its electrical motor sales.

Gordon Young, president of Local 509, United Electrical (UE) Radio and Machine Workers of America today blamed the temporary one-week layoff on a slump in sales in electrical motors.

The plant shutdown comes after a series of three layoffs since January 1975 that whittled the plant's work force down from about 250 to 170 workers.

As recently as last week, a company manager Ray Baldin announced the indefinite layoff of another 28 hourly rated employees.

Neither Mr. Baldin or other company officials could be reached for comment today.

Mr. Young said the layoff is effective the week starting Sunday March 23. Only 16 workers — maintenance staff and those on one small production line — will remain at work.

He said he did not know if next week's layoff is the first of a series of one-week-a-month shutdowns planned by the company.

"And the company isn't divulging this if they know," he said.

The local president said the layoff is "related directly to the falling off of housing starts. At least three or four motors go into every new house built."

Trenton's CGE plant manufactures sump pump motors and small electrical motors for household washing machinees and dryers.

Council Seeks More Data

PICTON — Town council has voted to notify Picton's committee of adjustment that, in future, notices of hearings should be accompanied by background briefs.

The decision was made after councillor Richard Byers suggested council should be represented at an appeal hearing to be held by the Ontario Municipal Board regarding a proposed expansion for a Picton nursing home.

It was agreed that should council representatives attend they could not speak for all of council as council as a whole lacked the information needed to take a position in the matter.

Kentwood Nursing Homes Ltd. was granted approval for an addition covering more than the maximum 35 per cent of land permitted by a town bylaw.

The approval was given by the town's committee of adjustment but residents near the nursing home appealed the decision. An OMB hearing is scheduled for April 3, 1975.

Mr. Byers observed if council is not represented, the OMB is likely to decidecouncil takes no position in the issue.

Notice of the appeal hearing was received and filed with the provision that any inter-OMB is likely to decide council takes no position in the issue.

Education Beat

Treat the Cause Not the Result

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

The proposal to set up a special class to prevent pregnant students from leaving school will undoubtedly raise a few eyebrows on the board of education as well as in the community.

The development of the class has come from the special education section in conjunction with home-hospital instructor Margaret Flett. She estimated there were more than 30 students who left the Hastings system last year due to unwanted pregnancies.

The program proposes to establish a class which would meet three times a week for academic subjects. Additional non-teaching personnel, such as a public health nurse, could also be used in the program.

The proposal has merit and one which also demonstrates a sense of humanity and compassion for students who find themselves in this dilemma.

However, Hastings educators should not just view this program as a cosmetic solution to a very complex problem. Alone, the program is simply attempting to cure a symptom.

The question that should be facing the board of education and educators is why in this day and age of sexual freedom do students not take advantage of modern contraception?

No doubt the answers involve complicated sociological and psychological variables. But most boards, like many other bodies do not have the time nor the personnel to pursue these courses.

The dissemination of knowledge about contraception is not the cure-all to the problems facing the younger generation.

However, it is necessary and one which deserves the attention of the board of education and its administrators. If the schools assume responsibility for sex education then they must also accept responsibility for the teaching of contraception.

There is very little excuse for a high school student to become pregnant when contraception is so readily available.

Once the board is satisfied it is handling this problem then it can honestly set up a program which will help the students who become pregnant.

Unwanted pregnancies are not due to ignorance. But rather they are the result of fear, frustration and confusion over a responsibility to others.

If the board truly wants to help these students then it should begin with a reexamination of its policy and thinking on this aspect of sex education.

The board is not solely responsible for the state of human sexuality in the secondary school but there is no doubt it could take a leadership role.

Caucus Takes Different Twist

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

It was downright embarrassing.

With sharpened pencils poised over an expectant sheet of paper, the members of the fourth estate had nothing to scribble.

Trenton council simply up and left its council chamber this week. And the press was left sitting, mouths agape at the suddenness of council's move into caucus.

It didn't even have the consideration to kick the press out. It adjourned to a small committee room off the council chamber. For 35 minutes, the press sat in an empty chamber with nothing but sharpened pencils to twirl and thumbs to twiddle.

It was embarrassing. We had been slighted. Why we couldn't even feel outraged at the treatment, we, as members of the aforementioned fourth estate, received. Instead of the press getting out, council did.

Generally, we are simply dismissed and must bark at the closed door. We immediately (by reflex action) trot out the platitudes: The public has a right to know. Council business is public business.

No feelings of self-righteous indignation for us this time. The hounds were outfoxed. The tables were turned, as we the proverbial "bad guys" were left on a vacant "home turf".

But isn't council's latest behavior a mite odd?

In this case, the complaint isn't with council going into caucus (that's another old story entirely), but with the method.

Council walked into chambers for a meeting called specifically for discussion of the capital budget. Councillors milled about for some five minutes and then the caucus session was sprung — to discuss the current budget.

The reason, as Mayor Bob Patrick explained was because dollar items in the current budget, which had a bearing on the capital budget, were not set figures and "not in the best interest to reveal".

So for 35 minutes we sat, wasting our time.

At this point, another argument the press often uses can be called in. We have better things to do. For example, we could be watching another televised exhibition of the Toronto Maple Leafs' questionable skills.

Councillors, Gentlemen. Please. The teeth of this old saw, the keys of this old typewriter, will soon dull if more care isn't taken on your part.

You see, we reporters employ a general rule of thumb: Don't write too often on the same subject. You'll bore your readers.

Repitition, especially on the subject of closed versus open council meeting, also wears thin those typewriter keys.

Despite this, the rule has been broken on occasion, and will be again.

Watch this space in future for the continuing saga of the fox-hunt: the council vs fourth estate debate.

Quinte Apple Production Could Rise 40 Per Cent

By CASH MAHAFFY
Staff Reporter

A 35 to 40 per cent increase in apple production in the Quinte area is expected in the next few years says Glenn Rouse, general manager of Quinte Fruit Growers Ltd. Trenton.

The Trenton storage packaging and marketing operation now handles about 200,000 bushels of apples a year mainly for its 25-30 shareholders who are growers in the area. This is expected to increase substantially as young trees come into production.

Of the 200,000 bushels that are stored packed or marketed by Quinte Fruit Growers approximately 120,000 bushels are packaged as eating or cooking apples. The balance goes to processors for use in sauce or slices or to be used in juice.

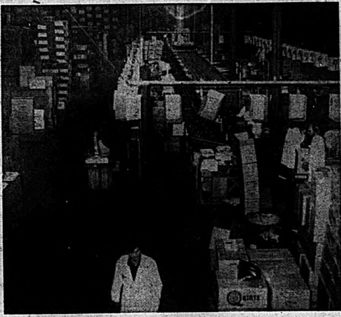
By far the most popular apple variety in the Quinte area is McIntosh with Northern spy and red delicious following in that order. New varieties however are being planted and the harvest of red delicious is expected to increase.

In the Quinte operation one of the most up-to-date in the province apples are stored in two ways before being packed or sold to processors.

Apples to be handled fairly quickly are held in cold storage — up to 200,000 bushels to a room. Those that will be kept for a longer period are put into sealed storage rooms where the quantity of oxygen and carbon dioxide in the air is controlled as well as the temperature to put the apples into a state of suspended animation.

In this conttrolled atmosphere apples can be stored from one harvest to the beginning of the next with no ill effects.

In fact said Mr. Rouse there are as many good eating apples available now as there were at the height of last fall's harvest.



Apples Everywhere

Storage, packing and marketing operation of Quinte Fruit Growers, Trenton, handles about 200,000 bushels of apples a year now and it is expected to grow as many young trees in the area come into production. Apples being packed now are just as fresh as when they came off the tree last fall, general manager Glen fall, general manager Glenn Rouse says.

Gardening Column

Patience Most Important In Planting of Saplings

By ROSS HAWTHORNE

Since we talked last week about the role of your outdoor broadloom in your personal decorating plan, this week we'll look at your garden "ceiling" and the patient fitting of trees into that plan.

And I stress the word "patient" because if there is one place in the whole world of gardening where patience is a virtue, it is in the planting of trees. And so first, let's realistically look at trees and their role in your personal landscape plan.

Among nature's many rules there are two we could all apply to our own lives — she insists upon order and she wont be rushed. As a result, she refuses to produce a tree that will soar from sapling to a 50-footer in a few short years. Oh sure, there are some trees that grow faster than others. Plant a nut tree such as a copper beech and a golden weeping willow at the same time and the willow will have soared, spread, died and be nothing but a memory before your grandchildren are harvesting the copper beech's first crop of nuts. Which brings us to another point to remember — the faster a tree grows to maturity — the shorter its life span.

And here are some other thoughts to remember in deciding between slow-growing and fast-growing trees.

First, the slow growers are more expensive to buy, for one reason. They must be cared for longer in the nursery before they reach saleable size. But the slow growers are of course, longer lived, generally more handsome in their appearance and cause fewer problems and mess than the fast growers.

Second, the fast growers just don't take the time to develop the structural strength of the slow growers. Consequently you'll never see the mess and tangle of broken branches under a slow growing little leaf linden that you'll see under a fast growing poplar.

Third, the slow growers are far more resistant to insect damage and disease than the fast growers. A weeping willow is undoubtedly a beautiful addtion if you have a large lot. But don't sling a hammock or set a picnic table under it or you can find yourself covered with those little black slugs that love it so well. And whatever you do, don't plant a fast grower near drains, sidewalks or driveways, or you could be in for costly repair bills.

By now I probably sound like I'm against the fast growing species. I'm not. I just want you to know what you're getting into before you get into it and perhaps strike a happy medium between the fast and slow growers with trees such as the Silver Maple or Norway maple or cut leaf Weeping Birch.

But we've been talking about only shade trees. And shade is only one of the reasons for planting trees. Actually there are four in all: 1-shade; 2-screening or privacy; 3-decoration; and 4-yield of fruit or nuts crops. Now, of course in many trees, these functions overlap. For example, a full-sized apple tree provides both shade and yield. A flowering crab, both screening and decorating. But what I want you to do is think of these four basic functions and select those trees that best fulfill the specific function you have in mind.

Where do you want shade? Where do you want screening? And where do you want decoration?

And don't decide simply by walking around your yard. In addition, walk around the inside of your home and look out every window. What windows do you want shaded or screened? Where do you want to see a flowering tree? And then, with the general locations defined, it's time to get specific — to pin-point the exact location of each tree, with a stake and rope. Place your stake where you think each tree should be planted and then with the rope trace circles with diameters the width of the spread of each tree at maturity. And I'll make you a bet. You'll have to shift each location because your mature tree would be too close to a wall, or fence, or something else. And don't forget to look overhead — for power lines.

Cows Should be Fed According to Milk Output

More and more Ontario dairy farmers are wondering how to combat rising feed costs and still keep milk production high. "Feed cows according to milk production levels," suggests Dr. G. K. MacLeod, professor in the animal and poultry science department at the Ontario Agricultural College. "While underfeeding energy and protein causes the milk production of high producers to drop, the over-condition of heifers and of cows producing less milk indicates their milk production could not drop if they were given less high energy feed."

If possible feed each cow grain according to its production record and accepted guidelines, such as those in the Ontario ministry of agriculture and food factsheets, Feeding for More Economical Milk Prodution (Order No. 74-066) and Guidelines for Feeding Dairy Cattle (Order No. 74-020), available from county and district agricultural offices.

"Remember though, when a pound of grain costs as much as, or more than, a pound of milk nets, you should consider restricting grain to all, except for the high producers," says Dr. MacLeod. If labor and housing requirements make individual feeding impossible, feed cattle in groups, moving them to lower grain groups as their production drops.

Canine Population Seems To be Having Last Woof

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Town council may swell its chest when reviewing its animal control program, but if the number of dogs still at large is a yardstick of success, the canine corps has had the last woof.

Picton's dog catcher, a Stirling resident who psyches out local mutts with spot checks at unpredictable hours, receives $2,000 a year for his services.

In addition to this sum, there is an extra $15 for each dog apprehended by the animal control officer.

Although the town obviously is spending a tidy sum to eliminate stray dogs and pets unlawfully at large the program has not worked.

Dogs still run at large in Picton toasting hydrants and defacing lawns.

A number of dogs continually run at large on Main St. E. with their freedom apparently unchallenged by the animal control officer.

There are rumors that several of the dogs have been impounded and fines paid by the owners who promptly freed them to run agan. It is the apparent philosophy of these dog owners that Fido was born free and if he can stay that way for a few dollars more then it's better to pay the fines and let him run.

One Picton woman told The Intelligencer she contacted town police when a pack of three dogs attacked her cat on her property.

She was told the dogs' owner had ignored previous warnings and it would be necessary to lay a charge. She agreed to this but several weeks later the dogs remain free in the neighborhood.

To the eye of any ratepayer acquainted with Picton's dog populace, it soon becomes clear that there are a number of canine repeat offenders.

Certain dogs seem to be perpetually at large. There may be brief periods when the animals are tied, usually after a brush with the dog catcher. Most of the time, however, the dogs run free.

It's time town council re-examined its animal control program and the cost to the ratepayer for a service that does not measure up.

At one point when dog days were a hot issue in council it was agreed that the animal control officer should submit a monthly report of "arrests" and fines levied.

This was done for about three months then the reports stopped. At least they stopped reaching the level of town council's monthly sessions.

It's time the town of Picton stopped pussyfooting around. Pet owners who let their dogs run despite repeated warnings and fines should not be permitted to get away with it. It's unfair to the dog owners who do compy with the rules.

If Picton's animal control cannot be improved then the money spent for a dog catcher should be removed from the town's budget.

QUESTION:
What can you say when calling at the church-residence-or Funeral Home to convey consolation to the bereaved family.
ANSWER:
Unless you are especially gifted with word — just say "I'm sorry". The fact that you took time to call in person is sincere evidence that you wish to share the sorrow and pay respects to the life that has gone. Be prepared to listen. There is valuable therapy involved when a fellow human being can talk about a great loss.
QUESTION:
Is there an extra charge for conducting the funeral service in the church?
ANSWER:
No! By custom our charges are the same whether the funeral is held in a church or in our chapel.

P.C. Hatchet Man Tom Cossitt Runs into Flak

Prime Minister, Cabinet Colleagues, Getting a Bad Time from The Press

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — It was not much of a week for being Prime Minister Trudeau.

There he was, over in Europe, touring those four capitals, visiting His Holiness the Pope, and working his heart out, purred Acting Prime Minister Mitchell Sharp, "for us all," in trying to nail down that "contractual link" with the Common Market that he never quite seems able to define in clearly understandable terms.

Comes up the news that out of his first 12 days when he is grinding away "for us all," he takes four days off to ski — and away goes the lousy press again — the poor guy just can't win.

It was not much of a week for being Transport Minister Jean Marchand either. No Sir.

Takes objection to criticism of his department he admits is in an awful "mess," charging the critics are "racist," and — you know — away goes the lousy press again. Just can't beat those guys.

There they are in print and on radio and television hinting that jolly Jean is clowning round in the Commons, and when he hammers them as anti-Quebec "racists," they have the poor taste to ask if "racism" is involved in criticism of all his English-speaking cabinet colleagues, too.

Nor was it all that great a week for being Solicitor General Warren Allmand and his manful efforts to explain how come the RCMP somehow had to wait six months for "political clearance" to investigate the Hamilton Harbour contract scandals which have haunted Labor Minister Munro and finally driven him, in a state of exhaustion, to take sanctuary in the big National Defence Hospital.

He works up a head of steam over some smart-alec newsmen who keep badgering him for answers as to where, besides Quebec City, the scandals have reached and — sure enough — away goes that lousy press again.

All Allmand said was that the investigation was extending beyond Hamilton and Quebec City, and those nosey newshawks, latching onto his little revelation, want to know where, when, how, and who.

You just cant figure those guys out, prodding and prying into the government's business and asking all those embarrassing questions.

It was no great week either for being Government House Leader Mitchell Sharp, busy trying to keep store when the boss is relaxing on the ski slopes in between VIP receptions and dinners in London, Rome, Bonn, The Hague and Dublin.

His colleagues in the Commons — especially those rotten Conservatives and dumb New Democrats — just won't take him seriously.

They snicker that he is polishing apples and playing up to the boss when he piles all that praise on the modest head of the absent Prime Minister.

Poke a little fun at him and — bang, you're right on — away goes the lousy press again.

Shucks, it is so undignified when those shabby, shaggy press types ignore him and don't pay the proper attention protocol demands be given an Acting Prime Minister.

But if it was not much of a week for being Pierre Trudeau, Warren Allmand, John Munro, Jean Marchand or Mitchell Sharp, it was a great week for being Thomas Charles Cossitt, BA, MA, Conservative MP for Leeds.

His family had been active, working grassroots Liberals for 100 years — he himself was longtime president and important financial backer of that Eastern Ontario Grit riding association — when suddenly, three years ago, Pierre Trudeau turned him off.

"I figured," says the 51-year-old Brockville insurance man "that he was destroying the country."

So Tom Cossitt turned Tory, took the seat away from the Liberals, and turned his undivided attention on the Prime Minister.

Last week for Tom Cossitt was like almost any week since he entered the Commons, a good week.

Good because there was not a day went by that he was not asking questions about the Prime Minister's fancy lifestyle costing the taxpayers such a pretty penny — was not inquiring about bilingualism dividing the country — and was not probing into Trudeau "cronyism" of elevating friends into High Places with salaries to match.

Such a good week it was that a Liberal backbencher, passing Tom Cossitt in the corridors of the Commons, snarled at him: "You lousy, rotten son of a bitch."

Hardly parliamentary, what?

Truancy is A Problem

There is something wrong with our edcational system.

Truancy is becoming a problem of such proportion in Hastings County that the public school board has hired its own attendance officer.

Separate school trustees after hearing of one student with only 11 days of school attendance to his credit since Christmas — are considering a similar move.

In Metropolitan Toronto's secondary school system the dropout problem is so acute that one in four students who enters high school never graduates.

Much of the criticism levelled at our educators in the past has come from outside the system.

But when the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation says it is considering favoring establishment of a "minimum core of compulsory subjects", those within the classroom appear to be moving closer to those critics who have been bemoaning a lack in today's graduates of a sound knowledge of "the three Rs".

Since last October, an ad hoc community, largely comprised of Hastings county educators, has been holding meetings to investigate alternatives to the existing system.

Basically, what the committee is finding out is that rigidly-defined education does not go hand-in-hand with our rapidly diversifying society.

As Alvin Toffler tells us in "Future Shock", one doesn't train students in skills that will be out of date by the time they graduate.

One of the committee's proposal's even borrows a leaf from Toffler's book, suggesting that more education should be taking place throughout the community, outside the classrooms, per se.

Unfortunately, at the last Hastings County committee meeting, it was generally agreed that students not be invited to attend, since they might find themselves unable "to speak freely."

We've heard today's youth accused of a lot of things.

Being afraid to speak freely isn't one of them.

Housing Needs

When it comes to housing, there has never been a time in the postwar era — and it's lengthening all the time — that the subject has not been a matter of urgency.

Urgent where municipalities and builders are concerned — and especially urgent for people.

Belleville's older housing is getting older and space for new homes is becoming increasingly limited.

There remain a shortage of new housing at a reasonable cost — at a price young people with small children, or with hopes of starting a family, can afford.

It is all the more disappointing therefore to see the government rejecting a request to have Belleville and surrounding townships designated a "housing action area."

On the credit side, however, a Queen's Park spokesman is quoted as saying that due to the number of inquiries from communities, the ministry is considering enacting a second phase.

Belleville, he says, will "receive due consideration."

This does not mean we should hold back with prodding of the government machinery, with a view to getting action.

Housing as ever is a priority.

Legendary Holiday Spot

Massassaga Park is a legendary name in Quinte area vacation annals. It was mentioned in our Looking Backward column in recent days — a note about it being opened for the season back in 1925.

In the past year or two the Prince Edward Conservation Authority, with the aid of students, has been carrying out maintenance work at the park. Scouts have camped there in the summer and it has seen snowmobile use in winter, on designated trails.

Hunters and trappers have been less welcome visitors, but then that is a hazard of isolated spots where supervision is not feasible on a year-round basis.

Both Mrs. Helen Dougan, secretary-treasurer of the Authority, and Ian Balsllie, coordinator of the Massassaga project, point out that reopening of the park as it once was will have to await completion of an access road. This is hampered by lack of funds and other priorities, but Mr. Balsllie speaks of centennial year of 1978 as a target date.

Meanwhile the Authority officials say the area is there for the visiting, but point out that there are no facilities of the kind that we may expect when Massassaga emerges from the cloak of legend and once again becomes a popular local vacation spot.

PM and Monarchy

Prime Minister Trudeau might be the last person one might expect to defend the monarchy.

But as far back as his successful 1968 bid for the Liberal Party leadership until as recently as a BBC television interview, Mr. Trudeau has shown he defends constitutional monarchy "until someone comes up with a better idea."

That, he told his interviewer, was why the statue of Queen Victoria that stands in the shadow of the east block of the Canadian Parliament Buildings has not been removed, as many similar reminders of a colonial past have been erased in other Commonwealth locales.

All in all, agreed the prime minister, it appears to be a good thing for a country to have a non-political symbol at the top.

Government Sparks and Pizazz

TORONTO — This session has started out like a long fireworks display. You know, one of those affairs where first rockets are sent up, then exploding mushrooms and a long series of different types of colorful displays all building up to the big blow-up, the grand ginale, when the sky is filled with a myriad of color and great volumes of explosives blasting all over the spectrum.

The government appears to have programmed its approach for the session—and the expected election—along these lines.

Each sitting day it releases an explosive, one new bit of legislation—such as John White's bill on election spending or Allan Grossman's royal commission on electrical energy.

Sometimes there may be two, but never any more than that.

Its carefully planned schedule is to let one bunch of sparks fly each day.

And then there will be the grand display: the budget on April 7.

It will be the big show—the sky filler.

And from then on presumably we will be able to consider that the election is underway.

This strategy, of course, is planned to get the maximum impact from the government activity.

A headline a day would be the objective.

The question is can it, or will it, work?

And there is only one person, or one group of persons, who can answer this.

That is you and your fellow voters.

So far as the house here is concerned it is working.

There is a feeling here, and one which is growing, that those recent dramatic polls aren't going to stand up.

It is only a feeling that one senses but still the emotion is there that the Liberals perhaps have crested and that from now on they will begin to slip.

Only time—and you — can tell.

One interesting point is that if the Liberals do begin to slip they will be following their history.

Twice in the last 30 years they have been within a couple of points of the government just before election campaigns.

And each time they have dropped off dramatically.

The Department of Lands and Forests inaugurated a harvesting project four years ago under a special licence — but the big fish are still plentiful. They were caught near the Murray Canal, according to conservation officer Fred MacDonald, Point Anne.

The Belleville Public School Board passed a resolution at their last meeting urging increased facilities for the training of teachers and calling for financial assistance to be given trainees attending teachers' colleges, either through scholarships or by direct payments from the government. Ontario's Record

Political Longevity And Prosperity Too

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

North America's longest lasting government is in Ontario, a Conservative provincial one which first came to power in August, 1943, long before the existing federal governments of Canada, the U.S. or Mexico or their leaders had ever been heard of.

Ontario provincial Premier William avis, 44, was a stripling boy of 12 when Ontario's Tories came to power. It was the same year Canadian troops and American GIs were slugging through Italy and when the late president Franklin D. Roosevelt and Sir Winston Churchill along with the late Canadian prime minister Mackenzie King, met at Quebec Citys wartime summit conference.

That's incredible political longevity. But you won't find the Ontario Tories' record in the Guinness Book of Records because Ontario is not a sovereign national state, even though by itself, the huge province remains the largest and most industrialized part of Canada.

Stripped from the Canadian nation, Ontario would rank well ahead of nearly all of the developing or "emerging" nations in the United Nations.

It is physically much bigger than nearly all of them. In terms of productivity as well as affluence and geographical size, Ontario is a "Brazil of the north."

Even successive Tory provincial policies relative to such programs as industrial development and welfare, are similar to those used in advanced developing nations.

Premier Davis's predecessors in the premier's office since the Second World War, masterminded the arrival of thousands of American and European branch plants.

These have largely given this giant province, a state within a state, three times the size of Texas, its still current prosperity and industrial thrust.

Ontario under Premier Davis has become a truly "imperial" province with its own resident trade promotion offices (15 of them) in the U.S., Europe and even in Latin America, competing openly for business with the less-aggressive trade commission outlets of Canada's federal government in most of the same overseas areas.

A few years ago, former External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp phoned Premier Davis requesting him not to open "Ontario House" in Washington with the large Canadian Embassy (including a federal commercial operations staff) already there because the Americans might get the wrong idea bout a truly non-existent "Ontario separatism."

Everyone in that big nervous U.S. capital knew all about Quebec separatism and might ask if the proposed Ontario House meant Canada was falling apart?

Quebec does not have a Quebec House in Washington though like Ontario, operates its own trade promotion outlets in key markets around the world.

In fact the problem of intentionally or otherwise establishing a strong provincial identity abroad has been attempted more positively by Quebec City than by Queen's Park.

Widow Shouldn't be Hasty

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

The financial and business decisions facing a widow are often as demanding as any person—man or woman—is likely to meet in a lifetime.

They are all the more demanding because they must be made at a time when a woman is least inclined to make such decisions, and when she is for the first time deprived of the partner with whom she is accustomed to sharing financial decisions.

In the first article of this three-part series, there was a list of steps that the widow should take as soon as possible in order to ensure that she receives all the financial benefits that her late husband had planned for her, and to which she is entitled through legislation of one sort or another.

Perhaps the biggest decision of all is the choice of a settlement under the deceased's life-insurance policy.

The booklet, Information For Widows (prepared by the Life Insurance Marketing and Research Association, 170 Sigourney St., Hartford, Conn., 061055, and available through the Canadian Life Officers Association and life-insurance representatives in Canada) warns against making a hasty financial decision.

It notes that a widow can tell the life-insurance company that she needs a certain number of dollars immediately, and that the company is to hold the remainder a interest until further instructions.

Here are common settlement options offered by most life insurers to beneficiaries:

—Interest only: Under this option, the widow would continue drawing interest while the company holds the principal. The disadvantage is that the widow could probably obtain a higher yield elsewhere, on an equally riskless investment.

—Life income or annuity: The company promises to pay a fixed amount periodically to the widow for life.

—Fixed installments: Proceeds are paid in agreed amounts, over an agreed period, in accordance with the beneficiary's needs and wishes.

A lawyer is the best source of advice on the steps to be followed concerning probate, which is the procedure for the orderly distribution of estates. The probate will require:

—Husband's full name and date of death.

—Names and addresses of children, if any.

—A copy of the marriage certificate. If the deceased had been married previously, the widow should provide this information.

—The will, when one exists.

Jesus Made It Evident Love Religion's Essence

By
Dr. Gordon C. Smyths

In the global village Roman Catholics channel material aid through "Caritas International", based in Rome. Most Protestant denominations in Canada use "Church World Service", an agency of the World Council of Churches, based in Geneva.

Is there a distinctively Christian dimension to material help? Certain guiding principles, illuminated by the light of the Gospel emerge to answer the question.

First, in Matthew 25: 31-46 Jesus made it clear that love is the essence of true religion, the ultimate test of character, the standard of judgment. "As you did it to one of the least of these my brethren, you did it to me."

Wherever a child cries from hunger or a man cannot clothe his family or a refugee has no place to lay his head, we come face to face with an imperative of the Christian faith.

Second, what we have we are supposed to share. The parable of the talents speaks of the care with which we should administer what has been entrusted to us.

The following figures are typical of what mission money did in 1974: $2.50 supplied chickens for an egg producers co-operative in Zambia; $5 supplied a bag of fertilizer for a Third World farmer; $1,000 supplied a second hand pick-up to get crops to market; $5,00 supplied a health care mobile unit to six communities in India.

Considering some of the things that we do with our money, those figures should spark our imagination as well as produce a twinge of conscience. Our plenty is not our own but represents a stewardship that we are privileged to exercise for the benefit of others.

Third, giving is essentially and finally sacramental. The symbol of "Church World Service" is hands crossed beneath the cross. We love because God first loved us. Since sensitive Christians already live in the economy of eternity, a sign of the fulness of life that we have found in Jesus Christ is the sacrificial sharing of what we have or what we are.

In Christian charity (love) we have dealings with our fellow men. But ultimately, whether we give or receive, we are answerable to the Lord. According to the Gospel that he exemplified there are no paupers and no patrons but only brothers and sisters in this world, and in his heavenly kingdom.

Priest Spends Summer As Blackjack Dealer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — From the chapel to the classroom to the blackjack table, Rev. Thomas Higgins, a Jesuit priest, carries his message to the people.

Father Higgins, 42, is assistant chaplain and professor at Loyola Marymount University in suburban Westchester. During the summer months he works as a blackjack dealer in Las Vegas.

In a recent interview at the university, Father Higgins said: "You can't preach Christ if your experience is entirely different from that of other people.

"If priests were cab drivers or bus drivers or if they took different jobs, they would be much more all kinds of people."

He has lived in hotels where rooms rent for $3 for two nights and where, he said: "It seemed like I was the only guy without a tattoo." Other hotel guests occasionally included prostitutes and pimps.

"I learned a lot about myself," the priest said. "I want to expand my horizons. I never want to stop growing."

Father Higgins worked the graveyard shift at the Royal Inn Casino. His customers sometimes would get his good counsel, although they seldom found out that the man behind the red satin tie was a priest.

Fired Principal Misses 'Battle'

VICTORIA (CP) — The boss of a large Victoria auto supply store is, like many of his employees, a reject of the British Columbia school system.

He is one of the more famous rejects, not because he dropped out but because he was thrown out when he was trying to keep others from dropping out.

John Young was fired as principal of Campbell River secondary school three years ago after a long wrangle with the school board.

The firing ended a 20-year career in education for a man who has a couple of university degrees, speaks three languages, spent a year at the Sorbonne in Paris and three years as a government adviser in Borneo on the Colombo Plan and has lectured in universities and colleges across Canada.

Mr. Young, 53, said in an interview he now is the victim of an informal blacklist by government, school districts and universities.

In his new profession, he rails against the system he loves and hates.

Teachers tend to havs "middle-of-the-road, Eichmann-type" school superintendents school superintendents throughout B.C. are "the most conservative people in education;" schools have "a bad psychological smell."

And the kids, especially if they're like the ones in his shop, tend to become bored and branded as failures by the schools.

"They have tremendous mechanical intelligence," said Mr. Young of some of his young friends and employees. "But because they don't have verbal intelligence like some who are good with words, they're earmarked by the system as being dumb.

"I'm interested in hiring them as mechanics because they're just brilliant."

The auto parts business seemed a natural for Mr. Young because he is mechanically-minded—he used to spend hours on weekends tuning and tinkering with cars.

"Am I going to die because I can't work in the schools any more? I've got to make a living. And if I don't approach this job with enthusiasm it will flop and I'll be out of a job."

He puts in 16-hour days selling auto parts, working in the garage and overseeing a staff of five in a franchise operation he acquired last fall.

"As a result of the hassle in Campbell River, I was branded as a left-wing radical when in fact I'm basically a humanist, pure and simple," he said.

"I'm an education reformer, and that's not radical, because it's so evident that the schools need reforming.

"But to the conservatives in education, I'm a major threat.

"The district superintendents appointed during the Socred rule are the most conservative people in education in B.C. and they're nearly all still there."

A great many teachers are just as conservative, Mr Young said. The creative, imaginative and independent-minded ones leave.

"The really good teachers are grossly underpaid, but there are thousands of teachers who are grossly overpaid because they don't belong there. They don't like kids. They're frightened of kids."

During his seven-year stint in Campbell River beginning in the 1960s, Mr. Young said, he didn't introduce a single new idea.

Efficient with a Crane

HAMILTON (CP) — For Fiona Currie and four other women, driving 35-ton cranes in a steel mill is all in the day's work. But their boss pays tribute to them as efficient operators.

All five work at Dominion Foundries and Steel Co. (Dofasco) as part of a move by the company to utilize women in fields formerly occupied only by men.

"To my knowledge this is the first time women have been used in this capacity since the war when there was a manpower shortage," said Bob Timson, crane foreman in the galvanizing section where 23-year-old Fiona works.

"We hired the first girls in September and have not regretted it for an instant. This can be a forerunner to much greater things in heavy industry for women."

There are 160 crane drivers in the galvanizing section and 60 altogether in Dofasco.

"Sure there were a few problems at first," said Mr. Timson. "Some guys tended to worry about women working cranes which dangled loads of 30 and 40 tons above their heads.

"But the girls have proved themselves. They are efficient and have shown beyond any doubt they can do the job as well as any man.

"They earn equal pay and are treated exactly the same as the men."

The women earn more than $200 weekly and when they move up into heavier cranes the pay will increase.

"I worked in a succession of other jobs before this and the money wasn't half as good," said Miss Currie, who came here from Scotland 15 years ago and is the only single woman among the five.

"It is responsible work. You hold people's lives in your hands. In fact, when I first started, that aspect tended to scare me but I'm over it now.

"Frankly, there still are a few guys who resent us, but only a few. The majority are gentlemen and give us our place.

Another operator is Mary Tryburski whose husband Leslie is a millwright at Dofasco. She came here from Poland 16 years ago.

Southerner's Notes About the North

FROBISHER BAY, N.W.T. (CP) — Notes from a southerner's first exposure to Northern Canada:

Federal health officials are baffled by the high incidence of chronic middle-ear infections among children in the Yukon and Northwest Territories.

Almost one third of the 500 elementary school students at the Baffin Island community of Frobisher Bay suffer chronic ear complaints and similar statistics were given at other centres visited by Health Minister Marc Lalonde during his recent inspection tour of northern health facilities.

Principal Robert Carson of Nakasuk Elementary School said 150 of his students have ear problems and 50 of those have severe hearing problems.

"For years we weren't able to teach these children easily," Mr. Carson said during a tour of his school. "And, of course, we had all sorts of behavior problems."

This year, the school hired a teacher for the hard-of-hearing and set up a room with special equipment for children with hearing problems, he said. "It's exciting to see the change."

Students with impaired hearing wear headsets connected to a microphone. The teacher speaks into it.

"It's a tremendous improvement. The children are interested in learning."

Dr. F. J. Covill, director of the federal government's medical services in the Northwest Territories, said the cause of the ear problems hasn't yet been discovered.

Upper respiratory diseases were listed as another ailment common to children in the territories.

"Kids aren't supposed to get chronic bronchitis, but they do up here," said Dr. Frank Timmermans, director of the health department's Baffin Island zone.

A Pentecostal missionary is trying to set up a golf course on a mile-long island in the Beaufort Sea.

Dave Freeman, president of the Tuktoyaktuk Golf Club, said the hamlet council has set aside the island.

"In a normal season here, we can play golf from the first part of June to the first part of September," he said. "Come summertime, the whole community is suffering from cabin fever because the winters are just too long.

"Golf is a good way to get rid of your frustrations."

Mr. Freeman and Hudson's Bay Company manager Jim Cameron, vice-president of the golf club, played three-hole golf last summer on a sandbank.

The missionary, a globetrotter who spent 10 years in Uganda before being booted out by General Idi Amin in 1973, calls Tuktoyaktuk "the hub of the wheel for me."

The 600 residents of this community will be allowed to play free and outsiders will be charged $3 a season.

"Tuk is going to grow in leaps and bounds and we'll have to see that overnight facilities are available when the golfing people come in."

But Mr. Freeman hastened to add: "This is not a money-making venture. I don't own one acre of land over there and I have no buildings I'm going to invest in.

"It's just for the love of golf."

At Fort Smith, just north of the Alberta border, students at the dental therapists' school have no problem getting their hands into the mouths of real, live patients.

"In fact, there is quite a waiting list," said the instructor.

"There isn't a dentist in Fort Smith. There was, but the city requisitioned his office so we have no problem filling our chairs here."

Only the nine second-year students are allowed to play with the real thing. The 14 first-year students work on dummies.

Graduates are qualified to practise anywhere in the Yukon and Northwest Territories and on Indian reserves in the provinces.

"At the end of a two-year course, our students can do about 75 per cent of what a dentist does and it takes a dentist five years to learn it," said school secretary Martha Manis.

A husband-and-wife team in the first year of the course plan to go back to their Saddle Lake, Alta., home as soon as they graduate.

"Sure, we're a long way from home," said Virginia Houle. "But it's interesting and this is a good community for the kids."

Virginia and her husband Adrian have five children under the age of nine. They plan to work at Indian reserves and schools in Alberta.

Indulge Your Infant — Or Teach Him Distrust

TORONTO (CP) — How well you adapt to retirement may be governed by how happily you trotted off to kindergarten, an American pediatric psychologist said Tuesday at a symposium on stress.

Dr. Lee Salk, director of the division of pediatric psychology at the New York Hospital Cornell Medical Centre, said studies of retiring persons show the most adaptable were those who coped well with transitions from infancy.

The child least likely to face kindergarten or any new situation easily, Dr Salk said, is the one who was left "to cry it out" as an infant. A three-month-old is incapable of learning independence—all he learns is distrust and the lesson may be irreversible, he said.

Also appearing at the Ontario Blue Cross-sponsored symposium were Dr. Hans Selye, director of the Institute of Experimental Medicine and Surgery at the University of Montreal, and Dr. Jerome Singer, dean of the graduate school at the State University of New York at Stony Brook. Both have made studies on stress.

Dr Salk said parents reach out instinctively as animals do to comfort and protect a crying newborn, but are often told to leave the child alone to learn 'independence.'

"It's strange we can accept animal responses but not human responses," he said.

Dr. Salk said parents should indulge their children for the first six months to instill a feeling of importance, then set limits, gently but firmly, to let the child learn to like and cope with discipline. This develops a sense of trust in the child and will likely manifest itself in later life by a better ability to meet stress.

In defining stress as "the non-specific response of the body to any demand made upon it," Dr. Selye said it is 'a component of life and may be good, as in a sense of accomplishment in a job well done.

Forgotten Old People Probably Deserve to Be

Dear Doris: Old people who are forgotten and neglected probably deserve to be. The roots are seeded early. As a child, I remember my mother going to help Grandmother often. "I must wash her walls — She planted such a big garden. I'm going to just visit her at potato-picking time — Look. This dress is just her type. Let's surprise Grandma." Grandma was very special and very wonderful and you were supposed to do things to make her happy and keep her from working too hard.

Now my mother is the Grandma, ans we kids automatically pop in with surprises and take her places. We never give it a second thought. It's just the way life is — you like visiting and helping Grandma. And when she needs help, we'll help her. Helping Grandmas is fun. We learned that early.

In turn, my kids are being taught. My boy worries that Grandma carries too much and he tries to help her every time we visit. I think I'll have a good old age too.

But Grandmas have a role, too. My mother acts like my Grandma used to. She's kind and helpful and always has small presents handy — inexpensive things that show thought, like getting me a little deer ornament just like the one we had when I was little. She found it at a rummage sale for five cents. To me, it's priceless.

She's full of wisdom and sympathy but little advice. "Oh no one can really keep up with small children underfoot," she says with great understanding. "Oh, she's not spoiled — just loved," she says approvingly when a kiddie shows off. She doesn't brag about her efficiency or how much better life was forty years ago. She's alive today.

I guess my aunt expressed it when she said, "You're sure good to your mother — but she's good to you, too." Visiting older people should be a joy, not a burden. You should leave feeling happy and glad to be young and alive but also glad to think that some day you'll have the same type of old age.

Grandma isn't perfect. She has faults but we don't try to change her. She drinks a bit too much (or so we privately think!) but she can afford it and really, at her age, it isn't all that bad. She enjoys herself and preaching at her wouldn't help matters.

We also wonder about her relation ship with a man next door, but she's old enough to know what she's doing. Her morals are her own. I think far too many young people try to make old people live pure Victorian lives and that's awful. Their years are numbered, and surely they're old enough to know what they want! (We are all te-totallers, and my sisters teach Sunday School.)

Maybe mine is a different philosophy but gee, I think we are the winners.

English Nurse Makes a Home For Saigon's Street Girls

SAIGON (Reuter) — Elizabeth Thomas, a 23-year-old nurse from England, sits in her tiny Saigon home and dreams of a house in the country where she and the 17 former street girls, 25 urchins and two babies who live with her would have a little more space.

For the blue-walled rooms of her two adjoining cottages in a poor district of the city, where she runs her Girls' House, as it is known, get a little crowded when everyone is home.

A two-year-old boy toddles into a room full of children, and the young nurse recalls how he could not move his legs when he was first brought to her suffering from acute malnutrition.

The 13-year-old girl sitting quietly in the corner was brought to her by a man who found her working as a prostitute.

Two babies, one pale and desperately thin, suck their thumbs among a remarkably healthy-looking group of children, while the older girls prepare lunch in the bare kitchen.

and cheerful, and the English

The atmosphere is noisy and cheerful, and the English girl with swept-back hair and gingham blouse looks as much at home as anyone else.

Miss Thomas has been operating Girls' House for almost a year, supported by funds from a largely American-backed charity, the Shoeshine Boys' Foundation.

She came to Saigon from London three years ago to work in an orphanage on behalf of a British charity.

"I had wanted to come to Vietnam since I was 14," she said.

After a year, she left the orphanage to work in a local hospital. In her spare time, she started taking an interest in Saigon's innumerable down-and-outs, visiting adults in jail and youngsters in a detention centre.

Among the street urchins at the detention centre were a number of teen-age girls who had been drawn into the underworld of bars, brothels and drug parlors. Miss Thomas decided to give eight of them a home.

Helped by the shoeshine boys' group and Rev. Luong Tan Hoang, who runs a string of boys' homes, she moved into a two roomed, single storey house with her waifs in February last year.

But as the girls settled down to their housekeeping, some of their families began to miss the cash they used to bring home.

So the girls brought younger brothers and sisters to share their floor space. There are now groups of four and five from the same family.

Miss Thomas also offered places to the children of adults she met in jail. "We were packed in like sardines," she said, before taking over the house next door last August.

Some of the 33 teen-age girls who have lived there have moved on. Another has just announced she is getting married. But others stay.

With Miss Thomas handling the medical side and the book-keeping—her costs run at around 300,000 piastres ($460) a month—the girls organize the home.

Because of their background, they are naturally tough. But the young English nurse said she has never had any trouble and the ultimate idea is for some of them to run homes of their own.

Freezers — Valuable If You Use Them Well

Freezers are without a doubt a boon to gardeners and wise shoppers alike.

But you can make some mistakes if you don't know how to use them properly or you try to make them do tricks they can't.

Everyone knows, for instance, that you can't freeze lettuce and expect to make a salad. But did you know that many people believe that day-old bread is the most suitable for freezing?

I find a home freezer extremely useful but lack of information has led me to a few failures. Eggplants are a case in point.

So far I've tried everything from tossing them whole, unpared and unblanched into the freezer (home economists and nutritionists everywhere may quake justifiably) to carefully boiling or steaming or baking and freezing.

I've cooked them up in ratatouille and other vegetable casseroles and frozen the cooked product. I've dipped and breaded, stuffed or shredded both before and after freezing. The end result of all this experimentation: a uniformly tasteless and spongelike gray mass that in August was an eggplant.

Lesson learned, no more eggplant in the freezer. (Unless, of course, somebody out there can suggest another method!)

Zucchini, sad to say, isn't much better although steamed briefly and frozen on trays and later bagged, it's quite suitable for soups and casseroles.

What about the ground beef we are beginning to see labelled "made from fresh and frozen portions?"

According to the Ministry of Agriculture and Food, you can assume the product is satisfactory for refreezing "if this is conducted without delay".

As soon as you buy it, run home, rewrap it and freeze immediately. As with all ground meat, don't keep it refrigerated and then refreeze.

One more point about this type of gound meat: food specialists have always told us that you can only keep all fresh ground beef a day or two in your refrigerator. Ground beef made from fresh and frozen portions can't be kept as long, freeze it immediately or eat it the day it is purchased.

What about wrapping? Personally I've found ordinary plastic bags suitable for vegetables but not for delicate fruits For these, I use real-expensive - freezer bags.

As for meat, the kind of wrapping used in stores is unsuited to long-term freezing. Designed to allow fresh meat to "breathe" it would let dry and cold freezer air pull moisture from the package and leave you with dry, tasteless and tough meat.

Heavy aluminum foil, seamless freezer bags or double sided laminated freezer paper are suitable.Wax paper and bread bags don't work.

While we're talking about meat, remember that the bulk buying of beef for your freezer might not always be a bargain.

According to the Ontario Food Council, the beef business is well organized and highly competitive and within very narrow limits, everybody pays the packing house about the same price for the same quality. When you buy cuts of beef at retail, the loss — fat, bone and shrinkage — has been absorbed. Buying in bulk, you pay for the whole carcass and a common loss is 25 per cent or about 75 pounds on a small animal.

Can you afford it?

People and Events

FROSTY FRIDAY

A Frosty Friday Carnival was held at Tyendinaga Public School recently. The carnival was designed to raise money for school trips and to encourage participation in physical fitness programs.

The day started with a tug of war followed by a scavenger hunt, puck shooting, curling and a sack race.

The March meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club was held Monday at the Sun Valley.

The highlight of the evening was a draw for the trip to Paradise Island in the Bahamas. Tickets were sold for four months.

Sam Goodman, owner of the Sun Valley, drew the winning ticket which belonged to Connie Pardham, of RR 3 Montrose Rd. Belleville.

Annie McLuskie a B and P member sold the ticket and won a camera for her part in the contest. The trip was arranged through Roluf's Traval Agency through the courtesy of Irene Roluf Drew, a B and P member.

The speakers at this monthly meeting were club members.

Dorothy Ellis, the District Director spoke on "Women in Public Life." Nettie Brown the President of the Ontario Business College and the first woman member of the local Chamber of Commerce spoke on "Women and Education." Donna Whalen the Publicity Chairperson spoke on "International Women's Year" and more particularly the recent conference at the Royal York in Toronto where the guest speaker was the Honourable Pauline McGibbon.

DESERONTO UCW

The March meeting of the afternoon unit of the Deseronto United Church Women was held in the home of Mabel Moon, hostess and group leader. She welcomed the women, especially Aileen Gaylord and Madeline Thompson who had been confined to their homes until recently.

The meeting began with a devotional period during which Evelyn Stuart read the scripture. Mrs. Moon, Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Gaylord each read passages from the devotional reading Show Jesus Your Hand.

Secretary Pauline Sill read the minutes and treasurer Eveyn Holly gave the treasurer's report.

The group decided to postpone their bake sale until June 10.

After Mrs. Moon closed the meeting with the benediction, lunch was served.

STIRLING HORTICULTURAL SOCIETY

St. Patrick's Day set the theme for the March meeting of the Stirling Horticultural Society held in St. John's Anglican Church Hall.

Elsie Armstrong welcomed the group, who decided to sponsor a bus trip to Ottawa on May 26.

An Irish program was presented by Isobel Good, Bernice Patterson and their group.

A donation was made from the Horticultural Society to the Stirling Festival of Sacred Praise.

MARMORA WI

Eileen Demorest was hostess for the March meeting of the Marmora Women's Institute.

President Maude Carman opened the meeting, for which the roll call was answered by "An article used every day and where it is made".

Marie Nell gave a paper on citizenship and world affairs and Bessie Tinsdill read one on Canadian oil.

Mabel Naylor reported sending $22 to the Pennies for Friendship fund.

Mrs. Carman and Marie O'Neill reported on the Foxboro course on home accessories, and Mrs. O'Neill also reported on the district executive meeting she attended in Madoc March 10.

Verna Neal reported that she would be taking Easter eggs to the Sherritt House, and it was decided to send ice cream to the Nursing Home.

Readings and games closed the meeting, after which a dessert lunch was served.

ST. PATRICK'S TEA

A St. Patrick's Day Tea and Bake Sale was held at the home of Lillian Johnston on Friday, March 14, by St. Paul's A.C.W.

Guests were greeted at the door by President Hazel Lavender and purchased their tickets from Madeleine Frost.

The tea tables were arranged in the living room, attractively decorated for the occasion. Helen Nichol, Beverly Mullen, Verna Neal, Eldora Robertson and Mrs. Johnson looked after the tea tables.

The baking table, well laden with a tempting variety of cakes, pies and cookies, did a brisk business with Teen Cronkright and Elizabeth Edwards in charge.

In the evening a card party was held.

ANNIVERSARIES CELEBRATED

ART ASSOCIATION

The Belleville Art Association will holds its monthly meeting at the Corby Library Wednesday, March 26 at 8 p.m. The film, "Why Man Creates" will be shown. The public is welcome.

Angela Stewart and Nancy Racicot.

Knots Are Craft

There is a small group of women who enjoy tying themselves in knots every Wednesday at Harmony School.

They're students of the ancient art of knotting and since November when the Loyalist College-Harmony Community School class began they've produced belts and hanging planters and necklaces and cushions. For the Christmas season, they produced hanging pomanders — clove studded oranges suspended by bright macrame cord.

Right now Nancy Racicot is working on an intricate macrame sampler wall-hanging using jute and wooden beads. Angela Stewart is knotting a large yellow shopping bag of nylon. Jean Peake is knotting bright red and blue cord to make a long table runner.

All of the class members are enthusiastic about macrame and feel it's giving them new opportunities to decorate their homes and produce interesting gifts for family and friends.

"Besides," Nancy Racicot says, "I'm not artistic at all but this technique lets me be creative."

Jean Peake works on a hanging.

Macrame-Easy to Learn, Easy to Do

Think you could ever produce a Chinese Crown or a Josephine Knot? How about a Monkey's Fist?

They're some of the more enthusiasts use to create their hangings and planters and belts and purses.

For the beginner, though, there are lots of simple knots you can make to produce effective looking objects.

Macrame you should know is the Arabic word for fringe and it apparently stems from the Middle Eastern world.

The first thing you need to macrame is a working surface. A foam pillow form or the stiff foam that faric stores use for bolts of cloth are both suitable.

Any thread, from parcel string to crochet yarn, is suitable but be sure to use a strong and smooth twisted or plied thread.

You begin work with a foundation cord which you pin to your working surface. Some persons work on a cord stretched between the pinials of a chair. If you wish to macrame a trim for a piece of clothing or fabric, you can work directly on the fabric.

The mounting or foundation cord should be about six inches longer than the finished piece of work. Knot both ends and pin the knot to your working surface. The working strands are knotted to this cord. They should be about eight times the finished length of the piece.

To make working with long strands easier, wind each strand up, leaving about 15 inches free below the work. Fasten wound yarn with a rubber band.

To fasten yard to foundation cord, fold in half and tie doubled strand in a lark's head knot around the foundation.

From there you can work square knots, half hitch knots or double half hitch knots as you like.

There's Always Room For a Hanging Plant

Even in the smallest apartment there is usually a well-lighted corner that could hold a hanging basket filled with plants.

Foliage plants, vegetables, and herbs, as well as flowers, can be grown in hanging baskets, says Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food horticulturist, R.A. Fleming. "Given the same care as that required by most houseplants, those in a hanging basket can add a lively touch of color to sunrooms, kitchens and living rooms."

Macrame is an ideal way to hang a clay pot and many garden centres now stock a wide variety of ready-planted hanging baskets, as well as containers, soil, fertilizer and plants suitable for baskets. While the range of such plants is wide, the gardener should not choose those that will be too large for their setting at maturity. The columnea, Asparagus Fern, Boston Fern, Spider Plant and any tradescantia are among the easy-to-grow plants, while the Episcias, the Scindapsus, the trailing Geranium and the Aphrodite Rieger Begonia need a little more care.

Edible plants that grow well in hanging baskets include several varieties of lettuce, spinach, parsley and strawberries.

"Hanging baskets are best kept in a moderately warm, bright, airy location," says Mr. Fleming. "Hung to one side of a bright window, they usually thrive."

When planting hanging baskets, keep the soil mixture loose.

Hanging baskets on patios, or at other outdoor locations, may dry out more quickly than houseplants and should be watered more frequently.

Learning Books

Where can you learn to macrame if you can't or don't want to sign up for a course?

Any magazine stand has craft magazines which almost invariably give instruction for basic macrame knots. There's softcover publication, McCall's Macrame, which is carried by many newstands.

Corby Library has a good assortment of books on the subject but if you wish to purchase books, look for Introducing Macames by Eirian Short, Fawcett paperback, or Instant Macrame published by Graphic Enterprises, Inc.

Is it necessary for homes to be "all the same"? Not on your life Even in a subdivision, the homes take on an individual look as soon as the owners take over.

Builders today are accused of using little imagination. They build for the market but try to vary their plans to escape uniformity. The builders of yesteryear, while actually custom building, tended to build one or, at the most two basic plans, they were familiar with and adding only customizing features.

"But they had character", you say Yes, but, that character has evolved with the owners' taste in landscaping and changes over the years.

And so today — let's forget what the model name or number was — already the newer home has a personality of its own — stark modern as a back drop for beautiful painting or traditionally as a show case for our Collectors.

CP News Roundup

Layoffs Announced

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian Pacific Ltd. announced Friday that about 1,000 CP Rail shop employees at Montreal, Winnipeg and Calgary will be laid off temporarily because of "deteriorating economic conditions affecting rail operations."

The layoffs, effective between April 1 and Sept. 30, are the second major reduction in less than a week, bringing total work force reductions to 2,500.

The company announced Tuesday that 1,500 workers across its system would be laid off because of "deteriorating revenues and weakening economic conditions.'

The latest reduction involves 265 positions at Montreal, 292 at Winnipeg and 460 at Calgary.

Milk Prices Protested

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — The government should amend the Ontario Milk Act to require dairies to justify increased prices as farmers now must do, says Walter Miller, vice-president of the National Farmers Union.

He said in a news release Friday that the act gives processors the right to appeal decisions by the Ontario Milk Marketing Board, but does not give consumers the right to appeal price increases by processors that are far in excess of what farmers receive.

He said the union has appealed to the provincial government several times for milk-price controls.

Arrests Completed

OTTAWA (CP) — Police said Friday no more arrests or charges are expected in their investigation of a male teen-age sex ring.

Fourteen men have been charged under the Criminal Code with participating in gross indecency or with participating in the ring.

Police said about 10 boys, aged between 11 and 17, were recruited by a modelling agency to sell sexual services to men.

U.S. Police Sought

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — Warrants were issued for the arrest of two Buffalo city policemen after they failed to appear in provincial court Friday to face charges of causing a disturbance.

Constables Warren G. Derner and William T. Young were charged by Niagara regional police after a Feb. 8 incident in which two policemen allegedly chased six Fort Erie residents in a truck over the Peace Bridge and then became involved in a scuffle with the truck's occupants on the Canadian side of the border.

Peter Coulson, assistant Crown attorney, asked for the warrants when the policemen failed to appear before Provincial Judge Marc Girard.

Deficit Worsens

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's loss on world trade worsened during February to $211 million from $120 million in January, mainly because of a slump in exports to overseas countries, Statistics Canada reported Friday.

It was the fourth successive monthly trade deficit. In December, the loss on trade was $294 million and a month earlier it was $152 million. The figures are adjusted for seasonal variations.

Food Prices Down

TORONTO (CP) — The price of the Ontario Food Council market basket dropped by 53 cents or one-half of one per cent from the first week of February to the first week of March, 1975.

It is the second month in a row that the price of the market basket, including 127 items priced at five major supermaskets in Metropolitan Toronto, has declined.

Beef prices dropped nine per cent from one month earlier, the council reported. Sugar prices were also down.

Exile Granted

SANTIAGO (Reuter)—The military junta ruling Chile allowed 95 detainees, including the sister of the late President Salvador Allende, to leave the country for Mexico on Friday. They were among 200 detainees the junta had offered to release if Mexico agreed to accept them. However, the Mexican government refused to accept 62 of those on the list and 47 others said they did not want exile in Mexico.

Relics Uncovered

RAWALPINDI (CP) — Archeologists have uncovered remenants of pottery, bangles and stone blades more than 6,000 years old in mountainous northwestern Pakistan, Agence France-Press reported Friday. The agency quoted the Associated Press of Pakistan as saying archeologists feel the discovery will shed new light on the origins of the ancient Indus Valley civilization.

Hostess Buried

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — Perle Mesta, the premier Washington hostess who was surrounded in life by hundreds of guests, was buried here Friday in a private ceremony with only a handful of relatives in attendance. Mrs. Mesta, dubbed in Washington circles as the "hostess with the mostest," preferred to be known for her work in the fields of women's rights and social welfare.

Prisoner Jumps Parole

NORRKOEPING, Sweden (Reuter) — One of Sweden's most notorious criminals has absconded during a three-day parole—apparently because he was refused permission to study law at Stockholm University. A prison board spokesman said Clark Olofsson, 28, a thrice-convicted bank robber, left a verbal message with a fellow prisoner stating: "No pardon, no retrial, no study—no Clark Olofsson."

Smallpox on Wane

GENEVA (CP) — Smallpox appears to be generally on the wane, except in Bangladesh, statistics released by the World Health Organization (WHO) show, Agence France-Presse reported Friday. As of mid-March, the WHO had been notified of 5,561 cases in five different countries, compared to an over-all total of 42,734 cases during the same period last year.

PRIEST APPOINTED

VATICAN CITY (Reuter) — Pope Paul has appointed a 38-year-old Irish priest, Father John Magee, as his personal secretary, the Vatican said Friday. Father Magee's new duties include opening the Pope's private correspondence, praying with him in his chapel, and having meals with him.

Bribe Probe Delayed Four Months

OTTAWA (CP) — An investigation into allegations o bribery and bid-rigging in the Irving Whale salvage case did not start until four months after transport ministry officials first learned of the matter, an RCMP report says.

The report, prepared following a year-long investigation by the RCMP, says the case was handed over to them after Prime Minister Trudeau's office intervened, advising deputy transport minister O. G. Stoner of the allegations.

Donald Kerr, vice-president of Atlantic Salvage, said in a telephone interview from Halifax that he was offered a $50,000 bribe in the fall of 1971 to bid high on a federal government contract to salvage an oil-laden barge that sank off Prince Edward Island.

Based on information gathered in the police investigation, the Nova Scotia government advised that the case should be dropped because of lack of evidence.

The RCMP report said Mr. Kerr raised the matter of the bribe and the bid-rigging attempt with two officials of the transport ministry and an outside government consultant during a meeting Nov. 15, 1971.

But following that meeting, the officials and consultant "mutually agreed" that as Mr. Kerr had not put the allegation in writing, they would go ahead and recommend awarding a contract, the report said.

In early January, a recommendation on a contract was sent to treasury board by deputy minister O. G. Stoner, whom the report says had not heard of the bribery attempt up to that time.

A month later, Michael Pitfield, then deputy secretary to the cabinet, advised Mr. Stoner of a letter outlining details of the bribery attempt.

The prime minister told the Commons he first learned of the case after he returned last week from a European vacation and reviewed the matter with Transport Minister Jean Marchand.

The report says that after Mr. Pitfield passed on his information to the transport department, Mr. Kerr agreed to put his allegations in writing. A detailed letter was sent to the department Feb. 29, 1972.

Two weeks later the matter was referred to the RCMP for investigation.

No contract was ever awarded for the salvage job.

ndustries was one of 13 companies and 14 individuals charged in court here last week with conspiracy to defraud taxpayers of more than $4 million on six dredging contracts.

Confusion Slows Savings Scheme

OTTAWA (CP) — The April 1 deadline for 1974 registered home ownership savings plans (RHOSP) is only days away but government officials say there still seems to be much public confusion about the new plan.

However, spokesmen for Finance Minister John Turner and Revenue Minister Ron Basford said Friday there are no plans to extend the deadline again. The original deadline was Feb. 28 but was pushed back to April 1 as the tax legislation had not yet taken effect.

The plan is designed to encourage people who do not own a home to save for a house or furniture for the home. People with RHOSP plans are able to save up to $1,000 a year tax-free with a maximum of $10,000 in a lifetime.

When it was originally introduced in the ill-fated May budget last year, Ron Basford, then urban affairs minister, said one purpose was to reduce demand for the time being.

Many people now appear interested in RHOSPs as a way of saving money and reducing personal income taxes.

Many trust companies now are offering RHOSPs and some banks are also involved, using Morguard Trust Co, as an agent.

Anyone who is a Canadian and over the age of 18 can qualify for a RHOSP as long as he does not own a house when he begins the plan, officials say.

But no person may have more than one RHOSP in his lifetime, even if he accumulates less than $10,000 before ending his original savings plan.

The accumulated savings under the plan can be transferred without taxation to a registered retirement savings plan, another new government measure this year. The retirement program allows individuals to contribute a certain amount each year tax free to their own retirement plans.

The ceiling varies between $2,500 and $4,000 a year depending on whether the individual is self-employed or an employee.

Both husband and wife may have RHOSPs so that a family could accumulate as much as $20,000 towards buying a new home.

If you own your house now, you can still benefit from the RHOSP program, revenue department officials say.

For example, you could either sell or transfer the house to your spouse. If the house is transferred, your spouse may have to pay gift taxes, depending on which province you live in.

The year after you have disposed of your home you can lauich an RHOSP.

Officials say the same procedure could be followed if you now have joint ownership of a home with your spouse.

Teachers Protest Davis Attitude

TORONTO (CP) — The president of the 34,000-member Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation charged Friday that Ontario Premier William Davis is trying to alienate teachers from their communities.

James Forster opened the four-day federation annual assembly with a strong attack on the premier and also defended recent salary demands by teachers which he said are reasonable and restrained.

He called Mr. Davis's recent comment that teachers are responsible while federation leaders are militant an "attempt to interfere in the internal democracy of this federation."

"There is no militant leadership and docile membership, Mr. Davis," he said. "There are militant teachers."

Mr. Forster said teachers are militant because they want a "fair and equal share of the good life" and "because they demand their full professional role in the planning of their own school programs."

Recent strikes in Windsor, Thunder Bay and Timiskaming helped teachers "restore and retain a teacher's worth in today's economic scale."

He accused the government of being two-faced in criticising a wage increase of 29 per cent over 16 months won by Windsor high school teachers as too high, while it negotiated a 21.5-per-cent increase over one year for civil servants.

"Teachers have been victimized by this government through a policy of selective wage controls . . . ."

Inventories Climbing

OTTAWA (CP) — There was a rapid build-up in manufacturers' inventories in December and January to the highest level since late 1970, Statistics Canada reported Friday.

For every $1 in sales, manufacturers owned on average $2.11 in inventories, up from $2.06 in December and $1.97 in November. The inventory ratio had been below 2 to 1 for more than two years.

A build-up in inventories means higher costs for such things as warehousing and financing. If manufacturers do not believe that consumer buying will pick up, they will be looking to cutting back on inventories and production rates, which may mean layoffs.

A slump in spending on big-ticket items, such as cars and major home appliances, has been a big factor in the drop in manufacturers' sales.

Shipments of durable goods dropped 3.8 per cent in January, and although shipments of non-durables—such as food and clothing—increased 1.9 per cent, this increase did not offset the decline in durables.

Where to Stay

LONDON (CP) — The British Tourist Authority's annual guide on where to stay in England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland Hotels and Restaurants in Britain, just published for 1975, lists more than 5,200 hotels and 1,000 restaurants. Produced for the first time by computer film-setting process, it has 400 pages and 16 touring maps in color. There are 56 town maps and notes on 2,200 cities, towns and villages.

Weather Office Kept Busy

FREDERICTON (CP) — The telephone rings and the woman at the other end wants to know whether the sun is going to stay out all morning. Or should she not bother hanging out her laundry and toss it in the dryer instead.

The phone rings again. This time its a department of highways crew wanting to know what to prepare for in the next day or two.

A radio station calls to ask for a live weather broadcast for its listeners.

These are examples of the 100 or more calls received daily by the Fredericton airport weather office.

Sometimes there are 200 to 300 calls a day, said John Clarey, officer in charge of the station.

Officials of the aviation industry request flight information. Other calls come from oil companies and the New Brunswick Electric Power Commission, which has to guess how much power residents may use in a given day.

There are calls from personnel in big buildings who want to know how much effect the weather iwll have on their heating or cooling systems.

Some callers are going on vacation and, naturally are highly interested in weather conditions.

Some calls come from insurance companies. They want to know whether a claim might have been attributed to weather conditions.

weather will have on their heat-about and possibly the layman's least known phenomenon, has fed the minds of lorists for centuries. They penned brief phrases aimed at weather forecasting.

"When dew is on the grass, rain will never come to pass."

"A rainbow in the morning, sailors take warning; a rainbow at night is the sailor's delight."

Or, "If it rains before seven, it will clear before eleven."

Mr. Clarey suggests some more reliable signs you can look for in predicting the weather.

Cloudy, unsettled weather: Look for the barometer falling; a higher-than-usual night temperature; clouds moving in different directions at different times; high, thin white clouds and a large ring around the sun or moon that stays until overcast obscures it.

Continued, bright weather: The barometer is slowly or steadily rising; the sun sets as a large red ball; morning fog breaks within two hours of sunrise and, in Fredericton's case, a light wind from the west or northwest.

London's Lambeth Is Worse Than New York for Mugging

LONDON (Reuter) — Violence is on the increase in London and the city's reputation for respect of law and order is fraying.

One London newspaper has said that in the borough of Lambeth, across the Thames from Buckingham Palace, a pedestrian is statistically more likely to be mugged than in New York.

The paper calculated that one person in 150 gets mugged or assaulted every year in Lambeth compared with one in 200 in New York.

Tales of mugging and street violence are increasingly finding their way into the British press.

The muggings have an aspect that, because of race implications, has virtually been unmentionable until recent weeks: four in five Lambeth attackers, say police, are black, and four in five of their victims are white.

Lambeth includes the district of Brixton, which has the highest concentration of West Indian immigrants in Britain.

Said one Brixton resident: "Everybody is conscious of the muggings: They usually take the form of purse-snatching. Two or three youths will approach a woman and one will grab her handbag as the others jostle her.

Between 1969 and 1973, street robbery with the use of threat of violence increased by 147 per cent in Lambeth. Last year's figures will certainly be the worst ever. The record was nearly as bad in neighboring districts.

The Sunday Times, in a recent investigation, said some youths were subsisting solely on the proceeds of street crime.

The leader of a gang which specialized in thefts from parked cars was eight years old. Drunks have been a choice target and a spate of petty holdups has been reported at corner shops.

In a special report now being studied by Home Secretary Roy Jenkins, Scotland Yard denied that the soaring street crime in South London is a policing problem and points to widespread alienation and isolation of West Indian youngsters from white society.

Many are descendants of West Indians who came here in the 1950s and 1960s, often recruited by labor-hungry organizations such as London Transport.

Despite some improvement in race relations in Britain, few sociologists deny that black youngsters are at the bottom of the heap as far as their opportunities for education and careers go.

Lambeth's stately mid-Victorian houses now are largely given over to the often overcrowded housing of poor families.

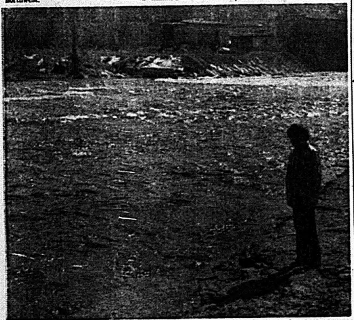
In Lambeth, thousands of black youngsters have developed a sub-culture based on marijuana and black music which is almost impossible for outsiders to penetrate.

There are the Soul Guys, who like American-style clubs and dancing; the Reggae Guys, snappy dressers who go for the Jamaican culture and records, and the Rasta Guys, with their "orange skins" or knitted woolen skull caps.

Leaders of Britain's black community are, if anything, more worried about the problem than white authorities.

Some fear a white backlash against the colored community, the vast majority of whom are hard-working and respectable.

Mark Bonham Carter, chairman of the government-sponsored Community Relations Commission, said: "The recent reported rise in street crime among black youth in South London has grave implications for race relations in Britain."



High Water

According to Emergency Measures Organization coordinator Angus Duffy, Belleville residents have already seen the highest level in the Moira River they will see this spring. Although there is some snow left in the bush in the watershed, alternate frezing and thawing during the winter has reduced the usual volume of spring runoff this year.

Pet Hospital Insurance May Prove Gold Mine

VANCOUVER (CP) — It's still too early to tell, but Peter Faulkner of West Vancouver may have a gold mine in the business of insuring household pets.

In an interview, Mr. Faulkner described the plan his agency sells as hospital insurance for dogs and cats.

Sale of the plan began Jan. 21 when Mr. Faulkner insured his own dog through Faulkner and Associates Insurance Agencies Ltd. The idea was first promoted to the public at the Pacific National Exhibition dog show in Vancouver a few days later.

Commenting on early sales, Mr. Faulkner said response in terms of inquiries has been good. Many sales had already been completed.

In fact, said Mr. Faulkner, from information gathered at the dog show another policy has been initiated—an annual travel accident policy to protect pets being transported from one place to another.

He said the annual premium for a dog worth about $500 would be about $35.

"We now are looking at the dog-breeder and dog-handler side of the business of pets. This is really big business—some of these dogs are worth about $1,000 and an owner or hired handler doesn't want to lose a valuable pet that is en-route to a show.

"I know of one case where a dog-handler left two toy poodles valued at more than $500 each in a car and the dogs suffocated. There was no insurance for the handler and he was liable."

When asked whether the firm considered insurance against dog-napping, Mr. Faulkner said he would not touch it. "There seems to be far too much of it these days."

The general Petshield policy covers reimbursement of veterinary fees, surgical fees, hospital care, anesthesia, x-rays, lab examinations, transfusions, medicine or drugs, dental extractions aend emergency calls.

The annual premium rates are $30 per animal, three months to eight years old inclusive; $40 per animal, nine to 12 years old inclusive.

Mr. Faulkner said special provisions may be made where an owner wishes to take out a life-insurance policy on a particularly valuable pet—although such policies would not be generally available.

However, there are a couple of catches to the policy.

Limits are listed as $250 for any one illness or injury. There is an aggregate limit of $750 in any one policy year for all losses incurred and $15 deductible that applies to each claim resulting from illness or disease.

Also, the policy does not cover such things as disease or injury suffered prior to or at time of application, routine inoculations, pet grooming procedure and dental care.

Mr. Faulkner said that provided the policy is correctly promoted and the public is attracted to it, there may be a day when the dog and cat policy holders may outnumber the humans that are insured by his company.

He explained that dogs and cats particularly become a part of the family they belong to and their numbers are growing.

Mr. Faulkner said pets have been insured in England for many years and Royal Insurance Canada, based in Toronto, has insured pets there.

"There have been one or two American companies that have tried introducing the idea of insuring pets in Western Canada but after a time they folded or gave up the idea. The difference this time is that a lot of time, thought and study have gone into the preparation of our policy."

Mr. Faulkner said the idea began in Canada in 1973 when he was asked by Royal Insurance to design a policy for insuring pets in Western Canada.

He credied Dr. B. R. Gee of the College of Veterinary Medicine at Saskatoon with providing much of the information forming the basis of the policy. Learning that the average life expectancy of dogs or cats is about 14 years helped in calculating premium values.

By the end of 1974 the policy was ready and Royal Insurance, the insurer, issued a copyright to Faulkner and Associates, to handle the policy in the western provinces.

Mr. Faulkner, 47, emigrated from the United Kingdom to Canada 20 years ago and has been in the insurance business 17 years. He has lived in the Vancouver area all of that time and has specialized in general insurance.

Serve Many Purposes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A study by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency shows that paving roads with used tires is just one of the solutions to the waste disposal problem posed by the 200 million tire casings abandoned every year, says the Tire Retread Information Bureau. Tire casings also can be used to generate power and as artificial reefs, impact absorbers on highways and in retreaded tires.

Best Seat in House

John Yen, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Yen of the China Gardens in Trenton, had the best seat in the house this week for the auction at the Paragon Cafe. He watched here from his perch, as an assistant to auctioneer Harold Bunnett (right) holds aloft the restaurant's stereo set. Just below him is cafe co-owners Andrew Chow.

Fairbanks Braces Self For Modern Gold Rush

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — This ordinarily friendly town, born in a gold rush 73 years ago, is trying to survive a fresh onslaught of strangers.

The reason: oil and the promise of high-paying pipeline jobs.

The reality for the 55,000 who live here now is that one of every six is a new face in town, rents have shot up, traffic is bumper to bumper, telephone lines are jammed and residents are locking their doors for the first time in years.

When the gold bonanza played out, this town of little elbow-to-elbow houses became a quiet haven against the Alaskan winter. People knew one another.

Not any more. The last two years has been history repeating itself.

"Most of the changes are negative unless you're employed on the pipeline and raking in a lot of money," said Janet Baird, a former school board member.

"I think in the long run what we're facing is a change of values, we've been used to in Alaska. We simply won't have that low-pressure, non compeitive atmosphere any more."

Fairbanks residents say they sometimes have to wait 45 seconds for a dial tone on the telephone and their normal friendliness has worn thin. A popular bumper sticker in town says "Alaska for Alaskans. Yankee, Go Home."

Fairbanks is the main staging city for trans-Alaska pipeline construction work, begun last year. It's midway on the 786-mile pipline corridor stretching from the North Slope at Prudhoe Bay on the Arctic Sea to the ice-free port of Valdez on the Gulf of Alaska.

The pipeline, at an estimated cost of almost $6 billion, is one of the largest construction projects ever attempted.

Alyeska Pipeline Service Co. set up its operational headquarters at nearby Fort Wainwright, employing 500 people. But employment is seasonal because of the weather.

The city's unemployment rate now is 11 per cent, but some of the unemployed might have earned $20,000 on the pipeline in the months preceding their seasonal layoffs, city officials said. The federal government is another major employer and so is the construction industry, which comes to a halt in winter.

Pipeline jobs sometimes pay upwards of $1,000 week.

Officials estimate 9,000 newcomers have arrived since last April when construction began.

There are 37,379 registered vehicles in the area, an increase of almost 8,000 since 1973. The Environmental Protection Agency has ordered the city and the borough (Alaska's equivalent of a county) to cut down on pollution.

But that is complicated.

When winter comes to Fairbanks, just 130 miles south of the Arctic Circle, ice fog hangs over the town, trapping pollutants from cars, many of which are left idling in the 40-below temperatures.

Local plans call for mass transit, heated garages and car pools.

"The problem with Fairbanks," said a cab driver, "is there's 7,000-8,000 more people here this year than last and we've got the same number of places to put them."

As a result, Fairbanks finds itself for the second time in its 72-year history in the middle of an economic whirlwind.

"This was a gold-mining community," said Don Gilmer, a borough planner. "It wasn't planned. People staked a claim, then found a spot wide enough for a cabin and built on it."

Log cabins are still a good insulator against the cold in a place where temperatures have dipped as low as minus 79 degrees.

Housing is virtually unavailable. Joe LaRocca, hired by the North Star Borough to head a pipeline impact office, said his survey showed landlords turning away people by the dozens.

One apartment house reported a waiting list of 70 persons.

Francie Humphreys, who works for a local real estate firm, said it's possible to find places to live "if you're not too particular."

Part of being particular is cost. "I'd say a two-bedroom apartment going for $300 six months ago now goes for $450. And they will get it."

Gambler's Heaven Enjoys Fat Year

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — While the rest of the country tightens its belt for 1975, this gambler's paradise is enjoying a fat year.

Recession, inflation and talk of depression barely dim the good cheer of hotelmen and casino owners whose business boomed in 1974.

"When there's inflation, this town always does better for a while," said Jasper Speciale, a restaurant owner. "Everybody's looking to make a score."

Gaming revenues, the city's richest resource, soared more than 17 per cent in 1974 and tourism reached an all-time high of nearly nine million visitors.

In other areas of the United States where gambling is legal, business is brisk. Some race tracks in California report lower attendance with higher betting revenues. The explanation: bettors are gambling for high stakes and some are taking along bets for friends.

Peter W. Doling, secretary-treasurer of the Parimutuel Employees Union Local 218 in Los Angeles, cited a marked trend toward high-priced exotic bets like the exacta and daily double.

"Gamblers are going for longshots,' he said. "When they come in, they pay real good."

New York City's off-track betting parlors took in $420 million in the first half of 1974, compared with less than $400 million a year earlier. For the last half of the year, the take was $366 million, compared with $352 million in 1973.

A spokesman said the decline coincided with a five-per-cent surcharge on winning bets which went into effect July 1 but that revenues have started to climb again in 1975.

"The horseplayer is a hardy breed," he said. "He still likes to have a little flutter for a deuce." And unless he's in absolute poverty, "What's a deuce? That's $4."

Lotteries in Michigan, New York and other states report more play in 19974 than 1973, but some spokesmen said this was because of new prize packages, and not necessarily the economic situation.

In Florida, gambling in 1974 on horse and dog racing and jai alai was up or even with 1973 figures, state officials said.

In Las Vegas, the lights dimmed a year ago during the energy crisis, are back at nearly full capacity.

The one-year-old MGM Grand Hotel, a gargantuan 2,100-room hotel-casino with a Hollywood history motif, is reported to have earned more than the MGM movie studio did in some of its best years.

The town relished a recent news report that three oil-rich Arabs dropped more than $1 million in five days at the Grand's roulette and baccarat tables.

"We're really booming," said Rossi Ralenkotter, marketing analyst for the Las Vegas Convention and Visitors Authority. "When the rest of the country has a recession we're not hurt because of the uniqueness of our market."

Henhouse Was Likely Scouting's First Home

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — Although national headquarters is reluctant to acknowledge it, there is substantial evidence the Canadian scouting movement had its origins in a St. Catharines henhouse in 1908.

The St. Catharines District Boy Scouts believe they have a right to claim the honor of being Canada's founding troop.

"We keep urning up bits of evidence here and there," said Vince Goldsworthy, historian for St. Catharines scouts.

Mr. Goldsworthy has been compiling news clippings, letters and documents pertaining to area scouts.

He became particularly excited when St. Catharines Standard informed him a photo of the first St. Catharines troop scout camp at nearby Port Dalhousie had been located. In the photograph, which has turned brown with age, members of the first troops are listening to one of the early leaders, A. E. Coombs, who later served as a district commissioner.

The photo has been in the possession of Earl O'Laughlin, now living in Stratford, for the last 50 years.

"Yes, I was one of the first scouts in St. Catharines," said Mr. O'Laughlin. "So was my brother, Merrick. We met with some other boys in a henhouse adjacent to Harris Neelon's place and we called it the Hen House Club."

Then, one day in 1908, Mr. O'Laughlin said, Harris Neelon wrote to England to obtain a copy of the book, Scouting For Boys, written the same year by Lord Baden-Powell, scouting's founder.

The following year, the group was officially a member of the boy scouts, complete with enrolment cards dated 1909.

Then in 1910, a delegation of about 12 from the St. Catharines troop went to Toronto where Lord Baden-Powell was officially opening that years' Canadian National Exhibition. Earl O'Laughlin was one of the delegation.

"I remember that well," he recalled. "It was a bright sunny day and we were all pretty excited. Our St. Catharines troops was given special attention and I know that miffed a Toronto troop. Baden-Powell shook all our hands and I'm sure he said we were the first Canadian troop."

On file, St. Catharines District Boy Scouts have a handwritten Early History of Scouting in St. Catharines, prepared by A. E. Coombs.

In the paper, Scout Coombs (as he was always referred to) describes the first meeting of provincial scout troops to form a provincial council. Tha was in 1910, the same year Baden-Powell opened the CNE.

However, he also notes that the St. Catharines troop was officially reconizedg in a letter from Baden-Powell dated Dec. 22, 1909.

And although Mr. Coombs didn't specifically mention the CNE meeting with Baden-Powell, he did quote a headline from The Standard of June 22, 1910.

The headline was:

"St. Catharines May Claim The Distinction of Having the First Troop of Baden-Powell Boy Scouts in Canada."

However, since there was no provincial couniil of scout troops prior to that, the only way to verify it would be through Baden-Powell's comments to the troop in Toronto later that year. Unfortunately, there appears to be no documented evidence to this fact.

In a letter to his sister dated Aug. 30, 1955, written from Waynesville, N.C., Merrick O'Laughlin, who died in 1969, also mentioned the formation of the scouts here, referring to the henhouse club.

Merrick O'Laughlin said:

"Harris (Neelon) was the boy who was entirely responsible for it all and I distinctly remember him saying we were the first in Canada."

His brother Earl is 85. In a phone call from his home in Stratford, he told The Standard he has forgotten a lot of the details although he concurs with his late brother's statement that Harris Neelon claimed the distinction of St. Catharines having the first troop in Canada

Vince Goldsworthy, official historian for St. Catharines District Scouts, said Harris Neelon had the missing documents which would have proven the first Canadian troop was formed here in St. Catharines.

Neelon died sometime during the Second World War and no one has been able to locate the vital documents.

Failure to React To Warnings Feared

VANCOUVER (CP) — Nobody likes to hear bad news.

Dr. Colin Clark, a former president of the British Columbia Environmental Council, says environmentalists have reinforced this natural distaste with a welter of dire forecasts, many of them wildly speculative.

But he said attention should be paid to tested warnings and preventive action taken when warnings prove credible.

The most horrific danger for the world is induced climatic change, he said. In the last five years the earth had cooled, with the mean global temperature falling by a greater amount than the temperature gain recorded in the previous 60 years.

"I don't say that a second ice age is upon us, but that it may be upon us," said Dr. Clark, a University of B.C. mathematics professor.

"It may not happen, but if it does we are going to look awful foolish if we have left ourselves totally unprepared.

"It may be that the world is going to cool to the point where we can no longer grow wheat in Canada and there is not a thing we can do about it. But we will never find out unless we make the effort."

Dr. Clark said the pressing day-to-day needs of society operate against timely action to avoid future disasters.

He used the Peruvian anchovy industry as an example. In less than a decade, the industry grew from nothing to an annual harvest of 10 million tons of fish meal.

Dr. Clark said a Canadian, the late Dr. G. J. Pollack, had predicted that if the anchovy catch was maintained during times of unusual current patterns, the fishery would be destroyed.

In 1971 the currents changed, preventing the fish from feeding.

Dr. Clark said the Peruvians should have halted the anchovy fishing industry protecting the fish when the food supply was low.

But the Peruvians went ahead and the next year, when currents returned to normal, the fish population was drastically reduced.

"This inability to act on predictions is what scares me," said Dr. Clark. "It is a serious, possibly disastrous, flaw in our social makeup."

Jailbirds to Battle Police In Minor Hockey Benefit

TRENTON — Neither Bobby Orr of the Boston Bruins nor Bobby Hull of the Winnipeag Jets will be imported April 2 for the game between the Trenton fire and police departments.

That's against the rules. And when you're playing with police, you don't break the rules. Otherwise, you'll be come a jailbird.

And that's precisely what will happen in the third period of the Trenton Minor Hockey Association benefit game the two departments are planning.

The fire department will be attired as jailbirds, while the police department will act the part of the clumsy, never-get-the-man Keystone Cops.

What serious face-offs there'll be is still unknown, although assurances have been given that there will indeed be some good hockey played in the first two periods.

But it's the interference during the game that's the point. Ten professional clowns, with candies for the kids, and skits to bring laughter, will entertain an expected 1,850 persons at Trenton Community Gardens.

Most of those present Wednesday, April 2 at 8 p.m. will be there without paying admission.

Police department organizers have reserved 1,350 seats for area senior citizens, crippled and retarded children, navy and air cadets, and cubs, scouts, girl guides and brownies. The free seats, organizers emphasize, can only be obtained by asking the association or group to which each of the above-mentioned belong.

Another block of 500 tickets —$1 for adults, 50-cents for children — are available at four Trenton locations. They are: Smokers World, Mac's Milk on Dundas St. West, and of course, the police station and fire hall.

All money raised from ticket sales for the hockey game cum carnival will be passed to the town minor hockey association.

Two Found Dead In Plane Wreckage

TRENTON — Five CFB rescue planes returned here today after the bodies of two missing Elmvale men were found in their crashed aircraft just two miles northeast of Elmvale.

David Baron and Percy William Dickinson, both 20, were killed Friday when their two-seater Cessna 15 aircraft crashed in a cornfield. Police said an autopsy is scheduled for today.

The light aircraft, piloted by Baron was last seen at Skeleton Lake, 40 miles northwest of Midland. A twin-engine Otter aircraft from 424 Squadron here began searching Friday and made an overnight sweep of Simcoe County area.

Police said the plane crashed in the field behind a barn near Highway 27. No one was home at the time of the crash. Elmvale is about 20 miles northwest of Barrie.

Later Friday, another three aircraft were sent to the search area from CFB Trenton. Late the same day, seven aircraft, one a civilian plane, were sweeping the countryside around Midland.

The search was co-ordinated from CFB Trenton but the search master was Capt. Michael Davis, of Trenton, who remained at the Muskoka Airport near Bracebridge.

Work Under Way to Ready Park

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

BRIGHTON — With spring now sprung and summer just around the corner, the thoughts of Presqu'Ile Provincial Park supervisor Gerald Cox are turning to the work his staff must do before the annual influx of summer campers and beach-bound sunbathers.

And work there is Mr. Cox said Friday: "All park facilities have to be put back into service."

With the park scheduled to open May 9, repairs to roads and washrooms must be made. Petty vandalism, the theft of door knobs for example, has to be repaired. Grills at camp site cooking pits also must be repaired or replaced.

An expansion of the central water supply to the parks 519 camp sites must be completed. In all 2½-miles of new water lines are to be installed.

Mr. Cox said interior work, such as painting and repair of buildings, is done in April by about eight maintenance men. Come May, an additional four are hired, as are 12 students.

At summer's peak, 22 students, 16 maintenance men, plus the three-member permanent staff work to keep campers and swimmers happy.

Before the park closes Sept. 14, said Mr. Cox, his plans call for the redesign of parking and roads in the day use area of the park.

Seven-hour Fire Claims 600 Acres of Swamp

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

MASSASSAUGA — A 600-acre swamp fire here Friday was extinguishezd in time to prevent damage to a new Prince Edward County subdivision. However, the fire did destroy an estimated $1,500 in muskrat traps.

Ameliasburgh Township firefighters were called to the swamp shortly after noon when deputy fire chief Roger Flower spotted the fire between Horsepoint and Massassauga.

The fire, which burned for almost seven hours, was confined to a swamp for several hours. It then moved into a wooded area, threatening a nearby subdivision.

Deputy Chief Flower said 19 volunteer firefighters and about 25 neighboring residents fought against moderate winds, muddy field conditions and cool temperatures to extinguish the blaze.

Mr. Flower said the fire had been set on a nearby island by a Brighton man Eric Genereaux, his grandson, and a friend, both juveniles, in an effort to destroy mosquito nests. Apparently the fire got out of control.

A fire department spokesman said the man was burning brush without a permit.

Mr. Flower said two trappers had set about 500 muskrat traps in the swamp. A muskrat trap costs about $3.

Sam Dean, secretary treasurer of the Quinte Trapper's Association, said the muskrat season has just started and that a muskrat pelt brings about $1 on the market. He estimated that 500 traps would catch about 100 muskrats a day.

Mr. Flower said the cost to the township for fighting the blaze will be about $600. There were five fire trucks called to the scene. Firemen and volunteers were hampered by muddy conditions on roads and in the swamp. It is estimated the fire stretched for three miles along the waterfront concentrated at the mouth of Sawquin Marsh.

He also said firemen were forced to cut a fire break only 300 yards from a new subdivision to stop the fire from destroying the partially constructed homes. There were no injuries in the fire.

Reilly Joins McLauchlan For NDP Election Bid

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

With a provincial election on the horizon, one of the Quinte district's most irrepressible political personalities is back on the campaign trail.

Friday, Carson McLaughlan, 30-year-old New Democratic Party candidate nominated last week in Quinte riding, announced his campaign manager would be Ian Reilly.

As such, Mr. Reilly becomes the forefront figure in the backroom organization of yet another NDP attempt to score in what has been — to now at least — a relentlessly diffident territory.

But Mr. Reilly is more aware of that probably than any other local politician — and for a long time.

At 35, he is a veteran candidate himself of muncipal, provincial and federal elections.

His indelible personality trademark is energetic involvement — in or out of politics. And it was typical that announcement of his campaign management was handed out while he had his candidate already at work.

Mr. McLauchlan, shepherded by Mr. Reilly, was out Friday on Front St. during the noon rush hour — mainstreeting while the date of the election they expect is still only conjecture.

Mr. Reilly is a long-time campaigner. He started in 1958, a teen-ager, re-organizing the NDP's predecessor — the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation — in the Belleville area. By 1963, he was running as NDP candidate in the old Conservative stronghold riding of Hastings West against incumbent Elmer Sandercock.

Came the 1965 federal election and the NDP were without a candidate in neighborhing Northumberland. The party despatched Mr. Reilly as a political parachutist to run against George Hees. In 1967 he was back again — in provincial Quinte riding, seat of now Correctional Services Minister Dr. Richard Potter. He lost — but with about 3,100 ballots he claims he got the highest NDP vote in eastern Ontario.

He also ran once for city council.

Between elections he remained a top party organizer — covering ridings in the Quinte-Kingston district. He didn't relinquish his presidency of the Quinte NDP party until last year.

Professionally a labor organizer he is Canadian director of the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union — a job that keeps him on the move outside his community.

When he's back — and not engaged in politics — he is divisional officer of St. John's Ambulance; president of the Piston Pushers, a motorcycle club that works with emergency measures organization. For good measure, he is president of the city's Winemakers' Guild.

Leavens Gets Top Post

PICTON — Henry Leavens of Bloomfield, chairman of the Prince Edward Region Conservation Authority, has been re-elected chairman of the Eastern Region of the Committee of Chairman of the Ontario Conservation Authorities.

Campaigning Begins

Veteran politician Ian Reilly (centre) gets into campaigning shape early as he takes recently-named New Democratic Party candidate Carson McLauchlan (right) mainstreeting on Belleville's Front St. Friday. Along the way they talked with Ron Shermand — and others — after Mr. Reilly was announced as the candidate's manager for next provincial election in Quinte riding.

Most Plan to Bank Their Income Tax Rebate

By JIM SMELLE
Staff Reporter

With the rotating blue-collar strikes now over and necessary federal legislation passed, income tax rebate cheques now are beginning to arrive.

In an informal survey Friday, The Intelligencer asked some Belleville residents what they plan to do with their rebate.

Most said they planned to bank the money while others admitted they hadn't quite gotten around to filling out the forms yet.

Following is what six local residents plan to do with their rebate when it arrives:

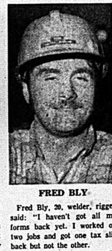
RON ELLIOTT

Ron Elliott, taxi dispatcher and driver, said he filled out his income tax about two weeks ago. "I should be getting about $88 back. It should come in about a month, I think.

"I won't spend it all at once I'll buy some clothes and put some in the bank."

LANGDON GARDNER

Langdon Gardner said he is on a disability pension since he had a stroke a few years ago. "I drove a mail truck then. I haven't filled out my tax. I don't know how much I'll get back. I'm on pension so I don't know how I'll do."



FRED BLY

Fred Bly, 20, welder, rigger said: "I haven't got all my forms back yet. I worked on two jobs and got one tax slip back but not the other.

"I plan to put it all in the bank. I'm not going to buy anything. Who can afford to? Who needs it?"

ARLIE BOESER

Arlie Boeser said: "I tried filling it out but haven't done it yet. I should be getting some back. I usually get money back, and usually spend it on something extra that you can't buy with normal wages.

"I usually spend my rebate on myself and my family. I like to use it to go back home to B.C."

DAVE BREMMER

Dave Bremmer, 17, rigger said: "I haven't sent it out yet but there's no hurry. There's still another month yet. I'm going to bank the money and let it earn interest. It's not going to earn anything by going out and buying something with it."

BILL DELINE

Bill Deline reported he sent "mine in about two weks ago" but hasn't got his rebate yet. "I plan to put it in the bank. I don't plan to spend it on anything out of the ordinary. When it's in the bank it will be in and out anyway so I don't have to worry that much what I do with it."

Doug Walsh

Sports Editor

Back to His First Love

"I loved the game. I hitchhiked all over the United States and Canada to be at hockey schools and tryout camps.

"Hockey gives the little guy who's quick and has the ability the chance to really be something in life instead of a muscle head . . ."

Those words are attributed to none other than daredevil Evel Knievel.

He wasn't always involved in hair-raising stunts.

When he was 18, Evel was just plain Robert Knievel. He had been bitten by the hockey bug, and it left a mark that will never fade.

The story goes, Knievel's hockey career ended in Chatham when he failed to make the grade with the Eastern Amateur League Charlotte Checkers during training camp.

Before that, the Butte, Montana native had struck out in his bid for a spot with the Seattle Totems of the Western Hockey League.

But Evel is set to face another of his steady parade of challenges and it's bringing him back to the sport he says he loved.

Tuesday night at Maple Leaf Gardens, Knievel will be featured in a special penalty shot competition, between the second and third periods of the Toronto Toros — Vancouver Blazers World Hockey Association game.

Knievel will get four shots at a Toro goalkeeper.

For every goal he scores, the shooter will receive $5,000.

The goalie gets $1,000 for each stop.

Promoters say the guy is "deadly serious" about the chance to test his shot against a professional goalie.

"I love hockey . . . if those people up there (Toronto) think they're going to see a circus act, they're very wrong.

"I'll do my damndest to get that money and I don't exactly intend to be a gentleman with the goalie."

What Evel means by that last statement is anybody's guess, since WHA referee in chief Vern Buffey will be the official in charge of the shoot-out and it is expected the shooter will be governed by the rules of the gaem.

At any rate, Toros' general manager Buck Houle is evidently taking the whole thing seriously. He's said to have put Knievel on the club's protected list.

The showdown will be telecast on ABC-TVs Wide Torld of Sports at a later date.

Nicks Take Ontario Crown

COLLINGWOOD (Special) — Before the Ontario Federation of Secondary Schools Association Basketball finals for A schools opened here, Friday, Belleville's Nicholson Catholic College was rated tops in the province in its class.

Two men who should know shared the opinion that Gary Duggan's Nicks, representing Central Ontario Secondary Schools' Association, deserved top billing. Belleville coaches Brian MacKenzie and Jim Murray didn't hesitate to rate Nicks No. 1.

MacKenzie and Murray know a good thing when they see it.

Nicks swept to the Ontario title here Friday, whipping Stayner Buckeyes 42-31 in the final after getting by Annandale Marauders 55-43. In its first start, Thursday, the Belleville school topped Merlin Mavericks 72-51.

In the championship match, Nicks owned a 32-19 lead at the three quarter mark and were able to withstand a Stayner comeback in the final quarter, to take the honors.

Dale Wilson's 17 points powered Nicks to the title in the showdown with Stayner. Jeff Boyle threw in 12 while Dave Holland and Bruce Collins each had six. Tops for Stayner and Paul Stanevilius and Peter Lainey with 13 and 12, respectively.

Boyle had a hot hand as Nicks put Annandale on the sidelines in the semi-final. He found the range for a point-total of 29. Wilson checked in with 10; Danny Kraszewski, six, and Holland four.

Now MacKenzie and Murray get their turn.

Mackenzie's Belleville Collegiate Institute team and Murray's Quinte Secondary School Saints have OFSSA competition of their own coming up.

BCI goes after the AA title while Quinte has its sights set on the AAA crown. Those events take place next week.

Belleville's other representative in the 32-team event, the Yardmen Minors, meet last year's champion, Nepean, at 3:%? P.M. IN THEIR FIRST START.

Play continues tomorrow and next week at the Community Gardens here.

Backs To Wall

STIRLING — After twin losses in Ontario Minor Hockey Association semi-final playoff action here Friday night, two Stirling representatives have their backs to the wall in the hunt for provincial honors.

Stirling Legion Peewees and the Riverside Structures Bantams now trail 2-0 in their respective series.

Legion lost 8-5 to Stroud while Riverside Structures were shaded 5-4 by Maple.

The Peewee series resumes in Stroud Sunday while the Bantam set's third game is scheduled for Stirling, Monday night.

Quinte Saints in AAA Bracket

Provincial Title on the Line

By MIKE BRADSHAW
Sports Staff

Again this season the Quinte Saints are headed for the Ontario Federation of Secondary School Athletics (OFSSA) AAA championships. Last year was the first time the Saints had entered triple A ball and they went into the 16-team tournament seeded 14th. When it was all over they had finished sixth.

"I think this year because of our record on the season and because of our showing last year we'll be seeded somewhere in the top eight teams," said Saints coach, Jim Murray.

With regular season, tournament and exhibition games, the Quinte seniors finished the year with a 35-7 won-lost record.

Three of those losses were to triple A clubs (Brookfield, Ottawa beat them twice and Sudbury High once), two were to Belleville Collegiate, who are AA, but among the top three AA teams in Ontario, and wo others were because the Saints just came up flat — once against KCVI Kingston, and once against Orillia.

Quinte only entered five tournaments this season, but went to the final of four of them. They won the Regiopolis and the KCVI tourneys in Kingston and lost in the final games of the Carleton University and BCI tournaments. They were beaten out in the semi-finals of the fifth one.

"We didn't enter many tournaments because we felt they weren't really worth it," said Murray.

"We preferred to play exhibition games against some of the better senior teams in the province instead of going to tournaments and having no competition," he added.

The Saints took on some teams in Ottawa in exhibition games this season and finished with four wins in five starts. It is that kind of competition that Murray preferred ahead of tournaments.

This is his fourth year as coach of the Quinte team. It took him just two years to put together an all-Ontario champion in AA ball. Quinte is still classed as an AA school, but Murray decided last season that he would rather play AAA — the highest class in the province.

So, in the Saints first year of premier-class basketball they won the Central Ontario title and went on to finish sixth in the province. Two weeks ago they repeated their performance at the Central Ontario Secondary School Athletics (COSSA) meet and have retained their right to advance to OFSSA.

The provincial championships are being held at Brock University, St. Catharines March 25-26-27.

"I didn't think at the first of the year that this team would go as far as it did," said Murray, "it really isn't as strong as the team I had last season."

Murray felt we would be in trouble this year since all of his starters from last season's squad graduated. He was left with two players who had limited senior experience and a handful of eager over-age juniors.

"I really don't know what it is with this team," said the coach, "they are almost all rookies and when they get out on the court they don't even look like basketball players."

"But when they're there. They just come together," he added.

Murray really doesn't know what to make of his team. But AAA ball has had some rather strange development right across the province.

"I can't guess exactly where we're seeded," said Murray, "because all the supposedly top teams were knocked out of contention by unseeded teams in their own regions. The people running the AAA tournament don't know what to do about rating anybody because they have no place to begin."

Conceivably, because of the way things have gone in AAA ball this year, Quinte could finish at the top of the provincial list.

Murray knows what his team has to watch out for and he expects to have them prepared for anything that happens at the all-Ontario tournament.

He knows his defence can take care of itself. Quinte plays one of the tightest defences around. Their 3-1-1 half-court press has already caused the best teams in eastern Ontario grief. If the going gets really tough, the Saints fall back to a virtually invincable 2-2-1 zone.

However, Murray feels he has to get the team moving more to the basket and pulling down more offensive rebounds for the squad to go all the way.

In any event, Murray will undoubtedly be back at the OFSSA championships next year. He loses only two starters from the team this year and with the strength of his club he'll have no problems finding replacements.

Keith's Burst Fans Flames

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Keith McCreary, who scored a team record four goals, was talking playoffs after Atlanta Flames had demolished Vancouver Canucks 12-4 along with a handful of team records Friday night.

The Flames' National Hockey League victory gave them a 30-29-13 record and 73 points, five fewer than New York Islanders in the battle for a Patrick Division playoff berth.

Vancouver, 34-31-8, leads the Smythe Division and St. Loui Blues missed a chance to move to within one point of the Canucks by dropping a 7-4 loss to California Seals in Friday's only other NHL game.

"If we can put it together now, we can still make the playoffs,' said McCreary. "The morale is great, and I think we'll play progressively better every game."

Besides McCreary's one-game individual record, the Flames' 12 goals set a team mark; Tom Lysiak had a goal and three assists to top his year-old season-point record, and the 16 goals for both teams was a new high for a game played at Atlanta's Omni.

That point-total was only one above the 15 scored Wednesday night when the Flames beat Toronto 8-7.

There was nothing close about Friday's game as the Flames took a 4-0 first-period lead and held control all the way.

Vancouver coach Phil Maloney pointed out the game was his team's fifth in seve ndays but offered no excuses. His analysis: "The goaltenders played poorly; the defence played poorly, and the forwards played poorly."

Gerry O'Flaherty scored three goals for Vancouver while the Flames took turns pelting Canucks goalies Gary Smith and Ken Lockett.

Lysiak's four points gave him 68 for the season on 21 goals and 47 assists. His old mark wa 64.

Eric Vail and Hilliard Graves each had two goals for Atlanta, which had 46 shots on goal to 27 for the Canucks.

Rey Comeau, Curt Bennett and Buster Harvey added scores for the Flames, and Don Lever had one for Vancouver.

LEADS SEALS

California's Joey Johnston scored once and assisted on two other goals to lead the Seals against the Blues.

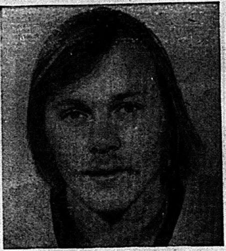
Johnston got his goal at 17:55 of the third period and assisted on goals by rookies Rick Hampton and Al MacAdam.

After Larry Patey and Dave Hrechkosy scored 62 seconds apart for a 2-0 lead in the first period, the Seals were ahead to stay.

The third-place Blues thus remained three points behind the Canucks and two behind second-place Chicago Black Hawks in the tight Smythe Division race.

Bill Collins scored twice and his St. Louis team-mates Floyd Thomson and Bob Gassoff had a goal each.

Jim Neilson and Bryan Lavender scored the other goals for the Seals.



Goring – Eye Damaged

Butch May Miss Playoff Action

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Butch Goring, the Los Angeles Kings' centre who suffered a severe eye injury in a game against New York Islanders, may not be to play in the National Hockey League playoffs as originally thought.

"He definitely will not play the rest of the regular season and there's only a slim possibility he can play in the playoffs," said Dr. Charles Aronberg who performed an operation on Goring following his injury.

"It would be a big mistake to let him play before the vision is clear," he said.

Goring fractured the bone that encloses his right eye when he was struck by the skate f Denis Potvin of New York Islanders on March 6.

Goring, who scored 24 goals in 35 games before the injury, said his v sion is clear when he looks ahead but that he sees double when he looks down or to either side.

Hull's 127 Points A Record

Jets Improve Their Chances

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Bobby Hull and the Winnipeg Jets redeemed themselves Friday night and moved back into the thick of the battle for a wild-card berth in the World Hockey Association playoffs.

With Hull picking up a goal and two assists to become the highest single-season point-producer in WHA history, the Jets turned on the power in the third period to score a 6-3 victory over New England Whalers in Friday's only scheduled WHA game.

Hull now has 127 points on 69 goals and 58 assists to wipe out the old record of 124 points that San Diego's Andre Lacroix set two seasons ago.

"The record doesn't mean that much to me," said Hull. "The important thing is for us to make the playoffs. This was a big win for us. We played poorly the last time we were here but we redeemed ourselves tonight."

The victory gives the Jets a 33-31-4 record, good for 81 points and third place in the Canadian Division. The Whalers, who clinched the East Division title earlier this week, are 38-26-5.

Taking a back seat to Hull was Winnipeg right winger Anders Hedberg, who scored three times, including a pair of goals in the third period when the Jets outscored the Whalers 4-1. The teams were tied 2-2 going into the final period.

"It was certainly a big win for us," said Hedberg, who plays on the same line with Hull and centre Ulf Nilsson. We are a high scoring line and the last time we were in the Whalers did a good job of shutting us off. We needed this win just to prove we can beat them."

The Whalers led twice in the contest, 1-0, on Wayne Carleton's first-period goal and 2-1 on Ron Climie's second-period score. But each time the Jets came back, Hedberg and Danny Spring each scoring in the second period. Hull then put the Jets up by a 3-2 count early in the third period. Hedberg made it 4-2 at the 16:04 mark and Perry Miller put it away at 17:08.

Knights Foiled

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sudbury Wolves' two unanswered goals in the third period Friday temporarily dashed London Knights' bid for a playoff berth as they lost 6-3.

London and Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds, who have one game remaining in the regular season, are one point behind Kingston Canadians, who hold the eighth and final playoff spot in the Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A standings. Kingston ended its season earlier this week.

In other games Toronto Marlboros trounced St. Catharines Black Hawks 8-1 and Ottawa '67s edged Kitchener Rangers 4-3.

Marlboros 8 Hawks 1

Mike Kaszycki's three-goal performance and two goals by John Tonelli sparked first-place Toronto to their 47th win this season.

The Marlboros played without leading scorer Bruce Boudreau, who suffered an eye injury in practice this week and they lost Mark Napier in the first period when he injured his knee.

John Anderson, Lynn Jorgenson and John Smrke got the other goals for Toronto, which held period leads of 3-0 and 5-1.

Gary Sobchak scored for St. Catharines, outshot 36-35 in Brantford.

67s 4 Rangers 3

Ottawa closed out their season on a winning note after rallying from a 3-2 second-period deficit.

Jamie Masters and Norm Kajola scored the winning and insurance goals respectively within one minute and 48 seconds.

Tom McDonell and Bruce Baker scored earlier goals for Ottawa, which ended the season with a 33-30-7 record.

John Baby, Bob Schnurr and Claude Noel replied for last-place Kitchener, outshot 30-23 before a home crowd of 2,433.

PLANS 32-MILE SWIM

TORONTO (CP) — Kim Lumsdon, 18, will try to succeed at something her father, Cliff, was unable to accomplish—swim Lake Ontario. She plans to try the 32-mile swim in July. Her dad conquered the Strait of Juan de Fuca and won marathon races off the Toronto waterfront and at Atlantic City but never completed the cross-lake swim.

Voyageurs Top Hawks

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Nova Scotia Voyageurs defeated New Haven Nighthawks 6-2 in one of four American Hockey League games Friday night, but failed to pick up any ground in their fight with Rochester Americans for second place in the Northern Division.

While Peter Sullivan's three goals led the Voyageurs to victory at New Haven, the Americans were defeating Syracuse Eagles 2-1.

The win left Rochester a point ahead of Nova Scotia in the division standings.

In other games, Richmond Robins shut out Hershey Bears 5-0 to overtake second place in the Southern Division, and Virginia Red Wings, leaders in the Southern Division, stopped Northern Division-leading Providence Reds 5-3.

Dave Hynes scored with 2:23 left in the game to give the Americans their win over Syracuse.

Rookie goaltender Bernie Wolfe, playing in his 10th game since being called up from the North American Hockey League, kicked out 40 shots in Richmond's shut-out win over Hershey.

Ted Snell's goal broke a 3-3 tie in the third period to give Virginia its win over Providence.

Tom Mellor added two goals for the winners and Rene Drolet and Rick McCann had the others.

Gerry Teeple, Bob MacMillan and Boyd Anderson scored for Providence.

Semi-finals On Tap Today

PERTH, Scotland (CP) Pressure is all a matter of the mind where young Rick Lang is concerned.

The 21-year-old Lakehead University student was thrown in with the lions at the Canadian championships after replacing third Tom Tod on Bill Tetley's Thunder Bay champions just before the Northern Ontario playoffs.

He distinguished himself in the national finals, finishing a close second in voting for all-star third. But there remained the question of how he would react under pressures of world championship play.

After all, Tetley, a 40-year-old veteran, had been to the national final three times and while it was the first trip for lead Petr Hnatiw and second Bill Hodgson, they at least had the experience of playing together with the skip all season.

Lang has answered any question of his ability to operate under pressure, being by far the most consistent shooter on the Canadian rink.

It was evident Lang could handle himself again in ninth-round play Friday afternoon with several crucial shots in an 8-7 win over Helmar Strombo's Norwegian champions that nailed down first place in the standings for Canada.

Canada finished in a three-way tie at 7-2 with Axel Kamp of Sweden and Ed Risling of the United States but took first on the basis of wins over the other two rinks earlier in round-robin play.

Canada faces Otto Danielli of Switerland in one semi-final at 2 p.m. EST today while the other semi-final has the U.S. against Sweden.

The survivors meet in Sunday's final at 2 p.m. EST with live television coverage on the CBC national network.

Sweden finished with an 8-2 win over Klaus Kan of West Germany in the final round while the U.S. defeated John Kjaerulff of Denmark 11-6 and Switerland defeated Andre Tronc of France 9-3.

Scotland's Alex Torrance finished with a 6-3 win over Giuseppe Dal Molin of Italy.

The final standings after the top three had Switerland at 6-3; Scotland 5-4; Norway, France and Germany 4-5; Denmark 1-8 and Italy 0-9.

"I don't know what they mean by experience," said Lang, whose regular rink is known around the home club as the Grubbie Kids of Thunder Bay because of their long hair and arrow-like deliveries of stones that sees them tucked low to the ice. "Heck, I've been there before in the schoolboy finals."

Alberta Champs Finish at 10-1

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Les Rowland and his wife Audrey, who celebrated their 24th wedding anniversary Friday, are heading to Niagara Falls, Ont., this weekend before heading back to Calgary with some fond memories of this southwestern Ontario city.

"We hope to get down to Niagara Falls and then fly out of here sometime Sunday," said Rowland, who skipped Alberta's rink to victory in the Canadian mixed curling championship this week and is supposed to be competing in a cash bonspiel starting Monday.

"The cash spiel will last for a week," he said. "But I don't know if I will."

Rowland and his wife along with Betty and Dan Schmaltz were superb all week and skip Rowland and second Schmaltz were named to the all-star team for the event Friday night. Also selected was vice-skip Kathy Dillon of Prince Edward Island and lead Mary Adams of Manitoba.

The Alberta rink capped off its fine week of play Friday morning with an 8-6 win over the Northern Ontario representative skipped by Dale Harten of Sault Ste. Marie. Alberta finished 10-1 while Northern Ontario was 1-10.

Meanwhile P.E.I., led by skip by Bob Dillon of Charlottetown, clinched second place with a 6-4 triumph over Les Bowering and his Newfoundland rink from St. John's.

Defending champion Rick Folk and his Saskatchewan rink from Saskatoon moved into a tie for third with New Brunswick by topping Roscoe Wilson and his Moncton foursome 5-4. Both finished with 7-4 marks, one game behind P.E.I.

Manitoba, skipped by Larry Taylor of Brandon, tied for fifth with Bill Melnyk's Yellowknife crew repesenting the Territories, each with 6-5 marks. Manitoba beat the Quebec rink skipped by Andre Emond of Montreal 8-5 while the Territories earned an 8-6 decision over Ontario's representative skipped by Toronto's Dave Reid.

In another game, Jake Block and his Abbotsford, B.C., foursome downed Harry Stevenson and his Nova Scotia crew from Sydney 9-5.

Ontario, B.C. and Newfoundland finished with a 5-6 records followed by Quebec and Nova Scotia at 3-8 and Northern Ontario at 1-10.

The victory by Alberta kept the mixed title in the West where it has been since the inception of the competition in 1963. Alberta has won the title four times, including the last time it was held here in 1969 when Don Anderson of Edmonton won it with a 10-0 record.

Manitoba and Saskatchewan have each won three titles while B.C. has taken the other.

Next year, the event will be held in Lethbridge, Alta., and the 1977 championship will be staged in Halifax.

Wepner and Ali in Pre-fight Session

Dundee Discusses Famous Upsets

CLEVELAND (AP) — "Odds are deceiving," says Angelo Dundee, who will be in Muhammad Ali's corner when he fights challenger Chuck Wepner, a fight the heavyweight champion is an overwhelming favorite to win.

Dundee killed some time while awaiting Monday night's fight by talking about famous boxing upsets with sports writers Friday as Ali and Wepner took the day off from training.

In fact, Wepner is finished with his gym work while Ali was scheduled to loosen up at the Coliseum for the last time today.

Dundee mentioned such upsets as Jimmy Braddock over Max Baer for the heavyweight title and Willie Pastrano over Harold Johnson for the light heavyweight championship.

Braddock was a 9-to-1 underdog and Pastrano was an 8-to-1 underdog.

A victory by Wepner would be a major upset. Ali is such a strong favorite that Nevada bookmakers haven't even established a betting line.

Publicity drummers for the fight have been saying that Ali's casual attitude about the fight could lead to a reversal.

But Dundee said Ali will be ready when the bell rings.

"He's the heavyweight champion and this guy is trying to take away the title," said Dundee. "That's motivation enough."

Dundee said his main fear in this fight "is my guy getting busted up because of the way this guy fights."

He said he has seen Wepner train and that "it is the first time I ever saw a guy practise illegal punches in a gymnasium. He throws kidney punches and rabbit punches.'

A rabbit punch is a blow behind the neck.

THREE IN TOP FIVE

(CP) — Three Canadians were among the top five after Wednesday's action in the soling class at an Olympic training regatta. John Kolius of the United States led the class with 21 points, but Sid Dakin of oronto was second with 27, Hans Fogh of Toronto fourth with 38 and Bill Abbott of Sarnia, Ont., fifth with 52.7 points.

Takes Aim on First Win

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Barney Thompson, who has yet to win in two years of tour activity, has no definite goal going into today's third round of the $150,000 Greater Jacksonville open golf tournament.

"I'll just try to play another good round," said Thompson, whose six-under-par 66 gave him the 36-hole lead.

Arnold Palmer, who has won 61 times in 21 years of tour activity, has a very definite goal.

"I've had two rounds that were fair to good," said Palmer. "Now I've got to have two rounds that are really good."

Palmer, still one of the game's great attractions despite a long, frustrating slump, birdied four of five holes at one stretch on his way to a second consecutive 68 that left him three strokes back of Thompson.

"For a while I felt like I was going to birdie every hole," said Palmer. "And that's the feeling you've got to have."

He said his confidence, at an ebb during his troubles of last season is building to a peak.

Tom Shaw came on with a 67 and was third at 137, seven under par for two trips over the Club course and four behind Thompson.

The group at 138 was made up of U.S. amateur champion Jerry Pate, Dave Stockton, Jerry McGee, Joe Inman, Peter Oosterhuis of England and Bobby Cole of South Africa.

Oosterhuis matched Thompson's 66 as the best round of the Inman had 68s, Stockton and Cole 69s.

Mac McLendon, a co-leader in the first round, went to a 72 and 139. Lee Elder had a 73 and was well back at 141.

Three Canadians failed to make the 146 cutoff for the final two rounds. Wilf Homenuik of Winnipeg shot a 74 for 147, George Knudson of Toronto had a 75 for 148 and Ben Kern of Toronto shot a 72 for 149.

Thompson missed only two greens and didn't make a bogey. He needed only 29 putts. Two of those were for birdie from 15 and 20 feet.

Twice he hit irons inside of four feet. He scored his fourth duece of the tournament from eight feet. He once reached a par five in two and two-putted.

Angels Upset Cubs' Strategy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Chicago Cubs refused to let California Angels use designated hitters in place of their pitchers in Friday's exhibition baseball game and the move backfired.

Charlie Hudson, the second California pitcher forced to come to bat in the fourth inning, hit a two-out single off Ken Frailing and Joe Lahoud followed with a two-run homer that gave the Angels a 4-1 lead.

Elsewhere, the day was a disaster for New York Mets' beleaguered pitching staff and a boon for some former Mets. While Los Angeles Dodgers were cuffing three Met hurlers for 15 hits enroute to a 13-5 defeat, ex-Met Nolan Ryan yielded one run in four innings in California's victory over the Cubs, ex-Met Tommy Moore combined with Bob Forsch to pitch a one-hitter as St. Louis Cardinals beat Boston Red Sox 3-0 and ex-Met star Gary Gentry limited a split Houston squad to two hits in four innings as Atlanta Braves defeated the Astros 5-1.

In other games, the rest of the Astros blanked Minnesota Twins 3-0, Cincinnati Reds defeated Detroit Tigers 5-3, Philadelphia Phillies edged Pittsburgh Pirates 4-3 in 10 innings, Oakland A's beat San Diego Padres 4-2, a split Kansas City squad beat New York Yankees 8-4 while the rest of the Royals blanked Chicago White Sox 3-0, Montreal Expos nipped Texas Rangers 6-5 and San Francisco Giants defeated Milwaukee Brewers 4-1.

Montreal's Gary Carter collected three hits, including a homer, and knocked in three runs in the Expos' triumph over Texas. It was the Expos' ninth win in 13 starts.

Thomas collected three hits in San Francisco's victory over Milwaukee, their sixth consecutive exhibition triumph.

So-GreeN The 4-Step Program So-GreeN

When our customers ask us how they can get a beautiful, trouble-free lawn, Thrasher's Farm & Garden Centre recommends the So-Green Four-Step Program. When used as recommended we guarantee results.

1 MARCH/APRIL

To get your lawn off to a fast, healthy start in the early Spring, apply So-Green Premium 21-7-7 with Iron. You use only 1/3 the amount compared to 7-7-7 fertilizers, saving you time and money, while achieving the same results. This product contains time release nitrogen for long lasting results.

If you were troubled with Crabgrass last year use So-Green Crabgrass Killer plus 10-5-10 fertilizer and do two jobs with one application.

Premium 21-7-7
50 lbs feeds 10,000 square feet
25 lbs. feeds 5,000 square feet
12½ lbs. feeds 2,500 square feet
Crabgrass Killer 10-5-10
40 lbs. treats 5,000 square feet
20 lbs. treats 2,500 square feet
5 lbs. threats 650 square feet

2 APRIL/MAY JUNE

For your second feeding use new So-Green Super All Purpose 14-7-7 with Milorganite and Iron. The Milorganite ensures a long lasting Organic feeding and the Iron guarantees a deep green lawn. This fertilizer contains all the nutrients essential to plant life. It will not burn your lawn.

If you were plagued with ants and other soil insects last year, use So-Green Bug Killer 10-5-10. We guarantee it.

Super All Purpose 14-7-7
33⅓ lbs. feeds 5,000 square feet
Bug Killer 10-5-10
20 lbs. feeds 2,500 square feet

3 MAY/JUNE JULY/AUGUST

A vital time to feed your lawn with So-Green High Organic containing 60% Milorganite. The organic nature of this product prevents your lawn from turning brown during the summer and 20 trace elements will give you a deep, dark green lawn. High Organic will not burn your grass.

If weeds are still a problem, use So-Green Weed Killer with 10-5-10 fertilizer. It kills dandelions, plantain and other broadleaf weeds while feeding your lawn.

High Organic 10-6-4
50 lbs. feeds 5,000 square feet
25 lbs. feeds 2,500 square feet
Weed Killer 10-5-10
60 lbs. treats 6,000 square feet
40 lbs. treats 4,000 square feet
20 lbs. treats 2,000 square feet
5 lbs. treats 500 square feet

4 SEPTEMBER OCTOBER NOVEMBER

A most important time to feed your lawn to help it survive the winter ahead. Fall Season Lawn Food 3-6-10 is a formula designed for just this purpose. It contains Milorganite, to keep your lawn green throughout the Fall season.
If you failed to eliminate your weeds earlier, ensure they're gone by next Spring by applying So-Green Fall Season Weed Control. It is formulated to winterize and fertilize your lawn while controlling persistent weeds. Don' forget: use So-Green Guaranteed Grass Seed for your Spring and Fall seeding.

IN MEMORIAM

SCOTT — In loving memory of a dear mother Gertrude Mary who passed away two years ago today.
We are sad within our memory,
Lonely are our hearts today,
For the one we loved so dearly,
Has forever been called away.
We think of her in silence,
No eye may see us weep,
But many silent tears are shed,
When others are asleep.
—Lovingly remembered by son Bob and daughters Cathy and Cheryle, son-in-law James, grandchildren Michael and Tonya.

THOMPSON — In loving memory of our dear daughter, Vicki ,who died March 22, 1973.
Though tears in our eyes do not glisten,
And our faces are not always sad,
There is never a night or a morning,
We don't think of the daughter we had,
It's lonely here without you,
We miss you more each day,
For life is not the same to us,
Since you were called away.
—Lovingly remembered Mom and Dad.

THOMPSON — In loving memory of a dear sister Vicki, who died March 22, 1973.
We think of her in silence,
No eyes can see us weep,
But still within our aching hearts,
Her memory we keep.
—Remembered by Dale, Connie and Jeremy.

THOMPSON — In loving memory of a dear granddaughter, Vicki, who died March 22, 1973.
Every hour we dearly miss her,
Sadly do we feel her loss,
Lonely is our home without her,
Help us Lord to bear the cross.
—Remembered by grandmother Alford.

THOMPSON — In loving memory of our sister, Vicki, who died March 22, 1973.
Thank you God for the many memories of one who was more than a sister. She was a friend.
—Always remembered by brother Lagy and sister Julie.

THOMPSON — In loving memory of a deor niece, Vicki Thompson, who passed away two years ago, March 22, 1973.
Not until each loom is silent,
And the shuttles cease to fly,
Will God unroll the pattern,
And explain the reason why.
The dark threads are as needful,
In the Weaver's skillful hand,
As the threads of gold and silver,
For the pattern which he planned.
—Sadly missed by her aunt and uncle, Allen and Marjorie, and cousins, Stephen, Lori, Chris and Kim.

WHITEMAN — In loving memory of a dear brother Stanley Whiteman who passed away March 23, 1974.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Always tender fond and true,
There's not a day dear brother,
We do not think of you.
—Lovingly remembered by sister Grace and brother-in-law Hudson Cook and family.

WHITEMAN — In loving memory of our dear son Stanley Samuel Whiteman, who passed away March 23, 1974.
I ofen think of bygone days when we were all together,
The family chain is broken now, but memories will live forever,
It gets lonely here without you,
We miss you more each day,
For life is not the same to us,
Since you were called away.
—Livingly remembered by Mother and Dad, Henry and Harriett and sisters and brothers.

THOMPSON — In loving memory of our dear friend Vicki who passed away on March 22, 1973, as a result of an accident.
No farewells were spoken,
No time to say goodbye
You were gone before we knew,
And only God knows why,
Our hearts still ache with sadness,
Which no one will ever know.
—Greatly missed by Bonnie and the McCormack family.

Dental Team

A dental nurse-dental assistant team work on a six-year old at a Regina school clinic. The Saskatchewan Dental Plan, which provides free dental care for six-year olds, has been in operation five months and has set up dental clinics in about 180 schools throughout the province. (CP Photo).

Saskatchewan Children Get Free Dental Care

EGINA (CP) — For many Saskatchewan children, going to the dentist has become just a matter of a short walk down the hall from their classrooms.

The Saskatchewan Dental Plan, which provides free treatment to six-year-olds has been in operation five months and has set up dental clinics in about 180 schools throughout the province.

The major goal of the plan, which will gradually expand to cover all children aged 3 to 16, is to provide adequate dental care to those who would otherwise be without it, either because of poverty or lack of access to a dentist.

But the plan is also breaking new ground in using paraprofessionals to replace dentists and in finding imaginative ways to remove children's fear of dentists.

Without the program, says director Dr. Michael Lewis only about 30 per cent of Saskatchewan children would receive regular dental care.

"If you go into some of the more remote areas, the state of dental health that we have found would indicate that very few children are receiving any dental care at all," he says.

" . . . In one community where 49 children were enrolled, and this is not a particularly large community, all of the back teeth of all of the children needed fillings.

"All of the molar teeth needed extensive fillings. There was not one child who was in the position of just needing a small filling or something like this."

Without the dental plan, the children would have gone without care until toothaches prompted their parents to drive them to the nearest town with a dentist for extractions.

In contrast, the 10,600 children enrolled in the plan, which will cost $3.5 million for its first year, will have a regular series of visits that start with a lesson in dental health and proceed with examinations and treatment.

Until more clinics are built, many will have to take a bus trip to one of the existing clinics, but those with clinics in their own schools will have the benefit of treatment in familiar surroundings.

All children will get the benefit of treatment by two-woman teams of a dental nurse and a dental assistant.

For young children, says Dr. Lewis, dental treatment by a woman is much less frightening:

"I didn't believe it until I started working with this program but I think children relate very well to these dental nurses. . . .

"Our dental clinic really don't look like an average dentist's office.

"You know, they're not the cubicles with the great massive pieces of equipment. By and large, because of the portability of our equipment, it's smalll it doesn't look threatening, it can be pushed out of the way when the child first comes in so that all that they see is a nice bright dental chair and a light."

Dr. Lewis says that in multi-chair clinics the program personnel try to have several children in at once "so that they're all in the room together and they don't feel isolated or threatened."

One reason the dental plan has drawn visitors from all over North America is its use of dental nurses, who receive two years' training, and dental assistants, who receive one year's training.

"Most of the services, probably 95 per cent of them, are provided by dental nurses," says Dr. Lewis.

The nurses, who start at $848 a month, work only on baby teeth, leaving complicated work to the dentist supervising their group, while the assistants are limited to such tasks as cleaning and painting fluoride on teeth.

Despite statements by Health Minister Walter Smishek last spring that the plan would have a ratio of two nurses to one dentist, the plan's staff in February was 11 full-time dentists, 11 part-time dentists 50 dental nurses and 67 dental assistants.

Dr. Lewis notes that the plan is not in any way trying to put dentists in private practice out of business. If parents decide to keep relying on a private dentist, "that's great as far as we are concerned."

TOKYO (AP) — Japanese liquor shop owners have decided to shut off the 100,000 beer and sake vending machines from 11 p.m. to 5 a.m. daily in an effort to fight alcoholism and crime, says a spokesman for the owners. Police said the automats often give rise to crime by making alcoholic beverages available after restaurants and liquor shops close.

THE UNEXPLAINED

by Allen Spraggett

The Jupiter Effect

Copyright 1975, Toronto Sun Syndicate

The scientists who invented it dubbed it "The Jupiter Effect."

Sounds harmless enough, another nutty, or not-so-nutty (as the case may be) theory that nobody probably will ever hear of again after two weeks.

But this may be different.

The Jupiter Effect, you see, could relate to those long-feared titanic earthquakes in California and elsewhere.

Spare us, you say, more doom and gloom about apocalptic tidal waves wiping out the west coast

O.K., But an important difference here is that the doomsters aren't religious visionaries in white robes or freaked-out cultists but a pair of formidably respectable scientists. One, astrophysicist Dr. John Gribbin, is editor of the science journal Nature; the other, Dr. Stephen Plagemann, is a researcher at the Goddard Space Centre.

The Jupiter Effect refers to what these scientists think will happen in 1982 in the wake of a rare astronomical phenomenon. For the first time in 179 years all nine planets in the solar system, including Jupiter, the most massive by far, will arrange themselves in a virtual straight line on the same side of the sun. This unusual heavenly line-up, fear Gribbin and Plagemann, could cause all hell to break loose here on earth.

In the remote scientific past — say 10 years ago — scientists scorned the idea that the position of the planets had anything to do with earthquakes or anything else much on earth. Then came the findings of Dr. Rudolph Tomaschek, a German geophysicist, about Uranus and earthquakes.

He discovered that at the time of major quakes Uranus tended to be at or near its nadir (low point) over the affected part of the earth's surface.

Later, other planets were implicated. Finally it was shown that all the planets are related to earthquakes because earthquakes are directly linked to sunspot activity and sunspots are predictable by interpreting planetary positions.

How exactly do sunspots link to earthquakes?

Well, it apparently goes like this. Sunspots are actually enormous explosions on the sun's surface which shoot into the earth's atmosphere an unusually strong "solar wind" of high energy radiation. This solar wind effects world conditions in at least three major ways.

First, it produces distortions and disruptions in the earth's geomagnetic field (the magnetic "aura," if you like that envelop our plant). These distortians can cause the earth to wobble on its axis.

Second, the solar wind causes violent weather and atmospheric changes on earth which can exert a frictional drag, an actual braking effect, on the planet's axial spin.

Third, this braking can lead to a sudden jolt as earth shudders in a slow-down that may put unbearable stresses on key points of the globe's surface.

The two scientists, Gribbin and Plagemann, fear that the Jupiter Effect may trigger devastating shock waves in earthquake-prone areas. The results could be stupefying to contemplate.

In 1959, a monumental period of sunspot activity was accompanied by a notable increase in earthquakes.

Will 1982 prove to be a period of even greater upheavals?

Is the Jupiter Effect science fiction or fact?

Time will tell ...

Drop Charge

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former White House aide John D. Ehrlichman no longer faces a perjury charge arising from the Daniel Ellsberg burglary case. The charge was dropped at the request of District Attorney Joseph Busch who said prosecution of the count would amount to "an extensive and time-consuming act of vengeance." Ehrlicaman now is appealing the 2½-to-eight-year sentence for his part in the Watergate cover-up.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) "Fun activities will command most of your attention today. But do heed the little voice that tells you not to make too much of a good thing.

Opening lead 9♠

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

Every time we think of deceptive plays, we come back to a standard play that wasn't so stanard 35 years or so ago. Harry Fishbein of New York was the first to make it.

Fishbein sat West and was defending against a six-notrump contract.

He opened the nine of spades. His partner slapped the ace on dummy's queen and led back a spade. Declarer proceeded to cash two spades, three hearts and three diamonds—slowly and carefully—in the manner of a man who had a problem somewhere.

The manner did not matter to Harry. Harry knew that his jack of clubs was the only card South could be worrying about and he would only have that worry if his four-card suit were clubs.

So, when finally South led dummy's king of clubs and East followed with the three, Harry dropped the nine spot.

This really gave South a cause to think. If the nine had not dropped, the play to his ace would have been automatic because there would be no way to pick up four to the jack-nine in the East hand.

Now, South could pick up four to the jack in the East hand; so he plays dummy's queen of clubs. After that play there was no way to finesse the jack.

What do you do?

A — In expert circles you bid four spades; since a three-spade opening shows a bad hand with a lot of spades. If your partner is inclined to have good preempts you might gamble on a stronger bid.

TODAY'S QUESTION

You hold the same hand. East opens three spades. What do you do?

To Your Good Health

Cotton in Ears May Be Harmful

By G. C THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: You will notice by my address that I am a resident of a home for the elderly. It is a very nice place, and we are all cared for very well. I'm in wonderful health, no pain, no aches. I passed my 87th birthday recently. Now my question:

I am amazed at the number of old people who are hard of hearing. Mine is good. One of the men here says that bad hearing is a matter of the wax that accumulates in the ears as we grow older. He says this affects the inner ear.

What I do is use a little sweet oil. I put it on a small piece of cotton and put it in the ears once in a while. It helps keeps the wax soft. Is there anything else we can do to prevent or delay this wax buildup?

I feel sorry for these dear ones. They miss so much friendship and visiting!—O.M..

Impacted earwax cerumen is a common complaint among the elderly, but it is by no means limited to them. We all have cerumen, some of us more than others.

This thick, yellowish, waxy substance is secreted by the glands in the lining of the auditory canal. That's the structure which allows air and sound to reach the tympanic membrane (the ear drum).

So it is natural that any occlusion of this canal by excessive secretion of the wax will cause what is called "conductive deafness." Normal wax secretion performs the same function in the ear as do the hairs you find down in the canal—that of protecting against invasion by foreign objects, dust, etc.

The wax, incidentally, does not affect the inner ear, which has its own natural protections.

Your idea of softening the wax with warm sweet oil is good, but I can't say the same for your poking around, even with something as seemingly harmless as a bit of cotton. This can be dangerous, especially for folks who have had a perforated ear drum. Such poking is apt to force more of the wax deeper into the canal and against the ear drum.

You are entirely correct, though, about the prevalence of hearing loss among the elderly. It usually can be corrected with proper attention by a doctor, who can assess the earwax problem and remove the excess professionally if necessary.

There is a harmless procedure you can use with your sweet oil. After the oil has had time to soften the wax, stand in a shower and have warm water sprinkle against the ear. This can remove some of the looser wax more readily.

But remember that all hearing loss is not associated with earwax. It can come with otosclerosis, a bone problem of the inner ear, or nerve degeneration.

I commend your concern for your fellow residents, but I would rather you arranged to have a doctor visit to check their ears than to have you prescribe a method that might not be entirely safe for everyone.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is a myocardiogram?—J.S.

I think you refer to an electrocardiogram, which is a tracing on paper of electrical impulses showing heart muscle activity. Electrodes are placed on the body and they detect minute changes in electrical current representing the strength and duration of heart beats.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I stopped taking aspirin compound for six months for osteoarthritis. Now I must take it again. I have some old tablets left. How long can they be kept and still be safe to take?—Mrs. K.H.

Pharmacists give me no hard and fast rule on this with regard to aspirin. If your aspirins have a strong, vinegarish odor, or if they crumble readily to the touch, then throw them out. Six months should not produce these signs, but much depends, of course, on whether the bottle cap was kept tightened and how little moisture got to them.

But six months is six months, and since aspirins are not too awfully expensive, you might want to save yourself any nagging doubt by chucking them out and starting with a fresh supply.

Scoffs at Reports

LONDON (AP) — Prince Charles says stories of his purported marriage plans are groundless and that he hopes his position has not caused distress to his prospective subject. "I have read so many reports recently telling everyone who I am about to marry that, when last year a certain young lady was staying at Sandringham, a crowd of about 1,000 appeared when we went to church," the prince, 26, told the parliamentary press corps. "Such was the obvious conviction that what they had read was true that I almost felt I had better espouse myself at once so as not to disappoint too many people," the bachelor Prince of Wales said, amid laughter. The lady in question was Lady Jane Wellesley.

Marks Anniversary

WINDSOR, England (CP) — An exhibition to mark the 500th anniversary of the building of St. Georges Chapel here is planned for July 5-Sept. 5. The chapel, one of the most splendid examples in Britain of gothic architecture in the perpendicular style, is the burial place of many British sovereigns, including King George III and his two sons George IV and William IV, and, more recently, King George V and Queen Mary.

Rhodesian Mission Owns Unique Art

By ALAN S. HARMAN

— The tall church steeple seems out of context with the simple African huts that pepper the landscape in Serima Tribal Trust Land some 150 miles south of Salisbury.

But the church that pushes the steeple into the sky is the centre of a thriving community—the Serima Mission.

From the outside the church is unimposing. Inside is a unique gallery of African art.

There's a rich variety of art forms, wooden sculptures, carved panels, ceramic raised tiles, cement figures and murals. They are housed in a simple architectural framework designed by the founder of the mission, Rev. John Groeber, who died in 1972.

Before his ordination in his native Switzerland Father Groeber had studied architecture and fine arts. When he was appointed to Serima in 1948 his interest in art prompted him to encourage the pastime among the pupils at the mission.

The people of Serima had few natural handicrafts when he arrived, but he found they had a flair for carving and drawing.

The priest insisted the children express themselves in the African idiom. He believed copies of European art were patently unconvincing because the African children had not experienced the European way of life.

The church was built to Father Groeber's design in 1956, using locally-made bricks and timber found in the area.

Local artists carved doors, altars, window frames and shrines in local hardwood, blue gum and jacaranda.

All the buildings at the mission were designed by the architect-priest and reflect his feeling for form and functional design. Graceful parabolic arches give the buildings a monastic uniformity and the simple local materials give the humble feeling he wanted to retain.

Disciplinary Action Against Conductor and Brakeman Is Eased

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

Canadian National has partially lifted its disciplinary action against Gerry Grose and Edward Beatty, the conductor and brakeman of the freight train which collided head-on with a passenger train Dec. 20, killing three.

Mr. Grose, 58, a former conductor with 33-years service, has been re-instated to a mainline brakeman with full seniority. After the crash, the CN reduced him to a permanent yardman with only six years' seniority.

Mr. Beatty, 24, a former brakeman and also a class conductor, has been re-instated to a mainline brakeman with full seniority. He had been reduced to a yardman.

Gil Sweezey, CN superintendent of transportation for the Rideau District, said today the re-instatements became effective Friday. CN officials and union representatives met all day Thursday in Toronto.

G. R. Ashman, the negotiator and general chairman with the United Transportation Union, said it is unknown whether Mr Grose can be fully re-instated as a conductor He said further grievance appeals will be necessary.

The base rate for a mainline brakeman on freight service is $33.09 for 100 miles. The base rate for a conductor on freight service is $37.57 for a 100 miles. The difference is $4.48.

Mr. Ashman, representing about 2,000 CN workers in the district, said the union members were prepared to go on a wildcat strike two weeks ago to protest the disciplinary measures. He said the strike was averted at the last moment to wait the outcome of the appeal.

Mr. Grose, who said he plans to retire in seven years, said he felt like "jumping up and down" when he heard the appeal decision. Married with two children, he would not say whether he will appeal for full status.

During the three-day inquest two weeks ago Mr. Grose said he and the tail-end brakeman (Mr. Beatty) pulled the emergency brake when this was not done from the engineer's cab. The two men were in the caboose.

In the Dec. 20 crash, two engineers, Keith Boyle and Ray Mortimore, and a female passenger, Joanne Feeney were killd.

During the inquest, Mr. Gorse said "If we hadn't thrown the emergency brake, myself and 160 passengers would have been killed." As a conductor, Mr. Grose was responsible for the train's safety.

He said that when the brakes were applied the "train was not stopping fast enough . . . 25 seconds later the emergency brakes were pulled and we braced ourselves for the stop."

Elephant in Trouble

CHICAGO (AP) — Ziggy, the so-called "killer elephant" of the Brookfield Zoo, said to be the largest in captivity, fell 10 feet to the bottom of the moat early Sunday. (AP) — Retired Admiral Jackson Tate held a secret rendezvous with the Russian daughter he had never seen, then talked briefly by telephone with the Soviet actress he had loved during the Second World War. MOSCOW (AP) — Doctors told Georgi Bushuyev to "move around more" after he suffered a heart attack. Israeli troops patrolled their borders in a state of alert today amid rising tension generated by the failure of U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger's peace mission.

Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy predicted that the tension would get worse. However, Israel, Egypt and the United States all said they were prepared to attend Middle East peace talks in Geneva.

President Ford welcomed Kissinger back to Washington from his 16-day mission and praised him for making "maximum efforts" to achieve an agreement between Israel and Egypt. He said the U.S. quest for peace in the Middle East was ended only "on a temporary basis."

U.S. officials told reporters that Kissinger is convinced his diplomacy is dead after running into "irreconcilable" differences between Israel's and Egypt's terms for a new withdrawal of Israeli forces in the Sinai desert.

The officials said the Arab-Israeli peace conference in Geneva is likely to get under way in May. At the conference Israel would have to face all her Arab adversaries, including probably the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO), instead of negotiating with them one by one, the strategy that Kissinger devised.

The U.S. and the Soviet Union are co-chairmen of the conference, which has met only once, briefly, and did nothing then. Its resumption has long been demanded by the Russians, the Syrians and the Palestinians, but Egyptian President Anwar Sadat stuck with Kissinger's step-by-step diplomacy until last weekend.

Fahmy told reporters his government would make a formal request "within days" for the return to Geneva.

"We are willing to go to Geneva," said Israeli Premier Yitzhak Rabin.

Fahmy said the collapse of Kissingers shuttle negotiations left a "very dim" situation, and he did not exclude the possibility of new fighting. "The tension is there and it will be much higher."

Egypt and Israel blamed each other for the deadlock.

Rabin confirmed that Israel had refused to modify its demand for a nonbelligerency pledge from Egypt in exchange for the Mitla and Gidi passes and the Abu Rudeis oilfield.

In exchange for a statement ending the war, Israel offered "to evacuate the area from the present line to the middle of the passes or even a little bit more than that, to evacuate the oilfield and to hand it back to Egypt," Rabin said.

"The state of belligerency will only be ended after Israel's final withdrawal from all Arab territories and the creation of a Palestinian state," said Fahmy.

Both Rabin's office and sources in Washington denied Israeli newspaper reports that President Ford sent Rabin a cable blaming Israel for the breakdown in the talks.

Military sources in Tel Aviv said Egypt and Syria had increased their military readiness but Israel was "well-prepared."

The Israeli military command said its troops killed two Arab guerrillas Sunday on the Lebanese border. Three Arab gunmen were killed in a clash Friday, the most serious in the area since January.

North Vietnamese Isolate Da Nang

SAIGON (AP) — Tank-led North Vietnamese forces overran two more provincial capitals today and isolated Da Nang, South Vietnams second largest city.

The North Vietnamese advance cut off the northern quarter of South Vietnam at a point 300 miles northeast of Saigon.

The South Vietnamese provincial capitals that fell were Quang Ngai and Tam Ky. The old imperial capital of Hue, 50 miles north of Da Nang, already is cut off, and the only way of resupplying government forces in Da Nang is by air and boat.

Da Nang, a major military headquarters, is where the first United States forces landed in 1965. It then served as a major U.S. air base and headquarters for a U.S. Marine division. It normally has a population of 500,000, but this has been swollen by 600,000 refugees.

Hue, the country's fourth largest city, is now encircled and also in danger of falling. Most of its 200,000 inhabitants have fled.

Tam Ky is the capital of Quang Tin province 35 miles south of Da Nang. Quang Ngai is the capital of Quang Ngai province 40 miles further south. The fall of a provincial capital is regarded as tantamount to the fall of the province itself because the capital controls the province's functions.

This would make Quang Tin and Quang Ngai the 10th and 11th of South Vietnam's 44 provinces to fall to the Communists and would put under Communist control about 40 per cent of South Vietnam's 66,000 square miles and the three million people living there, or roughly 15 per cent of the population.

The Communist-led offensive has created almost one million South Vietnamese refugees. The Viet Cong say they have requested emergency aid for the refugees and the North Vietnamese say the fleeing civilians are being used as "human shields" by retreating South Vietnamese forces.

U.S. Airlift To Phnom Penh Is Resumed

PHNOM PENH (AP) — The United States airlift of rice, ammunition and fuel to this besieged capital city of Cambodia resumed today after a two-day suspension.

The first of the U.S. DC-8 jets and C-130 transports from Saigon and Utapao Airbase in Thailand arrived shortly before noon today. The airlift was interrupted Saturday when insurgent rocket fire damaged two of the planes.

Twenty-three rockets hit the city and the airport during the night, killing at least two persons and wounding 11. Nine of the rockets exploded across the street from the U.S. embassy, sources said, but there was no report of any damage to the embassy.

French Envoy Kidnapped

DJIBOUTI (AP) — Terrorists fighting for the liberation of the Afars and Issas territory from France kidnapped France's ambassador to neighboring Somalia on Sunday as he was leaving a cathedral in Mogadishu, its capital.

The Somali embassy in Paris said the kidnappers set a 6 p.m.—11 a.m. EDT—deadline today for France to meet their demands for the release of 57-year-old Ambassador Jean Gueury: freedom for two colleagues serving life sentences in France for terrorism, $100,000 ransom and a plane to take them from Mogadishu to Aden, South Yemen.

France, which has controlled the Afars and Issas for more than a century, granted it a greater degree of self-rule in 1967 after bloody riots broke out during a visit to Djibouti by President Charles de Gaulle.

Cabinet Meets

OTTAWA (CP) — A cabinet committee on labor was meeting today to decide whether to legislate an end to the strike by more than 4,000 longshoremen in British Columbia.

If Parliament legislates an end to the walkout, a bill likely would be introduced before the Commons breaks for an Easter vacation. The break was expected to begin Wednesday at 6 p.m. and last for about 10 days.

Royal Visit Ends

Prince Philip, the Duke of Edinburgh, boards this aircraft Sunday after a 12-hour, unscheduled stopover at CFB Trenton this weekend. The Royal visitor arrived here shortly after 9 p.m. Saturday after his aircraft experienced a minor, mechanical difficulty and bad weather over Fredericton, N.B., his original destination.

Plane Diverted

Weather Makes Philip Surprise Trenton Guest

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Prince Philip, The Duke of Edinburgh, made an unscheduled overnight stop at CFB Trenton on Saturday after his plane encountered minor mechanical difficulties and bad weather over Fredericton, N.B., his original destination.

The royal flight touched down Saturday after a flight from the West Indies.

The plane was bound for Fredericton, where Prince Philip was to visit the Second Battalion, Royal Canadian Regiment at CFB Gagetown. He is the battalion's colonel-in-chief.

Bad weather over Fredericton forced the detour and the 12-hour layover here.

Base Commander Col. Jack Henry said the aircraft, an Andover belonging to the Queen's Fleet, also experienced a small leak in one of the plane's hydraulic systems.

A crew with the royal aircraft worked overnight to repair the plane for the 9:12 a.m. Sunday take-off.

Prince Philip and the five-member royal party stayed at the officer's mess at the base overnight.

Prince Philip boarded the plane Sunday morning after taking his leave of Col. Henry and Air Transport Command (ATC) commander Brig.-Gen. Robert Husch.

With the prince in the pilot's seat, the aircraft was bound for London. It was to make an overnight stop in Keflavik, Iceland, before returning to England.

Two refueling stops, at Goose Bay, Labrador, and Sondrestrom, Greenland, were also planned.

The stopover at CFB Trenton took base personnel by surprise. Only about three hours' notice was received before the royal flight touched down.

There were only a few people at the north side gates to the tarmac to see Prince Philip despite radio news reports he was at the base.

Foremen Join Strike At 11 Ports in B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — The 4,000 longshoremen on strike at 11 British Columbia ports were joined by 300 foremen Sunday, increasing the possibility of federal legislation to end all West Coast port disputes which have tied up grain shipments for more than a month.

William Kelly, assistant deputy labor minister, said in an Ottawa interview that he will discuss the strikes with federal Labor Minister John Munro today.

He said pressure will mount for a legislated end although he would prefer to see the dispute resolved through collective bargaining.

The 300 foremen went on strike Sunday, joining picket lines set up March 1 by 4,000 members of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union.

In a weekend ballot, the longshoremen voted 55 per cent against a proposed contract with maritime employers worked out by Mr. Kelly.

Musical Festival Attracts Youth from Across Province

By JIM SMELLE
Staff Reporter

Over 250 young people from across mid-Eastern Ontario took part this weekend in the Salvation Army's Divisional Youth Council at Bayside Secondary School.

The young people from Whitby, Gananoque, Kingston, Peterborough and Fenelon Falls gathered at the school in a weekend of music and spiritual devotions. Altogether there were 180 singers and 88 instrumentalists from 16 places in mid-Eastern Ontario.

Special guests were Capt. Bill Ratcliffe, a divisional youth officer with the Salvation Army in Eastern Newfoundland. His talk to the young people pointed out the importance of God's kind of love in their lives.

In the afternoon session Sunday, Capt. Ratcliffe wore a native Pakistani costume while recounting his experiences doing missionary work in Pakistan for 10 years.

A second guest, Maj. Norman Bearcoft of Toronto was guest conductor and chairman at the Youth Spring Festival of Music Saturday night which played to a full and appreciative audience. Featured at this event were the Young People bands, the Divisional Youth Band, timbrellists, soloists and various singing companies from Eastern Ontario.

The theme of the program, geared towards young people, was Come Alive, Get Involved.

Saturday's afternoon events included the Keynote Session conducted by Maj. W. J. Davies with Maj. Bearcroft and Capt. Ratcliffe saying a few words.

Then the vocal and band rehearsal under the direction of Major Bearcroft took up the rest of the afternoon. For non-instrumentalists, there were interest sessions conducted by Capt. Ratcliffe called Fire at Will.

After supper, the Youth Spring Festival of Music followed. On Sunday, devotions and a worship service for the young delegates were held in the morning.

In the afternoon, excerpts from the musical Take over Bid '75 from the Oshawa Youth were presented followed by Capt. Ratcliffe's talk with music provided by Oshawa's New Direction Singers.

Samis: Liberals No Better Than Tories

He stressed there will be no anti-NDP campaign in the next election. The waffle group is gone and there are now three NDP governments in Canada in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and British Columbia.

Voters realize the NDP is not a group of radicals or revolutionaries but a party that seeks progressive, honest governments, he said.

"We are doing less in public housing than we did four years ago."

He said the NDP wants land banking, rent controls, expanded public housing programs and more senior citizen housing.

To save the family farm the NDP advocates a farm income protection that guarantees a basic income.

Mr. Samis read figures showing that in 1966 Prince Edward County had 1,120 farms and in 1975 only 829 farms — a drop of 32 per cent.

Land under use in 1966 totalled 101,000 acres in an 1975 a total of 86,000 acres — a drop of 14.8 per cent.

High and Dry

It was a busy weekend for young people with the Salvation Army and music was an important part of it. At Bayside Secondary School, Saturday's sessions were marked by rain but tuba player Brian Gleadall of Peterborough gets adequate cover for his instrument from an umbrella held by John Roffel, 10, of Blackstock, near Oshawa, who plays coronet with an Oshawa group.

Weekend Thieves Keep Police Busy

City police encountered a busy weekend if today's police report from Chief Douglas Crosbie is any indication.

The action began Friday afternoon with the arrest of a Belleville youth. Chief Crosbie said Dennis Harold Lloyd, 19, of 48 N. Front St., was charged with uttering a forged document and break and enter, the latter in connection with a break-in March 13 at 274 John St.

Police then investigated a break-in and theft at Thompson Farm Supplies (Belleville) Ltd., 105 Church St., which occurred sometime Saturday evening or early Sunday morning.

That incursion netted thieves 10 workshirts, one pair of boots and $10 in change from a softdrink machine, said Chief Crosbie.

Entry was gained by prying open a padlock from a small door on the south side of the building, he said. Total loss and damage was estimated at $91.90.

A break-in to a medical office centre at 249 William St. was reported at 2 p.m. Sunday but physicians there are still "ascertaining if anything is stolen" said Chief Crosbie.

Entry was gained by breaking an east side window on the north corner of the building, he described. The four doctors whose offices were entered are Keubler (first name not given), James B. McSherry, H. A. Mustard and John Stock.

A 9 p.m. report Sunday indicated a shed was entered at the rear of Garage Supply (Belleville) Ltd. on 58 Harriet St., but investigation showed nothing was taken, said Chief Crobie.

Society Rejects Fairgrounds As Potential Pool Site — Again

By MARG. HAYLOCK
— Staff Reporter

PICTON. — The Prince Edward County Agricultural Society supports the concepts of a community pool but members agree Picton fairgrounds is not a suitable site.

"The Prince Edward Agricultural Society is not a pressure group and has had a most happy relationship with many county councils over the years and has responded to their faith in them by making the fairgrounds and agricultural and recreation centre ones of which all can be proud. Continued faith in the society and its conclusion on this matter are sought at this time," observed fair board president Creighton Carr Saturday in a brief to Pince Edward County council.

Mr. Carr said the society will co-operate in any decision county council may make after consideration of the question.

"It is time for reason and business like approach and the society is desirous of co-operating," asserted Mr. Carr.

He said the fairgrounds has been developed to full potential for recreation purposes.

If a pool were installed there would be problems of water mains, sewerage and sanitary sewers, parking and heavy traffic on Main St. in the vicinity of the grounds.

There would be the problem of increased noise for residents near the fairgrounds and difficulty in collecting gate admission to the grounds at fair-time and other special events such as ball games and horse shows.

Mr. Carr said location of a pool on the grounds would adversely affect county fair exhibits and special events but the fairboard's decision against a pool on the site has a broader foundation.

A study of over-all use of the grounds on a year around basis was made before the fair board voted against the fairgrounds as a pool site.

The fair board president said the agricultural society has been responsible for the building of an arena and the installation of artificial ice, entirely without municipal grants. A centre commission now operates the arena while the society retains ownership.

The society also planned, developed, financed and erected the lighted softball diamond and maintains it although it brings no revenue to the fair board.

In addition, the fair board assumed ownership of the curling club and has a reasonable investment in the building.

Mr. Carr noted these achievements of the fair board are important because newcomers to the community usually investigate its recreational facilities before locating.

"Through co-operation with county council, the grounds and buildings have been maintained and last year alone the society expended in excess of $6,000. half of which was through grant by county council. Records show that through the years the society has matched or surpassed the amount paid by county council plus contributing thousands of man hours.

"This, we think, illustrates the interest this society has in maintaining the grounds for a variety of purposes, few of them related to the fair itself. Few fairgrounds in Ontario can equal those in Picton and the society members 410 strong, should be highly commended on the great amount of volunteer time and effort they devote to this work for the good of the county'" said Mr. Carr.

Jan Nicol Gets Nod For NDP Election Bid

PICTON — An employee of the Ontario Hydro in Toronto, Jan Nicol, 26, Sunday won the nomination for New Democratic Party candidate for the next provincial election in the Prince Edward — Lennox riding.

Miss Nicol, a resident of RR8, Picton, commutes to her job in the city but said she plans to seek a leave of absence to become a full-time candidate.

She was the only nominee for the candidacy at the NDP nomination meeting attended by approximately six persons.

In an interview before the meeting, Miss Nicol said Prince Edward County has a housing problem.

Rents are extremely high and it is important that homes should be available to potential buyers, she said.

She stressed planned growth is vital, referring to "the incredible urban sprawl" resulting from the Ontario government's failure to plan 30 years ago.

"I am not against growth but the NDP stands for planned growth," she commented.

She observed planning on the local level is "fine" but planning on the provincial level has even more importance.

ned growth," she commented.

Miss Nichol said she is concerned with the young persons leaving Prince Edward County because there are no jobs.

She says if farming were given greater priority possibly more young people would stay.

In Ontario 26 acres of prime arable land disappears every hour, she said.

"The Tories don't seem to care as long as certain people get the bucks and our standard of living is reasonably high as a result of the sellout."

Miss Nicol is a graduate of the University of Toronto where she studied Economics, Political Science, Environmental Studies and Urban Geography.

She has worked as a counsellor and placement officer with Canada Manpower and as a researcher and writer for Ontario Hydro.

Raw Nerves in Ottawa

In the very nature of their work, members of the media are inquisitive beings. And being human they can be perhaps too nosy, too unheeding of the thin borderline between what is legitimate questioning and what infringes on the privacy of the individual. In short they can be tactless.

It is surprising really that politicians, who so often are at the receiving end of such probing, don't retaliate more vigorously.

But then politicians are also subject to a lot of give and take — among themselves as well as in the House of Commons.

Ottawa correspondent Richard Jackson cites the example of a Liberal MP tongue-lashing Leeds PC member and ex-Liberal Tom Cossitt in the Parliamentary corridors, in language that could only be described as unparliamentary.

Prime Minister Trudeau, Jackson has observed, barely contains his dislike of Cossitt whose heart-of-the-matter queries about Mr. Trudeau's use of tax funds, Government aircraft, and of Government extravagance regularly strikes some raw nerves on the Government benches.

Then there was Labor Minister Munro who entered hospital suffering from nervous exhaustion following an Opposition roasting in the Commons recently.

But to return to the Press and the political scene. Flora MacDonald, MP for Kingston and the Islands, was quite understandably upset lately when asked why she was not married and, as if that were not enough, some oaf asked if she had had any affairs."

"My gosh," Miss MacDonald exclaimed in hurt, if restrained fashion, "are there not more important things to talk about."

Quebec Premier Bourassa, who is undergoing his own brand of political travail these days, said to a newsman on TV recently: "Can't you ask more important questions?"

And so it goes. Even the urbane and one would have thought hitherto, unflappable, Premier Davis of Ontario, was moved to say in a Toronto interview with former federal cabinet minister Judy LaMarsh that sarcastic criticism can kill "that certain sensitivity which is important in a politician's make-up."

Mr. Davis said it disturbed him if politicians had to have tough hides, "if they have to be cold to stay sane and protect themselves."

A touch of the Gallic temperament might be useful here — either by way of an explosive, you-in-your-place riposte, or in the humorous vein of a Jean Marchand.

And isn't he having his troubles these days too?

Postal Rates

With all the strike activity of late, and with postal rates in the United States going up 20 to 30 per cent later this year, how long will it be before Canada follows suit?

The public, as ever, will bear the burden of additional pay scales for the Public Alliance workers, who include postal maintenance men.

Postmaster-General Mackasey is on record as saying there will be no boost to postal rates here, as in the U.S., but either he is superman or could it be is telling a little white lie.

A raise in rates in the U.S. and it is difficult to conceive of Canada not going the same way — sooner or later, Mr. Mackasey, like the rest of us, may be overtaken by events.

The Escapist Syndrome

Max Ferguson of Rawhide fame is planning to retire next year, after 30 years with the CBC, and at the not so ripe old age of 52.

The radio personality will then go to his Cape Breton property, an ancient pile on a 16-acre hilltop, and indulge in what he likes to call "creative stagnation."

It seems the grind of turning out his early morning skit from news items is so demanding that the thought of early retirement is appealing.

Other than cutting and peeling his own logs and trying to erect them into a facing without using nails, as he explained to a Toronto interviewer, growing his own vegetables, and performing other domestic chores — with only his Airedale for company — Ferguson anticipates a complete wind-down from the big-city and broadcasting life...............

"I'll do nothing at all the first year . . . and I doubt if I'll do anything the second year. It's a heady prospect, and it's one many might envy.

Oh yes, he says he is also saving a lot of books to read all winter.

In short, Ferguson will be embarking on the classic vision of escape of every man caught on the treadmill since the beginning of time, and hopefully, giving it effect. Will it last? Well, he is still a year away from the attempt. The Ferguson admirers will just have to wait and see. Meanwhile, it's a case of life, as usual, being one damned thing after another — the title incidentally, of an autobiography, just released, by that Canadian writer and adventurer of Cabbagetown fame, Hugh Garner.

And who was it who said that life is one damned thing after another? It has been attributed to Frank Ward O'Malley, and to Elbert Hubbard, although our copy of Bartlett's Familiar Quotations says it probably precedes both.

In Perspective

If the Hamilton harbor dredging scandal is being touted as a Canadian Watergate, either it suffers badly by comparison with the trauma of the U.S. affair, or else it is just plain dull. As of now it is, anyway.

In any event Canadians will be better served, and will exercise maturity themselves, if they keep this thing in perspective. Some alleged trickery in price fixing in a medium sized Canadian city should not bind us to other matters of interest to the average Canadian — such as what is happening to his hard-earned tax money.

(We know that the taxpayer will be footing the bill for any increases in the Public Service Alliance situation, and if you cannot get to sleep at night try mulling over those extra millions Ottawa is shelling out in foreign aid. You might not get to sleep, but it should provide food for thought.

Final Days

Scene from an upper window of this building, looking toward the demolition scene at the Four Corners. A squelching wet day as the hollow remains of the block stare out like empty eye sockets. There's rubble on the ground in this late afternoon scene and two Bell Canada trucks have pulled up and a technician is speaking into a wall phone. Their yellow rainwear provides a splash of color in an otherwise forbidding scene. Of a similar hue, surrounded by all the accoutrements of the demolition scene, shining bravely amid the ruins and the desolation — a single light bulb, on a wall that with the rest of the old edifice soon will come down.

Tax-free Benefits Are Boon to All During Recession

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

Labor-management relations are again a major source of strife and public inconvenience in Canada this year.

On the one hand, labor feels it has a basic right to wage increases that are big enough, pre-tax, to increase after-tax income by at least 12 per cent (the 1974 inflation rate)—and preferably much more, in anticipation of higher inflation in 1975.

On the other hand, management wonders how it can be expected to raise wages by 17 per cent or more during a severe recession, when the outlook for sales and profits is uncertain.

But there is one common ground, largely ignored, on which the two sides might be able to come to a mutually satisfactory compromise: Tax-free benefits.

Several such non-taxable benefits are available under the Income Tax Act. From labor's viewpoint, they could be more valuable than a simple increase in wages, which would be taxed at the top or marginal rate.

And from managemen's standpoint, they are equally attractive because they can be treated as another cost of doing business.

The concept is not new. The powerful auto workers have long had supplementary unemployment benefits which, when combined with unemployment insurance, maintain the laid-off worker at 95 per cent of normal income.

The auto manufacturers' contributions to the plan are a deductible expense, and the investment yield on the accumulated contributions helps to build up the cash in the pot.

The newly introduced Registered Home Ownership Plan could be a suitable vehicle for this approach, in the case of an eligible employee—that is, one who did not own an interest in any residential property during the year in question.

For each such employee, a company could pay as much as $1,000 annually into a trusteed RHOSP account, to a maximum of $10,000.

Upon "de-registering" the plan and taking the money out, the worker would still not have to pay income tax if the money were used to buy a house or furnishings.

Another example: Let the company increase its contributions (deductible) to the employees' pension plan, and let the plan be immediately "vested.' That means that the company's and the worker's own contributions would belong to the worker if he left, without the usual waiting period of 10 or 15 years.

Any tax specialist could suggest other such tax-free benefits—employer-paid term insurance of up to $25,000 on each worker's life, for example, or interest-free loans to employees who own stock (as little as one share in the company.

Labor's rank-and-file members have often been wary of offers of alternative forms of compensation, preferring just plain cash.

But the SUB plan is proving its worth among laid-off auto workers. Other benefits making sophisticated use of tax provisions, could be more valuable in these times of record inflation and high taxes—and easier to wring out of management as well.

U. S. Union Dominance in Canada

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

In Canada, big unions like big business are still a mainly multi-national affair with control and decision-making for the biggest of them centred in the United States.

While large and small American-owned companies here add "Canada" to the corporate name as in IBM Canada Ltd., the American-dominated unions here merely call themselves "international unions."

No other major industrial country in the world has foreign domination of their trade union movement.

Some of the very big U.S. unions here carry the euphemism even further. The UAW (United Auto Workers) and USW (United Steelworkers) have large so-called "Canadian districts."

These are purely and simply the Canadian operations of these large American-based unions.

Until about four years ago, nationalist union leaders in Canada, like nationalist-minded businessmen, were considered unreal and looking a gift horse in the mouth.

That gift horse was the U.S. supplier of investment and technology (for industry) and of organizational know-how and start-up funds (for the unions).

But the creeping nationalism which has permeated all sectors of Canadian public life during the 1970s, now has hit the "international unions" with a punch. Many Canadian operations of U.S. unions want to separate from the American connection, in spite of the financial loss it would entail, and start their own unions.

Among the major losses to the internationals to date is the 52,000 former members of the New York city-based United Paper Workers International which broke loose in June, 1974, to form the new Independent Canadian Paperworkers Union. The split-union previously represented about 25 per cent of the American union's total membership.

Other unions are bargaining to break loose or did so before the Canadian Paperworkers Union. The first to break was the former United Steelworkers big local at the Kitimat smelter of Aluminum Company of Canada in northern British Columbia.

That local is now the fiercely nationalistic Canadian Aluminum Workers union, Local No. one. The reason for the split was alleged indifference by the USW's head office for the welfare of their former distant local in remote northern British Columbia and the rise of strong union dissidents in the Kitimat community.

Admittedly it's easier to take over a union local of an international union, than the U.S. branch plant of an American corporation, especially with new federal legislation and a review board which now makes final decision about the latter's future owner.

Cult of Violence

The Globe and Mail

The most repellent, but also the most profitable pornography of our time is the pornography of violence. Now an American film company has cut a hole in the fire-break that has until now divided the fictional world of the film from the real world and the lives of real people. It does this by splicing into the film, out of their original context, scenes from the real life of a real, and instantly recognizable person, who is cast in the film as the intended victim of an Irish Republican Army assassin. The person cast, without her consent, in the role of quarry for Rod Steiger's killer is the Queen. But what makes this form of exploitation objectionable has nothing to do with the respect due to royalty. Use of any well known and quickly recognized person in an appropriate scenario of violence would be equally indecent. For audiences who love film violence as the most socially acceptable substitute for the real thing, this film will have uniquely kinky sensations to offer: First, the sense that it is not just fiction but could happen in real life: second, the awareness that this film could help make it happen. We have learned too much about the mental processes of assassins in the last dozen years to afford anyone the right to claim innocence of the possible consequences of offering them help in selecting their victims.

The Choice

The Guardian (U.K.)

Inflation and unemployment are two aspects of the same menace. Inflation is the cause and unemployment the effect. To concentrate on one enemy more than on the other is to insist that fire precautions are all-important, in a sinking ship. Once the ship has sunk, fire precautions are irrelevant.

The choice is between taking home a reasonable wage and staying in work or taking home an unreasonable one for a month and then joining the dole queue.

Next Two Decades And Energy Needs

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service

TORONO — We are now going to look into power needs for 1983 to 1993.

The first logical question is why? The answer: we are looking into everything else.

We have more committees and commissions around here these days than a wino has shakes.

Committees and commissions serve three useful purposes.

1. They keep the government out of the kitchen of hot questions.

2. They give the public the chance to air its beefs and bellyaches—as well as its legitimate complaints.

3. They can come up with constructive suggestions.

Our most recent royal commission, the one we are talking about, is the royal commission on electrical planning for 1983 to 1993.

At first glance, at least, it would appear that its main purpose is the second one as noted above.

It will travel across the province hearing submissions from public bodies and individuals. It is expected to take two years on these hearings so the beefers will have their day.

It also will fulfill the first objective and get the government out of the kitchen.

Hydro's net debt at last report was about 650 million. Over the next eight years alone it plans to spend $23.8 million.

This is hardly cookie jar money and obviously is going o put on financial strains. And when asked about them the government will be able to say "Oh the committee is studying that."

As to the third purpose the commission could turn out to be of some value.

It is headed by Dr. Arthur Porter, a scientist of some reputation.

And the most reassuring factor of all, perhaps, is that it will be able to roam, not only in the public field but also in the scientific field.

That means it will be able to go into such extraordinary matters as solar heat, wind power and the other alternatives to uranium and coal which might be worthwhile for developing electrical energy but which we so far have ignored.

So that the commission might come up with a valuable job.

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

The tiresome anti-socialist cant that passes for editorial comment reached new heights in absurdity in Tuesday's edition.

Your Red-hunting editorialist castigates the Soviet Union and China for their political philosophies and presence in Southeast Asia, then with remarkable candor he admits that the United States is little better except of course they have no long-term intentions.

In point of fact, both factions are equally as savage and ruthless in the pursuit of their ideologies.

What about the savagery of the American machine in Chile, and the other countries, and the role of the American K.G.B. — the C.I.A.?

CLARENCE E. YOUNG

Media and Political Trends

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

In your editorial "Muscling In" (March 10), you comment that control of the (free enterprise) media by left-wingers is well under way and give as a horrible example a certain dual story sequence by two New York Times News Service writers. Then you say, "that from a newspaper in one of Ontario's university cities."

But why did you not name the offending newspaper? is there some kind of loyalty compact among editorial page editors which prevented publishing the name of the newspaper concerned? Surely the libel laws do not apply here; after all, it did occur and is easily proven.

From your description, the newspaper concerned could be in any one of a number of university cities in Ontario. It seems blatantly unfair to stigmatize them all by implication.

KINGSTON ONLOOKER.

Role of the Monarchy

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Mr. Hockley's reference to a "Canadian citizen" suggesting "this country" should shed itself of the "obsolescent trappings and cost of the (British) monarchy" stirs my curiosity.

May a (third-generation) Canadian ask your correspondent to clarify the final paragraph in his letter in Monday's edition?

To my knowledge, Canadian residents do not contribute, either directly or indirectly, to the maintenance and-or support of the Royal Family. I suppose one could split hairs and point to the cost of Royal Tours, but does not one expect to absorb the cost of such tours when one hosts any head(s) of state?

The mental image Mr. Hockley projects is that of an ex"Britisher" waving a Canadian flag and mumbling "vive le anglais libre".

Buffaloes May Become Big Business

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

WOOLER — The question always asked when someone does something unusual — like buying eight buffaloes for a Murray Township farm — is simple. Why?

Allan Thrower wouldn't say Saturday.

He smiles and says, "A lot of people thought we were off our rockers."

He must have also thought the same that day almost two years ago when seven buffaloes, or bison as they are properly called, broke through his RR 1 Wooler farm fences. The seven escapees roamed the rugged Murray Township hills around Wooler for a week.

In the end, after a week-long search, four found their way back to his farm. The remaining three died, failing to regain consciousness after being shot with darts containing tranquilizing fluid.

Today, Mr. Thrower has five bison on his farm and is keeping his fingers crossed. Later this spring, he will be moving the five beasts some 40 rods from a 245-acre farm he recently sold to one he just bought.

When they move, he says, he's not going to have too many people around. He is afraid they will bolt again.

"If I have troubles moving them," he says, "I might be out of the buffalo business. But I'm certain that they'll move."

He appears committed to the lumbering beasts. One buffalo head of the original eight he had mounted and it now hangs in his basement. His living room is graced by a statuette and a large tapestry of a buffalo.

His interest in the animals started over three years ago. Mr. Thrower said he and his brother-in-law, Ron Lewis of Pembroke, "kidded" about buying some for almost a year. Finally, they broke down and put $525 for a cow and $475 for the one bull on the barrel head.

"We just made up our minds that we wanted to do it and went ahead," he says. "Everybody tried to talk us out of it."

Obviously, they didn't succeed. Beside his 18 cattle, his five buffalo still roam. And Mr. Thrower hopes a sixth will soon be born to start him on the way to a commercially economical herd of about 30 animals.

He says they are cheaper to feed than beef cattle and not quite as "picky" over their choice of food.

Two bales of hay can feed one buffalo while it takes three to feed a beef cow. Beef cattle will also not touch the drier clump grasses, and shrubbery the buffaloes will eat.

Selling the meat, which Mr Thrower says is leaner than beef won't be a problem. When his three buffalo died, he was able to sell the meat easily. Only two people later said they didn't like the taste.

Feeding Time

Rain or shine, RR 1, Wooler, Allan Thrower must still feed the five buffaloes he keeps in the hope of one day creating a herd of about 30 head. His buffaloes which will soon be moved to new pastures, escaped into the hilly Murray Township back country two years ago in April. At that time three died and the remaining five, which he fed with he fed with corn in the rain, Saturday are what remains as the basis for his hopes.

Picton High School Now Prime Site for New County Pool

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Prince Edward County council will meet with members of the Prince Edward Board of Education and the community swimming pool committee in the next 10 days to investigate the possibility of installing a pool at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute.

The decision followed a special two-hour meeting between county council, the pool committee and the Prince Edward Agricultural Society held Saturday to discuss location of a pool at Picton fairgrounds.

After presentations by fair-board president Creighton Carr and former associate director Jack Ward the society recommended to council that the community pool be located at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute subject to the approval of the county board of education.

Emphasis was placed on the fact that grants up to 70 per cent of the maintenance costs of the pool would be available if it were built at the high school.

"There are more grants available there than any place I've discovered yet," said Mr Carr.

"Who are we trying to help but the youth of today?," he asked.

He suggested the pool could be introduced successfully into the school's curriculum.

Chairman of the Prince Edward Board of Education Douglas Caley and business administrator Ernest Shortt attended the meeting and briefly outlined previous plans made in 1972 for a pool at PECI.

At that time, the board of education had agreed to accept a pool at the high school subject to a meeting of the pool committee and a committee of the board with the ministry of education to discuss expenditure ceilings.

It was agreed that construction could not begin until 99 per cent of the funds was on hand.

The 1972 pool project did not materialize.

Pool committee members indicated a pool at PECI would cost as much as $350,000.

Ed Rae, chairman of the pool committee, noted that it would be a covered pool.

The open outdoor pool originally planned has been estimated at a cost of $120,000.

Mr. Rae said a covered pool cannot be paid for with the $5 and $10 donations the pool committee expected to receive from the public toward its project.

Vandalism Factor In Site Selection

PICTON — Prince Edward County councillors and members of the community swimming pool committee Saturday questioned the vandalism at Picton fairgrounds as outlined by Jack Ward, technical advisor to the Prince Edward Agricultural Society.

Several councillors suggested other sites would be equally likely targets for vandals and it was indicated the fairgrounds is not misused.

However, Mr. Ward offered proof of the vandalism with a story of first-hand experience.

He said he uses the half-mile track there for jogging and observed, on occasion, when he returned from jogging his bicycle had been moved out of site by pranksters.

Chairman of the Picton Public Utilities Commission and a director of the fair board, Chris Lockyer confirmed that vandals are active on the grounds.

Driver Held At Knife-point

BRIGHTON — Provincial police have charged a Trenton youth with robbery with an offensive weapon after a youth commandeered a car at knife-point here early Sunday.

Charges is Eugene Garnet Peterson, 17, of 13 Fairey St., Trenton.

Police also charged Peterson with a second count of robbery with an offensive weapon dating back to a Feb. 25 incident when Peter James Wilson of RR1, Consecon was robbed of $2.

A third charge, of break, enter and theft, was also laid. It stemmed from a break-in at Murray township municipal offices where a quantity of dog-licence tags and $60 in cash was taken.

Police said Sunday two youths were hitchhiking in Trenton shortly before 3 a.m. when they were both picked up in a car driven by Greg Allan, 20, of 43 Chapel St., Brighton.

Allan and his original passenger told police they drove the two hitchhikers to Brighton where one of the hitchhikers was let out at his residence.

Brighton police said the other youth asked to be let out behind a village food store. When there, the youth showed a knife and commandeered the Allan vehicle.

Five Sites Considered For Swimming Pool

PICTON — Five potential locations for the proposed community swimming pool were presented to Prince Edward County council and evaluated Saturday by Jack Ward, technical advisor to the Prince Edward Agricultural Society.

Mr. Ward listed the fairgrounds, Delhi Park, Prince Edward Collegiate Institute the old CNR station and the rear of the county court house — all in Picton.

Quinte Cuisine

The reason for this recipe's odd-sounding name is a mystery to Jean Peake, but mystery or not it's a family favorite. Mrs. Peake and husband Bob have three children — Susan, Peggy and Bobbi-Ann — and all are avid snowmobilers. When she's not riding her snowmobile, Jean enjoys macrame, sewing and knitting.

Savory Gunge

two large onions, peeled and diced
two lbs. ground chuck
1 tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
four bouillon cubes
2½ cups boiling water
two tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
½ tsp. garlic salt (or ¼ tsp. minced garlic)
½ tsp. herb seasoning, Italian or French
½ cup ketchup
one (19-20 oz.) can tomatoes three green peppers (optional)
two carrots, scraped and thinly sliced

Cook onions in 2 tablespoons margarine, add meat, salt and pepper and cook until meat is evenly browned. Dissolve bouillon cubes in the boiling water, add it to cooked meat and onion along with the next four ingredients. Let simmer for 15 minutes then add the tomatoes and carrots and cook until carrots are tender. Add more water if required during cooking.

A can of kidney beans or ordinary pork and beans may be added

This makes a very generous amount. It can be made well in advance of a party or outing and may also be frozen for later use.

Serve it with hot onion or garlic bread.

Panel of experts answers gardening questions.

Garden Clubs Hears Expert

John Warner of the Ministry of Agriculture and Food's Smithfield Experimental Farm told Belleville Garden Club members that gardening is an excellent hobby.

"And that's the way it should be treated."

Mr. Warner told club members that in his opinion vegetable gardening isn't economical.

"Many have tilled up chunks of their lawn to beat the high cost of food But by the time you count the costs and the time you spend out there working youre not getting cheap vegetables.

"However you will enjoy those vegetables . . ., and fresh produce is hard to come by."

Mr Warner was speaking to the group about gardening with particular emphasis on small fruits and fruit trees.

He recommended well-drained sandy loam for small fruits like strawberries and raspberries and said it is wise to buy fresh nursery stock for a new planting.

"When you transplant from old beds you might be transplanting diseases and pests," he said.

Mr Warner said that working the soil well ahead of planting and incorporating organic matter were two important steps in producing fruitful plants and bushes.

Nursery stock should be planted the day it arrives and pruned back severely to encourage strong growth.

If new plants must be held for a day, they should be unwrapped and inspected and kept moist but not soaked in a bucket of water.

If they must be stored several days before planting, they should be heeled into soil.

Mr Warner said fruit trees for the home garden should be dwarf varities for easy handling. Apples, pears, plums and montmorency or sour cherries grow well here. However, he added, sweet cherries, peaches and grapes are not so successful.

After his speech, Mr. Warner was joined by Elsie Armstrong, of Stirling, and Bill Gathercole for a gardening panel wihch answered questions from the audience.

People and Events

ST. MICHAEL'S CWL

More than 100 women from St. Michael's Church recently attended a communion breakfast held at the Sun Luck Gardens.

Guest speaker was Reverend Sister Timothy of St. Michael's College in Toronto. She stressed the need for women to realize that they are more than just a part of the church, they are the church.

Women have lost the sense of purpose in serving, she said, and too often question its worth. The church calls for renewed love and dedication from Christians today, said Sister Timothy.

QUINTE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The March meeting of the Quinte Women's Institute was held recently at Memorial Hall.

Members were told that an International Night will be held June 17 at Gilead Hall beginning at 8 p.m. and that the District annual meeting will be held May 12 at Melrose United Church, with Lonsdale W.I. as hostess.

Bernice Parrott presented a program on "resolution" and introduced guest speaker Alta Vance, district presidents. Mrs. Vance told the women that International Women's Year would make the role of the homemaker better known. She also spoke about good nutrition.

Helen McLaren, president, thanked the speaker.

Mulch Your Fruit Trees

Covering the soil with a mulch is an agricultural practice that has been the subject of research for well over half a century. In the past few years in Ontario, there has been a return to mulch research programs.

Any type of material may, in theory, be used as a mulch, but some are more suitable for horticultural purposes than others.

The range of tree fruit mulches includes plant residues such as sawdust, hay, seaweed, legume hay, corn cobs, peanut hulls, wood chips, manure, grass wood shavings, softwood sawdust, and straw. Other mulches such as glass wool, cinders, glass fiber, granulated foam rubber, gravel, polythene plastic films and tire fabric waste have received much attention. A much has been shown to conserve soil moisture, a vital point on dry soils and in dry years When moisture losses in the root zone are reduced, there is more nutrient uptake and improved fruit size. The suppression of weeds and other competition is also achieved, unless the mulch itself contains abundant weed seeds. This reduction of compition is reflected in better tree performance, especially when trees are small.

The regulation of soil temperature and winter protection is another point well worth considering. Mulch, if applied correctly prevents temperature extremes in summer and winter by slowing the heat flux into the soil in summer and out in the winter.

Approximately 80 percent of a fruit tree's feeder roots are in the top one-third of a meter soil. Mulch encourages these roots to grow up into this fertile top soil, making the plant more responsive to feeding programs. The dwarfed fruit tree draws from a smaller volume of soil, so conditions are more critical than with a standard tree that can use a larger soil volume.

Plant residues, during breakdown, form organic matter and liberate nutrients that will reduce fertilizer requirements. The presence of organic matter is a link between commercial fertilizer, microbial action and plant uptake. The major drawback to mulch is the threat of rodent damage. Rodents enjoy the shelter offered by some mulches and, in some cases, the food supplied. Effective rodent control must be practised.

Mulch make the soil more open and efficient, allowing water infiltration after a rain. Contrary to what you might expect, a layer of mulch has very little umbrella effect on the soil beneath.

When you apply a mulch you are aiding Mother Nature's littering of the soil surface under a plant. And "Mother Nature Knows Best!"

Women at Work— Bad Management Causes Bad Image

TORONTO (CP) — If it's true that working women are petty, emotional and unreliable, it is management's fault, says a Toronto woman out to squelch the generalities that are still heard about women in business.

Mary Gibb, director of manpower planning and development for Metropolitan Toronto, said management is to blame because women aren't given as much advance training as men.

Mrs. Gibb has spent 20 years working with personnel in Canadian department stores.

"I came here in 1955 from Scotland. I was a bride of one year and already had some experience in personnel. In those days, about the only places hiring women were department stores They seemed to think a store was a good place for a woman to work but other businesses weren't so sure."

Over the years, Mrs. Gibb has been involved in seminars which she said all companies should offer their employees.

"Time and time again, I'd notice that companies did not have the confidence in their female staff to send them off to learn more. They would send men only. That is changing now. Attendance is about 50-50.

"I think companies fall down on their responsibilities to their employees. Management should be making more of an effort to help staff members achieve their potential.

"Frequently a personnel officer will hire a staff member and never see him again. There should be communication. If someone on staff is unhappy or dissatisfied, he or she should have a place to air it out.'

Mrs. Gibb said that the old prejudices against women in high places are ebbing away.

"Many men make compromises because they have financial pressures and a lifelong need to hold onto their jobs. Women often are in a better financial position to make a choice and consequently be more honest in their decisions."

Ann Landers

Can Poodles Be Gay?

Dear Ann Landers: Please check with your authorities and tell me if a poodle can be gay. Our male Standard poodle is a prize-winning specimen and we have had many offers to mate him with other female Standards of similar quality. But he refuses to have anything to do with the bitches. He does, however, get very chummy with male dogs.

There was a time when we laughed about it but we no longer think it is funny. Now we believe he's a homosexual. Is this possible? May we hear from you soon?—Manhattan Project.

Dear Man: I questioned some of the best veterinarians in the country. Two said "yes." Two said "no" One replied, 'It's possible, but not likely" Another laughed for 10 minutes and said, "You've got me."

Dear Ann Landers: My daughter-in-law and I get along beautifully and I don't want to spoil our relationship, but perhaps I ought to say something because the health of my grandchildren might be in danger.

Marylou is very big on vitamins, especially the iron-fortified kind. She keeps two large bottles of vitamins (A and D) on the kitchen table and the children (ages 5 to 11) help themselves. These pills are flavored and colored. Some are shaped like cartoon characters.

Perhaps I'm old-fashioned but I don't believe children who have a balanced diet need vitamins. Also I've heard of children who died after taking an "overdse" of vitamins. They thought it was candy. What do you know about this?—Uneasy In Lancaster

Dear Uneasy: Very little—but my good friend, Dr Jay Arena of Duke University, is one of the world's foremost authorities on accidental child poisoning. He agrees that children who have a balanced diet have no need for vitamins after the first three years of their lives.

Dr Arena warns against allowing children to help themselves to vitamins. He says a large overdose of Vitamin A or D can cause irritability, poor appetite, vomiting, diarrhea, weight loss, fatigue—and even shock and coma.

Don't tell your daughter-in-law anything. Just hand her this column.

Dear Ann Landers: I was amused by the back-and-forth hassling between women who preferred to be entertained in the living room versus those who didn't mind being ushered to the basement "recreation room." What nonsense!!

Don't these women realize they are lucky to be asked at all? My husband is such a blabbermouth we haven't been invited to anyone's home in two years. I'd settle for an evening in a cow-shed.

You can't imagine what it's like to be married to a man who knows everything, argues people into the ground, uses terrible language and spoils every relationship because of his big mouth. I wrote to you three years ago and you said, "See your women friends in the afternoon and do your socializing alone." So that's what I've been doing. But the evenings can be awfully boring listening to Mr. Know-It-All snore in front of the T.V. Sign me—Typhoid Mary

Dear Mary: My sympathies go out to you—and to others in the same boat. Too bad the blabbermouths don't marry each other. And have you noticed that they seldom do?

Doris Clark

Has Anyone Seen The Country Plumber?

By DORIS CLARK

Dear Doris: I would like to enquire about a poem which I think was written by Chuck Field. I think the name of it is "The Country Plumber." Would you have it?

R.J.E.

Dear R.J.E.: I haven't heard about "The Country Plumber". Could it be that he is related to the fellow who wrote "The Passing of the Back-House" (which we now have)? Perhaps readers can help us again.

And maybe someone knows a hymn which goes: "Will the roses bloom in Heaven?" The enquirer wants to know where to find both words and music.

Dear Doris: I wonder if you would settle for the advice you gave "Right or Wrong" if her daughter were your daughter. They told you what they know about this man. Can't you read? Then you say, "If you graciously invite this new boy friend into your home etc., ect.

He is divorced twice; he got a girl pregnant; he has heavy debts. And you have the nerve to say it's O.K. to let a girl of 22 marry him. This is the most disgusting advice I ever read.

M.O'C.

Dear M. O'C.: On the face of it, he doesn't sound like anybody's ideal, does he? And if you will read my reply again, you will see that I have not said it was "O.K. to let a girl of 22 marry him." What I have pointed out is what I have stressed many times before: Parents must let their adult children make their own decisions.

I truly think that if this mother and father take too firm a stand, their daughter will merely go on the defensive and the mother may have an undesirable elopement on her hands. I also think that young man can have shown himself irresponsible in the past, and can have learned his lesson. It may be that difficulties not showing up in a letter written by an anxious and negative-thinking mother are part of the boy's story.

In any case, it can do nothing but good if these parents really make themselves acquainted with their daughter's choice.

I appreciate your expressing yourself to me. Doubtless there are many others who feel as you do.

Dear Doris: I have written to you before and I am writing again.

I would like to know of any place I can write to find out more about sugar diabetes.

Really Inerested.

Dear Interested: If you or anyone you care about has diabetes, it is a very good idea to find out all you can about it—could mean the difference between life and death. That maintaining of a balance between the sugar in your system and the insulin is vital. And if you do maintain it properly, with discipline about sweets and so on life can still be sweet!

Information about diabetes is available by writing to the Canadian Diabetic Association, 1491 Yonge Street, Toronto 7, Ont. Your own public health unit and your own doctor are vital in this, of course.

Italian Women March for Equality

ROME (Reuter) — In Rome a protest march is so common that apart from its effect on the already chaotic traffic, scarcely anyone takes notice.

But even the most blase Romans were jolted when 10,000 women marched through the capital in the biggest women's rights demonstration ever seen in Italy.

The women held aloft huge placards which stated that women are not equal in the eyes of Italian law, despite a post-war constitution declaring their rights.

The protest was specifically against the delay of a revised family code which would strengthen women's rights in the home. The present code does not even pay lip service to the constitution's principles of equality.

The placards told the story: "Some Court Sentences Allow Wife-beating:" "The Best Dowry is a Job;" "Obedience is Not a Virtue Any More," "Honor Thy Father—But Be Waited On By Mom."

"It's really very moving" one female onlooker said as delegations of women railroad workers and rice harvesters passed, followed by 45-year-old Lorenza Fumari, who had driven her tractor 20 miles from her Ladispoli farm to take part.

The demonstration was organized by the 280,000-member, Communist-dominated Union of Italian Women (UDA) to call attention to the family code bill, which has languished in the Senate ever since passage two years ago in the Chamber of Deputies.

The legal basis of the present family code still is the ancient concept of "patris potestas," a Latin term which means "the authority of the father."

Italian law stipulates the father's right to make all key decisions regarding the family. The husband, for instance, has the sole right to decide whether or not a child may have surgery or what school it will attend.

Inheritance laws bypass the wife in favor of children. An Italian widow is entitled solely to one-third of the income from inherited property. In theory, and occasionally in practice, children can evict their mothers.

Worse still is the plight of illegitimate children, whose numbers are disproportionately large because of the difficulty in obtaining a divorce in Italy.

If the father and mother of an illegitimate child are both married, the child is officially a bastard and is not entitled to take the name of either or to be maintained by either. It becomes a ward of the state.

In practice, the father is usually wed and the mother unwed, so that the child is maintained by the mother. But present laws do not guarantee an illegitimate child maintenance by the father or a share in his estate.

The reform bill would establish legal parity between husband and wife, joint ownership and administration of possessions acquired during the marriage, easier legal separation, recognition of children born out of wedlock and equal rights for illegitimate and legitimate children.

The new code was introduced more than 17 years ago and has since been continually watered down by amendments.

When it reached the Senate in 1972, a woman senator blocked the bill because, she alleged, placing illegitimate children on a legal par with legitimate offspring would alter the integrity of the family unit.

"Everyone speaks in favor of a new law, but no one really wants it," said a disillusioned partisan of the reform bill.

"Things will stay just as they are."

On the Trapline Every Week-end

SUDBURY (CP) — Hunting and trapping are nothing new to Gail Beaucage, a Sudbury secretary who spends weekends with her machinist husband Larry on their trapline.

Her late father, Andy Tyson, was an almost legendary wolf trapper and Gail, worked with him on the traplines at Tyson Lake from the time she was a five-year-old. Tyson Lake is named for her great-grandfather who came to the area about 100 years ago from England.

When her father died seven years ago, Gail took over his trapline and made $400 that year trapping beaver, muskrat, mink and fox while she attended high school.

She said she carries a rifle when she checks her trapline. "The animals are alive, you see. You grow up with killing when it is your livelihood. If I don't do it, some other trapper will."

Gail hunts as well as traps—"anything that comes up in front of my gun."

She and Larry have been married two years. The first year they lived in the trapper's shack they own on the trapline. Now, living during the week in Sudbury, they head out 70 miles each Friday to Tyson Lake.

"If we could make enough money trapping full-time we'd prefer living in the bush," Gail said. "You're so free. When you are trapping, you know everyone and it is so beautiful. There are always birds and animals to feed."

Gail and Larry have no fears of survival in the bush, although at times the temperature can drop to 35 below zero. They leave the cabin about 7 a.m. travel along the 40 miles of trapline each day, partly by snowmobile and partly on foot.

When the seven-month trapping season ends in May, they turn to fishing, camping, working as guides at tourist camps and repairing traps for the next season.

New Book Relates

Moe Berg's Story

NEW YORK (Reuter) — There was once a Jewish baseball player who talked in Japanese to Emperor Hirohito, chatted in Sanskrit with Anthony Eden, spoke Latin to the Pope and discussed physics with Albert Einstein.

His name was Moe Berg and linguistics and physics were just two of his accomplishments.

The son of Jewish immigrants, Berg spoke 16 languages fluently, a fact that never helped on the baseball field—where he was a third-string catcher—but led to his becoming a Second World War spy.

He is the subject of a biography called Moe Berg, Athlete, Scholar and Spy, which brings in from the cold one of the most mysterious figures ever to grace a baseball diamond, charm the famous and infiltrate enemy lines.

Berg was too secretive and too modest to court media fame.

But he seems finally to have found it thanks to an affectionate biography of him by veteran New England journalists Louis Kaufman and Tom Sewell and teacher Barbara Fitzgerald, who talked to 200 people to find out about him.

Suddenly all the papers are full of a man who died in 1972 in obscurity. His best friends were the rare books he collected in a lifetime devoted to odd feats of scholarship, spying and sport.

A Princeton University graduate, Berg chose a career in baseball so he could earn enough money to finance his studies at the Sorbonne. He wanted to study philology—discover how the irregular spellings and endings crept into Europe's languages and where pure Latin became diluted.

Instead, for 15 years he was a catcher—the position in baseball where a grown man uses sign language to speak to another adult, called a pitcher.

But word of his intellectual talents spread and during the 1930s he appeared on a radio game show called Information Please in which experts tried to answer the world's hardest questions.

Berg had the answers.

He also had some interesting sidelines—like secretly taking photographs of Tokyo from one of the city's tallest buildings which were later used to guide bomb attacks on the city.

After his baseball career ended, about the time the United States entered the Second World War, Berg found himself working for the Office of Strategic Service — the forerunner of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Among his tasks were to find out how far advanced Germany's scientists were in developing an atomic bomb; whether Tito's partisans had the support of Yugoslavia's people, and which Italian scientists would be willing to defect to the U.S. in wartime to help develop swing-wing aircraft.

When he showed up in the U.S. with top Italian scientist Antonio Ferri, President Franklin D. Roosevelt was heard to remark, "I see that Moe Berg is still catching pretty well."

His biggest coup was finding out that Germany was behind the U.S. in developing the A-bomb. Berg knew more about the A-bomb and the American project to develop it than President Truman did. The reason was that no one ever let Truman in on the secret until he became president.

Shortly before his death, he found a medieval French book in New York and bought it for $1. When he got off the bus in Newark, N.J., where he lived, he was mugged.

He held on to his book and when help came and he was asked how he was, he said: "We're fine. We're fine. My friend is over 100 years old."

Besides books and newspapers, his love was baseball. His last words as he lay dying of cancer were: "How did the Mets do today?"

As a player, he was described as a man who knew 16 languages and could not hit in any of them. It was the only thing that Moe Berg did not do well.

FORECASS DECLINE

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — The American Boiler Manufacturers Association forecasts a decline in the domestic market for boilers to the utility, industrial and commercial industries for 1975. The forecasts, announced at the mid-winter meeting here, indicate electric utilities this year will order fewer steam generating systems, down 48 per cent from 1974.

Craft Work Now Scarce In Russia

MOSCOW (AP) — Tourists who want to buy traditional articles of Russian craftsmen as souvenirs here have no trouble finding them in special foreign-currency stores but average Russians have trouble finding them.

Works of folk artisans have almost disappeared from the stores where Russians are permitted to shop.

Such rare items include so-called Khokhloma articles—lacquered wooden objects such as spoons, bowls, chairs and stools painted in brilliant reds, blacks and golds, named for the town where they are made.

"A few years ago we could buy Khokhloma works in any department store," one Russian said. "Now they are almost all gone. When any rare works are put on sale, they are grabbed up immediately."

The status of folk arts and craft in the Soviet Union has caused concern among Soviet officials, prompting the Communist party central committee to decree immediate steps to control development.

The sharp increase of foreign tourism in the Soviet Union and export of folk articles accounts partly for the shortage.

Many foreigners eagerly buy up folk art, and thus it brings in valued foreign currency.

The interest has extended to lacquered objects made in the town of Palekh, which "always have been very expensive," one Russian said.

Ninety per cent of Palekh art, which features miniature paintings of old Russian folk tales on black lacquered objects, is sold for export. Palekh art ranges in price from $30 to $700—stiff for the average Russian.

"But our standard of living has risen in recent years, and people want to buy Palekh boxes now," the Russian said.

Other items Russians find increasingly difficult to get are high-quality steel trays made in Zhostkovo, walrus-tusk carvings and the so-called Dymkovo toys—charming brightly colored little figures of papier-mache or clay.

The central committee said that in this scientific, technological age, insufficient encouragement is given to artistically minded young people to embark on crafts which have hundreds of years of tradition behind them.

300 Ways to Say 'It' In Difficult Language

FORT ST. JAMES, B.C. (CP) — Missionary scholar Dick Walker and fellow-linguist David Wilkinson, along with five Indian women, have published what they think is a potential breakthrough in the advancement of Indians.

It's a 400-page bilingual dictionary of English and Central Carrier, a member of the Athapaskan language family. Athapaskan languages are spoken in Alaska, the Yukon the Northwest Territories, parts of Alberta and in north-central British Columbia.

Mr. Walker spent 12 years translating Central Carrier, a language that is so complicated it has 300 different ways to say the word "it."

"It blows your mind," he said.

With 3500 entries and a 50-page concordance, the dictionary is the first adequate translation of the complicated oral language to written form. Used in conjunction with school primers which have also been translated, it will give Indian children an even chance in public schools.

Mr. Walker said public schools have "locked up the minds" of Indians by not adapting to their language and culture.

International studies have shown that Indian children would learn English four times faster by first learning the structure of their native tongue, he continued.

"When English kids start school, their parents think of it as Mile 1, but in reality it is Mile 6 because these children have the advantage of an informal education in English language."

"The Indian's first six years of experience are totally ignored by schools. Grade 1 can be so terrifying the kids only learn they do not want to learn."

Four Carrier readers are in use at a Roman Catholic school in this community northwest of Prince George in central B.C. Kindergarten children learned to read and write Carrier after only 36 hours of classroom instruction. Mr. Walker said that by spring children in Grades 5 to 7 will be fluent readers of Carrier.

The next move will come if the Vanderhoof school district gets education department approval to introduce the program in all public schools.

To accomplish this, at least 250 Carrier books would have to be prepared and a special school set up to train Indians teachers. White teachers would not be considered because self-sufficiency is an important aspect of the project.

Mr. Walker and Mr. Wilkinson are members of a unique international body of Christian missionary scholars called the Summer Institute of Linguistics. Both men said they are non-denominational and identify themselves simply as Christians.

The dictionary project began when Mr. Wilkinson came here in 1971 and added his eight years of linguistic research to Mr. Walker's 10. Five Carrier women did much of the work and Mr. Walker said they were the real authors.

"We just functioned as scribes and technical backup."

The translators were helped by $24,000 in Canada Council grants.

The Carrier language is as difficult to learn as Chinese. The verb structures are complex and it is a tonal language, which means that words spelled similarly would have vastly different meanings, depending on intonation.

The language spoken in this area is one of three Carrier dialects. Except for pictograph drawings found near Stuart Lake, it was never a written language until translated into syllabics by pioneer ethnographer Rev. A. G. Morice more than 70 years ago.

Because the language is so complicated, Mr. Walker has not mastered all of it despite 12 years of labor.

"I will probably be learning this language all my life," he said.

Why Russians Act That Way

LONDON (CP) — Why do the Russians act that way?

Why does Communist Party Chairman Leonid Brezhnev fall from sight for almost two months, only to reappear dramatically for a state visit and quash rumors of his imminent removal?

Why does the Soviet government imprison author Alexander Solzhenitsyn for years, then revile him, then exile him?

Why are Soviet authorities and citizens so suspicious of foreigners?

A newly-published book, Russia Under the Old Regime, suggests that at least some of the answers lie deep in Russian history and that Russians acted that way long before they were Communist.

Historian Richard Pipes of Harvard University begins his story, published here by Weidenfeld and Nicolson, with yet another question: Why in Russia, unlike the rest of Europe, has society "proven unable to impose on political authority any kind of effective restraints?

Russian rulers, from the earliest days have been owners of their country as well as sovereigns.

The Normans, who settled at Kiev and other spots along the trading routes to Byzantium about 200 years before they came to Britain, ran their territories much like the old Hudson's Bay Co. ruled Northern Canada, as owners and masters.

Unlike Western Europe, Russia was cut off from the legal traditions born in Rome, the basis of principles of private property, social obligations of the sovereign and finally government by consent of the governed.

While the Roman Catholic Church in the West acquired the power and the will to check political authority, Pipes says the Russian Orthodox Church, originating in Constantinople, worked more or less in league with the czars and usually supported their autocracy.

Priests hearing confessions were legally obligated—and often agreed—to report to the police what they heard from their penitents.

Finally, only late in the 19th century did a middle class emerge in Russia. But while the middle classes in Western Europe extracted power from the landed rich and the monarchies, in Russia they largely joined the wealthy as agents and servants of the czar.

It all meant, says Pipes, that in pre-1900 Russia "none of the economic or social groups of the old regime was either able or willing to stand up to the crown and challenge its monopoly of political power."

By retaining both sovereignty and property, the czars prevented the development of independent pockets of wealth or power. As the source of all material benefits, they were fawned upon by groups which in other countries claimed power of their own.

The whole system was held together by a sometimes rickety but often vicious network of secret informers, arbitrary punishment and harsh limits on individual work and travel.

"So the state watched its subjects and the subjects watched one another. . . . A kind of police mentality impressed itself so deeply on the state apparatus and the population, that later attempts of enlightened rulers like Catherine II to eradicate it fell far short of success."

LOOKED TO CZAR

But Pipes notes that the peasant through most of this period saw the czar as his protector—the one who might some day give him his own land.

As Solzhenitsyn wrote in The Gulag Archipelago, the rural peasant was among those most feared by the Bolsheviks as the enemy of the revolution.

That explains Lenin's haste to have the czar and his family killed when Communist authority seemed endangered, Pipes says. And it explains the constant efforts of Soviet leaders to create state-sponsored personality cults to replace the fallen imperial dynasty in the minds of the masses.

As the gulf widened between czarist Russia and Western Europe, the czars were forced to close their borders both against Russians wanting to leave and Europeans wanting to visit. The same fear of outside influence has been inherited by Soviet governments and still is a cornerstone of Soviet foreign and domestic policies.

Redeveloping Gatwick

LONDON (CP) — Work begins shortly on the next phase of a £85-million ($149.5 million) redevelopment program at Gatwick Airport designed to enable it to cope with some 14 million passengers a year. The work should be finished in the summer of 1977. Last year Gatwick handled more than five million passengers and 54,000 tons of cargo.

Gibsonton Winter Home Of Carnival Characters

GIBSONTON, Fla. (AP) — Sandwiched between phosphate mines and tomato fields sits this tiny town where the librarian bills herself as half-woman, half-baby. The lobster boy is on the local board of directors and for years the lone policeman was a three-foot-tall midget.

This is the winter home of the carnival circuit.

Driving south from Tampa along the Gulf of Mexico coast, it's easy to miss Gibsonton's collection of wooden frame houses and mobile homes, their backyards cluttered with tents, banners, poles and props.

But for decades, they have returned to this hamlet by the scenic Alafia River—the hawkers, concessionaires, ride men, magicians, sword-swallowers and fire-eaters. And the misfits.

Here they can escape from demanding two-night stands, hot lights, dusty fairgrounds, strangers and stares.

Here no one seems to notice deformities.

"These people are to Gibsonton what movie stars are to Hollywood," said Ward Hall, founder of The World's Fair Freaks and Attractions Inc. "They are accepted and made a part of the community. If they lived in Columbus, Ga., they might not be invited to the mayor's banquet. But they are invited to functions here."

Percilla Bejano, who is known on the road as the Monkey Girl, said: "It's like a blind man or somebody without a leg or arm. You get used to it."

Long black hair covers her from head to foot, crosses her forehead and chin and runs down her cheeks. For her, appearance is a livelihood. "I have fun at my work," Mrs. Bejano said. "I get to see you for nothing but you have to pay to see me."

Pete Terburne, a midget, has been on the carnival circuit for 21 years. "To me, it's home," he said of Gibsonton.

Sandra Reed, an albino sword-swallower, joined the circuit six years ago. She married Harold (Big Jim) Sand, a 712-pound fat man.

They both knew Col. Casper Balsam, a midget who until his death was the law in Gibsonton. They know Dolly Regan, the town librarian whose growth was stunted from the waist down. And Grady Stiles, the town official who is billed as Lobster Boy because of his claw-like limbs.

"Here everyone is important," said Hall as he watched Ralph Smoot, the Human Pin Cushion, work his carpenter's trade.

On the road, Smoot sticks thin pins through his arms. In the winter he helps build carnival equipment.

Visitors can stay at the Giant's Motel, once owned by Al Tomani, the town's late eight-foot-tall fire chief. His widow, who worked the circuit as the half-lady because of missing limbs, runs the business now.

The sideshow people know and trust Hall, who started in the business as a 14-year-old clown. He bought his first sideshow in 1951.

Today, seven sideshows tour the country, four owned by Hall.

The business "saw its heyday in the late 1930s and early '40s," Hall said, recalling a time when more than 100 shows criss-crossed the continent.

Carnival owners have turned to the big ride attractions and sideshow freaks are harder to find because of advances in medicine and surgery, Hall said.

The 60 who work for Hall are a dying breed.

"It's like one big family. I'll do this as long as I can. These people are very close to me. When I'm old and falling apart, if they'll push me in a wheelchair, I'll be there with them."

Plutonium Shipments Opposed

NEW YORK (AP) — Representative Fred Richmond (Dem. N.Y.) says "the lives of every man, woman and child in the New York area are being irresponsibly endangered" by the transportation of highly-toxic plutonium oxide through the city.

Richmond called Saturday for an immediate halt of the shipments into the port of New York, joining Representative Les Aspin, a Wisconsin Democrat, who termed the shipments a "needless, reckless gamble."

"Already two shipments of this lethal plutonium oxide material has been flown into Kennedy Airport and transported via a truck through New York City," Richmond said. "A third such shipment is scheduled.

Captain Bill Cox of the Airline Pilots Association, who appeared at a news conference with Richmond, voiced the group's opposition to such shipments. "We are fearful of terrorist hijacking of an airplane containing a large amount of plutonium oxide," he said.

In Washington, Aspin said 200 pounds of powdered plutonium has been shipped through New York and another 100 pounds is slated to be sent.

"Dispersion of plutonium oxide within a metropolitan area would be catastrophic," he said. "The immediate danger might require a massive evacuation, and the long-term decontamination problem would be immense. The effects might last for hundreds of thousands of years."

Mayors to Meet

OSHAWA (CP) — Mayors from eight Ontario auto manufacturing centres will meet in Kitchener Friday to complete a brief they will present to the federal and Ontario governments early next month.

Oshawa Mayor Jim Potticary, chairman of a committee of mayors studying possible solutions to the recent downturn in the auto industry, said the committee would meet this time with autoworkers to hear their recommendations.

Law Abused

MOOSE JAW, Sask. (CP) — Dr. Heather Morris of Toronto, a widely-known advocate of tighter controls on abortion, said Sunday Canadian abortion laws have been abused.

Dr. Morris, an obstetrician, told a Support for Life conference here that a major problem with the relaxing of abortion laws was that there has been no real definition of the word health.

Not Serious Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Communist takeover of Southeast Asia would not pose a serious threat to the security of the United States, says U.S. Defence Secretary James Schlesinger. Schlesinger, in a copyrighted interview in the Philadelphia Sunday Bulletin, said "the impact of the outcome in Southeast Asia is primarily psychological" and does not challenge the world's military balance.

UN Opposed

BLENHEIM, Ont. (CP) — A member of the Ontario Youth Parliament proposed Sunday that Canada wihdraw from the United Nations.

Cabinet member Rob Foulds of Owen Sound, Ont., said the UN is almost obsolete because of the voting domination of third world countries.

Officers Chosen

TORONTO (CP) — Jim Forster was elected to a second term as president of the 34,000-member Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation on Sunday, defeating Alan Murray of Kitchener.

Mr. Murray was successful in his bid as vice-president. The other vice-president is Peter Norman of Ottawa, who defeated Vincent Mathewson of Owen Sound. Treasurer is Ralph Connor of the Toronto borough of North York.

The four executive officers are Ted Abey, Windsor; Jacqueline Dennis, Thunder Bay; Robert Kemball, Kirkland Lake and Jack Cronin of Grimsby.

Abortions Denied

MONTREAL (CP) — Quebec women are not benefitting from the right to have therapeutic abortions permitted by federal law, Marc Lalonde, minister of health and welfare, said during the weekend.

"In 1974, out of 281 hospitals in the province, 27 allowed therapeutic abortions," Mr. Lalonde told a symposium Saturday sponsored by eight Montreal-area Liberal riding associations.

Boy Found Dead

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont (CP) — A six-year-old area boy, reported missing Friday night in rugged bush about 15 miles north of here, was found dead late Saturday by searchers.

Police said Michael Lapointe died of exposure.

Michael was one of three boys who became lost about 7 p.m. Friday while playing near their homes. The others, Robert Wright, 8, and Michael's brother, Jimmy, 4, were found Saturday morning by police and members of Sault Search and Rescue, a volunteer group.

May Quit Union

FREDERICTON (CP) — A spokesman for the union representing federal blue collar workers at nearby CFB Gagetown said Sunday the members will be urged to resign from the Public Service Alliance of Canada (PSAC).

The 300 blue-collar workers at CFB Gagetown have voted 92 per cent against a tentative agreement worked out by the treasury board and bargainers for the general labor and trades group of the PSAC.

Two Major Bills Before Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—The government has its sights set on final passage of two major bills before Parliament adjourns Wednesday for an 11-day Easter recess.

A bill to expand the Assisted Home Ownership Program (AHOP) to cover home purchases with private mortgages is first on the Liberal list for pre-recess passage.

The second major item the government wants passed by 6 p.m. Wednesday, when Parliament adjourns until April 7, is the proposed Canada business corporations act.

That bill got Commons approval Jan. 27 and was passed Thursday by the Senate with 27 amendments. Those amendments need Commons' confirmation before the bill gets routine royal assent.

A government spokesman said Friday no major opposition is expected in getting the housing bill through third reading and the Senate, nor in securing Commons approval for the amendments to the corporations bill.

However, opposition amendments to the housing bill likely would take up almost a full day's debate.

If any Commons time remains after those bills have been dealt with, the House will return to third-reading debate on the bill to establish a national oil company, Petro-Canada.

The corporations bill is intended to remove inequities in the Canada Corporations Act and to introduce new remedies to protect shareholders and to simplify incorporation procedures.

It would set out new definitions of shareholders' and directors' rights, and impose strict responsibility for directors to attend board meetings and to pay close attention to board decisions. The majority of directors would be required to be Canadian residents.

Death Order Confirmed

REGINA (CP) — Several former members of the South Saskatchewan Regiment have confirmed that 10 members of the regiment were told to kill a British radar expert if the expert was threatened with capture during the 1942 Dieppe raid.

The incident, reported in a new book, Green Beach, by James Leasor, saw 10 Canadian soldiers assigned as "bodyguards" to the radar expert, Sgt. Jack Nissenthall, who was to try to inspect a German radar station during the raid.

Only two of the 10 survived the mission, as did Sgt. Nissenthall.

One of the two, Roy Hawkins, recently denied having received orders to kill the expert if necessary to prevent capture.

But in an interview Friday, the other survivor, Les Trussell of Moose Jaw, Sask., said he "was told to shoot the man if he was likely to be taken prisoner."

Fish Poison Cats

TORONTO (CP) — Preliminary tests by the federal government have shown that cats fed contaminated fish from northwestern Ontario lakes developed mercury poisoning within 146 days, two Japanese ressearchers said Sunday.

The two researchers, Dr. Jun Ui and Dr. Masazumi, based their information on tests evaluated by the toxicology branch of the food and drug directorate.

Parcel Post Week Behind

TORONTO (CP) — The city's main post office is a week behind in sorting and delivering fourth-class, parcel-post mail throughout Ontario, information officer Ed Roworth said.

He said he expects the delay will be cleared in about a week.

Italy's Communists Seek 3-party Pact

ROME (AP) — Italy's Communist party, completing it 14th national congress Sunday, abandoned revolutionary fervor in hopes of gaining a "historic compromise" with the Socialists and Christian Democrats.

After a six-day debate, the largest Communist party in the West adopted a plank stating that only such an alliance could give Italy "the force and authority necessary to overcome its crises.'

The Christian Democrat party, Italy's largest political party, adamantly opposed to any governing role for the Communists while the Socialists are split on the so-called historic compromise.

The Communist party, which polls more than 25 per cent of the votes in most elections, has been barred from any formal role in the government by a series of Christian Democrat-dominated coalitions.

Protest Stops Dumping

HELSINKI (AP) — Faced with protests from two South American countries, the Finnish government ordered a supertanker Sunday to return home with 690 barrels of poisonous waste it planned to dump in the southern Atlantic Ocean.

The government told the state oil company Neste not to dump the waste, which contained more than 15,000 pounds of arsenic trioxide and some potassium oxide, the state radio said.

Neste had loaded the waste onto the supertanker Enskeri nine days ago and sent it away with instructions to dump the barrels into international waters of the southern Atlantic on March 29.

Toronto Blues' John Lovatsis appears to have fanned on wide open Belleville net but he's missing rebound after Belleville Lions' goalie Mark Meehan comes up with one of several big saves as he and his mates scored 4-1 win. No. 14 is Lions' Mike Willman who potted a goal in club's third straight victory in Golden Hawk Tournament at Trenton.

Lions 3-0 in Golden Hawk Tournament

By DOUG WALSH
Sports Editor

TRENTON — Jerry Murphy, manager of the Belleville Lions Majors' entry in the annual Golden Hawk Midget Hockey Tournament here, called the shot before his team's important match Sunday night with Toronto Blues Majors.

"They can be had," offered Murphy.

And with goalie Mark Meehan supplying a brilliant effort, the Robb Burrowes-coached Belleville squad confounded most of the "experts" by knocking off the highly touted Toronto squad 4-1.

It was Lions' third win in as many tournament starts. In the final match of the day, last year's tourney champs, Nepean Raiders, equalled Belleville's 3-0 mark by shading Smiths Falls Majors 1-0.

Other teams still in the hunt for a title after the opening two days of tournament play, each owning a 2-1 record, are Toronto Blues, Smiths Falls, Kingston City Majors and Peterborough Minors.

Ten teams have bowed out. Among them was Belleville Yardmen Minors, nipped 3-2 by Kingston City Minors after bowing 6-2 Saturday to Nepean. Also on the sidelines are Trenton Minors, Camp Borden Majors, Ajax Minors, Kingston Township Majors, Oshawa Majors, Wexford Majors, Kingston City Minors, Trenton Majors and Thorold.

Today and Tuesday at the Community Gardens here, 16 teams get their first taste of tournament action. The survivors from the first two days' play get a rest until Wednesday.

Lions make their next start Wednesday at 1:10 p.m. when they shoot for win No. 4.

In the showdown with the Toronto entry, Meehan and Blues' goalie Bill Jenkins stole the spotlight. Both came up with first rate efforts.

Lions were in front 2-0 after two periods but Blues narrowed the deficit to one early in the third, only to see the fired-up Belleville skaters pot a pair in the last six minutes of play to salt it away.

Kelvin Pope, David McBride, Tony Bennett and Mike Willman looked after Lions' scoring. Jim Olidis was the only Toronto scorer.

Nepean kept pace with Lions in the tournament's 24th game, behind the shut-out goaltending of Jeff Kilgour.

Raiders got the only goal they needed to slip past Smiths Falls' when Bruce MacNicol clicked for the game's lone tally with just under six minutes to play.

Belleville Yardmen saw their hopes dashed with just 32 seconds remaining in their game with Kingston City Minors.

John Dwyre shot the goal that put Yardmen out. The Belleville team had twice battled back from one-goal deficits to get on even terms and with Bruce Hamilton enjoying a fine game in the net, appeared more than capable of staying alive.

Dwyre had other ideas.

Bobby Crawford and Paul Hipkin scored for Yardmen. Other Kingston marksmen were Rob Running and Mike Kelly.

Both Trenton entries are out.

The hosts' minor team bowed 4-0 to Kingston Township Majors while Quinte Ice Products Majors gave it a good shot before taking a 2-0 setback at the hands of a strong Kingston City Majors squad.

Scheduled for action today and Tuesday are Napanee, Ottawa West Majors, Lindsay Majors, Stirling, Burlington Minors, Gananoque, Bowmanville Minors, Campbellford, Greenwood, N.S., Ottawa South Majors, Wexford Minors, Galt Gores Majors, Toronto Kings, Gloucester Majors, Aurora Minors and Oromocto, N.B.

Saturday, Belleville Lions, Smiths Falls, Toronto Blues and Nepean each scored a pair of wins.

Lions topped Trenton Minors in the tournament opener 6-1 on goals by Kelvin Pope (2), Tony Meagher, Sandy Waterson, Pat McGinn and Tony Bennett. Allan Portt was in goal. Doug Martin notched the lone Trenton goal.

That night, Lions took Peterborough Minors 4-2 with Tom Belch, Waterson, Marty Lowry and Paul Hayman looking after the Belleville goals. Goalie Mark Meehan earned the first star and team-mate David Giddings was No. 2.

Pope and McGinn were one-two in the star selections in the first game.

Smiths Falls got a free one in its first start when Ajax Minors failed to show. Trenton Minors, with only about half their regulars available to suit up, gave Smiths Falls a game and came out on the short end of a 7-0 score.

In its next start, Smiths Falls shaded Trenton Majors 3-2 with Bruce Cunningham potting the only goal of the third period to snap a 2-2 tie. Other scorers for the winners were Bernie Cumber and Ron Stewart. Tim Neron and Jamie Ogden scored for Trenton.

The Toronto team needed overtime to get by Kingston City Majors 4-3 and followed up with a 6-3 defeat of Thorold Majors.

Nepean got a stiff argument from Belleville Yardmen before taking a 6-2 win in the first tourney start for both teams. An excellent display by Yardmen goalie Terry Thompson was a highlight of the action.

Thompson's heroics kept Nepean from wrapping things up early. But late in the game, Yardmen ran into a rash of penalties and it proved fatal.

Michael Prokopowich had two Nepean goals with singles for Greg Meredith, Tim Bell, Allen Robinson and Bruce MacNicol. Yardmen got both their goals from Mike Bennett.

Later, Nepean got by Oshawa Majors 4-1.

No-stars Top Legion

Minor Sports Winner

Minor sports in Belleville was the big winner here Saturday night when Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 99 dropped a 6-4 decision to CFTO-TV No-Stars in exhibition hockey at Memorial Arena.

Branch 99, and many other Legion branches, devote a great deal of support to minor sport.

Proceeds from the Saturday event will go to the Legion fund which supplies financing for the teams sponsored by Branch 99 in various city programs.

Dave Evans is Branch 99s sports chairman.

Organizers of the game pronounced the show successful and added that the outcome of the match was incidental.

"The real winners are the youngsters of the city," offered a Legion spokesman.

Belleville Fire Department also played a hand in proceedings. Three members of the Legion team manager-coach Soapy Smith, forward Wally Istead and defenceman George Woodhouse are city firefighters.

"The chief (Leo Culhane) gave us the go-ahead to participate when he learned the city's young people would benefit," said Smith.

Russ Soule gave Smith a hand with bench duties .

Other players with the Legion squad were George Wilson and Bill Clapp (goal), Bob Boyle, Rod Green, Bob Mondeville and Tom Bentley (defence), and Mike Evans, Terry Lohnes, Perry Soule, Jim Nicholls, Joe Drummond, G. Miller and Paul Ruttan (forwards).

The diminutive Bentley, a hit with the spectators, was chosen as the game's first star . . . second star . . . and third star.

Ross Columbia handled coaching duties.

A & J Restaurant Wraps Up Title

A and J's Drive-In restaurant, Trenton, capped off an undefeated season, Sunday, by trouncing Golden Mile Restaurant 8-1 in the second game of their best-of-three final series.

It was the 22nd consecutive victory for A and J's in the Belleville Broomball League.

Ron Cannons led the way to the league championship with three goals for A and J. Singles went to Claude Latullippe, Bruce Biggin, Larry Wannamaker, Don Lane and Ray Hall.

John Paul replied for Golden Mile.

Art's Esso bounced back from Friday night's loss with a 2-1 win over Northern. The victory evens their best-of-three consolation final at 1-1.

Alec Belch scored the winner in the late minutes of the game. Calvin Acorn got the other.

Ron McFarlane was the only scorer for Northern.

When the playoff action opened Friday night at Dick Ellis Rink, none of the four teams was about to surrender without a battle.

A and J, virtually in a class was necessary to decide the outcome in both matches.

A nad J, virtually in a class by itself during the regular season, had to go to a second penalty-shot showdown before pulling out a 5-3 win over Golden Mile.

And in the Northern-Art's set, neither team found the mark during regulation time and this game also went to a double penalty shot competiton before Northern pulled it off 2-0.

Mike Paquette supplied a pair of goals for A and J with one each going to Henry Sonneveld, Gilles Paradis and Ron Cannons. Replying for Golden Mile were Joe Iasenza, John Paul and Charlie Nesteroski.

Goals by Bob Brownlee and Ron Lessels did the trick for Northern in the cliff-hanger with Art's.

Protest Lodged

Rams Whip Birt's

RICHMOND HILL (Special) — Birth's Handy Stand of Trenton failed in a bid to wrap up its Ontario Minor Hockey Association (OMHA) Juvenile AA series with Richmond Hill Rams in straight games here Sunday.

Rams won their first game of the semi-final set 7-3 and now trail the Trenton squad 3-1 with the fifth match here, Thursday.

Despite the fact they lost on the ice, Birt's may yet gain credit for a win. Officials of the Trenton club have lodged a protest with the OMHA.

It's a double-barrelled protest. Birt's, winner of the Juvenile AA title the past two years, is questioning the eligibility of a Richmond Hill player and the Trenton team claims a coach who was suspended for the Sunday game, was in the dressing room area.

The OMHAs decision on the allegations is expected early this week.

Meanwhile, back on the ice, Trenton was down 5-1 early in the second period, came back to pot a pair and get within hailing distance, but gave up a pair of Rams' counters 21 seconds apart and never recovered.

John Oakley fired three Rams' goals. Tom Lamb, Darryl Conday, Rick Sackfield and Scott Davey had the others.

Replying for Trenton were Harold Roberts, Rick Matheson and Dave Lewis.

The losers took 14 of the 25 minor penalties assessed.

Should the OMHA throw the protest out, the teams have dates in Richmond Hill, Thursday and Sunday, and at Trenton, Saturday. No game times have been announced.

Rams have their backs to the wall in any case. Trenton needs only one more win to move to the final for the third straight year.

Blues Metro Champs

BRAMALEA (Special) — Scoring a convincing 5-1 win over Markham Royalls here, Friday night, Bramalea Blues captured the championship of the Metro Junior B Hockey League, taking the best-of-seven final 4-2.

Royalls made a series out of it. Down 3-0 at one point, the Markham team fought back for a pair of wins but couldn't hold off the determined Bramalea drive.

Blues now meet the Mid-Ontario cham pion in their next round.

Dugre Legion Curling Champ

SUSSEX, N.B. (Special) — The Bay of Quinte Area shared in the honors on the weekend when Lou Dugre skipped his Vanier rink to the championship of the Royal Canadian Legion Curling Championships here.

It was the second Legion national title for the member of the Canadian Forces who spent 11 years getting his schooling in Trenton, from 1945-56. Dugre's rink includes Ron Powell, vice-skip; Cal Hegge, second and Larry Blanchfield, lead.

Dugre scored five in the seventh end to defeat Don Staples of Kindersley, Saskatchewan 8-7 to take the Dominion crown.

On February 9, at Trenton, Dugre's foursome qualified for the National Finals by scoring a perfect record in the Ontario championship set.

Nine provincial champions competed in the nationals here. Represented were Nova Scotia, Quebec, Alberta, Manitoba, Northwestern Ontario, Pacific Command, represented by British Columbia, Prince Edward Island, Saskatchewan and Ontario.

Dugre skipped the Dominion championship rink rink in 1971 when he was stationed at Chatham, N.B. He represented New Brunswick four times in the ominion finals.

Kingston Canadians Make It

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Last-place Kitchener Rangers rallied with four unanswered goals in the final 20 minutes to play the spoiler for London Knights and savior for Kingston Canadians.

London, deadlocked 3-3 with Kitchener after the second period, needed a victory or tie to capture the final playoff spot in the Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A quarter-final series.

Kingston, which completed its regular season play Tuesday, remains in eighth spot, one point ahead of London and Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds.

In other games, Toronto Marlboros defeated St. Catharines Black Hawks 5-3 and Peterborough Petes edged Sudbury Wolves 5-4.

On Saturday, Toronto and Oshawa Generals played to a 4-4 tie and Peterborough ended Sault Ste. Marie chances for the playoff spot with a 4-1 win.

The best-of-seven playoffs begin this week with first-place Toronto meeting Kingston, second-place Peterborough against seventh-spot Oshawa, third-place Hamilton Fincups pitted against sixth-place St. Catharines and fourth-place Ottawa battling fifth-place Sudbury.

A crowd of 4,201 watched Marc Thiel and Dan Djakalovic each score twice in the third period to break the tie in London. Larry Huras, Mike Yosurack and Joe Fortunato got the earlier Kitchener goals.

Vern Stenlund, with two, and Dwight Schofield replied for London, which has missed the playoffs only one other time in its 10-year history.

Dennis Maruk, Terry and Rick Martin completed their Junior A careers with the Knights. Maruk, held pointless in the loss, finished the schedule with 145 points, one short of the club record set by Dennis Ververgaert.

Marlboros 5 Hawks 3

Toronto began and ended its season with a win in St. Catharines.

First-place Toronto got goals from Mike Kaszycki, Rick Humes, Mike McEwen, John Smrke and John Tonelli. Kevin Kennery, Gary McAdam and Rick Adduono replied for St. Catharines in the third period.

Toronto centre Bruce Boudreau added two assists to bring his season total to 165, four more than the record set by Brian Cullen of St. Catharines Teepees in the 59-game 1953-54 season.

Petes 5 Wolves 4

Tony Cassolato's second goal at 16:59 lifted the Petes to the win on Sudbury ice. Paul Evans, with two, and Mike Fryia scored the other goals for Peterborough. Bob Russell, with his 50th and 51st, Richie Hansen and Alex McKendry scored for Sudbury.

Petes 4 Greyhounds 1

Cassolato scored two goals to again lead the Petes to a win. Gary McMonagle and John Pollock added a goal each. Bill Cuomo scored for the Greyhounds, outshot 33-27 at home.

Montreal Canadiens? Yes, Flyers Remember

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Coach Fred Shero of Philadelphia Flyers got a special thrill from his 2-1 win Sunday over Montreal Canadiens because, he said, the Canadiens are a special club.

"This was a big game for us," Shero said.

"Not because of the outcome, but because you play so many bad teams you wonder how you're going to react when you play a good team.

"We hadn't seen them in so long that all we knew about them was their statistics."

In other NHL games Sunday, St. Louis Blues tied Vancouver Canucks 3-3, Atlanta Flames beat Washington Capitals 5-0, Buffalo Sabres defeated California Seals 9-4, New York Rangers beat Boston Bruins 7-5, Chicago Black Hawks tied Detroit Red Wings 4-4 and New York Islanders tied 3-3, with Minnesota North Stars.

Saturday, the Flyers blanked Minnesota 4-0, Toronto Maple Leafs upset the Canadiens 6-4, Buffalo beat California 4-2, Los Angeles Kings blanked Pittsubrgh Penguins 4-0, the Islanders defeated Chicago 4-2, Detroit beat the Rangers 7-4 and Boston beat Washington 8-2.

The Flyers broke Montreal's National Hockey League record unbeaten road string at 23 games—14 victories and nine ties.

"The streak doesn't concern me at all," said Montreal coach Scotty Bowman. "We never talk about it. What worries me right now is finishing ahead of Los Angeles.

"I've looked at their schedule and I don't think they're going to lose too many games. We have a tougher schedule."

The Kings are six points behind the Canadiens in the Norris Division.

After the first period Sunday night the Canadiens had battled the Flyers to a 1-1 tie before Ross Lonsberry, who scored twice in Saturday's win over Minnesota, scored the winning goal in the second period.

Centre Bobby Clarke of the Flyers ran his season-assist total to 78, breaking the league record 77 set by Phil Esposito of Boston Bruins.

Unlike Bowman, Shero doesn't have to worry any longer about first place. The Flyers clinched the Patrick Division title with their Saturday win over Minnesota.

The Smythe Division title, however, is still very much up for grabs with the three leaders—Vancouver, Chicago and St. Louis doing nothing to break the close race.

The Canucks still lead by one point over Chicago and two over St. Louis.

St. Louis salvaged the tie at Vancouver with Red Berenson scoring midway in the final period.

"It saves them (Vancouver) frm jumping ahead of us," said Blues coach Garry Young. "We've got to keep winning our own games, that's all. This battle is still on until the last day."

Gil Perreault, Rene Robert and Rick Dudley each scored two goals in Buffalo's win over the Seals which clinched the Adams Division lead for the Sabres.

The Rangers line of Rod Gilbert, Jean Ratelle and Steve Vickers accounted for five goals and eight points in the victory over Boston.

Ratelle and Vickers each scored twice and Gilbert added a single goal. Greg Sheppard scored twice for Boston.

While the Rangers were helped by the return of defenceman Brad Park who missed 15 games with a leg injury, the Bruins were without Phil Esposito, Wayne Cashman and Terry O'Reilly, all resting minor injuries.

Dale Tallon scored with three minutes remaining in the game at Chicago to give the Black Hawks the tie against Detroit.

Detroit's Marcel Dionne scored two goals and assisted in a third in a hectic third period.

Goalie Phil Myre earned the shutout for Atlanta over Washington which set a record for consecutive losses with its 16th. The previous record of 15 had stood since 1930-31. It was set by the defunct Philadelphia Quakers.

The Capitals also extended their season record total of losses to 63.

Washington coach Red Sullivan resigned after Saturday's loss to Boston and general manager Milt Schmidt was behind the bench in Sunday's game. Sullivan said he resigned for health reasons and resumed his previous job of scouting for the Capitals.

At Bloomington, Minn., the North Stars played without winger Henry Boucha who was suspended, the club said, for several instances of reporting late to team practices and curfew violations.

Billy MacMillan's third-period goal earned the tie for the Islanders.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Coming around the far turn in the World Hockey Association playoff race, Minnesota Fighting Saints are leading by a nose with San Diego Mariners and Winnipeg Jets in hot pursuit as the season winds down to what may be a photo finish.

The Fighting Saints, Mariners and Jets are after the few remaining spots for the post-season competition. The top two finishers in each division, plus the two teams with the next-highest point totals in the standings will be eligible to play.

That puts Minnesota, with 76 points, and San Diego, with 75, in the wild card lead right now. But Winnipeg, at 74, is close on the trail.

All three scored victories Sunday night, keeping the race hot.

The Mariners edged Vancouver Blazers 1-0, the Fighting Saints beat Edmonton Oilers 4-2 and the Jets defeated Chicago Cougars 4-3. In Sunday's other WHA game, Phoenix Roadrunners—already owners of a playoff berth—defeated Indianapolis Racers 5-3.

Saturday, Phoenix beat Vancouver 4-2, Houston Aeros defeated New England Whalers 5-3, Winnipeg beat Chicago 4-2 and San Diego defeated Indianapolis 6-3.

New England already has clinched the East Division and Houston is a shoo-in in the West Division. Quebec Nordiques lead the Canadian Division.

Andre Lacoix scored after 59 seconds of the overtime period to give the Mariners their victory over the Blazers.

Ernie Wakely registered the shutout, turning back 23 shots. Don McLeod made 42 saves in the Vancouver net.

The victory kept San Diego one point out of third place in the West Division and second among the five teams contending for wild card berths.

The goal gave Lacroix 121 points for the year on 35 goals and 86 assists.

Gary Gambucci led a Minnesota rally with two goals to help the Fighting Saints to their victory and strengthen their playoff hopes before 14,503—the largest Saints home crowd for a regular-season game since the league opened play.

He scored Minnesota's first two goals, then Wayne Connelly broke a 2-2 tie and John Arbour scored the clincher with 7:19 remaining. Mike Rogers and Steve Carlyle were the Edmonton scorers.

Edmonton ranks fourth among the clubs trying for wild-card berths but after the two weekend losses is five points behind Winnipeg.

Anders Hedberg scored twice and Veli Pekka Ketola scored with just 1:10 remaining to lead Winnipeg past Chicago and keep the Jets' wild card hopes alive. The Jets are four points behind Toronto, which holds the second spot in the Canadian Division.

When we say our garden seed business is growing it's not intended as a weak pun. Sales to date (we do a mail-order business) are well over three times last year and last year was the biggest ever.

Not to worry, however. A lot of varieties are scarce, but we can always find a substitute just as good, so there is no real shortage of seed. Just higher prices. Early ordering is a good idea.

Reds Shake A Bad Habit

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Providence Reds let it happen once and almost let it happen again.

Saturday night, the American Hockey League Northern Division leaders were upset 5-1 by New Haven Nighthawks, the last-place team in the division.

Sunday night, playing the second game of a home-and-home series at Providence, the Reds were tied 4-4 going into the final period before rallying for four unanswered goals to defeat the Nighthawks 8-4.

The win left Providence with 96 points, seven ahead of second-place Rochester Americans and eight ahead of the pressing Nova Scotia Voyageurs.

In other league games Sunday night, the Voyageurs downed Hershey Bears 4-3, the Americans bombed Syracuse Eagles 11-2, and Richmond Robins shut out Southern Division-leading Virginia Red Wings 3-0.

Linemates Hartland Monahan and Doug Horbul scored two goals each to pace the Reds to victory.

John Wright, Pierre Laganiere, Larry O'Connor and Joe Zanussi scored the other Providence goals.

Rick Chinnick and Tom Colley gave the Nighthawks a 2-0 first-period lead. Billy Plager and Colley added second-period goals for New Haven.

Curling Title A Swiss First

PERTH, Scotland (CP)—A new curling power rose from the world championships Sunday night when Otto Danieli's young champions of Switzerland outmanoeuvred Ed Risling's defending champions from the United States 7-3.

It was the first Swiss win but some observers of their clear-cut victory feel the country will be among the stronger European entries for some time.

The Swiss have been making rapid strides at the world level in the last couple of years and last year's Peter Attinger entry gave notice of what was to follow by going 9-0 in round-robin play before being knocked out by Bud Somerville's American rink in the semi-final.

The Danieli rink was not so impressive in round-robin play, finishing at 6-3 and in fourth place. But there was little doubt of its calibre and the rink advanced to the final on the strength of a 6-5 victory over Bill Tetley of Thunder Bay, Ont., in Saturday nights semi-final.

Danieli, who had been playing progressively better as the week-long championships went by, provided the margin of victory over the Tetley rink with a clutch last-rock, raise takeout in the 10th end.

Against the Americans, who advanced with a 6-4 win in the other semi-final over Axel Kamp of Sweden by stealing the last two ends, Danieli showed himself to be one of the more knowledgeable curlers here.

The Americans, who found themselves playing a catch-up game from the first end, seemed to have trouble with their weights and allowed the Swiss to steal singles in each of the second and fifth ends and two in the ninth when Risling's last shot wicked lightly on a Swiss guard at the front of the house and rolled harmlessly by the shot rock.

Danieli, who said he was only happy to get by the semi-final, said his formula from the start was to keep the house clean.

On Saturday night, the Swiss needed a difficult raise takeout with Danieli's last rock in the 10th end of the game with Canada, but it was the same clutch play the rink had come up with on several occasions.

"The only thing I wanted to do was to raise my stone to the right position," Danieli said of his semi-final victory.

With the score tied 5-5, Tetley had last rock coming home. Strategy again dictated a big part in the final outcome.

Danieli, with his first rock in the end, drew just short of the house and closed up the only big port leading to the house wherein stood three Canadian stones.

Instead of taking out Danieli's rock, Tetley attempted a draw to cover it but came up inside, leaving the Swiss stone exposed.

Danieli and third Roland Schneider wasted little time surveying the situation and indicated a draw raise was in order.

The rock appeared to be coming heavy, but Schneider immediately got his sweepers on it and the raise perfectly eliminated the Canadian shot rock and stayed, hidden behind a wall of stones in front of the house.

Tetley's draw for the four-foot rings on the other side was heavy and drifted through the rings.

Laver Tops Ramirez

CARACAS (AP) — Australia's Rod Laver beat Raul Ramirez of Mexico 7-6, 6-2 and won the $60,000 World Championship Tennis Blue Group Altimira tournament Sunday.

Laver's victory was his third in a row on the tour.

The Aussie played almost perfect tennis in beating the young Mexican before a sellout crowd at the Altamira tennis courts.

Neither Laver, who was top seeded, nor Ramirez, third-seeded, lost their services in the first set. In the tiebreaker, Laver was unbeatable on both service and crosscourt shots. The Australian took the final point with a smash down the baseline which left Ramirez almost motionless on the court.

With his victory, Laver became the first three-time winner of the Altamira tennis crown. He also won in 1961 and in 1962.

Geoff Masters and Ross Case of Australia teamed up to beat Ramirez and Brian Gottfried of the United States 7-5, 4-6, 6-2 in the doubles final and earned $1,500 each.

Let's See It Again

ORTISEI, Italy (AP) — It's tough enough to win the World Cup skiing championship once but Italy's Gustavo Thoeni claimed he had to do it twice Sunday.

Thoeni was tied in cup standings with Austria's Franz Klammer and Sweden's Ingemar Stenmark at 240 points heading into the season's final slalom event, but when Klammer went out of the running early with a fall, it came down to Thoeni against Stenmark in a head-to-head duel.

Thoeni got off to a quick start and Stenmark, bidding to catch up, hit the next-to-last gate, fell and was disqualified.

"It was my hardest cup win," said Thoeni who has won four of the last five years. "Ingemar proved a tough opponent through the very last race."

Stenmark, 19, almost didn't make it to the final. The Swede slammed into a gate in the Andrezj Bachleda, but recovered with an acrobatic jump and finished the race.

Italian officials demanded his disqualification but the jury denied their protest after a lengthy debate and Stenmark advanced when Bachleda fell on the second run.

Tale of the Tape

Challenger Says the Champ Is on the Way Downhill

CLEVELAND (AP) — Boxing takes a 35-mile trip over a rolling road to seeming nowhere tonight for another bizarre Muhammad Ali benefit.

"I am like oxygen—oxygen is all over the world," bellows the bombastic Ali. "Any man who challenges me is challenging the world—he has to be out of his head."

The challenger is a big, mustachioed booze salesman named Chuck Wepner, who until a couple of months ago was little known outside the dimly lighted saloons of Bayonne, N.J.

He could be the longest shot in heavyweight title fight history. Odds have been quoted from 10 to 1 up to as much as 100 to 1. Las Vegas refuses to make book on it.

Wepner, a hulking 6-foot-5, appears awed by his sudden thrust into the centre of boxing's stage and the guarantee of a $100,000 prize but he gives no indication of being frozen with fright.

"Ali was a great fighter once but is going downhill," he says. "The champ's got fast hands but slow legs. I will stop him in the 13th."

Some of his closest associates wonder if he believes it.

The 15-round fight, the first defence by Ali since regaining the crown with a knockout of George Foreman last October in Zaire, Africa, is part of a unique electronic doubleheader representing a $2.3 million gamble by promoters.

The show begins in New York's Madison Square Garden at 8:30 p.m. EST with a creditable heavyweight matchup between Jerry Quarry and Ken Norton, guaranteed $185,000 and $100,000 respectively, for their 12-round battle.

From there, the closed circuit TV cameras shift westward to the $25-million Cleveland Coliseum, a modern 21,000-seat arena which the builder seemed determined to hide from the populace. It is located in the hinterlands, 35 miles from Cleveland, reachable largely over one-lane, roller-coaster roads.

Spectators purchasing tickets at the Garden and the Coliseum will see one fight live and the other on giant screens. The price range for the main event here is $15 to $250. The Garden has a $40 top.

Ali is guaranteed $1.3 million for what most experts contend will be the easiest night's work of his career.

Wepner weighed in at 225 and Ali at 223½ Sunday in a ceremony at the Coliseum. Some 300 attended.

"Look at him," Ali said, pointing a finger at his opponent, wearing a bright red, white and blue robe. "The white hope with a flag draped around him.

"If he uses any rabbit punches on me, I will trip him up and stomp on him."

Wepner awkwardly waved a fist at Ali and smiled.

In an 11-year pro career, Wepner has a record of 30 victories, nine defeats and two draws. He has scored only 12 knockouts, a low number for a title challenger.

The fight will be refereed by Tony Perez, who worked the second Ali-Joe Frazier bout, and will be governed by a five-man commission formed hastily two weeks ago when it was learned the site is in a county where no such commission existed.

Petty Atlanta 500 Winner

HAMPTON, Ga. (AP) — Richard Petty outsprinted Buddy Baker to the finish line on a last-lap run for the checkered flag Sunday and captured the Atlanta 500 stock car race.

Petty had held a commanding 30-second lead over Baker until a two-car spinout in the second turn, eight laps from the finish, produced the fifth caution flag of the day and enabled Baker to close ground.

Petty, driving a Dodge, won the last lap race by six-tenths of a second over Baker's Ford.

Baker had been running third most of the day as Petty and David Pearson, driving a Mercury, dominated the race.

It marked Petty's first victory in the Atlanta 500. He averaged 133.496 miles an hour and won $17,000 for the victory, the 167th of his career.

Ziegler Leads the Field

Don't Praise Him; Pay Him

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Larry Ziegler was suspicious when he picked up the cheque for his Greater Jacksonville open golf tournament victory.

"It looks OK," he said. "But I ain't got it to the bank yet."

The last time he had won a golf tournament, in the 1969 Michigan Classic, he didn't get to the bank. He didn't even get a cheque. Then the tournament was over and Ziegler was a winner, the sponsors discovered they didn't have enough money to pay off.

He got it eventually. The Tournament Players Division of the PGA paid him from their funds in two delayed instalments. It won him the nickname Half-Pay Ziegler.

But it was full pay this time, $30,000 for his two-stroke victory Sunday.

"I thought somebody would come out of the pack and win it—but I didn't think it would be me," Ziegler, 35, said after overcoming a big field of challengers with a seven-under-par 6-5 in the final round over the 7,143-yard Deerwood Country Club course.

Ziegler, an avid hockey fan who often leaves the golf tour to follow St. Louis Blues in National Hockey League playoffs, scored his second American triumph with a 72-hole total of 276, 12 under par.

The clincher was a string of holes starting on the 13th where he went birdie-par-birdie-eagle, the last on a 25-foot chip-in.

Nine players, including Arnold Palmer, had led or shared the lead during the final round before Ziegler's winning splurge.

Palmer finished far back with a closing 75 and a 294 total.

Ziegler clinched it with a 25-foot birdie putt on the 13th hole, a 30-footer on the 15th and the dramatic chip-in for eagle on the 16th, putting him two strokes ahead of the field.

Mike Morley bogeyed the last hole for a 70 and tied Mac McLendon for second at 278. McLendon had a final 68. Lou Graham matched the course record, as did Ziegler, with a 65 and was fourth at 279. Tied at 280 were Andy North, Wally Armstrong and Tom Shaw. North had a 68, Armstrong 70 and Shaw 71.

Everton Retains Three-point Lead

LONDON (AP) — Everton settled for a tie Saturday but maintained a three-point lead over five runners-up in English League soccer's First Division standings.

Everton came back after spotting Ipswich Town a 1-0 lead in the second minute and drew 1-1.

Four other clubs were three points behind Everton, with only goal averages separating them in the tightest championship race ever.

Everton has played 35 games, one less than Stoke City. Middlesbrough, Liverpool and Burnley picked up their 41 points in 35 games while Ipswich took 36 games to collect the same total.

Ipswich's Trevor Whymark headed the team into the lead early on a free kick from Colin Viljoen. Everton tied the score after 60 minutes when sriker Bob Latchford squared the ball acoss the goal area and Mick Lyons lunged forward to score.

Last-place Carlisle United held Stoke City to a 1-1 tie in the first half, but Stoke broke the game open in the last half and won 5-2.

Gerry Conroy had scored for Stoke in the seventh minute but striker Joe Laidlaw tied the score for Carlisle 12 minutes later. Conroy headed Stoke in front again in the 64th minute and Jimmy Greenhoff added a third two minutes later. Ian Moore and Geoff Salmons' had the other Stoke goals while Peter Carr scored the last Carlisle goal.

Luton scored a 2-1 upset against Leeds United, the defending league champions and semi-finalists in the European Cup. John Aston scored in the third minute and Peter Anderson in the 12th to give Luton a 2-0 lead. Joe Jordan scored for Leeds in the 88th minute.

In other major games, Middlesbrough edged Chelsea 2-1, Liverpool topped Tottenham 2-0, Burnley tied Arsenal 3-3, Birmingham downed Queen's Park Rangers 4-1, Leicester shaded Wolverhampton 3-2, Manchester City blanked Coventry 1-0, Derby shut out Newcastle United 2-0 and Sheffield United nipped West Ham 3-2.

Middlesbrough's former England defender Terry Cooper was sent off in the 47th minute, but earlier goals by 18-year-old Alan Willey and John Craggs stood up for the win.

Tottenham slipped closer to relegation after Liverpool got second-half goals from Kevin Keegan and Peter Cormack.

Odermatt Collects

BEAR VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Swiss skier Josef Odermatt defeated Frenchman Jean-Noel Augert to win the finals of the head-to-head slalom Sunday and add $4,000 to his earnings in the 1975 pro ski tour.

Odermatt, 23, fourth over-all, came through the 32-gate course .82 seconds ahead of Augert, who earned $2,500 for third.

Ken Corrock, 25, of Ketchum, Idaho, earned $1,500 after defeating the tour's number two skier, Henri Duvillard of France, in the opening round and then eighth-ranked Patrick Russel of France in the quarter-finals before losing to Odermatt.

THORN — In loving memory of a dear wife, Eunice Thorn who passed away March 24th, 1973.

There's a face that is haunting as ever,
There's a voice that we're longing to hear,
There's a smile we'll remember forever,
Though we try to forget every tear,
There's a sad but sweet remembrance,
There's a memory fond and true,
There's a token of affection, dear,
And heartache still for you.

—Ever loved by her husband Percy.

THORN, Eunice — In loving memory of a dear daughter and sister, who passed away March 24th, 1973.

Today recalls the memory,
Of a loved one gone to rest,
And those who think of her today,
Are those who loved her best,
The flowers we lay upon her grave,
May wither and decay,
But the love for her who lies beneath,
Will never fade away.

—Sadly missed by mother, brothers Ivan, Orval and Dale, sisters Inez, Doreen, Janice and Karen.

DEMILLE — In loving memory of a dear dad and grandfather, Arthur DeMille who passed away March 24, 1971.

His place on earth no one can fill,
We miss you dad and always will.

—Always remembered by family and grandchildren.

SINE — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Mary Sine who passed away, March 24th, 1974.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT!

The Quinte Canada Farm Labour Pool would like to assist you, the Dairy Farmers, in solving your summertime labor problems. In order to have a general idea of how many farmers need summer help, we prepared a questionnaire and mailed approximately 1600 of these to dairy farmers in the district. Of the 1600 questionnaire, 30 were returned.

Is this any indication of the need of a Farm Labor Pool?

MOSCOW (Reuter) — The Rolling Stones have lost their originality and sparkle.

This, says V. Kokonin, vice-director of Goskontsert, the sale monopoly handling all tours of foreign artists, is why the Stones have never been invited to tour the Soviet Union and why no invitation is contemplated.

Kokonin said the Stones are rolling downhill so fast that even in the West their concerts are losing money.

He made his comments to the youth newspaper, Konsomolskaya which had inquired why the Stones had never been asked to visit the Soviet Union.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Tuesday, March 25

ARIES (March 21- Apr. 19) Be careful who you team up with in work today. Assign only limited tasks and minor responsibilities to those who previously let you down.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20) If you're planning something social with friends today, don't mix persons whose personalities clash. Problems will result if you do.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20) This is one of those days when a little squabble could pop up at home and you might unwisely favor one side instead of trying arbitration.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Try not to blame others for your mistakes today. If you pull a boner, confess up to it. You'll get co-operation instead of complications.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You tend to be a trifle too careless in management of your material affairs. A loss that could be avoided is likely.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This will generally be a pleasant day for you unless you rehash a petty issue, that should have been long forgotten with your mate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Some of the edge will be taken off a kind act you do when you talk about it in order to get the credit you feel you deserve.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This evening when out among friends, be careful not to tell something about another friend that you don't know to be true.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 21) Don't take bows today for the accomplishment of another, even though you did have a small part in its success.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A discussion you'll have with a close friend will have a disturbing effect. You'll read more into it than was meant.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Small oversights in business dealings are likely today if you let your concentration wander. Double-check bills before paying.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You are a bit too indecisive for your own good. Something you've taken pains to think through will be altered foolishly.

'Floaters' Common Visual Defect

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I went to an ophthalmologist because I have been seeing black spots. He called them "floaters." He said that they were not serious and he said there was no cataract or glaucoma.

Can you give me some information about "floaters"?—A.R.

Nearly everyone has had one or more floaters at one time or another. They are more prevalent in older folks but they can occur in any age group

Vitreous floaters—which is the full name—are flecks of tissue often displaced blood cells that flake away from the inner surface of the eyeball into the fluid-filled cavity behind the lens. When this happens they cast a shadow against the retina producing the impression of seeing black spots.

In extreme situations such as a severe blow to the head a flurry of floaters can resemble the miniature snow blizzards produced in one of those little glass ball ornaments. The flecks disappear quickly and the snowstorm ends. It's the same with floaters.

Although usually harmless floaters should be reported to the eye doctor which I'm pleased to see you have done. They can be symptoms of certain eye diseases especially if they recur with frequency.

Floaters are most prominent when staring into a bright sky or into a light. They disappear when the eye returns to a subdued gaze. Sometimes they will appear as bits of thin thread. I had one of these for years but I can't seem to make it perform for me anymore. It must have disappeared.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 13 years old and a worrier. I had pneumonia when I was a year old and again when I was seven. Ever since then I have dreaded the disease.

Recently I was told that after you have had pneumonia twice your body develops immunity to the disease. I would like to know if this is medically proven.—R.M.

It might be partially true. Some immunity does result from the antibody formation in the body upon invasion by the pneumonia germ. But how much and how long this persists I just can't tell you.

And this immunity would only hold for that specific germ. There are several others that can cause pneumonia so it's possible to have the disease time and time again each time involving a different organism.

Your misconception may arise from the erroneous notion that if both lungs are affected one cannot contract it again. This of course is patently untrue.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there some way to prepare beans to avoid the gas problem they cause?—H.G.

Add a bit of baking soda to the water in which they are boiled.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please write something about cerebral ischemia. Can it be cured or checked and how does a 77-year-old patient go about his business having it? I mean as to diet and exercise.—J.U.

Cerebral ischemia means there is inadequate blood oxygen reaching the brain. It implies an arterial hardening is usually associated with aging. At 77 it would be surprising if you did not have some degree of this.

Yet it is a diagnosis too glibly made often ignoring other possible causes. Anemia and low thyroid activity are possibilities and they should be looked into because they are correctible.

But in true cases of cerebral ischemia one cannot do very much to alter the toll time exacts from the arteries. There is no special diet to change the picture at your age. Your letter is written in a fine strong hand which indicates you are a vigorous 77.

Keep up any exercie that doesn't overtire you. Walking is best and it will perk up your circulation. It is important too for you to remain mentally active — read, play cards etc.

Opening lead — 2♠

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

Jim: "Here is a simple-looking hand that really is very complicated."

Oswald: "It sure is. A really expert declarer reviews the bidding, decides that East must hold the king of diamonds and leads his king of clubs at trick two. East takes his ace and knocks out South's last high spade. South cashes the rest of the clubs. East must make three discards. A heart and a diamond are easy; the last one impossible. If he throws another heart, South makes the ace and jack; if he throws a spade, South can lose the diamond finesse and still make his contract."

Jim: "A slightly less expert declarer takes the diamond finesse at trick two. If East is either a beginner or an expert, he grabs the first diamond. The beginner because he doesn't know any better; the expert because he sees he can clear the spades and set the hand surely."

Oswald: "Now for the real complication. A player with a little knowledge ducks the diamond. If South repeats the diamond finesse it works out fine for the defence, but South doesn't. He knocks out the ace of clubs and is sure of nine tricks and probably will score ten.

Kissinger Depicted In Flying Nun Role

ROME (AP) — Dr. Kissinger as the flying nun?

"Well, maybe it was a bit naughty," conceded British satirist Muriel Spark, whose witty new novel views the Washington scene as a bizarre religious cavalcade gone astray on the pilgrim path.

The Abbess of Crewe, published this winter, sets the Watergate scandal inside a Roman Catholic convent in England, in which recognizable public figures undergo impious flagellation in an aura of sanctity and intrigue.

To begin with, the poplars along the Avenue of Mediation have been bugged, two Jesuits had bungled a break-in and the newly elected Abbess of Crewe has gone on television to deny any part in a cover-up.

As the tapes reveal, nuns come and go talking of scenario, especially the hatchet-sisters Walburga and Mildred. "Two of the finest nuns I have ever had the privilege to know," said Abbess Alexandra who would have been elected anyway. The break-in involved stealing love letters of Free Love candidate Sister Felicity, she of the "insufferable charisma," who presides over a "hotbed of sedition" in the embroidery room when not bounding out a window into a hayrick to join her Jesuit lover.

Sister Gertrude tries to remain above it all, gadding about the world "by river, by helicopter, by jet, by camel," with a press entourage on missions of "ecumenical ephemera."

"My excellent nun, my learned Hun," as Lady Abbess addresses her on the green hot line, just happens to speak with a German accent. The whole electronic circus is surveyed by a monitor hidden in a jewelled statuette of the infant of Prague.

Wasn't it deliciously malicious of novelist Spark to locate her devastating Watergate satire in a Benedictine abbey in England? Wasn't it wantonly wicked of her to instigate the guessing game of which wimple best fits Haldeman and Ehrlichman, Kissinger and McGovern?

"Not at all," purred the perpetrator of The Abbess of Crewe. "The Benedictine order has always greatly resembled the White House with its power and elitism."

The Edinburgh-born novelist—best known for The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie—gazed out her window at the eerie amber reflection of the Vatican's floodlit walls on the muddy Tiber. "The church is famous for fierce intrigues. Those inside the Vatican really make Watergate look like a third-rate burglary."

Researching the character of her Lady Abbess, who reads Machiavelli's The Art of war to her co-conspirators at table in the convent, Mrs. Spark often went along to the Vatican library and was impressed "with the clandestine air of all those hand-wringing monsignori."

"Why, just last week they dismissed two telephone workers for allegedly stealing some holy medals. Don't you think they were caught on a bugging mission?"

For the coarse language and racy dialogue of her mod nuns, she had to rely on her friends, the Roman taxi drivers.

"Roman society today has the ethos of before the First World War," said the reclusive novelist, who almost never grants interviews—unless, of course, a persistent reporter bombards her mail box with old Watergate jokes. "One doesn't really hear bad words."

The author of the most devastating satire to date on Watergate is "absolutely shocked at the pervasive bitchiness" of the American press. "Look at all that to-do about Pat Nixon's jewels. I'll bet Jacqueline Kennedy got to keep all of hers."

BLEW UP FROM NOTHING

Mrs. Spark is still fascinated at "how Watergate blew up from nothing."

"Of course, I'm looking at it from a European point of view. We're so much more used to government scandals. We take it for granted all ministers are leading some kind of a private life. It has nothing to do with their running the country right.

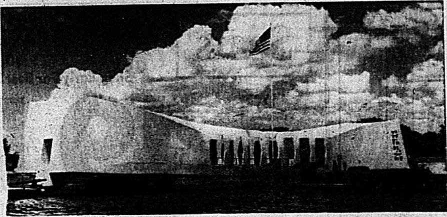
"But the Americans don't want a good politician. They want a father figure. It shows your sophistication is lagging. A man should be himself. Nixon might have been a very good president but the Americans want a nice guy. Now they have one in Mr. Ford, but will he be a good president?"

She pondered history's ultimate verdict on Watergate. "They will psychoanalyse the whole thing, post-mortem reaction to Vietnam and all that, and then wonder what all the fuss was about and why he didn't burn the tapes in the first place."

Nixon's biggest mistake, the novelist concludes, was not the deed but the cover-up. "He shouldn't have lied to a world public, going on TV with all those frank, candid speeches. He behaved like a naughty schoolboy caught at the horse races rather than at his grandmother's funeral."

Mrs. Spark unknowingly prepared herself for the intrigues of The Abbess of Crewe when she worked with British Intelligence at Woburn Abbey toward the end of the Second World War.

A convert to Catholicism in 1954—"all my best work dates from then"—she lived for a time in South Africa, taught at U.S. universities and for several years occupied "a writer's office" at the New Yorker magazine. "Actually, it was A. J. Liebling's old desk."



More than a million people visit the Arizona Memorial in Pearl Harbor annually. The memorial is a stark white building 184 feet long resting on pilings above the sunken USS Arizona. The monument looks as if it is floating on water. (CP Photo)

Teachers Would Pick Teachers

TORONTO (CP) — Teachers should be allowed to decide who can become a teacher and who cannot, says James Head, co-ordintaor of an interim study by the 34,000-member Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation.

The $50,000 report released during the weekend said teachers should be allowed to conduct entrance examinations for new teachers similar to bar exams now conducted by the Law Society of Upper Canada for would-be lawyers.

"We need to control the type of persons we are getting into teaching," Mr. Head said Sunday.

He told delegates at the federation's four-day annual assembly that provincial education facilities are producing "a variation" in the competence of teacher trainees.

The teachers adopted a report recommendation calling for compulsory subjects in all years of high school as part of a return to a guarantee of education standards.

The report was based on a survey of 34,000 secondary school teachers plus community forums conducted by the group.

The delegates rejected a recommendation that members establish regional examinations as a way of measuring students' educational achievement.

Margaret Wilson, president of the Toronto teachers and chairman of the federation's research committee, said the centre of the report is to put "the classroom teacher in control of the quality of what goes on in schools."

The province set classroom standards through inspectors up to 1969 when larger county boards of education were introduced and responsibility shifted to local boards.

This change, plus the high-school credit system instituted in 1971, are all failures, the report stated. It said education now is less equal and student transfers more difficult.

CALLS FOR ACTION

Mr. Head said the study calls on teachers to "end this confusion."

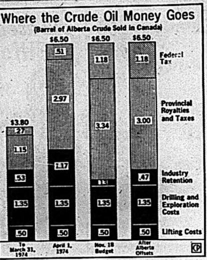
"We seem to be the only body seriously trying to do something."

English, mathematics and science led the list of subjects the teachers want made compulsory. The report also wants formal guidance classes for students, particularly those in Grades 9 and 10.

Pay Increased

WINNIPEG (CP) — A binding arbitration award gives Canadian mint employees a pay raise of 29 per cent in a two-year contract, says Shalom Schachter, Public Service Alliance of Canada regional representative.

The award affects 550 mint workers at Ottawa and Hull, Que., and 57 workers here. The mint employees agreed to binding arbitration and returned to work March 3 after a three-month strike.



Where Money Goes

Gulf Oil Canada has announced that although the price of Alberta crude oil produced for the Canadian market has almost doubled in the last year to $6.50 from $3.80, the oil industry's share dropped to 47 cents from 53 cents a barrel. The federal share has almost quadrupled to $1.18, while the provincial share has almost tripled to $3. Gulf said its conclusions are based on figures compiled by the Canadian Petroleum Association. 747 Jumbo Jet Loses Wing Flap

TORONTO (CP) — A British Airways 747 jumbo jet lost a wing flap Saturday as it was preparing to land at Toronto International Airport.

But most of the 206 passengers and 18 crew members aboard the jet apparently were unaware that it had dropped the flap, which controls turns and landing speed.

The airline said the plane's captain radioed the control tower and flew over "to get them to confirm what had happened. Then he made a perfectly normal landing."

A British Airways spokesman said two passengers saw the wing flap fall off and were "somewhat shaken—but there was no panic on board."

The flap broke into two pieces, one falling into a quarry and the other crashing into a local resident's garden.

Nellie Libby, 65, said she was watching television when she heard a loud thump, but thought it was her husband slamming the garage door. About an hour later, she looked out the window and saw the light gray 12-foot section of wing.

"I thought there must have been an air crash," she said. "And I was mightily relieved the wing part didn't hit our house."

Tax Cuts Near

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States congressmen and senators failed to push through a compromise tax-cut bill in one day, but Al Ullman, chairman of the House of Representatives ways and means committee, expressed hope the process would be completed today.

Union Fires Staff

OTTAWA (CP) — The Letter Carriers Union of Canada (LCUC) fired its office staff Monday after they refused to return to work following a disagreement with management about the promotion of a casual employee to a permanent position.

Increases Not Automatic

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — Ontario Premier William Davis said Monday that the Ontario government will not necessarily increase its 1975 budget to meet inflation in all areas. The premier told the annual meeting of Peel community services that the economy faces serious risks unless government and other sectors exercise voluntary restraint on spending, wages and prices.

Minimum Pay to Rise

OTTAWA (CP) — Labor Minister John Munro told labor leaders Monday that the federal government soon will announce an increase in the minimum wage. Mr. Munro told a delegation from the Canadian Labor Congress (CLC) that the wage will not rise to $3-an-hour proposed by the congress in a brief to the cabinet Monday, but will be higher than the present $2.20. The highest provincial minimum is $2.50.

Globe Price Increases

TORONTO (CP) —The Globe and Mail says that effective March 31 the home delivery price of the newspaper will be increased to $1 a week from 85 cents and the single copy price of the Saturday edition will be increased to 25 cents from 15 cents.

Vote in Doubt

OTTAWA (CP) — With about 50 per cent of the vote in, federal blue collar workers have been voting by a 57-yer-cent margin in favor of a tentative contract settlement, a Public Service Alliance spokesman said today. But the result so far is worrying alliance leaders who fear the agreement could be rejected.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — King Faisal of Saudi Arabia, a staunch friend of the West and at the same time a bankroller of Arab wars against Israel, was assassinated in his royal palace today by a "mentally-deranged" nephew, the official Saudi radio announced.

His ailing brother, Crown Prince Khaled Ibn Abdul Aziz, 62, was proclaimed king shortly afterward.

The gunshot slaying cast a new shadow over the Middle East following the collapse last weekend of a U.S. effort to find a peace settlement in the area.

The official radio in Riyadh, the winter capital of Saudi Arabia, said the nephew, Prince Faisal Ibn Musaed Ibn Abdul Aziz, pulled a gun and shot King Faisal several times in an audience room of the modest palace in the heart of Riyadh after approaching him to offer salutations on the occasion of Prophet Mohammed's birthday, being celebrated today throughout the Moslem world.

The nephew was described in the broadcast as the son of Faisals half brother, Musaed.

The radio added that Faisal, whose age was variously listed as 69 or 70, died later in a hospital of gunshot wounds. The fate of the nephew was not mentioned.

Less than two hours later, the radio announced the proclamation of Khaled as king and the appointment of another brother, Prince Fahd, 53, as the new crown prince. Fahd had carried out a number of official missions for Faisal in the last year. Khaled has had heart surgery and there was speculation that Fahd will take over the actual administration of the government, perhaps as premier.

In Washington and other Western capitals, Faisal had been regarded as a moderating influence in the Arab world.

An Israeli diplomat in Geneva said: "This will send shockwaves through the world. It may have vast consequences, not only in the Middle East."

The announcement set off repercussions in the world.

Oil shares fell and the U.S. dollar dropped in value in London, where the British government circles expressed concern.

The rapid transition of power in Riyadh appeared designed to quell any possible speculation about a power struggle within the large royal family.

Khaled was crown prince and first deputy premier under Faisal. Fahd was second deputy premier as well as interior minister.

While a strong friend of the U.S., Faisal also was a bitter opponent of what he considered Washington's pro-Israeli stance.

He led the oil embargo by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries—OPEC—against Israel's friends during the Arab-Israeli war of October, 1973. The U.S., Europe and Asia suffered the most from the embargo and production cuts.

Saudi Arabia accounts for the largest amount of oil purchased from the Middle East by the U.S., nine per cent of U.S. imports.

Faisal, who ruled since 1964, bankrolled the Arab war effort against Israel with Saudi Arabia's oil billions, and vowed to recover Israeli-occupied territory so he could pray in Jerusalem's Islamic shrines before he died.

The sad-faced Faisal, exercising skillful leadership and a steady hand, saved Saudi Arabia from bankruptcy when he peacefully deposed his brother Saud in 1964.

Saud's irresponsible playboy rule was replaced by stability and an oil boom under Faisal. The vast desert country on the Arabian peninsula became the biggest oil exporter in the world with the largest monetary reserves.

Saudi Arabia currently earns more than $30 billion a year from its oil.

Political Motives Possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — The assassination of King Faisal of Saudi Arabia comes as a severe blow to United States policy in the Middle East, U.S. officials said today. President Ford called him "a close friend of the United States."

Basing their judgment on "initially sketchy" information, U.S. officials were inclined to accept the view that Faisal's assassination was an isolated blow struck by a deranged nephew.

They did not, however, rule out the possibility of broader political motives for the monarch's death, perhaps from outside Saudi Arabia.

St. Laurent's Grandchild Has Visit from Police

MONTREAL (CP) — Acting on a telephone tip, Montreal police burst into the home of a former Canadian prime minister's granddaughter during the weekend looking for fugitive U.S. heiress Patty Hearst.

Mrs. Mary McKay, 23, granddaughter of the late Louis St. Laurent who was prime minister from 1948 to 1957, said four policemen armed with rifles went to her west-end home at about 5 a.m. Saturday.

"The only time I heard about the Hearst girl was on the radio or television. I've never known her, seen her or had anything at all to do with her or anyone remotely connected with her."

Mrs. McKay speculated the call to police may have been tied to a series of crank calls she has been receiving.

Fear Gripping Da Nang As Hue Is Abandoned

SAIGON (AP) — Fear gripped isolated Da Nang as the North Vietnamese tightened their hold today on the northern quarter of South Vietnam following the withdrawal of government forces from Hue.

Associated Press Correspondent Peter Arnett said the South Vietnamese army was forming a new defence line around De Nang.

The city, South Vietnam's second largest, where United States combat troops first entered the Vietnam War in March, 1965, was tense and jammed, its population of 500,000 was more than doubled by refugees. Streets were clogged.

Panicky civilians swamped the Air Vietnam terminal, trying to get out of the city. Some soldiers deserted and joined their families on overloaded boats for Saigon.

Official sources told Arnett it did not appear that the Communists would try immediately to take Da Nang.

Between 300 and 400 U.S. citizens still were in Da Nang, including families of diplomatic personnel and civilians working under contract for the South Vietnamese government, Arnett reported.

No orders for their evacuation have been issued. But in Washington, the Pentagon said it is sending a second aircraft carrier to Vietnamese waters to have helicopters on hand should evacuation of Americans become necessary.

The abandonment of Hue, 50 miles north of Da Nang, and two other provincial capitals, Tam Ky and Quang Ngai, to the south, extended the Communist command's control to about 50 per cent of South Vietnam's 66,000 square miles, including 11 of the country's 44 provinces.

Gloomy CLC Chiefs Give Cabinet Views

OTTAWA (CP) — A dismal picture of unemployment, inflation and declining exports loomed in the minds of Canadian Labor Congress leaders Monday as the two-million-member organization made its annual pitch to the federal cabinet.

Congress president Joe Morris, flanked by the chiefs of most major unions in the country, said labor would do its part in the battle against economic problems if other sectors would also make sacrifices.

The delegation went away with few promises but Mr. Morris said he felt the cabinet was more open in discussion than in previous meetings.

The congress did win an assurance from Prime Minister Trudeau that labor would not have to shoulder alone the burden of any fight against economic troubles, although the prime minister noted that wage increases being won by Canadian workers are higher in percentage terms than those won by their U.S. counterparts.

Classes for Pregnant Debated

School Trustees Annoyed To Learn of Plan in Paper

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

Sensibe debate over a special class for pregnant students was hampered Monday night because of too much prepublicity, says Miriam Graham, vice-chairman of the Hastings County Board of Education.

Mrs. Graham said an Intelligencer story on the special class came before most trustees had any knowledge of the proposal. The program, outlined by special education superintendent E. T. (Ted) Morris, would meet the educaional needs of students who become pregnant.

The Intelligencer first learned of the program March 13, during an interview with home-hospital instructor Margaret Flett of the special education division of the board.

As did many other trustees, Mrs. Graham objected to reading about it in the press before they were officially informed by administrative council. Acting director of education L. F. Reid said the misunderstanding was a product of a "naive teacher and a conscientious reporter".

Mr. Morris told trustees the program has been on-going since 1972 and is only being expanded because facilities and personnel are now available. Mrs. Flett, during a previous interview, estimated there were 30 girls who left schools last year due to pregnancy.

Mr. Morris said the program would enable these students to attend morning classes three days a week at the Ann Street Education Centre. Prior to this the home-hospital instructor met with some girls at their homes.

Mr. Morris said there were many advantages to a class environment. the girls could rely on each other for emotional and social support. Also, nonacademic classes, such as prenatal classes, could be taught.

Separate school trustee Edgar Paquet objected to the program on the basis that students in the northern part of the county could not participate due to transportation problems.

Both Mr. Morris and Mr. Reid assured the trustee the board had an obligation to all students in all areas. Mr. Morris said at the present time there are no girls to take part in the program. However, he did say there is a pregnant elementary school student who is unable to attend this program.

Belleville trustee Donald Thrush said the program would be of minimal cost to the taxpayer. He said he had received several calls about the financing.

Belleville trustee Eloise Burr, who said "the teacher spoke out of turn," supported the position the trustees should be informed about these programs in order to approve or disapprove them.

The board finally agreed to refer the program to the chairman's committee for further study. A similar program is under way in Kingston with the Frontenac County Board of Education.

Trustee Sees No Need To Teach Contraception

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

Today's students don't need more instruction on contraception, says Belleville trustee Donald Thrush.

He was commenting on a suggestion by trustee Robert Ord that perhaps the Hastings County Board of Education should consider the cause of unwanted pregnancies, as well as special classes to prevent pregnant students from leaving school.

Mr. Thrush, who said he has had several calls on the controversial subject, said a recent Kingston survey revealed that students are satisfied with the existing sex education program and require no further knowledge about contraception.

"I don't think we should be doing anything more . . . if indeed we do offer contraception courses," added Mr. Thrush, who also expressed concern about the cost of such a program.

It is estimated about 30 students left school last year due to pregnancies.

Media Uses Educators As Whipping Boys: Reid

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

Acting director of education L. F. Reid said Monday night the media uses educators as "whipping boys" when the permissive society fails.

He made the statement in response to a suggestion the Hastings County Board of Education take a second look at its sex education programs and in particular its approach to teaching contraception in schools.

"The family and the church have abdicated their responsibilities in the area of sex education and everyone looks to the schools for help," he declared.

Advertisements and pornographic movies destroy much of what the schools are attempting to teach. "Teachers are doing a good job with sex education," he added. He said there are courses, such as health and human behavior, which deal with the complicated aspects of Parliament Orders Dockers To Return to Work in B.C.

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament ordered an end today to a strike by West Coast longshoremen after a near-miss debate Monday night that could have delayed the effect of the law for a day.

The 4,000 longshoremen and 300 longshore supervisors in 11 British Columbia ports were ordered by the law to return to work today after an almost-five-hour debate culminated in royal assent at 11:48 p.m.

The law provides for appointment of an arbitrator or arbitrators who must resolve the two disputes within 60 days. Labor Minister John Munro will select the arbitrators.

An end to the three weeks of walkouts today would mean that vital grain exports from Vancouver and other British Columbia ports would move for the first time since Feb. 17. A strike by grain weighers and samplers belonging to the Public Service Alliance began then.

The emergency legislation, the fourth law in the last three years to end major grain tieups, was brought in by the government Monday after the longshoremen rejected a tentative contract agreement by a 55 per cent majority Sunday.

The longshore foremen, seeking a first contract, also left their jobs Sunday.

Parliament nearly missed putting the law into effect today. A section of the bill says the law is effective the day following royal assent.

If debate and royal assent had taken 12 minutes longer, the law would not have come into effect for another day. The Commons passed the bill just before 10 p.m. with Senate consideration taking about 90 minutes.

The Weather

Synopsis: Mostly cloudy skies are forecast for southern Ontario today in the wake of Monday's heavy rain. Mainly sunny weather and cool temperatures are expected Wednesday.

Printing Contracts Queried

Frankford trustee Raymond Rowe wants to know how the Hastings County Board of Education distributes its printing work to county printers.

Mr. Rowe said Monday night small printers in the county are not getting a fair chance at the work. He said most printing contracts are taken by Belleville printers.

Superintendent of business Ken Wormald said all printers are asked to quote the board various prices on jobs but he added there are some who have never taken this option. The Board approved an account Monday night for about $1,500 for printing for one month.

Trenton to Bill Murray For Partial Protection

TRENTON — Town council will send Murray township a bill for three months of fire protection provided at the annual rate of $30,000.

It will also ask Murray what area it wants renton to cover following any indication the township. will likely ask Frankford to protect its north half.

Council's action came Monday in response to a letter from township clerk Ken Rose.

Mr. Rose said his council is concerned with the jump in the cost of its fire protection, termed inadequate by some Murray residents.

The town's bill for protection in 1975 climbed to $30,000 this year from $12,000 in 1974.

Ther clerk said the Ontario Fire Marshal's Office has also expressed "pessimism" in Trenton's ability to cover the entire township.

With an agreement for fire protection from Frankford possible, Mr. Rose indicated an adjustment of Trenton's fee for protection of a decreased area would be "reasonable".

Trenton council agreed Monday it will request payment for three months of fire service now, since no agreement has yet been made. It will also ask for clarification of what areas are propose for coverage by Trenton.

MORE — Take 2

Mayor Bob Patrick urged Murray be billed immediately at the $30,000 annual rate. He reasoned that since no agreement has yet been signed, the cost set by the town should be charged.

He said the quicker Murray can agree with Frankford, the quicker other dollar related arrangements can be made.

The township has still not paid a $15,000 fee due Jan. 1, 1975.

Taxi Owner Discounting Senior Citizen Fares

TRENTON — Doug Ridley, owner of Doug's Taxi, wants council to amend a town bylaw to permit his cab fleet to dock 10 cents from a taxi fare, and discontinue a 25-cent parcel handling charge for Trenton senior citizens.

His fleet now is breaking a town bylaw that gives senior citizens a discount in their cab fares.

Mr. Ridley told council Monday that town police have twice in the past two weeks warned him that he is breaking the bylaw.

"They stated I was breaking the bylaw and I could be charged," he said outside chambers. "To me, if was overcharging, I could see the police after me, but not for undercharging."

The bylaw states a passenger must pay the price shown on a taxi's meter.

He told council the bylaw should be amended to allow a taxi company to charge less than the meter price. As for the 25-cent parcel handling fee, he said he refuses to levy the charge: "Because a trunk, to me, is part of the car."

Council is expected to amend its bylaw covering the two taxi companies in Trenton.

Cleanup Cancelled

TRENTON — The spring cleanup program will not take place in Trenton this year, a victim of town council's growing concern with a possible jump of its 1975 budget.

The works department program allws homeowners to get rid of waste materials accumulated over the winter months at the town's expense.

Cleanup week ran into some flak in 1974 when two individuals put out for town crews the remains of an orchard and a demolished house.

In 1974, the program cost an aproximate $10,0000.

Councillors Peter De Groot and Ron Pride urged council Monday to delete the program this year in the face of what is expected to be a high town budget for 1975.

Mayor Bob Patrick told council people will have to make their own arrangement to rid themselves of refuse. Trenton homeowners may use the towndump north of Highway two off Aitkens Rd.

In a similar vein, council Monday okayed a bylaw that provides for fines from $50 to $1000 for littering on all property — town owned or private — in Trenton. Until now, only littering on public property was legislated.

Budget Shuffle Allows Work

TRENTON — Council gave the go-ahead Monday to switch $110,689 in spending for curb, sidewalk and road construction from the recently approved capital budget to the current budget.

The move leaves a $110,689 gap in the capital works program that council expects to fill by moving current budget expenditures over to the capital budget, approved with few cuts at $938,935 last week.

As yet, the current budget remains in the talking stage with approval slated for sometime month.

Council's action makes work on Murphy, Elgin and Middle Sts. possible immediately. Work on the three downtown streets now will co-incide with current construction by the town utilities commission.

Ice Downs Power Lines

PICTON — A spokesman for the Picton-area office of Ontario Hydro said today that Monday's ice storm caused isolated power failures but no major blackouts were reported.

A feederline from Cherry Valley to Point Petre went out causing power failure in that area Monday afternoon.

Ticket Sales Approved

TRENTON — The Belleville Yardmen Benefi Fund was given a re-affirmation of town council's permission to sell its lottery tickets in Trenton Monday.

In a letter to council, Edward Branton, Fund president said written prermission was needed to allow the Yardmen to continue selling tickets here.

Council agreed the Yardmen were given such permission four years ago and that the current request was for their own benefit.

Farina Guest Speaker

PICTON — The Prince Edward Children's Aid Society will hold its annual meeting Wednesday, April 2 at St. Gregory's Hall in Picton.

Guest speaker for the meeting beginning at 8 p.m. will be Margaret Farina of the Ontario Association of Children's Aid Societies.

Rail Study Under Way

TRENTON — Town council gave the Quinte Planning Board the go-ahead to seek out information from the senior governments concerning the relocation of railways in Trenton.

The planning board is also asking its other four members, Frankford, Belleville, and Sidney and Thurlow townships if they want the board to act on their behalf.

Window Tenders Sought

PICTON — Tenders will be called March 26 for the ministry of community and social services for installation of aluminum windows and screens in 40 residences at Prince Edward Heights, government complex for the mentally retarded.

The announcement was made Monday by James Taylorp, MLA Prince Edward — Lennox from his office in Queen's Park.

Mr. Taylor said estimated completion date for the work is July 31, 1975.

ADVANTAGE OF LARGE MORTGAGE

Ed. McKinney
J. E. McKinney
Realty Ltd.

When buying a home, should you strive for a low down payment with a commensuratey large mortgage loan? Here's what some experts say about the value of a large mortgage.

The lower your down payment is, the easier it will be to sell your home in the future. The reasoning is that there will be a greater number of prospects who have a smaller amount of cash available to take over a small equity than for a huge down payment or even being forced to take out a new loan at a possibly higher interest rate.

The larger loan will mean higher monthly payments but the money that would have been put into a larger down payment could be used for any renovations you might want to do, moving expenses or even for ober income-producing investments. Finally, it's cheaper to borrow morgage money than money for any other kind of purchase. And you certainly may have to borrow for autos and college tuition if you are an average Canadian.

Bricklin Sports Car Makes Heavy Going in These Inflationary Times

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

With 1.5 million unsold new cars in the United States and General Motors passing a dividend for the first time in its history, someone has started a new car company? You have to be kidding.

No joke for him, and definitely not fooling. is 38-year-old Philadelphia swinger-millionaire Malcolm Bricklin who is actually producing an $8.200 sports car called the Bricklin.

It's being made in New Brunswick with most of the money to do it coming from a very generous and also very optimistic provincial government.

His company, Bricklin (Canada) Limited, is a subsidiary of his General Vehicle Inc. in Phoenix, Ariz. The market is the American sports car enthusiast who is supposed to be surviving the recession with cash to burn on expensive cars.

The Bricklin presently coming off the New Brunswick production line reportedly spasmodically, at a rate of about 32 per month, is a Maserati-type two-seater, the brainchild of a young would-be auto executive who wears flashy suits and bead necklaces.

The Bricklin car raises up shades of other now long-forgotten new cars of recent and temporary vintage which flickered and faded, faced with the overwhelming competition of the big auto makers.

Does anyone remember the Tucker Torpedo of the late 1940s? About 50 rolled off the production line before it was "torpedoed" by the big car builders. Or the lumbering Kaiser Manhattan?

When the late Henry Kaiser couldn't sell it in North America, he made a deal with the late Argentine dictator Juan Peron in 1955.

Kaiser shipped the tooling and other equipment to the industrial city of Cordoba where very expensive 1955 model Manhattans were made for that country until the mid-1960s.

The Bricklin was launched in February, 1974, at an auto dealers convention in Las Vegas in a so-called "private showing" and again in June of last year in New York.

This is the big market that counts and it was unveiled by Mr. Bricklin's dad and by John Bunting, chairman of the First Pennsylvania Bank, the sugar daddy of Bricklin's American financing. That bank is believed to have loaned Bricklin junior about $3 million to date.

But his biggest "sugar daddies" to date are Canadian ones. The Canadian federal government and New Brunswick Conservative Premier Richard Hatfield have laid about $20 million on the line to build the Bricklin car production facility at Saint John.

In fact, the Bricklin car is such a big event to economically-depressed New Brunswick always on the look for new industry, that Premier Hatfield made it the major plank during the recent provincial election, (which he won), that the plant would go and the car would sell.

Currently the Bricklin car-making plant in Canada has had enough troubles to dispel Mr. Bricklin's euphoria. Many U.S. dealers currently displaying the Bricklin, expect the car's price to jump to $8,800 by the end of 1975 from last year's $7800.

Some U.S. dealers have complained Bricklin cars arrive from Canada with parts missing such as door latches, electrical components and safety-regulated items like support rods. And an initial management team hired from the American car industry, has already quit over policy disagreements with Mr. Bricklin.

If you wonder about his bad timing with the record slump in U.S. car sales, remember too that Britain's elite Aston Martin, a $32,000 proven luxury sports car, stopped production last month for good.

Against these kinds of odds, a "Bricklin-in-your-future" still looks unlikely.

A Place of Character

Orillia — typical small-town Canada, and yet not really typical. A place with its own unique character, but stable, pleasant, a good place to live. Home of course of the late and great Stephen Leacock.

Leacock the humorist, a man too who knew loneliness and who reflected on the subtle changes wrought by the passage of time, their impact on the individual and on community life. A man who like any man of artistry could speak of the ordinary and the humdrum and give them life and character.

And the small town of Orillia — a place with a heart and a sense of belonging, with its interesting milieu of people from many lands — came to life in that interesting CBC special last week. And how about those solid working men from the foundry, or some such place, in their attitude to work. "You have got to work . . . every day . . . that's all," as one fellow put it; and the others, of varying ages, agreed.

Meanwhile, Toronto-born actor Christopher Plummer is a busy man these days. Plummer is an actor of international repute, and it was he who played the role of Leacock in the program preceding the one on Orillia. He gave substance to the man and the writer, Leacock, who wrote on the human condition, for it's people everywhere. That was the essence of his fame. A Canadian, though born in England, whose work became known around the world.

For Plummer, Canadian and man of the world too, who appeared recently with Faye Dunaway in a television version of Arthur Miller's After The Fall, it was another acting triumph.

Second Time It's Easier!

An unusual slant on the great cigarette smoking controversy. A one-time addict of our acquaintance, off the smokes for six years now, was seized once again with the urge.

He would try a few, then quit again. His wife was aghast. Anyway, off he went for a coffee (an added expense of the smoker), at the same time buying himself a packet of his favorite brand of old.

Deep drags . . . satisfying too after a fashion . . . and well, it's OK isn't it . . . it's only going to be this packet. Then nyet, finis, that's it. A couple the first day, again the next, none over the weekend, none on the day a sick headache developed, one the day after that. Still enjoying it? Well, maybe the novelty is beginning to wear off, and it's not going to be forever, after all.

Finally, a week and seven cigarettes later, our friend made his decision. It was all right while it lasted, but did he need them, given the health risk, let alone the expense? Want to live as long as possible. Right? With clean lungs and a strong heart. Right?

And he quit.

It was easier too this time, than it was six years ago.

TV Advertising Scene

Contrasting images of our topsy-turvy, have and have-not world: on the one hand those poignant pictures of starving people, the most heart-rending the children clinging to mothers who themselves are seriously undernourished; and on the other television advertisements showing our own amply fed citizens sitting down to a restaurant meal.

A funny thing too about some of those TV ads, especially when it comes to Canadian content, is their . . . er non-Canadian content. Like Mexican actor Ricardo Montalban telling us about our "wide-open spaces and warm, friendly people," and flogging the coffee bit.

And the school bus driver who gets the headache and tells us about the seven grains of pain reliever . . . in a Brooklyn accent.

Another thing, see any non-Canadian connection between the ad for the burger place, with all those sweet and giggly serving girls, and the one for the finance company? The voice of the girl singing the background ditty in each case sounds the same, but not Canadian. She sounds neither Canadian nor American. British perhaps . . . maybe even Australian, for there are several Aussie girls in the big name singing ranks these days. Like Reddy, Newton-John, and Trask.

So where are our star Canadian performers on the TV ad scene? Well, there is always William Shatner, doing his "price is right" thing.

The Maple Leaf forever. . . .

A Former Classics Teacher Is Science Buff in Legislature

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — To a lot of his colleagues Fred A. Burr is probably at least an eccentric, if not something much more.

Mr. Burr is the NDP member for Sandwich-Riverside and formerly was a classics teacher.

Since he has been in the house he, strangely perhaps for a classics man, has become his party's main spokesman of science.

And he has spoken frequently and broadly, particularly through the mediums of press releases and letters to ministers.

He obviously is an omniverous reader and the product of his research can be startling.

Thus last year he was complaining about aerosol cans and their possible threat to health. He was able to point out that they are under control in some European countries.

He has persistently bugged the government for not doing more about investigating solar energy.

Then he has spent a lot of energy plugging windmills. Windmills, he says are an overlooked source of energy.

And this is only a partial picture of his scope. If there is something novel in the energy field he is pretty sure to be on to it.

With such an approach, the 64-year-old member, of course, has come in for his share of ridicule.

But when you look back on his track record the ridiculers can look more ridiculous than he can.

Thus more than a year ago he was talking about the dangers to the ionosphere of supersonic aircraft and certain chemicals.

Now this is a matter of concern to the scientific community generally.

Again, windmills may sound a bit off-beam in these modern times. Yet in the U.S. elaborate experiments are underway in harnessing windmill energy.

And also in the U.S., and to a much more limited stage in Canada, there is extensive inquiry into solar energy.

Personally I don't laugh at Mr. Burr.

I believe he is one of our better members.

He has imagination. Something that government generally tends to lack.

Workers' Problem

Milwaukee Journal

When times turn tough, the last hired are the first fired And perhaps that seems only fair until a few complicating factors are introduced.

Today, many of the last hired are women or members of racial minority groups who have long suffered employment discrimination. Only in the last decade have they started to have a genuine crack at many of the nation's better paying jobs. Thus, for them, the seniority system is but the latest snare. First, discrimination delayed them from getting certain jobs and accumulating seniority; now, they are being laid off for lack of seniority.

Where the equity line should be drawn is difficult to say. Seniority is a basically valid consideration, as several courts have ruled. Yet the consequences of discrimination deserve consideraton, too. Perhaps somehow, through negotiation, legislation, or judicial determination, ways can be found to temper the seniority system with a fuller measure of justice. Surely, we should try.

Senate Makes Some Boners

Brave New World—or What?

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Your footnote to the letter headed "Communism in the World Today (Intelligencer, March 10) is just not responsive to the issues raised. Our institutions are full of people found guilty of "victimless" crimes which hurt nobody but themselves, or people who have exploited human behavior which should not be treated as crimes. We tolerate "Clockwork Orange" type experiments in some of our institutions. There are many other abuses.

If we really believe that "the state exists for man" and not "man for the state", then it is not sufficient to deal as your footnote does, in terms of the greater or lesser evil of one society as compared to another. Playing "the numbers game" is not the answer. As long as even one individual, and the stress is on "individual", has his freedom abused, then our society is not the free one we would like to believe it to be.

There is a very fine line between what is individually desirable and what is socially irresponsible. On each side of that line, in our society, are huge gray areas in which, on the one hand, more individual choice and decision should exist; and, on the other hand, more restriction should prevail.

If opinion leaders like yourself would devote your time and mental energy to the intellectual consideration of our own problems in the area of freedom rather than emotionally ranting against the kind of society which is the result of past failures to solve the kind of problems which exist today in our own society, we might, before it is too late, evolve into a society which no one in his right mind would wish to exchange for a society based on Marxist or totalitarian principles.

Perhaps the task is beyond your capabilities but at least you should try, otherwise we will all fall into the hands of "the terrible simplifiers" either of the right or left.

KINGSTON ONLOOKER.

Editor's note: Amid the rhetoric we might expect from the writer some answers to the issues he raises. We searched in vain; if an individual seeks a brave new world, then let him find it for himself.

He Lived Under Communism

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Visitors returning from the Soviet Union occasionally describe Communist achievement in glowing terms in the press. Of course, this is in line with what the men in the Kremlin hope for.

The guides assigned to tourists will show them only the best, which is usually found in or around the larger cities only.

Having lived in a Communist state myself for a while, I have seen some of the mechanics of the system and how it works.

Sightseers are not told for instance that only the loyal party adherent can live in style and get the good jobs, qualified or not, while the "religious" young person is excluded from all forms of higher education.

Self-education in the right direction is also forbidden. In his prologue for instance, Alexander Solzhenitsyn speaks of atheistic narrow-mindedness because 'God' must be written in lower case while for the names of political leaders and the secret police, capitals must be used. The giving of religious instruction to minors is a criminal offence according to article 122 and violators can be sentenced to prison for a period of up to one year.

While Christian leaders in the West are asked to co-operate with Soviet aims in the "Third World", Communist bosses like Mr. Seigewasser in East Germany are openly boasting that the church will be liquidated by 1980. And the newspaper 'Naplo' in Hungary writes: "Our constitution guarantees freedom of religion, but also the liberty to destroy religion."

Is this what they call tolerance?

During the Chilean crisis Soviet propaganda spoke of mistreatment of Communists in the prisons. But when General Augusto Pinochet offered to exchange them for an equal number of Christians, tortured in Soviet prisons, the answer was "nyet".

Compared with the spiritually dead and mentally strait-jacketed Soviet system, our free democracy is still closer to perfection than the "workers' paradise", which is artificially kept from falling apart by the secret police on one hand and by effective propaganda on the other.

Wollaston Wants Province To Aid Fire Protection

By NAN WHITLAW
Staff Correspondent

COE HILL — The municipal council of Wollaston Township has decided it is time for the provincial government to get involved in the fire protection provided for small Ontario municipalities.

In a resolution passed during their March meeting, Wollaston councillors called on the province to set up a grant structure to assist with the capital expenditures incurred by municipalities in the operation of fire departments.

The Wollaston resolution states that "since the fire marshal's office is directly under the supervision of the solicitor-general and the provincial government for the availability of funds for buildings, equipment and apparatus to municipalities, rural and volunteer fire departments so they can apply for the same."

According to Wollaston deputy-reeve Buddy French, "there is no grant set up by the province for fire departments . . . it all comes out of the municipal taxpayers' pocket.'

Mr. French indicated that provincial funds are available for New Horizons and for other employment projects,, but municipalities have to bear the full brunt of fire protection.

Wollaston set up a volunteer fire brigade two years ago and so far the 400-plus taxpayers have paid $27,000 for a fire truck and have raised another $30,000 for a fire hall and other equipment.

Recently, they purchased a new resuscitator for emergency situations.

Of the 12 northern municipalities in Hastings County, only Bancroft and Wollaston have structural fire protection which, according to Mr. French, reduces fire insurance costs by about 50 per cent.

The rest of the townships have agreements with the ministry of natural resources for the prevention and control of grass, bush and forest fires.

Recently, the ministry informed these townships and the Hastings County Council that "our crews are not equipped, trained or organized to suppress structural fires and the residents of the townships concerned do not have structural fire protection."

The ministry suggested in its letter to county council that the Belleville fire marshal's office is "available to provide expertise and avenues of assistance that may be available to assist townships in providing proper structural fire protection."

Copies of the Wollaston resolution have been sent for concurrence to all the municipalities in Hastings County, Hastings MPP Clarke Rollins, the fire marshal's office, county administrator Carl Bateman and to MP Jack Ellis.

Three Vehicles In $12,150 Crash

TWEED — A three-vehicle accident Monday at Martin's Hill near here has caused a total estimated damage of $12,150. No charges have been laid in the incident.

Involved in the accident were John Ralph Longpre, 45, of Ottawa, driver of a tractor trailer; Beverley Jean Read, 43, of Willowdale, driver of one car, and John Lancaster, 38, of Brampton the driver of a second car.

OPP Madoc said the truck was southbound on Highway 37 when it jackknifed. and collided with the Read vehicle travelling north on the highway. The Lancaster car swerved to miss the other two vehicles and hit several guard rails.

Estimated damage was $10,000 to the truck, $2,000 to the Read vehicle and $150 to the Lancaster car.' The truck driver suffered minor bruises in the mishap.

The accident occurred around 2:25 p.m. About 10 traffic fatalities have taken place in the past two years near Martin's-Hill.

Sewer Site Said Dangerous

TWEED — During Tweed's Monday council meeting, Councillor Richard Rashotte read a letter from J.D. Lea, an engineer who inspected a storm sewer project on South Victoria St. Mr. Lea found many problems such as an open excavation, inadequate safety precautions in the shoring of a trench, inadequate flashing lights on the roadway and advance warnings and other bad practics.

Council member were to have examined the project being carried out by Turnbull Construction Ltd. to ensure that the situation was rectified.

Car Hits Guide Rails

TWEED — A single car accident near here Monday on Highway 37 has caused damage estimated at $500 to a late model car driven by James Nelson Chalmers, 19, of RR 3, Belleville.

OPP Madoc said the car was southbound on Highway 37 when it went out of control and struck several guide rails. The vehicle was owned by National Defence, CFB Trenton. No charges were laid. Police said road conditions were hazardous.

End of an Era

Nell has been drawing Don Courneyea's milk wagon for Tweed's Foster Dairy for 13 years, and Mr. Courneyea says that Nell will soon be going out to pasture, but doesn't know exactly when. Nell is now 24 years old. Mr. Courneyea doesn't know how many horses drawing milk wagons on routes in Canada, beside Nell.

Hastings Highlights

Accident Damage $1,600

TWEED — Harry E. Boombower, 49, of RR 3 Yarker suffered minor cuts as a result of an accident Saturday at 2.30 p.m.

Mr. Boombower was eastbound on Tweed County Rd. 13, 6.2 miles off Highway 37. His car took out two guide posts worth $10 each and caused an estimated $1,600 damage to his car.

Police have charged him with careless driving and failing to report an accident. He will appear in Madoc court April 25.

Meter Rates Set Soon

TWEED — Complete figures should soon be available that will enable the members of Tweed council to announce new water and sewage rates for the village. and a possible starting date for the use of the water meters now being installed in all village homes and places of business.

Once the meters are in operation, water users will be charged on a basis of consumption, rather than on a flat monthly rate.

Toll-free Calls Requested

TWEED — Tweed council has submitted a 250-name petition to Bell Canada requesting a toll-free calling area between the Tweed and Northbrook telephone exchanges.

Following councils March meeting, a petition was taken to the Tweed Kiwanis Club by Deputy Reeve John Clemens.

The Kiwanis members circulated the document and collected approximately 250 names of Bell Canada subscribers.

The action follows similar motions by Kaladar, the townships of Elzevir and Grimsthorpe, and Anglesea and Effingham.

Pet Control Studied

TWEED — Village solicitor John Moffatt is studying proposed amendments to Tweed's animal control bylaw suggested by the animal control officer and the Ontario Humane Society.

The humans society suggested cats be controlled in the same manner as dogs. Its letter was tabled by council.

Recommendations of the animal control officer were felt to be too far-reaching by some councillors as they could allow him to go onto private property and charge dog owners without actually picking up the animals.

Village solicitor Moffatt will report to council on the legality of the proposed amendments.

Nell Is Retiring Soon

By CHRIS ALMEY
Staff Correspondent

TWEED — Nell doesn't know it yet, but some time this year she is going to be put out to pasture. When 24-year-old Nell retires, milk deliveries to the door will cease in Tweed. Nell, a quiet horse, has been drawing a wagon for milkman Don Cournyea for 13 years.

Mr. Corneyea broke Nell in to working on the streets. Previously she had worked for a farmer as part of a team.

"I couldn't get her to go across a bridge," Mr. Courneyea recalled. "I had an awful time. I had to lead her across a couple of times and then she was okay."

It is more arduous now to deliver milk than years ago. Once there were 300 customers. Now there are far fewer, but the route is longer, growing as Tweed grew.

As the customers declined, it was harder working with Nell, Mr. Courneyea says, since she was trained to stop at every house and she no longer had to. The man and his horse used to work seven days a week, but first, Sunday delivery became a thing of the past, and now Nell and her handler head out only twice a week.

Mr. Courneyea does his own blacksmithing. He shoes Nell once a month in the winter since her feet grow faster then. In the summer he has to soak the horse's feet in hoof ointment since the hot pavement dries the hooves out. In the winter they grow so fast the milkman-blacksmith has to use a rasp to trim the hooves down. He says Nell cooperates and keeps quiet during this operation.

"Freezing rain doesn't bother her," Mr. Corneyea says. "She is used to all kinds of weather." However, he does cover the old girl up with a horse blanket. Monday's rain froze to bangs over her big eyes which peered out from between blinders.

Nell consumes 100 pounds of grain a week and 300 bales of hay a year.

Mr. Corneyea isn't out of a job. He has been a bulk milk tank truck driver, going wherever the Ontario Milk Marketing Boards want the white stuff, anywhere from Peterborough to Kingston and points in between.

Foster's Dairy owns Nell, but Mr. Courneyea keeps her at his home. He says he isn't sure just when he'll retire Nell, but says she will end up on pasture this year.

Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch
Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.
A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.
One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.
And most important—this improvement was maintained in cases where clinical observations were continued over a period of many months. Furthermore, these tests and observations were made on patients with a wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. All this was accomplished with a healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.
In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a stated cause of hemorrhoids.
Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).
Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Today's Child

PAULETTE AND SALLY

It looks as though Paulette has just discovered some delightful surprise that hasn't registered yet with Sally.

Though they don't look especially alike, these six-year-olds are twins. Each is the other's favorite companion — in fact they were separated at nursery school so that each would have to make other friends.

Paulette (left) is blonde with blue eyes. Sally has dark hair and brown eyes and she is bigger than her sister. She also wears glasses — sometimes. Nearsighted Sally finds them a nuisance so prefers to leave them off.

Though Paulette is smaller than her sister, she is inclined to be the boss. For years Sally accepted that state of affairs placidly. Now she frequently tell Paulette: "Leave me alone."

The twins are English, Irish and French in descent.

They are healthy, active youngsters but much below average mentally. They attend a special school for below average children and will continue to need that kind of schooling.

The twins have been in the same foster home all their lives and are secure little people since they have not been subjected to moves. However, their foster parents cannot adopt them and it is hoped a permanent home will be found for them before the separation becomes too painful.

Paulette and Sally are outdoor girls who love water and snow and enjoy playground equipment like swings, monkey bars and teeter-totters.

They like to play with dolls. A favorite game is to play school always with arguments over who is going to be the teacher.

They have lots of books but are not much interested in either the pictures or the stories. They often carry books around with them without ever looking inside.

Both like television especilly shows such as All in the Family and the Partridge Family.

Paulette likes to go shopping with her foster mother. Sally doesn't.

The girls are not expecially interested in clothes, though they both welcome anything new. The dress themselves except that shoe laces and zipper prove troublesome for Sally.

'Here are two children who actually make no fuss at bedtime. They even ask to go to bed. They are always up early.

Paulette and Sally are affectionate children needing a family who can accept their slowness and their need for attention but give them much love and help them to develop to the limit of their capacities. It will be best if there are older children in the adopting family, but no younger ones.

To inquire about adopting Paulette and Sally, please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Services, Box 888, Station K, Toronto M4P 2H2.

Let Smokers Hear Death Rattle

Dear Doris: May I join your campaign for clean air for non-smokers? Here are my suggestions:

Let's boycott eating places where we have to have someone's dirty smoke blown over our food.

Let's agitate for free private rooms in hospitals for non-smokers.

Let's pressure the heads of transportation companies to rigidly enforce their No Smoking rules in non-smoking coaches.

Let's carry a cassette message of a patient dying with lung cancer with us, and when someone lights up, let's turn on our tape and let them hear the death rattle.

Finally, and perhaps the most difficult: Let's try to teach considerateness and unselfishness to the smoker.

Yours For Action.

Dear Yours: I'll go along with that — all of it! The suggestion about the cassette message particularly prompts a wicked chuckle, except that the whole thing just isn't funny. Smoking is suicide.

Dear Doris: I am living common - law. Last spring my son and his wife kept away. My daughter-in-law house for me while I went says my man made a pass at her, and now she is pregnant.

He claims he never touched her. I am almost out of my mind with worry. I love them both. Who should I believe?

Help!

Dear Help: Rely on your spiritual strength and love for both people concerned to bring you through. It isn't always easy to forgive, but it is often better than nurturing a hurt.

In any case, the baby will legally be the child of the mother's legal husband, your son.

High Fashion for $8

TORONTO (CP) — High fashion at Sheridan College on Wednesday was an $8 dress.

First-year students in the college's fashion technique and design course presented and modelled their creations, all costing less than $8.

"Some girls get good marks because they can afford to buy $35-a-yard material," said student Suzanne Schiller. "his dress cost me $5.50. I made it for my sister."

The dress was a peach-colored shirtdress in a polyester-cotton blend. Miss Schiller, who wants to be a designer "if it takes me 100 years," said it took her three days to make the dress.

The college gives the $8-dress assignment to all first-year students.

Student Angela Johnson said she spent three weeks and $9—including the cost of buttons, which are not counted in the assignment—to make her dress. She too wants to be a designer.

"I'll find a job in the fashion industry somewhere. I'm a very good pattern maker. It's all very well to design but you've got to get your ideas across."

Ann Landers

Eye Donation May Be Your Most Noble Act

Dear Ann Landers: Once I was completely blind. Can you imagine what it is like suddenly to be denied the joy of seeing all the beautiful things in the world and the faces of those you love?

Today my sight has been completely restored thanks to a cornea transplant. Words cannot express my gratitude to the person who made it possible. Someone whose identity I will never know pledged his eyes after death to a stranger.

I want to express my gratitude to my benefactor by urging others to pledge their eyes so that when they leave this world they might make it possible for a blind person to see again. Won't you please help me Ann? Ask your readers to contact the International Eye Foundation Sibley Memorial Hospital Washington, D.C., for information and guidance to the eye bank nearest them.—Grateful In Beverly Mass.

Dear Grateful: Here's your letter, and I thank you for it. And now a word from Ann Landers:

The need for eye donations is critical. Many candidates for restored sight must wait six or eight months in total darkness because of the shortage of donors.

There are no religious objections on the part of Catholic Protestant or Jewish faiths. Eye removals do not in any way disfigure the faces of the deceased.

People of any age may donate their eyes. Relatives may authorize eye donations at the time of death. Individuals who have poor vision or diseased eyes may donate their eyes for research since such tissue is obviously not suitable for transplant.

Please write to Sibley Memorial Hospital today. It may be the most noble act you have ever performed in your entire life. And it costs you nothing. I signed my pledge card three years ago.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm one of those people who never does today what he can put off till tomorrow. Please forgive me for being months late with this letter.

My wife read your column a while back and handed it to me. She said "What will Ann Landers say next? Is nothing sacred?" She was referring to your letter from the young man who couldn't urinate in a public place and was worried because he had just enlisted in the Navy. The slang term for the problem is "a bashful kidney."

Your answer was both enlightening and encouraging.

I have been "one of those" all my life and I'm in my mid-forties. My wife has no idea I have the problem. When I read it in your column I thought, "How wonderful that Ann has the courage to print such a letter!"

I applaud you for speaking out about things that bother people even though the topic might be considered crude or indelicate. A lot of folks need to have their questions answered by a stranger and you do a great service.—Your Friend In Canada

Dear Friend: Thanks for writing. I agree that some letters I print are not appropriate for drawing-room conversation but my aim is to educate people and provide answers for those who have no place else to go.

That particular letter educated ME. After it appeared I was virtually flooded (if you'll excuse the choice of words) with thank-you's from men with the problem. I had no idea there were so many bashful kidneys on the North American continent.

Helen Allen Honored by Scholarship

TORONTO (CP) — Less that three years ago, 19-year-old Patricia Griffin of Kitchener didn't even have a family.

On Sunday, her parents accepted a $700 scholarship, presented for one time only by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation in recognition of Helen Allen, author of Today's Child which appears in 24 daily newspapers and 155 weeklies.

Miss Allen placed Patricia with her new parents in December, 1972, through the column. She was the oldest child placed through the column, now sponsored by the Ontario ministry of community and social services.

Patricia's parents accepted the scholarship since Patricia, a Grade 12 student, flew to Rome last Thursday on a school trip. She plans to take a registered nursing assistant course at a community college this fall.

The federation said it was honoring Miss Allen for placing more than 7,000 children since her column first appeared in 1964.

Patricia appeared in the column in November, 1972, and joined the Griffin family a short time later.

Miss Allen's column first appeared in the now defunct Toronto Telegram, where she worked for 42 years. When the newspaper folded in 1971, the government hired her and the column continued.

"Nothing I have ever done has given me the satisfaction that I receive from Today's Child," she said in a recent interview. "I feel absolutely privileged to have a part in finding homes for those wonderful children."

Soviet Girls Want Equal Fashion Rights

MOSCOW (Reuter) — If Soviet school authorities thought they could get away with giving boys a fashionable new school uniform while leaving the girls with their dowdy brown dresses, they clearly miscalculated.

Girls from 7 to 17 are up in arms, demanding equal fashion rights with the boys—who from the beginning of the next school year in September are to have trendy dark blue uniforms.

"We don't want to chase mosquitoes with an axe," wrote Nelly Murnova in the newspaper Sovietskaya Kultura. "The situation isn't critical.

"But letters to our editor, including a good few about uniforms, show that girls are quite rightly puzzled: Why have they thought up a new uniform for boys of our age, but not for us?"

The controversy has been boiling for more than 10 years, when the idea was first put forward of doing something about indescribable Soviet school wear, essentially unchanged since the end of the last war.

It came to a head in mid-January, when the government of the Russian Federation—the largest of the Soviet Union's 15 republics—approved the new design for boys.

The changeover, involving about 12 million of the Soviet Union's 49 million schoolchildren, was to be completed by 1977.

It had taken nearly 12 years of fighting the bureaucracy and seeking approval for new material, designs and colors before the old grey wool uniform universally condemned as unpleasant and outmoded—could be scrapped.

The uniforms to take their place seem designed to appeal to today's sophisticated young man. For the 7-to 15-year-olds, the accent is on the western denim look, with slightly flared trousers and a short square jacket with heavily stitched seams.

Boys in the final two grades will wear trousers that are more daringly flared and long, close-fitting jackets with patch pockets—apparel altogether more fashionable than most of what Soviet shops pass off as the latest in men's wear.

But what of the girls, in their short dresses and frilly aprons—white for ceremonial wear and black for every-day—from the day they begin school to the day they leave?

Miss Murnova went to the All-Union House of Modelling to find out. She was told: "What's the sense in thinking up a new design if we don't have any new material?"

At the Wool Institute, it turned out that textile specialists refused to begin work on a new cloth without a special command from the ministry of light industry.

The reason for the ministerial silence? "It's true, everyone has been paying attention only to the boys' uniform, but nobody's said anything about one for the girls," was the excuse given to Sovietskaya Kultura's correspondent. "They look perfectly good as they are."

Eastminster UCW Easter Project: Handmade, Decorated Candy Eggs

Remember the way candy Easter eggs tasted when you were a kid?

Sort of rich and creamy and sweet, with yellow cream yolks and a fat layer of white cream covered with real chocolate and decorated with little icing flowers?

For the congregation of Eastminster United Church, those fabulous Easter eggs are more than just a memory.

Every year about 40 of the United Church Women meet in the church's kitchen basement to turn out the confections faster than a chicken can lay eggs.

Last week the women working three shifts a day for more than three days, turned out about 1,200 eggs.

That effort used 140 pounds of sugar, 10 pounds of butter and 55 boxes of chocolate, not to mention 48 cans of sweetened condensed milk

The women, who began the project about four years ago as a money-making venture for UCW programs, are proud that they use only the best orders have been filled, they eggs.

In the kitchen, each egg is measured and shaped by hand — white cream around a yellow yolk — and then individually dipped into chocolate.

When the chocolate hardens, great trays of the goodies are carried to the decorating room where half a dozen women, armed with pink and yellow and green icing in decorating tubes, fashion daffodils and little pink flowers and swirls and scrolls.

The eggs weigh about three ounces and are sold for 50 cents each.

UCW members have taken orders for most eggs made last week to ensure that they don't have many left over.

"We didn't want to make more than we could sell this year, prices being what they are," one member explained.

While the effort is an enjoyable one for the women, they're pleased that its also profitable.

"Last year we cleared about $400," says President Georgina Zaback.

She also says that if there are a few eggs available after orders have been filled, they can be obtained by telephoning her at 962-8533.

Organizing the Easter egg production this year were Queenie Meldrum, Dorothy Riley, Pat Harvey, Barbara McDowell and Ruth Rimmer.

Help for Hemophilia

Blood Donors Keep Chris Well

Christopher Waller is a hemophiliac.

A six-year-old student in Grade 1 at Massassagua Public School, Chris is very like his playmates except for one thing. He depends on Belleville blood donations for his well-being.

Hemophilia is an inherited disease in which the body does not produce enough of the factor required to clot blood properly, known as Factor Eight. Without this factor, a hemophiliac suffers excessive bleeding.

Contrary to popular belief, external cuts or surgery are less dangerous to a hemophiliac like Chris than are internal hemorrahages. Those who have the disease to a severe degree endure an average of one or two bleeding spells a week.

The pressure exerted by the blood on muscle and nerve tissue make this a particularly painful occurrance. But worse than that is the fact that since most bleeding happens around a joint such as knee, elbow or ankle, the affected area may be so damaged that the person is eventually crippled.

Until 15 years ago, when a hemophiliac bled there was no treatment other than the patient remaining perfectly still and receiving blood and plasma infusions, until the hemorrahaging was stopped. This was often a matter of weeks or months of hospital care.

Since then, however, a technique for removing the clotting factor from human blood has been perfected and is used to treat bleeding.

This has meant new freedom and better health for all hemophiliacs, especially those like Chris who suffer frequent bleeding. Now within a day of a Factor Eight transfusion the patient can return to normal activities as the symptoms quickly disappear.

Chris receives six units of Factor Eight each time he has a transfusion, equivalent to six pints of blood from which it was derived. In Belleville there are five boys like Christopher Waller who need weekly transfusions, and four other boys with milder forms of the disease. A rough estimate shows that nearly 1,600 pints of blood are needed for their treatments each year.

Last year approximately 7,400 units of blood were used in Belleville General Hospital alone. Only 1,841 pints were collected in this area.

Janice Waller, mother of Chris and representative of the Belleville - Kingston auxiliary of the Canadian Hemophilia Society, says that her son's life is very nearly normal because the transfusions are available.

"I think if people know how valuable their blood is to children like Chris, they'll have a better idea how important it is to donate blood," she says.

BECAUSE YOU GIVE SOMEONE WILL LIVE

Janice Walker and son Chris have a special interest in the blood doner clinic being held Thursday, March 27 at the Masonic Temple. Chris is a hemophiliac who depends on trancfusions to stop his bleeding

CP News Roundup

Cirrhosis Treatment Discovered

TORONTO (CP) — Laboratory research on the prevention of alcoholic liver cirrhosis has uncovered a medical technique that reduces cellular liver damage in laboratory animals consuming large amounts of alcohol, the Addiction Research Foundation announced Monday.

The foundation said in a news release that a team of scientists with the foundation and the University of Toronto have found that propylthiouracil (PTU), a drug used to treat thyroid conditions in humans, is able to halt liver damage in alcohol-consuming animals.

The foundation is a provincial agency that researches alcohol and drug addiction.

Professor Yedy Israel, the principal researcher, said in the news release that the amounts of alcohol consumed by the animals were equivalent to amounts that normally would result in liver damage to humans.

The cirrhosis-treatment technique now is undergoing clinical trials at three Toronto teaching hospitals and at the foundation's Clinical Institute.

Figures released by the Grop Insurance Commission of the Ontario ministry of agriculture and food indicate record payments in all countries in Ontario.

Bilingual Issue

OTTAWA (CP) — Tom Cossitt (PC—Leeds) made two forays Monday against bilingualism at Royal Military College (RMC) in Kingston, Ont., but he made little headway.

Mr. Cossitt tried to move a Commons motion saying the House saw "no justification or necessity" for bilingualism at RMC.

Beaver Is Symbol

OTTAWA (CP) — The beaver now is an official symbol of Canada.

The small, broad-tailed rodent was recognized in a private bill introduced in the Commons by Sean O'Sullivan (PC—Hamilton Wentworth).

Drea Says Danson Prevents Warranties

TORONTO (CP) — For the second time in less than a week, a Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario government has accused the federal Liberal government of dirty pool in the housing field.

Last week Margaret Scrivener (PC—Toronto St. David's), parliamentary assistant to the minister of housing, accused the federal government of deliberately withholding housing funds to embarrass Ontario and to help Ontario Liberal leader Robert Nixon gain support.

On Monday, Frank Drea (PC—Scarborough Centre) and parliamentary assistant to the minister of consumer and commercial relations said Ottawa has "deliberately sabotaged" residents of Ontario who were planning to buy a house this year by failing to introduce a home warranty insurance program.

Speaking during time allotted for debate on the speech from the throne, Mr. Drea charged Barney Danson, federal minister of urban affairs, with having "thwarted" attempts to put the warranty program into effect.

Meetings between provincial housing ministers were held last year to sort out the warranty program most favorable to all. (The federal government stayed away from the project until the Housing and Urban Development Corp. of Canada (HUDAC) suggested an applicable set of guidelines.

The warranty program would insure home buyers against loss of deposits to builders and shoddy workmanship.

Failure to implement HUDAC's guidelines undermined the provinces hopes that a warranty program would be in effect this year, Mr. Drea added.

"I would have rather seen an inept provincial government that couldn't bring in a housing warranty program than to see a provincial government that wanted to do it but was deliberately sandbagged by that bunch in Ottawa."

Mr. Drea said Mrs. Scrivener understated her criticism of the federal government's housing policies.

He called Ottawa's actions a tale of "sordidness and duplicity unequalled in dominion-provincial relations in our time."

Call Vote Challenge By Givens

TORONTO (CP) — Philip Givens (L—Toronto York-Forest Hill) challenged the Progressive Conservative government of Ontario Monday to call a June election.

Speaking to the speech from the throne, delivered March 12 by Lieut.-Gov. Pauline McGibbon, Mr. Givens said the government has "gummed up" the works.

The government is too cocksure, he said.

"You say we've got the best of everything. Ask the people of Ontario to concur."

The speech from the throne, which asked for wage and price restraint and promised an ombudsman, was a "clever piece of work' designed to contain so little that it could not be attacked for substance in an election year, he said.

"The reticence of the throne speech was deliberate. It is the result of fear."

Despite its outward cockiness, he said, the government fears a meeting with the electorate.

Freeze Said Avoided

TORONTO (CP) — Government ministries are dodging a freeze in civil service hiring announced last year by signing new employees to contracts which leave them outside the terms of the Crown Employees Collective Bargaining Act, Jack Stokes (NDP—Thunder Bay) charged Monday.

Eight Provinces To Get More Money

OTTAWA (CP) — The government introduced a bill Monday to give eight provinces, including Alberta, more money because of changes in oil prices and oil-tax legislation.

However, finance department officials refused to say how much money is involved. The bill was introduced on behalf of Finance Minister John Turner, who was out of town. Aides said estimates of provincial payments cannot be released without his permission.

The bill would change formulas for federal payments under two tax agreements—in effect, giving federal approval to a decision by the Alberta government to give tax rebates to oil companies.

Torah Was Armor of Jesus During His Testing by Satan

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Moses fasted 40 days in the mountains before experiencing the blaze of revelation that produced the Ten Commandments. Similarly, Jesus of Nazareth fasted 40 days in the mountains before beginning a ministry that girdled the earth.

His armor of conscience during his lonely, testing vigil was the Torah, the first five books of the Bible and Judaism's guide.

He drew strength from it against temptations to pursue power and fame rather than service.

"Man does not live by bread alone but by every word that proceeds from the mouth of God," He said, rebuking Satan (from Deuteronomy 8:3.) "You shall worship the Lord, your God, and Him only shall you serve," he insisted. (from Deuteronomy 6:13,) again citing the revered Torah.

He was a Jew and His life and teachings were spun out of that heritage. "We worship what we know, for salvation is from the Jews," He declared in John 4:22.

Yet in the centuries afterward, those who worshipped Him came to revile the lineage He shared, heaping scorn on Jews, segregating them in ghettos, demeaning their faith, persecuting them, sometimes slaughtering them.

"In its over-all context, it has been one of the most glaring religious perversions of history," says church historian Robert T. Handy, a Baptist. "It shows a streak of patricide, a psychotic impulse of the offspring against the spiritual parent."

"Christianity sprang from Judaism," say guidelines issued Jan. 3 by the Vatican, urging joint study, worship and work. "The spiritual bonds and historical links binding the church to Judaism ... render obligatory better mutual understanding and renewed mutual esteem."

Similar declarations have come from numerous Protestant bodies and interdenominational councils.

Roman Catholic theologian Robert W. Gleason said in a sermon:

"By virtue of natural, racial descent I am a Gentile. By virtue of supernatural descent, by the grace of God, I am also a Jew. . . . I rightly and proudly call Abraham and Isaac and Joseph my fathers. Because I am a Christian I know the God of Israel; because I am a Christian I pray the prayers of Israel."

Despite these ties, the past echoes with recurrent vilification of the Jews by Churches, states, organizations and individuals.

The blood-kin of Jesus have been hounded from country to country, banished from cities, offices and professions, restricted in dress, massacred in pogroms from the Crusades to the Nazi gas ovens at Auschwitz.

In their first years of coexistence, both Christians and Jews underwent brutal persecution by the pagan Roman Empire. But after Emperor Constantine adopted Christianity as the state religion in 312 AD, Jews were branded a "nefarious sect," banned from positions of authority and segregated from community life.

Anyone who converted to the "evil sect" was ordered burned. Across the empire, preachers vented tirades against the "vile Jews," the "Christ-killers."

The Crusaders of the 11th and 12th centuries pillaged Jewish settlements and homes, looted synagogues and slaughtered entire communities. When bubonic plague swept Europe in 1348-49, Jews were accused of having poisoned wells and thousands were murdered.

Other false accusations surfaced repeatedly, charges of ritual murder using the blood of Gentile children, the fabricated Protocols of the Elders of Zion portraying an international Jewish conspiracy, a medieval forgery that crops up regularly.

Although popes occasionally denounced mistreatment of Jews, the church generally fanned the animosity.

In 1215 Pope Innocent III issued an edict requiring Jews to wear identifying garb. Measures by church synods throughout the centuries prohibited intermarriage with Jews, disqualified them from public office and barred them from the streets on certain festival days.

Protestantism, arising in the 16th century, perpetuated scorn for Jews, described by Martin Luther as a "rejected, damned people, obstinate, disobedient, arrogant usurers and full of every vice." He advised Christians to burn their synagogues, schools and prayer books and forbid their rabbis to teach.

Not until the 19th century did most countries grant Jews ordinary citizenship, a process started by the 1789 French Revolution. Pogroms still occurred in Russia in 1880, 1903 and 1907 but extension of legal citizenship rights to Jews was generally completed by the 1919 Treaty of Versailles.

Then, in a modern, industrialized, educated country, the venom burst out in its deadliest, most sweeping dimensions. Nazism's attempt to liquidate the Jews brought death to six million of them in Germany's crematoriums and gas chambers.

Revulsion at the horror stirred anguished rethinking, shame and soul-searching among Christians and major churches are working increasingly to get rid of traces of anti-Jewish prejudice.

"Every member of the early church including Jesus and Paul would have been marked to die at Auschwitz," observed Methodist theologian Franklin H. Littel.

Advancing biblical scholarship including the Dead Sea scrolls and other recently discovered historical data, has deepened the sense of the Jewish basis of Christianity. Jewish scholars now commonly hold posts in Christian seminaries.

Catholic scholar John M. Oesterreicher, director of the Institute of Judeo-Christian Studies, said Christians are "joint heirs, joint members, joint partners with the Jews" as God's people.

Mexico City Cathedral Slowly Tilting Over

MEXICO CITY (Reuter) — Mexico City's 400-year-old Metropolitan Cathedral is slowly tilting over. Government architects estimate that in about 20 years the huge structure a strange compendium of styles which took nearly 2½ centuries to complete will topple over into the main square unless something is done.

The whole building is sinking. But the floor under the western tower is seven feet, three inches lower than the other end and every year the floor tilts nearly an inch more.

The probable reason for the tilt is bizarre. When the Spanish conquerors first built a simple church on the site in 1525, they smashed an Aztec temple which stood there and used the rubble for foundations.

But when the cathedral was built later only the eastern end was supported by the rubble. The western end stands without deep piling on the soft, dry silt of the lake which covered most of the area of modern Mexico City in Aztec days.

The squat, hulking edifice now rests several feet beneath the level of the roads around it in a sharp hollow created by its own weight.

Dr. Pedro Diaz, undersecretary for architectural heritage at the ministry of national resources, said it will cost about $1.68 million to shore up its bulk with concrete piles.

The government, which restores about 200 old churches every year, is almost certain to spend the money, but many architects maintain that the cathedral's virtues are antiquarian rather than artistic.

Its proudest feature is the Chapel of the Holy Kings, an ornate corner prepared in honor of a constantly expected visit from the Spanish monarchs, who never came in 300 years of colonial rule.

The chapel was begun by the Spanish government in 1573 as a showcase of religious and colonial power. But the rich administrators and landowners who once worshipped there have gone and the cathedral now serves as the parish church for the warren of dilapidated streets which back onto the main square.

During its construction over the centuries it was overtaken by a rash of contradictory styles which left it a strange architectural hodge-podge. Simple neo-classic pillars of all shapes and sizes jostle the fantastic religious carvings of the baroque.

Beetles Assist Teacher

SASKATOON (CP) — A colony of beetles is helping to develop teaching aids for students at the Western College of Veterinary Medicine.

Dr. Wesley D. Anderson has introduced a technique for producing casts of blood vessels by injecting liquid plastic into the arteries and veins of animals that have died, waiting for the plastic to harden and then allowing the beetles to feed on the remains. The insects remove the flesh and cartilage, leaving only the bone structure and a plastic mould of the vascular system.

Dr. Anderson, head of the department of veterinary anatomy, said the process provides accurate three-dimensional models that are extremely valuable in teaching the anatomy of arteries and veins.

"Students are able to see the exact relationship of arteries to bones, which is important when treating fractures. They can also clearly demonstrate such things as the blood supply to vital areas like the heart, brain, spinal cord, kidneys and other organs and regions of the body."

The casts are used mainly in studying the anatomy of horses, cattle and dogs.

Dr. Anderson said that to prepare the casts the blood is removed from the body and replaced with a special kind of liquid plastic that hardens in about 36 hours. The plastic can be dyed red for arteries and blue for veins.

The insects, housed in specially prepared incubators, take several weeks to remove the flesh and cartilage. The cast is then removed and cleaned, providing an odorless teaching aid that will last indefinitely.

Thirty Years Nuclear Plant Life Plan

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — The New Brunswick government is building a nuclear power plant at Point LePreau, near Saint John and about 30 years from now someone will have to decide what to do with it.

According to a study carried out by the government, the station will have a life span of about three decades, after which it will become unsuitable for use.

At that time it may have become contaminated by the radioactive material used in its generating process and will either have to be dismantled and buried or closed and declared out of bounds, turning the area into a nuclear graveyard.

The study said dismantling can be done as shown successfully in Elk River, Minn., where such a process was found to be "quite practical."

It noted that the planned 600-megawatt station will use 3,000 tons of uranium over its lifetime and its main radioactive waste will be in the form of spent fuel.

The spent fuel can be stored or reprocessed—which leaves plutonium as a byproduct. In turn, plutonium must be stored indefinitely.

Dealers Predict Higher Lumber Prices Coming

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Lumber prices could increase as much as 30 percent by this summer say managers of three Belleville building supply yards.

With these increased prices also comes the possibility of certain wood products being scarce by mid summer.

Reg Stalker, assistant manager and purchasing agent for Arthur A Sills and Sons Ltd., said during an interview Monday, "depending on the house building industry, we could be running short of some products by July."

"There hasn't been enough lumber cut this winter," he said. "If the building trades take off this spring like they're supposed to, lumber will be scarce."

"When a product is scarce the prices go up," he said. "It all depend on how active building is this year."

Abundant mortgage money from lenders and decreasing mortgage interest rates both serve as early indicators that it should be a busy spring for building.

"Since Christmas plywood and pine have risen 12 percent," said Mr. Stalker.

"They could increase by as much as 30 percent by next September," he added.

Paul Andrus, general manager of Bellewood Lumber, said the law of supply and demand will dictate the lumber prices and it appears "there's a fair bit of demand ahead."

"There will definitely be an increase in prices," he said.

Jack Bergeron, manager of Beaver Lumber said, it is "still too early to tell just how high prices will go."

He said that this time of year generally brings price increases. "We normally see increased prices during the latter portion of the winter just before the construction industry gets into full swing," he said.

"I suppose the price could increase by 30 percent but we are hoping that they will increase no more than 20 percent," said Mr. Bergeron.

But, "you never can tell," he said.

Marcotte Says Local Builders Showing Interest in Low-cost Loans

Quinte Home Builder Association president Bob Marcotte said today interest is being generated concerning CMHC builder loans designated for construction of rental units.

A CMHC (Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation) spokesman said during an interview last Wednesday, the program had been announced in late February and that, so far there had been no applications from Quinte builders.

The spokesman, speaking at a home builder meeting, distributed pamphlets concerning the program in addition to application forms. He said at that time, CMHC had a possible $2 million for the Belleville area.

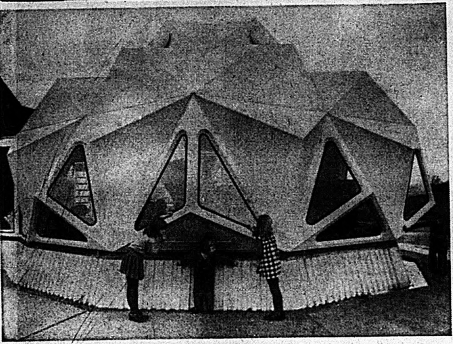
Mr. Marcotte said today he believes a "number" of area builders will be applying for the loans — which carry over 50 years at approximately 8.5 per cent.

"I haven't heard anything definite but I anticipate several will apply," said Mr. Marcotte.

He said it is financially impossible to build apartment buildings any other way with current interest rates hovering around 11.5 per cent.

The units will be rented as geared-to-income accommodation.

CMHC exercises control over building administration — particularly in rent and tenant considerations.



Space-age Classroom

A far-cry from the square, wooden portable classrooms that sprout in many school yards is this "space-age" unit built of fire-resistant plastic tetrahedral panels. A two-inch-thick foam lining provides insulation and windows are set low in the wall so that children can see out. (CP Photo)

Way Now Clear For Subdivision

Provincial approval has been received for the extension of city water services construction of a 72-home subdivision on Belleville's boundary in Sidney Township.

The subdivision is being undertaken by Breault Construction Ltd. and has been in the government mill for several months.

While city water services are to be extended into Thurlow Township and some sections of Sidney Township already receive city water, the Breault subdivision will be the largest, single development requiring city-township co-operation.

Reg Breault, company executive, said all that remains to be done is the formal agreement between Belleville and Sidney Township.

The province's approval is subject to certain conditions "— one of these being a satisfactory agreement between the two municipalities," he said.

Because some sections of the township already recieve water, a water rate (giving the city a profit) has already been set," said Mr. Breault. "The only major area is how much subdivision home owners will have to pay the city to use sewer facilities."

Mr. Breault said there "is a tremendous demand for housing."

His subdivision he said will include 72 homes selling for about $35,000.

He said he hopes to get going on the development by the spring or early summer providing negotiations between Sidney and Belleville councils can be handled reasonably quickly.

Arctic Hares Given Chance

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Insular Newfoundland's native Arctic hares, driven dangerously close to extinction by centuries of hunting and imported competitors, are being given a chance to recover as a species.

In a quiet experiment that may lead to a pleasant surprise for nature-lovers — and hunters the Newfoundland Wildlife Service has established a new population of Arctic hares and is introducing them to areas where they have not been seen for more than a century.

The hares once were plentiful across Newfoundland and provided an alternate flavor to the winter diet of the Beothuck Indians, who lived mainly on caribou and smoked salmon.

The Beothucks and hares both were defenceless against the guns of white settlers and Micmac Indians from Nova Scotia. The Beothucks became extinct before the 19th century was 30 years old.

The hares held on but like the Beothucks, who had been driven deep into the wilderness by their imported competitors, the Micmas, the mammals soon faced a new threat.

In 1864 the first snowshoe hares were imported from Nova Scotia. Introduction of the snowshoes, known to Newfoundlanders as rabbits, continued until 1876.

Design R34-903
1,540 Sq. Ft.

More and more new houses are appearing with the fireplace in the family room rather than in the living room. The ranch design illustrated is just such a house.

The modern "family kitchen" contains the fireplace and has a sliding glass door to the garden. The living room with its attractive bow window faces the front and, without the fireplace, more wall space is left for placing of furniture.

A four-piece main bathroom is supplemented by a powder room convenient to the side entrance and another ensuite with the master bedroom.

There is a direct entrance to the basement where laundry and utilities are located, and with ample space for a recreation room, if the house is built in the alternative four bedroom version. The exterior treatment is brick veneer accents of vertical siding and the design is suitable for any tipe of heating.

Income Taxes Not Paid? Better Confess Early

OTTAWA (CP) — This may be the time for those thousands of Canadians who have never filed an income-tax return, or who may have sent in a false one, to think about coming clean for the revenue departmet.

Confession can be good for the soul. It may also be a way to avoid the stiff fine, or even jail term, that can result from the tax investigator catching up first.

The revenue department knows there are thousands of potential taxpayers who do not show up on the tax rolls. And eventually it catches most of them.

Things like mortgages, income from investments and bank accounts, charge cards and auto and other licences tend to flush out the non-filers. There also are 350 tax investigators who specialize in checking on suspected tax evaders.

Tax evasion is deliberate non-filing with intent to deceive. Last year, the revenue department investigated 836 suspected cases, and eventually obtained court fines of $1,260,616 against convicted offenders.

But the tax man knows that not all non-filers are out to deceive him deliberately and there is a procedure for these people to make a voluntary disclosure. It also applies to those who have made a false return.

Over the years, thousands of cases have turned up of people who have never filed income tax returns, usually because they did not believe they had taxable income. Sometimes they are self-employed; in other cases, their employer failed to make the required deductions at source.

If they simply walk into the nearest of the 28 tax offices across the country and declare their non-filing status, little may happen. The revenue department promises: "If a taxpayer makes a reasonably complete voluntary disclosure related to those returns, he is permitted to settle his liability by paying the tax and interest due without penalty or prosecution."

Interest is assessed at six per cent annually. Provided there is no evidence of fraud, the revenue department frequently assesses taxes only for the four previous years.

Two points must be made, however. It is too late to choose the lenient voluntary disclosure route if you are already being investigated. And secondly, if the tax man detects past fraud or misrepresentation any time after disclosure, a stiff penalty may be added on top of the interest due.

If there is evidence of fraud, a penalty as high as twice the amount of past taxes owed may be charged upon summary conviction. For gross negligence—such as failing to report earned investment income for which you received T-5 forms—the penalty may be 25 per cent. And the taxes may be charged for as far back as 10 years, depending upon circumstances such as the availability of records.

A taxpayer who feels his case may be a bit shaky under the critical eye of a tax investigator, even after making a voluntary disclosure, should consider seeing a lawyer beforehand. The revenue department may not advise this, but a lawyer can sometimes soften the blow.

Spring Signals Start Of Home-repair Frauds

Ontario Provincial Police warn with the approach of warm weather, building repair cheats will be active across the province.

In a news release this week, police say, "these gyp-artists prey on the elderly and unsuspecting homeowner, overcharging for roof, chimney, siding and driveway repairs."

They note if one is approached by anyone to contract for repairs, he should be sure they represent a legitimate and responsible company.

"Sign nothing and pay nothing until you are sure that you are dealing with an honest, established businessman," police advise. "Remember, a reputable contractor will not usually demand a large deposit before starting a job."

Police warn, "if you don't know the contractor — don't trust him. Check on his reliability. Should you have any doubt, contact your local police department or nearest detachment of provincial police."

If you love working on your lawn . . . be sure to fertilize it well first thing in the spring.

Chances are you can improve your gas mileage dramatically by following the ideas below. Better still, leave your car at home more often.

The average Canadian family spends about $500 a year on gasoline.

It could be a lot less.

We have about 8 million cars in Canada. Each one consumes an annual average of 700 gallons of gas. All together they guzzle about 15% of our total energy budget. Isn't it time for a change—a fresh look at the car's role in our life? Here's what you can do to slash your personal transportation costs, and Canada's energy bill:

THE AUTOMOBILE may be the ultimate in convenience, but it sure takes a backseat in energy efficiency. Buses are almost 4 times as efficient.

Our average Canadian car travels 12,000 miles a year and delivers 17½ miles to the imperial gallon. If it travelled only 8,000 miles, we'd cut gas consumption by 30%. If it delivered 24 mpg instead of 17½, we'd save another 25%.

The health of your car and the way you drive it can make a big difference to your mileage.

A poorly-tuned motor is a thirsty motor.

A dirty air-filter can cut mileage by 10%. So for every 100 miles you drive, you could be wasting enough gas to go another 10 miles.

A slow or stuck choke forces your engine to draw too much gasoline and increases consumption by up to 30% (and may damage your engine).

A single misfiring spark plug can cut mileage by 10%. Under-inflated tires increase rolling resistance. Poorly-aligned wheels drag and scuff on the road. Brake drag cuts mileage as well.

Find a good service man. As well as checking the points above, ask him to inspect the fuel lines, pressure cap and cooling system, and replace worn hoses and contaminated anti-freeze.

If you won't slow down for safety, do it for the money.

The faster you drive the more gasoline you buy. On average every 10 miles-per-hour over 40 cuts 2 miles-per-gallon off your car's performance.

If you follow the example of all Federal Government vehicles and drop your highway cruising speed to 55 you can cut gas consumption by up to 25%.

Use a block-heater with a timer so it comes on about 2 hours before start-up. Don't leave your motor idling to warm up; start off as soon as the engine is running smoothly.

How you shift gears can waste gas too. Staying in first gear too long can use 30% more fuel than if you had shifted to second. Too long in second can take another 15%. With an automatic, stomping on the accelerator delays gear changing and guzzles gas.

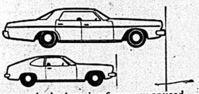
Here's a tip: pretend there's a ping-pong ball between your foot and the accelerator. A gentle, even pressure helps mileage. Avoid jackrabbit starts, gunning the engine, frequent stops and starts.

TRY A 3-MONTH MILEAGE TEST

You'll be surprised how quickly mileage will improve with good maintenance and careful driving.

Prove it for yourself. Fill the tank when you buy gasoline and mark down the mileage. The next time you fill up write down your new mileage. Divide the number of miles travelled by the number of gallons needed to fill the tank the second time. The answer is your miles per gallon. Keep a running "scorecard" in your glove compartment.

How much new car do you need?



The man who is shopping for a new or used car is in an ideal position to save on energy. Weight is the biggest factor in energy consumption. Ones with 8 cylinders and weighing over 3,000 pounds take the most gas. If he buys a smaller, more efficient model instead of a large luxury one, he'll need 400 to 500 fewer gallons of gas each year.

He'll save even more if he pays the extra for radial ply tires. They wear longer and reduce rolling resistance to deliver up to 6% better mileage.

Such options as air conditioning, power steering and power brakes are burdens on the engine and can cut mileage by as much as 25%.

2 healthy alternatives: feet and pedals.

When you think about pollution, traffic jams and the price of gasoline, leaving the car at home makes a lot of sense.

Have you given public transit a fair try? For travel to and from work it's usually cheaper and easier on the nerves and you might even have a chance to read a newspaper.

Why not walk or bicycle on short trips in your neighbourhood. It's one way to catch up to those physically fit Swedes we keep hearing about.

The automobile has a future, but—

It is not realistic to expect that we will live in the future as we have in the past. Our transportation will change.

For the automobile, new engine designs and electric propulsion systems may come on the scene.

Public transit systems—especially in urban areas—are being steadily upgraded to provide a convenient, efficient alternative to the private car. Saving energy is one benefit; they also reduce pollution and traffic congestion.

Car pools can also save energy and money.

In industry, new ways of moving raw materials and finished products are being explored. Piggybacking is a good example.

Right now, each one of us who drives a car has an opportunity to help Canada and ourselves. By relying less on the mighty auto, we can improve our environment, our health and our way of life.

Public Access to Bay Urged in Light of Population Growth

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Future urban development in Sidney Township will create heavy pressure for public access to the Bay of Quinte waterfront, a session on the waterway's outdoors potential was warned Monday night.

The warning came at a meeting of community organizations' spokesmen with an expert now studying possible patterns for public usage of the Bay — R. E. Crysler, Toronto consultant.

The session — at Thurlow Township hall at Cannifton — was one more step in the study commissioned by the Moira Conservation Authority.

But the study must be careful to recognize the problems posed by the growing urbanization of Sidney Township, the expert was told.

Mr. Crysler agreed.

"I really think with the development that is going to take place in Sidney Township there is going to be tremendous demand for access to the waterway," cautioned Dick Bird, vice-commodore of the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club.

One of the problems is that much of the township's waterfrontage is in private ownership.

But, some point of public access should be acquired, said Mr. Bird.

"I think the point is well taken," agreed Mr. Crysler.

One of the possibilities discussed was the availability to the public of land owned by Hastings County Board of Education whose Bayside Secondary School property reaches to the waterfront.

The consultant asked "if something could be worked out" with school authorities as one possible solution in the area.

Mr. Crysler, who has been meeting with municipal technical and political representatives after on-the-spot surveys of the Bay from west of Point Anne to Bayside said afterwards he now expects to have his assignment finished by mid-May. Between times he has been tapping community organizations and other groups for input.

Monday night's meeting was the first group response to his soundings and the turnout was small. Only 10 spokesmen turned up to represent the more than 60 organizations Mr. Crysler said be initially contacted.

Traffic Signals, Walks Proposed for School Area

City council's traffic committee has moved to solve a safety problem for school children on Sidney St.

The committee Monday recommended installation of push-button traffic signals at Graham and Sidney streets, near our Lady of Fatima separate school.

It also asked city manager Wilbur Purcell to try acquiring land for sidewalks near the school to increase the safety factor for youngsters along the four-lane strip of Sidney.

The land is owned by the school and several industries in the area.

The sidewalks would extend from the school to Wilson Ave. and part-way up the north side of Wilson.

However, the accepted recommendations — from city engineer Joe Angelo — also carried a warning.

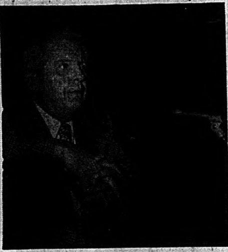
While the signals could be installed with little delay, the activating control mechanism may take up to 10 months to deliver.

Costs: The signals $9,500, sidewalks $10,000.

E. J. Neville, education director of Hastings-Prince Edward County Roman Catholic Separate School Board, said the committee's decision was "appreciated very much."

Ald Jack Ireland said officially traffic control signals are not warranted in the area. But because of "continued concern" for safety of the school children committee members are "unanimous in putting it through as fast as possible."

The area of Sidney involved is north of the Quinte Exhibition grounds and the Northern Electric plant. More than a half-mile north a two-lane strip of Sidney is due for reconstruction this year and absence of sidewalks in that zone has caused temporary suspension of home mail deliveries to 34 homes because of feared traffic hazards by postal officials.



Official Thank-You

E. J. Neville, education director, Hastings-Prince Edward Roman Catholic Separate School Board, tells city's traffic committee its action to ensure safety of youngsters at Lady Of Fatima School is appreciated. Committee recommended that council install push-button control signals and have property acquisitions investigated for sidewalks near school on four-lane strip of Sidney Street.

Andrea Isnor, 13, will swim 100 lengths at the Quinte Kiwanis pool Saturday to raise money for the Easter Seals Campaign. The grade 8 Belleville student is seeking pledges. She may be reached by calling 968-4933.

Bell Reports Little Service Interruption

Monday's ice storm caused little interruptions in Bell Canada telephone service in the Quinte district.

Area manager George Thompson said complaint calls ran only to about 10 per cent higher than normal, and maintenance crews were "pleasantly" surprised.

Reason for the low complaint rate, he believed, was despite lines being weighted with ice, there was an absence of heavy winds.

The icy conditions were caused by a combination of rain and low temperatures. In Belleville, a total of .58 inches of rain was recorded throughout the day at the city's filtration plant, while temperatures averaged about 30 degrees most of the day.

No Opposition Voiced To Subdivision Plan

Sidney Reeve Gord Wilman says he can see no problems in the way of a 72-home township subdivision building on Belleville's city limits.

For several months, contractor Reg Breault has been working with the township, the city of Belleville and the provincial government, securing necessary approvals.

Belleville has consented in principal to provide water to the subdivision and has also agreed to negotiate hooking up the subdivision to existing sewage services.

"Council is in support of the scheme and recognizes the importance and need for housing at this time," said Reeve Wilman.

"I think we can negotiate the sewer terms very quickly and allow this subdivision to get going," he said.

Mr. Breault said he hopes to have crews working on the subdivision by early summer.

Reeve Wilman said he will wait for a letter of notification from the province outlining the approval and conditions before he makes any approaches to the city to begin negotiations.

Village Gets Dump Permit

TWEED — The Ministry of the Environment has been giving Tweed three-month permits to operate the village dump. Now Tweed has one good until the end of the year.

The Ministry keeps a continuing watch on all dumps and the threat of closure remains for poor housekeeping or other infractions. "We should write and thank them," Deputy - reeve John Clemens said.

Tweed is going to continue to charge people outside the village $3 a month for picking up their garbage. "If we continue this charge there will be a slight surplus," Mr. Clemens noted, "but it will cover the escalating costs in the future."

Youth Held In Theft

A 19-year-old Belleville youth has been charged in connection with the theft of almost $100 in goods and cash from Thompson Farm Supplies (Belleville) Ltd. at 105 Church St. during the weekend.

A city police spokesman said today Kenneth Raymond Casselman of 162 James St. was arrested last Monday and charged with break, enter and theft.

Mailbox Set Ablaze

City police, fire and post office officials are investigating the second incident of alleged arson in a mailbox fire in less than a month, today.

Belleville firefighters were called to the corner of Orchard and Prince of Wales Dr. in the city close to midnight Monday to extinguish a fire in a street mailbox.

A police spokesman said a partially-burnt package of matches was discovered inside.

Postmaster Roy Wainwright said about 50 pieces of mail were damaged but al mail is deliverable.

A few weeks ago, a similar fire was discovered in a street mailbox on Bridge St. E. Several pieces of mail was partially-burnt at that time but were also deliverable.

$20,160 Bill For Footbridge

TWEED — Councillor Richard Rashotte read a letter to Tweed Council Monday evening from Greer, Galloway and Associates, saying that after preliminary studies, a footbridge in place of the present one-lane automobile and predestrian bridge will cost $20,160, but other costs such as landscaping are not included in this figure.

The letter suggested that it would be cheaper to have this foot-bridge installed when the beams are hoisted for the new bridge further downstream which will handle vehicles.

"We certainly don't want to demolish that bridge until the last lick of paint is on and well regulated traffic is on the new one — officially open, in other words," Reeve Barbara Allen said.

Deputy-reeve John Clemens said "We won't be ready for it this year. It will be August before we let the contract. We won't be starting on the footbridge until the spring."

The existing one-lane bridge is to be removed at the expense of Hastings County as part of the contract to erect the new bridge downstream to provide direct access to the community centre, fairgrounds and curling rink.

More Homes On The Way

Stan Rivers, (far left) general manager for Foxboro Development Ltd. outlines concept for new 500-unit subdivision in northwest Belleville, to the city's traffic committee. Project which has yet to go to planning authorities, was previewed as a "courtesy" gesture to committee which includes (from left) Mayor Robin Jeffrey and city councillors George Zegouras, Jack Ireland and Arthur Keegan.

Motel Robbed

A 50-year-old night clerk at the Black Hawk Motor Inn at 325 North Front St. here was robbed at gunpoint of about $244 in cash early today by a lone bandit.

A city police spokesman said Malcolm Denton of 151 North Park St. was resting on a chesterfield in the motel at about 3 a.m. when the night buzzer rang.

The spokesman said Denton went to a door on the south side of the building and saw a man standing there.

Police said the clerk opened to door, told the man there were no vacancies and was confronted with a gun.

The robber forced Denton to remove the money from the cash register into a bag and then told him to go into a nearby lavatory and not come out until he heard the thief's car leave.

Investigation into the theft is continuing.

500 Homes Planned

A new 500 home subdivision is planned for northwest Belleville.

The subdivision plan — which still needs approval of planning authorities — was shown to the city council's traffic committee Monday.

Stan Rivere, general manager of Foxboro Development Ltd., which is planning project, said it covers 65 acres on the west boundaries of West Park Village.

More Signs Urged

More warning signs will be posted where the four-lane stretch of North Front St. narrows to two lanes, city council's traffic committee decided Monday.

The committee decided to send the recommendation to council after hearing suggestions from Insp. Ralph Blatchford following a police study of the area.

Crosbie Wants Tighter Controls On Licence-free Motor Bikes

Ontario traffic officials are increasingly concerned with present provincial regulations on motor-powered bicycles, Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said Monday.

The machines, known as mo-peds, are becoming increasingly popular in Ontario, the chief told city council's traffic committee.

The problem: Current regulations permit any person over 14 to ride a mo-ped with a motor powered up to 50 cubic centimetres. Such a machine can attain about 30 miles an hour, the equivalent top speed for a 10-speed bicycle. But it's difficult for a police officer to judge exactly what size such motors are.

Chief Crosbie, who is secretary of the Ontario Traffic Conference, said the group's executive hopes to discuss the problem with Transportation and Communications Minister John Rhodes when it meets with the minister today.

One Belleville dealer said the machines are on the verge of a market bid akin to the snowmobile boom of several years ago. Motors are usually powered between 47-49 c.c.

Eight Seeking Position As Sidney Fire Chief

Eight area men have applied for the position of Sidney Township Fire Chief — the first fulltime fire fighter to be employed by the municipality.

Council opened applicant resumes at their meeting Monday. Of the eight received, six will be personally interviewed during a special meeting of council next Monday, said Reeve Gordon Wilman.

"Council is very pleased with the amount of interest shown in the job . . . which will be mainly organizing the department and handling the administrative end of things," said the reeve.

Reeve Wilman said the applicants are all from the area between Trenton and Cannifton.

He said next Monday's meeting will be held in camera to choose a chief.

The department currently has more than 35 volunteers working out of two departments within the municipality. It was learned Monday the township's new fire truck has arrived safely and is expected to be put into use in Bayside when the third fire hall is constructed.

Alarm Box

Belleville firefighters' responded to the following calls for assistance in a 24-hour period which ended at 8 a.m. today.

Monday, March 24 1:22 p.m. — burnt-out motor in oil furnace at 226 E. Moira St., damage confined to motor.

Monday, March 24, 11:52. p.m. — mail box fire at corner of Orchard and Prince of Wales drives, partially-burnt package of matches discovered inside.

Monday, March 24, 11:56 p.m. — fire in 1969 Buick owned by Dr. Lionel Dockrill parked in front of 178A Charles St., extensive damage to engine and wiring no estimate available.

The crash took the lives of both engineers Keith Boyle and Ray Mortimore of Belleville and an Amherstview woman, Joanne Feeney.

The Educators

Education Family Affair For This School Trustee

EDITOR'S NOTE —This is the first of a series featuring county educators. The personality sketches will include teachers, administrators and trustees.

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

Richard Williams, at 26 the youngest trustee on the Hastings County Board of Education, has made education his livelihood, his hobby, and since he is married to a teacher, also a part of his family life.

Born in Montreal, Mr. Williams graduated from the University of Toronto (O.I.S.E) in 1971 with a masters degree in educational pyschology. The same year he came to Belleville to join the department of community sciences at Loyalist College, as a childhood education instructor.

"I got tired of talking and preaching educational changes — finally decided I would do something about it," said Mr. Williams explaining why he sought a seat on the board last December.

"Education is a commitment for me now," said Mr. Williams, who now is completing a new book on special education which should be published next year.

His interest in education lies in the area of special education. "Another reason I ran for the board is that I was concerned that in this time of inflation special education courses would suffer — I didn't want this to happen," he added.

Mr. Williams, who is also president of the Quinte NDP riding association, said he believes in human potential and that education is one way to help children who have learning handicaps.

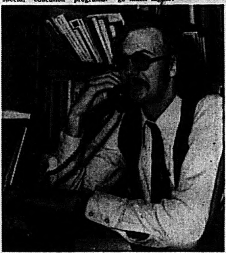
He also has another interest in special education. His wife is a special education teacher with the Hasting County Board of Education.

Mr. Williams is by no means a young radical trustee. He is a mixture of the old school where discipline reigned and the new approach to education humanism.

He said he sees his role on the board as that of making people aware of the need for special education programs. "Children with learning disabilities and handicaps can develop into useful members of our society," he said.

As for the future the Loyalist College instructor can see the day when he actually returns to working with the children who have learning disabilities.

At six-foot-seven inches he said he doubts whether he can go much higher.



All Education

When trustee Richard Williams is away from the Hastings County Board of Education he is not very far from an educational setting. Here, he takes a call at Loyalist College where he is an instructor with the community services department. His major concern in education is special education programs for the disabled and handicapped.

Police to Check Parking Near Plaza

Police will keep an eye on parking of cars along the four-lane strip of East Dundas St. by employees of the nearby Unemployment Insurance Commission regional office.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey told the committee she had received two complaints recently from motorists that sight lines on an exit from the adjacent Belleville Plaza were blocked by parked cars.

Last November UIC employees threatened to boycott plaza stores after its management decided to charge them for using the shopping centre as a parking lot while at work in the neighboring office building.

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said he had recently twice checked cars parked along the road shoulder and the nearest was at least 100 feet from the plaza exit.

"We will have to have a look at it," he said.

UIC workers, on management directive, also only park cars on one side of Singleton Dr., which flanks the east side of the commission building, and where more home building is scheduled, he said.

To date, the side of the street used is vecant of housing. But once it is built up "there'll be a problem. There's no doubt about that," said the chief.

Golden Hawk Tourney

Replacements Get Call

By DOUG WALSH
Sports Editor

TRENTON — The bane of tournament organizers, late cancellations, has struck the Golden Hawk Midget Hockey Tournament here.

But tournament chairman Harold A. Roberts, perturbed by the fact that team officials invariably wait until the last minute to send word they won't make it for tourney commitments, was still able to muster a chuckle, Monday.

"We've been able to bring in standby teams for the dropouts and it hasn't been necessary to give anyone a bye," said Roberts.

Wexford Minors, Toronto Kings and Oromocto, New Brunswick, are out. Taking their places are Wellington, Frankford and Brighton.

Cancellations aren't bad news for all concerned. In this case, more Bay of Quinte area teams get the opportunity to show their stuff in a first class event. Unfortunately, some find themselves beyond their depth in short order.

Picking up a pair of wins each Monday, were Ottawa West Golden Knights, Gananoque, Galt Gores and Gloucester rangers.

Knights' Chris Bonney earned a pair of shutouts as his team stopped Napanee 6-0 and Lindsay 8-0. Gananoque defeated Burlington Minors 5-2 and tripped Bowmanville Minors 7-1; Galt nipped last year's finalist Ottawa South 2-1 after taking Wellington 7-1 in its first start, and Gloucester turned back Frankford 3-1 and Aurora Minors 5-1.

Tournament action continues today with another 12 games scheduled. Late tonight, 10 more teams will have been knocked out in the double elimination event

Belleville Lions Majors, 3-0 in the first two days of tourney play, make their next start Wednesday at 1:10 p.m. when they meet either Ottawa West or Galt. Those two teams place their undefeated records on the line in an 8:10 p.m. confrontation tonight.

Monday's Scores

Napanee 0 vs. Ottawa West 6
Lindsay 3 vs. Stirling 1
Burlington 2 vs. Gananoque 5
Bowmanville 4 vs. Campbellford 2
Greenwood, N.S. 1 vs. Ottawa South 4
Wellington 1 vs. Galt Gores 7
Frankford 1 vs. Gloucester 3
Aurora 11 vs. Brighton 0
Ottawa West 8 vs. Lindsay 0
Gananoque 7 vs. Bowmanville 1
Ottawa South 1 vs Galt Gores 2
Gloucester 5 vs. Aurora 1

Stanley's Moves To Final Series

Stanley Structures continued to roll up wins in the Gas House Hockey League. They took their best-of-five semi-final series with Rollins Lumber in three straight. Monday Stanley won 6-3. It was their 28th win in 29 starts.

In the other semi-final series, the Belleville Generals took a 2-1 lead in games over Chuckwagon Foods by way of 7-4 victory on Monday.

Bob Mulvihill scored twice and added a pair of assists for Stanley and Russ Farrington, Wayne Storms, Ron Fuller and Ray Summers added singles.

John Masterson, Dale Tummon and Glenn McMechan got a goal each for Rollins.

Steve Truelove pumped in three goals to lead the Generals win. Dave Skelton added two and Ken Bertrand and Gary Goyer got one each. Bill Van Soelen and Bill Minaker drew three helpers each.

Grant Sage, Al Walker, John Smith and Wayne Brown were the marksmen for Chuckwagon. Steve Moore picked up three assists.

Playoff action continues Wednesday night with the fourth game in the Generals-Chuckwagon series. Game time at the Memorial Arena is 8.30 p.m.

Tops in Points Race

Bancroft Jets have their backs to the wall in their Ontario Hockey Association Junior D playoff with Lakefield, trailing in the best of seven set 3-0. The teams meet in the fourth game of the set in Bancroft tonight and leading the hometown Jets will be Loren Hawley, shown here accepting the Central Ontario scoring trophy from Howie Stevenson of Lakefield, co-ordinator of Junior D Leagues. Hawley had a point total of 72 during the regular season, counting 32 goals and 40 assists.

Stirling Alive In Bantam Set

STIRLING — Facing elimination from Ontario Minor Hockey Association semi-final playoff action, Stirling Riverside Structures Bantams kept their hopes alive in a big way here Monday night, whipping Maple 10-3.

Down 2-0 in games in the best of five set heading into Monday's match, the Ted Dobson-coached Stirling team left little doubt it is still a force to be reckoned with in DD competition.

The visitors were held to one goal in each period as the home side roared to the attack, counting three in the first, two in the second and erupting for five in the final frame.

Bruce Myers, Rick Woodward and Ken Revoy each shot a pair of goals for Stirling. Bob Patterson, Barry Danford, Rodney McKeown and Richard Anderson took care of the others.

Maple got one goal each from Rick Haas, Wayne Boudreau and Dave Massarella.

The Stirling skaters will be aiming to square the series when the teams hook up Wednesday night in Maple. If a fifth game is necessary, it will be played in Stirling, Friday night at 7 p.m.

Stirling's Bird's IGA Juveniles, tied with Elmvale at 1-1 in their best of five series, are in Elmvale, Wednesday. Game 4 is scheduled for Stirling, Friday night at 9 p.m.

City in Perfect Position

It's rather an unusual situation. Almost Utopia. But it's the second time in two years it has happened.

Belleville has three teams representing it at all-Ontario Secondary School championships. Or rather, the city had three teams. There are only two now. Friday, the Ontario Federation of School Athletics championship fell to Nicholson Catholic College Nicks. Now Belleville is one-third of the way to a first in OFSAA championships, bringing three titles to one city.

Today, Wednesday and Thursday, Belleville Collegiate (BCI) will try for the OFSAA AA crown, in Timmins, and in St. Catharines Qinte Saints will attempt to bring home the OFSAA AAA title.

The situation is almost impossible to come by, but local teams are good enough that the city could have three Ontario basketball champions within its bounds.

The Nicks finished fourth at all-Ontario last year, Quinte came sixth in AAA and BCI came second in AA.

The 1975 Nicks had no trouble rolling over their competition at the A tournament in Collingwood last week. The amazing thing is that the squad is almost all first year. The Nicks only lost two players next season. It's a sure thing they'll repeat as OFSAA A champs in '76 if they decide to stick to A class ball.

BCI has basically the same team they had last year. They've added a player giving them a little more height and that gives them an extra edge.

Like Nicholson, they'll probably walk away with their championship. There will only be one team giving them any kind of competition and that's last years AA champion from Dundas.

However, this has to be the year BCI goes all the way because next season their whole team graduates with the exceptions of two players (neither of which are starters).

As for Quinte, they've had rather a strange season. Many predicted they would have a mediocre year. To everyone's surprise they've had an excellent year. They're almost all first year players and all but two will be returning next season.

Quinte will go to the all-Ontario as one of the favored teams. Simply because of their record this year, (35-7) and because of their sixth place finish at the championships last year — (1974 was their first year in AA class ball).

They could very well come out with the championship. An example of the competition they'll be facing is the representative from Metro Toronto. St. Basil's won the Metro crown and will be one of the 16 teams in the running for the AA championship.

Quinte has never played St. Basil's this season, but in a tournament in which Nicholson played this season, St. Basil's also competed. The Toronto school was beaten out in the semi-finals by Brantford and, in the final, Nicholson beat Brantford to win the tourney. However, while Nicholson finished ahead of the best from Toronto, they have lost to Quinte Saints in three meetings this season.

An interesting fact in Quinte's favor.

Next season the Saints will be right back in the running. Like the Nicks they only lose two players from their lineup. Although both are considered starters.

In any event, the Nicks have done their part in Belleville's bid for a basketball monopoly. We'll have to wait until Friday to see if Quinte and BCI can match Nicholson's feat.

Peterborough Squad Rated Pre-tournament Favorite

The Belleville Peewee Shrine Tournament gets under way Friday April 4 at 6 p.m. with Peterborough meeting Toronto Blues at the Memorial Arena and Brampton facing Ottawa Knights at the Dick Ellis rink.

Peterborough goes into the tourney as one of the favorites. Last year hey went undefeated in their first three games before bowing to Oshawa in the A Championship. Oshawa then went on to win the Grand Championship.

Of four tournaments attended this year, the Petes have the A Championship from London and the B title from Oshawa. They also made excellent showings in the Richmond Hill and Quebec International competitions.

In regular season action they lost only one game and finished in first place in their AAA Ontario Minor Hockey Association (OMHA) grouping. Also in the group are Belleville, Oshawa and Kingston.

Their competition in the opening game, Toronto Blues, won the tourney's Grand Championship in 1972. The Blues, an AA OMHA club, play in one of the toughest peewee leagues in the Metro Toronto Association.

Brampton and Ottawa Knights will begin their game at the Dick Ellis at the same time as the opener at the Memorial. Brampton didn't fare so well in '74, but were the A Champions in '73. Unfortunately they lost the Grand Championship that year to the B Champs from Don Mills. An AA OMHA club they finished fourth in their league. As yet they have not won any tournaments this year.

Ottawa West Golden Knights are the first A OMHA team to throw their hat into the Shrine race in a couple of years. The Knights have plenty of tournament experience this season as they've entered five competitions.

Leafs Top Seals

Tiger on Prowl

TORONTO (CP) — A 5-3 victory over California Seals didn't seem enough compensation for Toronto Maple Leafs, still angry after Monday night's only League game.

California captain Joey Johnston was the main target of the Leafs' anger because he clubbed Leafs winger Lanny McDonald with his stick midway in the second period.

"If that wasn't a deliberate attempt to injure, I don't know what is," said Leafs coach Red Kelly.

Johnston was handed a minor penalty for slashing, a major and a game misconduct. Williams had to serve a double minor, major and game misconduct. California's Mike Christie took a game misconduct for being third man into the Williams-Johnston fight.

"I don't mind coming to the guy's rescue," said Williams, recognized as the Leafs policeman. "I didn't know if he (the referee) was calling a penalty on the play. I just saw what happened. I didn't like it and it made me mad."

Ron Ellis and Darryl Sittler each scored two goals for Toronto. Dave Keon scored the other Leaf goal into an empty net with three seconds left in the game. Ellis ran his season goal total to 30 and Sittler pushed his to 34.

Larry Patey, Dave Gardner and Brian Lavender scored for California.

Joe Bugner Is Next On Ali's Hit Parade

CLEVELAND (AP) — Muhammad Ali admitted he was weak after his victory over Chuck Wepner Monday night, but he said he plans to fight for 10 more years and hopes to meet Joe Bugner, the British champion, in eight weeks.

Details and site of such a fight were not discussed, except that promoter Don King, who handled the Wepner bout, said he hopes to handle it and added: "At this time I think Bugner's in line."

In a post-fight interview, Ali was asked if he would give Joe Frazier a shot at the title.

"I'll fight Frazier" said Ali. "All they gotta do is come up with the $10 million. It will be $8 million for George (Foreman)," the former champion from whom Ali took the title last October in Zaire.

"I didn't carry him," Ali said of Wepner who lasted until the 15th round before a tired Ali put him down. "He was better than you thought he was."

"I did enough to get by," Ali said. "If I'd try to block every punch going into round 10, I'd been tireder than he was.'

For 14 rounds and most of the 15th, Wepner stood toe to toe with the world title-hoder, taking Ali's best shots without buckling.

Ali dropped to the lower strands of the ropes in the ninth for a disputed knockdown. Ali had tripped on Wepner's foot but referee Tony Perez called it a knockdown.

With seconds left in the 15th round, the champion nailed Wepner with a left and then shot a straight right to the jaw.

Wepner was bleeding from a cut over the left eye and his face was reddened and bruised from scores of unblocked punches. He collapsed against the ropes and dropped to the canvas.

Pluckily, the challenger groped to his feet at the count of nine but referee Tony Perez interceded. Ali was the winner by a technical knockout in 2:41 [illegible] round. It will go into the record books as a knockout [illegible] TKO's are not counted in heavyweight title fights.

MUHAMMAD ALI

As Wepner was literally dragged to his corner by manager Al Braverman—while the cowd of 14,047 in the Cleveland Coliseum yelled wildly—Ali, on the other side of the ring, slumped to the floor. He said later he was just tired.

All was critical of Wepner's tactics and the performance of Perez, the referee.

"He was a dirty dog," Ali said of Perez. "He let that man keep banging me on the head. I got two welts on the back of my head. Wepner butted me and he kicked me once. The referee didn't say anything."

The 35-year-old Wepner absorbed a tremendous amount of punishment from Ali's lightning jabs and straight rights but he kept boring in for more, drawing cheers from the spectators.

He was given only two rounds—the first, when Ali chose not to fight, and the ninth, when Ali went stumbling across the ring for what Perez ruled an offical knockdown.

Perez said he stopped the fight in the 15th round although Wepner rose at the count of nine. "If I had let him get hit one more time I would have been afraid of doing something disgraceful," he explained.

"I could have gone on," Wepner said afterward, "I thought Sonny Liston gave me a tougher fight."

Asked if he would do anything differently if he fought Ali again, the battered challenger replied: "Yeah, duck more.'

Kashiwa Moves Up

BEAR VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — Hank Kashiwa of the United States increased his lead in the world pro skiing tour standings with a victory over Henri Duvillard of France in the giant slalom finals Monday.

Kashiwa increased his point total to 313 to Duvillard's 271, and also collected $4,000 for his giant slalom victory.

Kashiwa won the first heat down the parallel giant slalom courses with a fall by Duvillard making it easy. Duvillard won the second run but not by enough to overcome Kashiwa's lead when times were combined.

Third place went to a 26-year-old Japanese skier, Masayoshi Kashiwagi, who defeated Austria's Ed Reich.

Paul Carson of Toronto, Doug Temple of Vancouver and Doug Woodcock of Oshawa, Ont., all lost their first heats of the day.

KEN NORTON

MAINTAINS LEAD

NEW YORK (AP) — Chris Evert took a week off but held the lead as the top money winner on the United States Tennis Association women's tour $72,950. Martina Navratilova of Czechoslovakia is second with $66,875 and Margaret Court of Australia third with $53,613.

Battered by Norton

It's All Over for Quarry

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Quarry, his face battered and covered with blood after losing to Ken Norton, quietly announced his retirement from boxing Monday and left Madison Square Garden asking that he be allowed to keep his pride.

Harassed by photographers after being stopped in the fifth round of the scheduled 12-rounder, Quarry said: "No more damn pictures. I want to go with a little pride."

Norton scored repeatedly throughout the fight—a closed circuit television preliminary to the Muhammad Ali-Chuck Wepner bout—with left-right combinations and left jabs.

Norton, 29, like Quarry, immediately thrust himself back into the heavyweight championship picture when he opened a gash above Quarry's right eye in the third round and then closed Quarry's right eye in the fifth.

Norton scored with a left-right combination, landed another hard right, then a left jab and referee John LoBianco stepped in and stopped the fight at 2:29 of the fifth round.

"I couldn't see," said Quarry, whose only real flurry of scoring punches came in the third round. "We gave it a try."

"The time has come to quit," the heavyweight said as he was escorted into a private elevator with his wife.

Norton, picking up his 33rd victory against three losses, began battering Quarry in the first round with left jabs and several right uppercuts. The second round continued much the same until Quarry took charge briefly.

After a brief Norton flurry in the third, Quarry again appeared to be the aggressor as he backed Norton into the ropes and flailed away.

In the fourth round, Norton caught Quarry against the ropes several times as Quarry's right eye began bleeding profusely again. Norton again forced Quarry to the ropes in the fifth, where he finished off his lighter opponent.

This is no year to fool around.

Claims of price reductions can be misleading.

Before you choose any compact car, compare. Compare price, and what you're getting for that price, and you'll see that Plymouth Valiant and Dodge Dart give you a lot for your dollar.

Over the past 16 years, Chrysler compacts have earned a reputation for giving Canadians what they're looking for. A reputation that's paid off by helping make Plymouth Valiant and Dodge Dart Canada's most popular compact cars.

Five solid reasons to trust us with your compact car dollar.

1. Slant Six Engine
Proven to be one of the toughest, most economical engines ever put in our passenger cars. No other compact has it. Plymouth Valiant and Dodge Dart give this gas miser to you standard.

2. Plenty of Room Inside
We may describe the outside as compact, but inside the word is big. Big enough for five adults to travel in comfort, and with a trunk that should comfortably handle all their gear. Plymouth Valiant and Dodge Dart have more trunk space than a lot of full size cars.

3. Electronic Ignition System
No points, no condenser, this ignition system is practically maintenance free. And you can expect sure starts in any weather with the electronic ignition system that comes built right into every Plymouth Valiant and Dodge Dart.

4. No Special Gas Needed
Plymouth Valiant and Dodge Dart engines are designed to run on any gas, leaded or unleaded. So there's no frantic searching for the right gas pump.

5. The Chrysler Warranty
Like every 1975 Chrysler passenger car, Plymouth Valiant and Dodge Dart are well covered by a 12 month parts and labour warranty that puts no limit on mileage. (Taxis and police cars excepted). So drive as far as you like.
The first year's on us.

Golden Jet Has 70 Goals

8-point Lead for Hull

LOS ANGELES (CP) — Bobby Hull of Winnipeg Jets—continuing his late-season scoring drive—picked up four goals and five assists in four games last week to open up an eight-point lead in the World Hockey Association scoring race.

Statistics released by the league Monday show Hull with 129 points on 70 goals and 59 assists. Andre Lacroix of San diego Mariners, who has fought a two-way battle with Hull most of the season for the lead, has 35 goals and a league-leading 86 assists for 121 points.

Ron Grahame of Houston holds the league's top goaltending average, allowing 123 goals in 2,410 minutes of play for an average of 3.06 goals against. Gerry Cheevers of Cleveland Crusaders, who has a league-high four shutouts this season, is in second spot with a goals-against average of 3.11.

Loss in Extra End Puts Tweed Rink Out

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) —Curling rinks from Toronto Thornhill, Owen Sound and Brantford qualified Monday for semi-finals of the Ontario Junior Men's Tankard.

Ken Pearce of Avonlea Curling Club in Toronto goes against Gary Twining of Owen Sound today while Chris Wheatley of Brantford will face John Jordan of Thornhill.

Probably breathing the easiest was Twining whose West Hill secondary school rink appeared on the verge of defeat in their first game against the brothers MacDonald from Morrisburg.

The MacDonald rink, composed of skip Blair MacDonald, vice Peter Brunt, and Tom and Gary MacDonald appeared in command of the 10-end game with a 4-1 lead going into the eighth end.

But Twining's rink of vice Jim Gardhouse, second Peter Nicol and lead Grant Currie came up with three points in the eighth, stole three in the ninth, and ran the Morrisburg quartet out of rocks in the final end for a 7-4 win.

Other first-round scores were:

Ken Pearce, Avonlea 10 Jeff Smart, Guelph 6
Russ Howard, Midland 13 Mike McLaren, Uxbridge 5
Henry Brodmann, Arnprior 9 Gord Pfaff, Lindsay 2
Barry Ray, Tweed 9 Peter File, Brampton 6
John Jordan, Thornhill 10 Dwayne Pyper, Burlington 7
Chris Wheatley, Brantford 8 Bill Coyle, Missisauga 2
Ewan Alexander, London 8 Brian Glover, Wallacebug 6

In the second round, with first-game winners playing sudden-death in the major Thomas Rennie trophy event, scores were: Pearce 9 Howard 3; Twining 7 Brodmannn 5; Wheatley 7 Alexander 5; Jordan 10 Ray 6 in an extra end.

In the secondary J. S. Russell event, scores were: McLaren 5 Smart 4; MacDonald 12 Pfaff 4; File 7 Pyper 5; Coyle 8 Glover 7.

Losers of the second games were eliminated from the competition and the secondary event semi-finals will match McLaren against MacDonald, and File against Coyle.

End of the Road?

ANNOUNCE SERIES

DALLAS (Reuter) — A winner-take-all series, worth $185,000 to the champion, will be inaugurated next year by World Championship Tennis, it was announced Monday. Called the WCT Challenge Cup, the series will include the top 16 players from the league's 1975 tour.

Bucs' Pitcher Just Hasn't Got It

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pitcher Steve Blass is having problems with his comeback.

"Same old stuff, eh?" Blass said Monday after another disastrous outing.

It was one of many bad games the 32-year-old Pittsburgh right-hander has experienced since his career hit the skids following a 19-8 record in 1972.

He allowed 10 runs and 11 walks as Chicago White Sox defeated the Pirates 16-4 Monday to split an exhibition baseball doubleheader. The Pirates won the opener 8-2 and got some good pitching news when right-hander Bob Moose, sidelined most of last season after surgery to remove a blood clot from his pitching arm, allowed only two hits and two runs in five innings.

Blass, the 1971 World Series hero who spent last season in the minors battling control problems, started the nightcap and allowed two runs over the first three innings. His moderate success came to an abrupt halt in the fourth when he walked home five of Chicago's eight runs in the inning before being lifted.

It may have marked the end of the road for Blass. Manager Danny Murtaugh said after the game that he was undecided whether Blass would get another chance. Blass has said he won't go back to the minors.

Ron Cey drove in seven runs with a pair of homers and Los Angeles Dodgers hung on for a 13-12 victory over Boston Red Sox in a wild game featuring 36 hits, 17 of them for extra bases.

Cey hit a three-run homer in the fourth inning against Bill Lee and then unloaded a grand slam off Dick Pole in the sixth.

In other games, Cincinnati Reds beat St. Louis Cardinals 6-4; Philadelphia Phillies outslugged New York Mets 9-7; San Francisco Giants downed San Diego Padres 15-3; Oakland A's edged California Angels 8-7; Milwaukee Brewers shaded Chicago Cubs 7-6; Texas Rangers defeated Minnesota Twins 8-5; Detroit Tigers trimmed New York Yankees 6-5 and Atlanta Braves stopped Montreal Expos 4-2.

If you get the feeling good things are happening in Ontario wait 'til you see what the new lottery does for us.

It's like a kind of awakening. More and more of us are getting into things.

Kids' baseball tournaments. The Hamilton Philharmonic. Jogging clubs, folk dancing, art classes, Bonspiels. It's happening all over the Province and it's only the beginning.

Now, we've got a new "Ministry" to help. The Ministry of Culture and Recreation.

Its job is simply to help each of us get more out of life.

At first it will co-ordinate things already under way. Like the Ontario Summer Games, the Science Centre, the Ontario Heritage Foundation.

But then it will start helping new programs. And there are literally hundreds of opportunities..

Travelling theatre groups. New hockey rinks. Support for women in the arts. New libraries, in places where they don't even exist. Because part of the idea is to give all of us an equal chance to participate, wherever we live.

How can we do it all? Well, there's the funds from the new Ontario Lottery, starting just a few weeks from now.

The Lottery is expected to provide many millions of dollars. And every dollar we then put into the various programs will be for just one reason. To help each of us get more out of life.

So this is going to be one lottery where all of us win.

IN MEMORIAM

SCRIMSHAW — In loving memory of a dear husband William Earl Scrimshaw who passed away March 25, 1974.

I do not need a special day
To bring you to my mind
For the days I do no think of you
Are very hard to find.
What I would give if I could say
Hello Earl in the same old way
To hear your voice and see your smile
To sit with you and chat awhile
Deep in my heart your memory is kept
To love and cherish and never forget.
—Ever remembered by his wife Olive.

SCRIMSHAW — In loving memory of a dear father William Earl Scrimshaw who passed away March 25, 1974.

I think of him in silence,
His name I oft recall,
There is nothing left to answer,
But his picture on the wall.
— Lovingly remembered by daughter Dicia, Howard and girls.

HEIGHTON — In loving memory of our dear son Douglas Stewart Heighton who passed away March 25, 1972.

Since you've gone first and I remain,
One thing I'd have you do—
Walk slowly down the path of death
For soon I'll follow you.
I want to know each step you take,
That I may walk the same,
For some day down that lonely road
You'll hear me call your name.
—Sadly missed by Mom Dad and family.

In fond and loving memory of a Dear Mother ond Father Edward who passed away April 7, 1967, and Minnie who passed away March 25, 1973.

More and more each day we miss them,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow,
Lying within our hearts concealed.
—Sadly missed by daugher Kay, George and family.

HeavyDoggie Bags

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — A Fresno restaurant owner says tradition was that if the service was good the waiter was left a tip. Now, patrons leave with parts of the table settings. He said customers take silverware, salt and pepper shakers, sugar bowls, glasses, ashtrays and even pancake syrup. Most of the stolen items are carried out in doggie bags.

Diseases Pose Threat

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans may face epidemics of diseases unless immunization of children and adults is intensified, warns Medical World News. The heart of the problem is parental apathy and a reluctance by physicians to push vaccinations against such diseases as polio, measles mumps, German measles, diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough.

Rock Of Ages

ROCHESTER, England (CP) — Officials of Rochester Cathedral have given permission for a rock concert there next summer—by a group called Cathedral. The concert is being organized by a former choirboy and part of the proceeds will go to the church.

Kidney Machine Drains Savings

Awaiting a kidney transplant, Trinidad police inspector Arnim Mondesir, 42, smiles at his daughter Charmaine, 20 months, in the Toronto home of a relative where he's staying. His life savings ran out in the seven months he was on a kidney machine awaiting a compatible kidney for a transplant. He's now going into debt at a rate of $240 each week. (CP Photo).

Egotistical Chemistry Is Creed of Hans Selye

MONTREAL (CP) — If science is the religion of the 20th century, Dr. Hans Selye is the prophet of egotistical chemistry.

Dr. Selye, 68, has rewritten 40 years of scientific research into a moral code as basic as boiling water.

In a world where traditional values are increasingly stifled by hate, violence and war, Dr. Selye blames scientists for many of our problems because they have shattered the old, safe standards.

Therefore science must replenish the moral vacuum, says Dr. Selye. His answer is a code of ethics that grants huge concessions to the ego—and he marshals the facts of simple chemistry to support it.

"I'm just saying what many religions have said, only I'm using scientific language," he insisted in an interview at University of Montreal, where he has headed the department of experimental medicine and surgery since 1945.

Hans Selye, B.Sc., MD, PhD, is eminently qualified to use scientific language, or almost any language, because his books have invaded 16 languages around the world.

He achieved that prominence by giving the word "stress" new meaning. He took it away from engineers and bridge-builders and applied it to the nagging anxiety that gives us nasty things like indigestion, hypertension and high blood pressure.

In the process, Dr. Selye published 31 books and 1,529 scientific papers. His theories have appeared in 56 English-language journals, from Time magazine and Harper's Bazaar through People and Playboy. He has received 19 honorary degrees and dozens of international citations.

"If I wanted to open a private practice to treat people for stress, why with my international reputation I could become a multi-millionaire," he said. "But that's not important."

Dr. Selye dismisses money and fame—along with his 40 years of research—as "piddling detail." Now the morals he has learned by discovering new laws of nature must be told to the world.

He calls his code altruistic egotism, which is defined in details in his best-selling book, Stress Without Distress.

The simple premises of his doctrine are rooted in a flash of enlightenment he had as a medical student at the German University of Prague in 1925.

At 18, Hans Selye, the descendant of three generations of surgeons, made a mind-boggling observation. He saw amazingly similar symptoms among people suffering widely different sicknesses—a general syndrome even his professors seemed to overlook.

Everyday studies prevented young Selye from pursuing his vision for more than eight years. But he came back to it at Montreal's McGill University, where he was doing post-graduate research with hormones.

He embarked on the definitive medical study on stress, publishing his major treatise in 1950. In the next five years, 19,000 scientific papers on stress were published around the world.

Basically, his chemical stress theory says this:

When Cell A attacks Cell B, what happens depends not only on Cell A, but also on how Cell B reacts to the pressure, or the "stressor."

Just as gravity exists only if it has something to pull against, Dr. Selye found stress exists only if it obtains a reaction. In addition, hormone studies showed cells could be induced either to fight against disease or remain passive—sometimes the best way to beat an infection.

The theory gave Dr. Selye world fame, a process not inhibited by his ability to give lectures "without manuscripts but not without grammatical errors" in 10 languages.

At a convention of social scientists in Stockholm Dr. Selye had another "flash" that linked his chemistry with social behavior.

The common denominator was the psychological structure known as the ego, that self-protective device that forces us to defend ourselves and fight for survival, like a single cell, the ego is impinged upon by stressors, and it often reacts like a single cell.

Dr. Selye told the gathering that cellular stress is like an encounter with a drunk. By over-reacting to the drunk you may harm yourself—even have a heart attack—while the drunk might be harmless.

Logic tells you whether the drunk is a homicidal madman. Just as single cells often react passively—syntoxic reaction—to infection, sometimes the best way to deal with a drunk is to ignore him. On the other hand, a show of violence or a weapon might call for an attempt to repel him, just as cells fight disease with a catatoxic reaction.

Stress, says Dr. Selye, is a biological necessity. It keeps us breathing, digesting, pumping blood through our veins. Without stress, we'd be dead. The "bad" stress—distress—is often self-induced by over-reacting to a stressor.

So the objective is to recognize your maximum stress level. In other words, learn to identify which type of reaction is needed and don't fight when it's not required. Everyone is different, so if you're a turtle, don't try to be a racehorse.

Dr. Selye's chemistry theories evolved into the code of altruistic egotism, a love-thy-neighbor-as-thyself edict with huge allowances for the ego.

Dr. Selye said he was always taught to love his neighbor as himself, "but I knew there was something wrong with that because I could never do a good job of it."

His scientific amendment to the religious slogan recognizes man's self-preserving ego. Altruistic egotism means getting your neighbor to love you—in order to protect yourself.

If it means loving for personal gain, Dr. Selye asks, "Who's going to blame you for that:" After all, it's a prescription for peace, harmony and personal security.

One hitch is that love can't be given on command, so it has to be earned. Reasoning that bees hoard honey and other animals hoard things, Dr. Selye says humans should hoard this rare quality, love, as they do money.

Earn thy neighbors' love, he says, and just to be on the safe side, earn a wealth of it.

CN Pension Fund Grows

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian National Railways pension fund has been growing by roughly $100 million a year since 1972, the Commons was told Monday.

Transport Minister Jean Marchand said in reply to a question by Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) that the fund was $950 million in 1972, $1,049 billion a year later and $1.170 billion at the end of 1974.

Earning 5.76-per-cent interest in 1974, the yield was $61.1 million, $10 million more than in 1973 when interest was 5.2 per cent but roughly the same as in 1972.

Employee contributions increased to $48 million in 1974 from the $36-million range in 1972 and 1973. CN contributions were close to $84 million last year, up from $78 million in 1973 and $49 million in 1972.

The annual pay-out to railway pensioners was rising as well. It was $84.6 million last year, up more than $9 million from 1973 and more than $14 million from 1972.

Vannelli Named Most Promising Artist

TORONTO (CP) — Gino Vannelli had something to sing about Monday night after winning the Canadian recording industry's Juno award for most promising new male artist of the year.

Vannelli, 22, of Montreal came to the attention of the entertainment industry last year with the release of his album Powerful People and the single People Gotta Move on the A and M label.

Both received widespread attention in the entertainment media. His album was nominated for this year's Grammy Awards in the United States.

Vannelli said after the presentations he had not fully absorbed the impact of the Juno nomination until awards night.

"I learned of the nomination about three weeks ago," he said. "But I was so much into my new album that everything else—the Juno nomination, the Grammy nomination—lost importance."

only nervous. I consider myself a performer . . . but standing there in front of everybody saying thank you while not knowing what I was saying—just wasn't my cup of tea," he added with a laugh.

Vanelli's new album is scheduled for release in May.

The Juno awards this year reaffirmed Bachman-Turner Overdrive's position as the hottest rock band on the Canadian market today. BTO took awards for best-selling album—Not Fragile—and for group of the year.

Randy Bachman, BTO's leader, also received a Juno as producer of the year for his work on two top-selling albums and three singles.

Anne Murray won the award as top female artist for the fifth successive year and received the country female artist award.

Other winners:

Male artist, Gordon Lightfoot; country male artist, Stompin' Tom Connors; country group, Carlton Show Band; folk singer, Gordon Lightfoot; new female artist, Suzanne Stevens; new group, Rush; composer, Paul Anka; best selling single, Seasons in the Sun (Terry Jacks); best selling international album in Canada, Band on the Run (Paul McCartney); best selling international single in Canada, The Night Chicago Died (Paper Lace).

TURIN (CP) — Several Italian policemen and pop fans were injured Monday night when police and gate crashers clashed for more than an hour at a concert given by the British group Genesis.

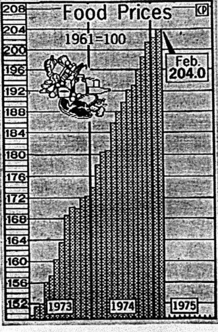
Police moved in when fans tried to force their way in to the city sports stadium just after the concert began, Agence France-Presse reported.

Violence erupted in an exchange of tear-gas bombs and stones as the police charged.

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Walt Disney World was forced to close its gates for four hours Monday because of overflow crowds, as tourists by the tens of thousands poured into Florida for Easter vacation.

Disney officials said they halted traffic into the amusement centre when their 12,000-car parking lot filled up shortly after noon, and did not reopen until about 5 p.m.

Disney World refuses to discuss attendance figures, but Charles Ridgeway, a spokesman for the attraction, said Disney World was "anticipating a very good Easter season."



Food Costs Rise

The food price index, the biggest item in the consumer price index, rose to 204.0 in February, up from 202.3 in January. Statistics Canada reported Wednesday higher prices for seasonal foods — fruits and vegetables — were mainly responsible for the rise in the index. (CP Newsmap)

Your Horoscope

Wednesday, March 26

ARIES (March 21-Apr. 19) Your judgment is questionable regarding the course of action you are pursuing. Continue to kid yourself and steps will have to be retraced.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20) It is far easier for you to make promises today than it is for you to keep them. Don't volunteer—unless you're sincere. This is not the day to gamble

Gemini (May 21 - June 20) on others to bail you out of situations where you have gotten in too deep. Bring your own life-jacket.

Cancer (June 21 - July 22) Don't push your budget to the breaking point because you want your family to keep up with the Joneses. It won't stand the strain.

Leo (July 23 - Aug. 22) — Refrain from telling tall tales today. The stories you embellish later come home to roost, much to your embarrassment.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You have a tendency at this time to count material blessings before they become reality. Wait till they're in the bank.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're too easily swayed today by others' opinions. Be sure the hotshot who's bending your ear has worthy wares.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22) Don't expect more from others than you would give if the roles were reversed. Put yourself in the shoes of the donor.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 21) Friends want to treat you kindly today. They'll say what they think you want to hear. Don't put too much stock in their words.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19) Don't boast today of how you overcame an adverary. One who is listening closely is a better friend of your opponent than he is of yours.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 19) The only one impressed by your big ideas today will be yourself. Keep this in mind if you're addressing an audience.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - March 20) That business deal you're pushing could boomerang. The profit you anticipate is likely to come from your pocket!

One Meal a Day Not Sufficient

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What are the dangers to health for a working man, 52 years old, in eating one meal a day only? Wouldn't this be harmful to the system?

He has had low blood pressure in the past accompanied by dizzy spells.—A.C.S.

I assume that you mean he eats one meal only and nothing else the whole day.

If so, then I would call it undesirable. Studies have shown, for example, that efficiency and well-being are improved with a fairly substantial breakfast meal. I assume also that your husband's single meal is in the evening after work. If this is so, then he had better avoid any heavy work around the house afterward, especially with his history of low blood pressure.

The dizzy spells he has can be due to a drop in his blood sugar, a result of his periods of fasting. Three squares a day would tend to offset this.

If your husband is a confirmed one-meal-a-day man, it will be difficult to break him of the habit. I hope he will read this and see the prudence in trying to space out his nourishment a bit.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have leg cramps and take calcium for them, which seems to help for a time. My question is whether taking calcium for this will cause kidney stones. I have them, too.

I have been warned to leave dairy products alone. I wonder if there could be something else to take instead of calcium.—J.M.

Taking the calcium medication would not ordinarily lead to kidney stones. However, since you have them already and have been warned against dairy products, it would be wise to use other treatment.

Quinine sulfate and aminophylline compounds can be taken instead. Did your doctor know about your stone history before he started you on calcium? If not, he should be made aware of this. And the alternative medication I suggest should have about the same effect on your leg cramps as the calcium has had.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: One hears so many old wives' tales it is sometimes difficult to separate fact from fancy. Please comment on the following:

Aside from being less comfortable, does sitting, standing, or walking on cement floors cause colds, arthritis, kidney or bladder trouble, problems with the female organs or any of the multitude of ailments attributed to such floors?—B.G.

I'm delighted to be able to knock down so many old wives' tales with one blow. No—to all of the alleged dangers you mention.

This is not to say, however, that carpeted, wooden floors are not more comfortable than bare ones Comfort can be a significant factor in recovery from any illness. But cause one?—No.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A year ago my father, after a fall from a high place, found that he had lost his sense of smell. He had cuts on the back of his head and was hospitalized for a week.

Is this very common? Can anything be done to regain this sense? Is there a chance that his smell will return to normal?—Mrs. B.J.Y.

I have to tell you that, from your description of the fall, and because of the length of time that has elapsed, the chances of his regaining his sense of smell are very slight. It is possible that he suffered damage to the olfactory nerve, the nerve that goes from the upper part of the nasal cavity to the brain, and which conveys the sense of smell.

When such an injury occurs, the likelihood of spontaneous return of the sense is very slim. It is not a common thing.

Dolphins—225

U.S. Navy Recruits Dolphins

LONDON (Reuter) — The latest recruits for the United States Navy are dolphins. And they are trained to chase after dummy torpedoes following firing tests.

It's all part of an effort to get the docile creatures to take on some of the donkey-work in American military research programs, says the editor of a new technology reference book.

In one project, naval scientists at San Diego have been studying the performance of a new torpedo. After each firing, a trained dolphin wearing a "grabber" harness plunges after the torpedo.

The creature chases the torpedo and attaches a line, enabling back to shore for examination and saving the navy the trouble of recovering it.

The project was described by Robert Trillo, editor of Jane's Ocean Technology 1974-5, the latest in the series of yearbooks on worldwide defence and transport systems.

Dolphins also are trained to carry tools from surface vessels to skindivers below, he said in the introduction to the book. The Russians teach dolphins to collect underwater soil samples.

Trillo said there is no reason why dolphins should not be put to work underwater, just as horses are on land, provided they are not harmed.

For instance, experience gleaned from military work might be used to rescue deepsea explorers in trouble as the search for underwater oil expands.

More In Prison

MADRID (AP) — Spain's prisons had 15,679 prisoners at the end of October, 1974, an increase of 1,422 over the same date in 1973, government figures disclosed. The increase was blamed on an upsurge in subversive and terrorist activity.

Opening lead — Q♥

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

There is an old story about the man who found a lost horse. He explained he tried to think like a horse and then looked where the horse would go.

West's queen of hearts holds the first trick. South has taken some time to think before playing from dummy. While West does not know how to think like a horse he has learned to think like a declarer. He leads a second heart and dummy's king wins the trick.

Now South leads a spade from dummy and produces the king. If West is really on the ball he has already figured out South's problem. South misses both black aces and wants to knock out West's ace first. So West ducks that king of spades without any ruffles to flourishes. Note that if West takes that ace it is all over for the defence. It is also all over for the defence if West hems and haws before ducking.

Now go back to South. He may still play a second spade, but the chances are he will decide that East holds that ace and will lead a club. East wins and clears the hearts.

Eventually, West gets in with that spade ace and cashes two heart tricks.

Buried Treasure

PRAGUE (AP) — Some of the world's rarest sea shells come from the bellies of fish, says Dr. R. Tucker Abbott, a shell scientist at the New Delaware Museum of Natural History. A book written by Dr. Abbott discloses that shells removed from the stomachs of fish have brought in an estimated $20,000 from collectors over a four-year period.

Directors Not Accountable

Senators Get Their Way Over Corporation Law

OTTAWA (CP) — Final parliamentary approval was given Monday to a bill overhauling federal business corporation laws.

The Commons approved Senate amendments to the bill despite protests from Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) that the changes will let directors off the hook when corporations are charged with an offence.

In six of the 27 amendments "the Senate wants to change the law so that action, if necessary, can be taken only against a corporation and not against its directors or officials," Mr. Knowles said.

In all six cases, the Commons finance committee had specifically amended the bill to hold directors accountable for the actions of their corporation.

"The bill which this House sent to the other place (Senate) included the provision saying that, in certain instances, a conviction can be sought against a corporation or against its directors," he added.

"Considering the number of officers and directors in the other place, I am not surprised at what has been done. They object to this provision in the law."

Mr. Knowles, a long-time advocate of abolition of the Senate, said that in some countries directors are held responsible when their companies break the law.

"In this country we face right now what has been called the dredging scandal," he said. "I suggest that perhaps that scandal is not within the confines of the government, it is a scandal within the confines of certain corporations."

Mr. Knowles said that when bad decisions are made by corporations "they are actually made by officers or directors of those corporations and those officers or directors should be subject to the penalties of the law."

Norman Cafik, parliamentary secretary to Consumer Affairs Minister Andre Ouellet, said the amendments passed last week by the Senate are "good, useful and worthwhile."

Among the most significant amendments is one to soften the liability for corporations that commit offences under the proposed law. Several offences that would have made a company strictly liable—subject to penalty without guilty intent—are changed to qualified liability offences.

An example is the prohibition against not keeping proper accounting records at a registered office in Canada. If a company can establish reasonable cause for not doing so, it can avoid the fine provided of up to $5,000 upon summary conviction.

The bill is intended to clean up certain inequities existing under the Canada Corporations Act, as well as to introduce new remedies to 'protect shareholders and to simplify incorporation procedures.

It would set out new definitions of shareholders' and directors' rights and impose strict responsibility for directors to attend board meetings and to pay close attention to board decisions.

Air Transport Band Is Spared

OTTAWA (CP) — The defence department has bowed to strong public objections and revoked its decision to do away with four regular force military bands.

The news will be sweet music to Calgary, Gagetown, N.B., Montreal and Kingston, Ont., where protests were made about plans to eliminate their military bands.

The department said Monday that the forces will continue with nine permanent bands but personnel will be reduced to 319 from 399.

Decision to eliminate the Royal Canadian Regiment (RCR) band at Gagetown, the Royal Canadian Artillery (RCA) band in Montreal, the Air Transport Command (ATC) band in Kingston and the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry (PPCLI) band in Calgary brought protests in and out of the Commons.

Among protesters in the Commons were John Diefenbaker (PC—Prince Albert) and Flora MacDonald (PC—Kingston and the Islands).

Teachers Turn Down Move to Fight Davis

TORONTO (CP) — Representatives of Ontario's 34,000 secondary school teachers voted Monday to take a wait-and-see attitude before deciding whether to take an active political role in the next provincial election.

The majority of teachers, members of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation, rejected a move led by executive members to oppose the current government of Premier Davis.

Instead, the teachers approved a year-old policy to make "a determined effort to ensure that the next government of Ontario shall have as its priorities the areas of human resources and the social development of the people of this province and the rights of individual citizens."

Both James Forster, federation president, and Alan Murray, vice-president, had asked for specific budget allocations for non-partisan campaign activities.

Representatives were asked to approve a political-action budget of $445,000, but refused. The budget approved was $34,000, double the amount of a year ago.

Decision On Garbage Said Near

TORONTO (CP) — A decision on an application by CP Rail to transport Metropolitan Toronto's garbage 62 miles to the east and dump it in Hope Township will be announced in the "very near future," Environment Minister William Newman told the legislature Monday.

Questioned by Liberal leader Robert Nixon, Mr. Newman said his ministry staff is "evaluating the circumstances" surrounding the application.

"They are doing a lot of hydraulic testing," he said.

"At this point in time, we have been doing a final assessment on the situation and I would anticipate that I will have some answers in the very near future."

Mr. Nixon said outside the legislature that the proposed CP Rail-Hope Township garbage dump should be the first project studied by a new environment assessment board to be set up through a bill introduced by Mr. Newman and given first reading Monday.

Environmental Influence Of Projects to Be Assessed

TORONTO (CP) — Legislation designed to protect the environment from potential damage resulting from major development projects was introducid in the Ontario legislature Monday.

Environment Minister William Newman introduced the Environmental Assessment Act, which sets up an independent board to assess the impact of new development projects on the environment.

But the proposed act immediately ran into criticism from opposition members, who claimed it was too little and not soon enough.

At first, the legislation would apply only to government projects. Later, Mr. Newman promised, it would apply to private developers.

"We believe that an immediate headlong rush into wholesale application of the legislation to all development projects would be foolish, possibly dangerous and even irresponsible," he said.

He was non-committal when questioned by reporters later on when the legislation might affect private companies.

U.S. Attempts Rescue

Da Nang Refugees Being Flown South

SAIGON (AP) — The United States began a massive refugee airlift from threatened Da Nang today and also evacuated some U.S. officials from the consulate shortly after Viet Cong rockets smashed into the air base.

U.S. officials said a World Airways Boeing 727 made two runs between Da Nang and Saigon to start the evacuation of 350,000 to 500,000 refugees from the northern city. At last count there were more than 300 Americans in Da Nang, 380 miles northeast of Saigon.

It was expected that a second plane, a Flying Tiger Boeing 747 jumbo jet, would be put into service Thursday. Officials said it can carry between 1,200 and 1,600 persons.

The bulk of refugees will be flown to Cam Ranh Bay, 250 miles south of Da Nang.

The Saigon command said the Viet Cong hit the area around the large Da Nang air base with 14 rockets in a predawn attack that killed six civilians and wounded 36. It was the first rocket attack in the area since South Vietnamese provinces began falling to the Communists three weeks ago.

In other developments:

—President Nguyen Van Thieu, his political and military position weakened by the loss of more than half of South Vietnam's territory to the Communists, pledged to mount a counteroffensive. He also vowed to stay in office.

—Former prime minister Nguyen Cao Ky, one of Thieu's bitterest rivals and harshest critics, emerged from political retirement to lead a meeting of military officers and politicians opposed to Thieu. Their plan, sources said, was for Thieu to give his power up to a "National Salvation Front" composed of moderate and leftist groups.

—The U.S. government said army Chief of Staff Gen. Frederick Weyand is flying to Saigon with orders from President Ford to assess the military situation and determine what additional help might be needed. Weyand was the last U.S. commander in Vietnam.

—The U.S. Navy carrier Hancock, with 16 Marine helicopters and 300 men aboard, left Honolulu for Indochina waters to evacuate Americans from Cambodia or Vietnam—including Da Nang, should the airport there be closed.

Meanwhile, the exodus continued from the territory abandoned in the central highlands, from Hue and from the provinces around a Nang.

Thousands of civilians and refugees were reported still on the beaches east of Hue awaiting evacuation under North Vietnamese rocket and artillery fire.

A convoy of an estimated 100,000 persons from the central highlands arrived at Tuy Hoa, on the coast, and began moving south toward Nha Trang, 75 miles away. It had been blocked for nearly a week by North Vietnamese and Viet Cong shelling and land mines.

Supreme Court Rules Morgentaler Guilty

OTTAWA (CP) — Dr. Henry Morgentaler's long battle against this country's abortion laws came to an end in the Supreme Court of Canada today when the court ruled in a 6-to-3 decision that he had performed an illegal abortion.

The Montreal doctor, who has admitted performing thousands of abortions in open defiance of laws passed by Parliament several years ago, now faces an 18-month prison term.

The majority decision, written by Mr. Justice Louis-Philippe Pigeon of Quebec, rejected defence arguments that section 45 of the Criminal Code dealing with surgical operations was a defence in abortion cases.

Section 45 says a doctor who performs surgical operations with due care is immune from legal action.

Dockers Delay Return to Jobs

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia longshoremen will take an extra day to return to work at 11 ports under "very repressive legislation which leaves everyone of us liable to prosecution," Don Garcia, Canadian-area president of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union (ILWU), said Tuesday.

The 4,000 men were to be back on the job Tuesday night but instead will go back Thursday at 8 a.m. PST, because officials in Ottawa serving the legislation on union officials missed a plane.

Mr. Garcia said today will be spent discussing the back-to-work legislation with ILWU members.

"The membership must be fully apprised of what's contained in the legislation, as action can be taken against each and every member if they fail to return to work," he said.

Drop Out Rate Low In Hastings Schools

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

Less than 10 per cent of secondary students in Hastings County will drop out this year.

E. E. (Tip) Tummon, controller of finance for the Hastings County Board of Education, says during the 1973-74 school year, 8.34 per cent dropped out of school. With available statistics he predicted this year's rate would be slightly lower.

Statistics reveal 56 fewer students have left school this February than last February. The drop out figures accumulate on a month-to-month basis.

Acting director of education L. F. Reid said the drop out rate in general has declined because the system does not allow students to fail. Rather, they progress at their own rate.

He also said courses tend to be more relevant now than 10 years ago. However, he said more people now attend secondary school than ever before.

In a 1974 report to the board, director of education Eric Runacres said "the over-all retention rate in secondary schools has more than doubled in less than two decades". He also said the number of mid-year leavers is decreasing.

Some educators agree that dropping out of school is not always bad. In some cases school counsellors advise students to leave school for job opportunities. They may be wasting their time in school.

From another standpoint, Mr. Tummon said the student drop out problem creates hardship for the board. The province's grant structure is based on the student population. As students drop out of school the grants decrease.

Mr. Tummon estimated that a drop out rate of eight per cent could mean as much as $750,000 lost in grants. The board's budget was about $26.5 million last year.

A 1973 research paper, prepared by superintendent of education Glen Watson, cited disinterest in school and academic problems as two major reasons why students leave school.

A large percentage was bored and fed up with school and wanted to seek employment. Other reasons cited were pregnancies, irrelevant curriculum, home problems, health problems and conflict with school personnel.

One recommendation from this report suggested the board establish a task force to investigate alternatives in education. The task force would find new methods of keeping students in school.

The Hastings County Board of Education now has a community committee looking into alternatives in education.

Lots of Housing Land Left Idle

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Belleville mayor Robin Jeffrey says the city's housing crisis could be solved "immediately" if land owners would build and develop their property.

In recent months trade groups and city organizations have continued asking for city initiative in providing more land for residential development.

Quinte Planning Board staff told members of the subordinate planning advisory committee Tuesday several hundred building sites are available in the city but the owners are leaving the lots idle.

Figures showed available lots include 72 single-family sites, three sites to permit 96 multiple-family units, eight sites that would permit 528 apartment units and one site which would permit construction of 81 senior citizen units.

Mayor Jeffrey expressed surprise when she first heard the figures and said a very large number of homes could be built. . . "anytime the owners want to come in and pick up building permits".

Mayor Jeffrey said she believes the bulk of this land to be in the hands of two or three developers "who can develop it when they choose".

"I wouldn't speculate on why they're holding back," said the mayor.

Asked what impact this report will have on council's housing philosophy, the mayor said it serves to answer a number of questions about available land in the city but council will continue to negotiate with Thurlow Township for land annexation. For several months the city has been seeking a water-for-land deal with the township which could mean 800 additional acres on Belleville's eastern limits for industrial and residential development.

The mayor said "we may not be in much better position when that deal goes through because some of that land is held by the same developers who are holding back on in-city development".

Mayor Jeffrey said one answer to get construction moving is for the city to get into the development business.

"Municpal land assembly is one possibility" said the mayor following the meeting. "Somehow we have to provide more competition to get developers going."

The Mayor said she will remind council of land assembly programs that are open to the municipality and supported by the provincial government.

"It's a very frustrating situation . . . one we have to find a solution for," said the mayor.

Arafat Beside Faisal

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) Palestine guerrilla chieftain Yasser Arafat was standing at King Faisal's side when the Saudi Arabian monarch was assassinated, the Palestine news agency WAFA reported today.

A WAFA dispatch in the pro-Libyan Beirut newspaper As-Safir said Arafat was in Riyadh for a meeting with the king and afterward was invited to the general audience Tuesday at which Faisal received salutations on the anniversary of the birthday of the Prophet Mohammed.

Thousands of wailing Arabs mobbed the coffin of assassinated King Faisal, 69, before the world's richest monarch was buried in an unmarked grave today.

It was the only public portion of the simple funeral rites prescribed by the puritanical Wahabi sect of Islam.

Bathed by Moslem holy men, shrouded in a seamless white sheet, Faisal's bullet-torn body lay in El Eid mosque in Riyadh, the capital of Saudi Arabia, while princes and commoners chanted "Allah akbar," God is great.

Faisal's brother, King Khaled, 62, wept as he prayed over the body. He was flanked by members of the royal family and 16 other kings, presidents and premiers.

The official Saudi radio said the assassin, Prince Faisal Ibn Musaed, fired several shots into his uncle's body during a general audience Tuesday on the occasion of the birthday of the Prophet Mohammed.

The Arizona Republic, published in Phoenix, Ariz., quotes a member of the Saudi royal family as saying in a telephone interview that Faisal was a religious fanatic who killed his uncle beceuse the police killed Musaed's brother during a religious demonstration in 1966.

Al Ahram says Prince Faisal's father, also named Musaed and a half-brother of Faisal, once was imprisoned by the king for killing an unidentified person.

Test Urged Of Easing Law on Pot

OTTAWA (CP) — Government legislation to ease penalties for marijuana use should have a five-year test, a group of Toronto addiction research scientists argued Tuesday.

The trial period for the law should include a requirement for scientific studies to monitor its impact during the test period, members of the Addiction Research Foundation told a Senate committee studying the proposed legislation.

"We know of no evidence that cannabis is inherently more dangerous than alcohol," the submission says. "Neither do we wish to argue that there is inherently any greater justice in restricting the use of cannabis than that of alcohol.

"But there is ample evidence that combined use of both means greater total drug use, and greater likelihood of heavy, damaging use."

Chief Warrant Officer A. H. Carter, 49 (left) and Sergeant D. H. Pomeroy, 49, both of Belleville, Ont., serving with the Central Band of the Canadian Forces, Ottawa, are still making music after a career which began in 1939. Stirling Sewage Lagoons Receive OMB Approval

STIRLING — The Ontario Municipal Board has faith in the ministry of the environment's ability to stop Stirling's sewage lagoons from polluting Rawdon Creek. A.B. Ball, OMB member who conducted a hearing earlier this year into the proposed lagoon extension in reaching his recent verdict, recognized the concern expressed by those objecting to the project but noted in his decision:

"The board recognizes the need for improvement to the existing system for Stirling and also the expertise now at hand and continually under development by the ministry of the environment in the field of pollution control."

Mr. Ball noted that there were complaints about the present two-cell lagoon regarding land, water and air pollution, and that there was a continuous discharge of effluent from the lagoon and an occasional discharge from overloaded sewage pumping stations into Rawdon Creek.

The OMB member said there were suggestions of construction of a mechanical sewage treatment plant in Stirling, with the final discharge in Rawdon Creek but this was ruled out on the basis of cost and also on the quality and quantity of the water in the stream.

As far as the value of Clarence Chard's land, Mr. Ball said this would be settled by another jurisdisction. Mr. Chard's land is being expropriated by the ministry of the environment for the lagoon extension.

An engineer's report recommended additional sewers in Stirling, improvements and additions to the pumping facilities as well as increasing the size of the lagoon and a change in the operation from continous discharge to retention and seasonal discharge every 180 days in the spring and fall.

Mr. Ball noted that an environmental hearing board accepted this report and recommended certain additional improvements. A subsequent hearing was told of recommendation that would overcome objections raised at the previous hearing and this was aproved by the ministry of the environment.

"The evidence clearly indicates a need for improvement and expansion to the sewerage system servicing the village," Mr. Ball noted "No one objected to the need for the further work, and the board accepts this fact that the need is established."

Regarding objections raised by the lawyer representing Mr. Chard, the OMB member noted an increase from $447,103 to $601,070 was due to the engineer's proposed improvement to the pumping station plus additional storm sewers.

The Hastings Federation of Agriculture had also opposed the project, objecting to farmland being taken out of production.

Breaking the Law

Trenton taxi fleet owner Doug Ridley said Monday he wants council to change a town bylaw he now breaks by cutting 10 cents from the cab fare of senior citizens. Town police have warned him twice that he can also be charged for not charging 25 cents for parcel handling.

County Educators To Discuss Pool

BLOOMFIELD — Five members of the Prince Edward County Board of Education have been appointed to meet with Prince Edward County council to discuss location of a community swimming pool at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute.

The Prince Edward Agricultural Society recently recommended location of the swimming pool at the high school during a meeting with county council and the pool committee.

One of the prime reasons for the proposal is the availability of a grant of up to 70 per cent of pool maintenance costs.

TRENTON — Town council this week approved the payment of $15,662 as Trenton's share of $60,9943 in administration costs of the Lower Trent Region Conservation Authority.

The levy, explained Mayor Bob Patrick, is about 100 percent higher this year because the authority is facing "inflationary tendencies" and an increase in its staff size.

Trenton's Official Plan To Councillors Next Week

TRENTON — Quinte Planning Board deputy director Frank Stokmans expects to present town council with Trenton's draft zoning bylaw at its next meeting.

Mr. Stokmans said Tuesday he feels council will adopt the draft document that has been in his hands for more than a year undergoing revisions.

The bylaw, unveiled to the public in February, 1974, ran into a storm of bitter criticism from town developers.

Builders complained that unrealistic hazard land and residential density designations in the official plan made development in Trenton nearly impossible.

Tied closely to the official plan, the zoning bylaw gives town council control of all development inside town limits. Like a mirror image the bylaw reflects directly upon designations in the official plan, passed by both council and Queen's Park over 2½ years ago.

As it will be presented to council in two weeks, the draft bylaw will contain substantial changes in hazard land controls.

Only areas abutting water will be subject to a no-building control. High-risk areas will include both banks of the Trent River and the Mayhew Creek flood plain.

The draft bylaw will contain no changes in the residential densities in Trenton.

Mr. Stokmans said densities he termed "crazy" and "unrealistic" are now under study and revision by a member of the planning board staff.

Once revision is complete, an amendment to the official plan will be made, and then a change in the zoning bylaw.

He expects the work will be finished in about six months.

Even if council approves the zoning bylaw in two weeks, it may take months before it can be officially used.

Trenton citizens will get another look at the document before it goes to the Ontario Municipal Board for approval. If during the set of public meetings in Trenton objections to controls remain, recourse can be had at the provincial level.

Objections would then be handled through an OMB hearing, after which the OMB will make its final decision on the zoning bylaw.

Lodge Women Gather

PICTON — The Bay of Quinte Lodge IOOF recently held a Ladies' Night in Picton at the Eastern Star Temple on Talbot St.

Special guests for this event, attended by approximately 65 members, were Harry Way of Belleville, district deputy-grand master and Harley Joyce, district deputy and grand patriarch, IOOF Encampment, also of Belleville.

Salary Decision Awaited

TRENTON — Trenton council and town firemen are still waiting for an arbitration board award that will settle a wage dispute over the fire department's 1974 contract.

The board met in Belleville in mid-February to hear the town offer a 12½-per-cent wage increase and firemen counter with a demand for a 24-per-cent wage hike.

Under chairman E. L. Gladu of Ottawa, the board hearing listened only to arguments on wage demands, the last issue to be resolved.

The 11-man Local 1328 of the International Association of Fire Fighters have been working under terms of its 1973 contract with the town.

At those rates, a first-clase fireman earns $10,485 considered the bench-mark salary. The union wants the figure to rise to $13,001 in a one-year contract.

The Secondary Schools

A school annual traditionally packs into its pages as much of the year's activities as possible, with news of students past and present, a story here, a poem there, sport, the school play, trips overseas; even in some publications births, marriages and deaths among the older guard of years past.

Belleville secondary school annuals, such as the Moirambler 1973-74 kindly loaned to us by librarian Albert Branscombe, contains a wealth of picture material from graduating class on through the younger grades to the activities of the volunteer program, the amateur radio program, students on a music tour of London (England) and of historic places of the Mediterranean lands.

It's a typical and fascinating milieu of the day-to-day life of any secondary school, with its own added spice from the local scene. Editor Beverly McGee heads a staff of six with two teachers lending a hand.

There's a frontispiece aerial picture taken by retired Electronics teacher Stanley Else. It has the look of an etching, a little other-worldly, and with a notation pointing out cryptically: "It'll never look this way again!"

Midnight Oil

Whatever the monetary claims of the teachers these days, spare a thought for their demanding schedule.

One who relaxes when possible at an evening class in another school was telling us about her busy pre-Easter program. Marking papers and writing report cards and burning the midnight oil in the process. Sitting up in fact until 1 a.m. to get the job done.

There are some tasks which people try to complete for their own sake; not for personal gain, but for personal satisfaction, even though it may mean fatigue and going beyond the call of duty.

Principal Ernest Shipton is there, with vice-principals Harry Henderson and Gerald Boyce, three wise men against a background of school corridors (those eternal corridors). Mr. Henderson has since gone to Madoc as principal of Centre Hastings Secondary School.

Among the faculty there is a picture of then Indian Liaison Officer Leslie Claus, now retired from Moira, and included among the student body photos are the handsome young people from Tyendinaga who were under his watchful eye. His successor is Michael Brant.

Scanning the pages, the apple of countless parental eyes beams (for the most part) from the pages; dare it be said that behind many a smile, or even less than smiling countenance, there might be a less than happy home environment too — but then, isn't that life?

Here's a familiar face — a young Grade 10 lad who was in this office looking for a picture in which he appeared, one to do with a poster indicating the link between cancer and smoking. A lively youngster, he displayed a keen interest in the mechanics of newspaper production; and of the radio station too, where Dick Lovering gave him a quick tour.

So many pretty girls there are too in our schools; here for instance is a young lady with a certain glow and special elegance who is now at university; and two other attractive young ladies with eyes on hitherto traditional male preserves: engineering and science respectively.

They come and go, with the hopes and enthusiams of the young; and hopefully, the potential for creating a better world. That's the way it is at Moira, as at the other schools. Individuals all, and isn't that what should be the main focus of schools and of the home — the development of each individual into a happy, functioning person, for the betterment of the community and the nation.

City's Music Tradition

The Belleville Yardmen Drum and Bugle Corps announced recently it was looking for new members and as an encouragement it was reducing its minimum age to 13 years from 16.

The Yardmen's young musicians are fine representatives of the city; they combine talent with discipline and their smart bearing and musicianship during parades here and farther afield always attract comment.

Other worthy local groups which have represented Belleville at out-of-town events include Centennial secondary school's band — their trip to Myrtle Beach, S.C. last year being an example.

The Rotary Musical Festival has shown that the city's musical tradition is second to none for communities of its size and the thought occurs that a young people's choir would also be an asset whose potential should be considered.

There is the Belleville Choral Society which enjoys a wide reputation, but no comparable student-based group representative of the whole city. Such a group would offer a new dimension to those of musical talent and it could perform locally, as well as represent the city elsewhere.

Insulation

Flora MacDonald, MP for Kingston and the Islands, had an interesting thought in a recent television interview.

She noted that housing insulation standards in Canada are based on a California building code that requires insulation to be two and a half inches thick.

However, oranges do not grow in Kenora in February, and Miss MacDonald suggested that making four inches the minimum insulation requirement for Canadian homes would go a long way toward conserving our costly energy resources.

Not included in her brainwave however, was the likelihood that homebuilders might just tack the price of extra insulation onto the cost of new houses.

Your heating bill might be lower, but your mortgage payments up.

Tribute to A Nurse

About a year ago John Keeble, an elderly but young-in-heart gentleman residing in Prince Edward, sent us a poem about "a brown-haired young lady" who nursed him during a spell in Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. Keeble spoke of the young lady's kindness and untiring dedication to the needs of her patients.

As a rule The Intelligencer does not print poetry, one exception being some verse a reader contributes for Remembrance Day, but reference was made to the poem in our editorial column. Mr. Keeble acknowledged this gesture.

Now there is an interesting sequel. Hospital executive director Philip Rickard has sent us a copy of the poem which appeared in its entirety in The Winnipeg Free Fress.

It is appropriate perhaps that the poem has travelled so far, since it is really a tribute to nurses everywhere, and to the work they do for their patients in hospitals and medical centres scattered across this big land.

Foreign Aid in Bind As Cartels Flex Their Muscles

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

If our views of the developing world still centre around the concept that it is waiting for our aid and we should give more of it, we are in for strong jolts.

Foreign aid giving is in trouble, not because it isn't needed as much as in the past but because it isn't doing a job and the problems in allocating it have never been solved.

Instead, the new initiatives, some of them quite aggressive, are coming from the emerging countries in many forms, especially from those who always had much to bargain with and did not do so.

You have heard many times now of OPEC, (Organization of Peroleum Exporting Countries), the cartel of Middle Eastern, African and Latin American oil-producing countries which hiked oil prices in late 1973 and helped to start our present inflationary spiral.

A wider group of commodity price and production cartels is being formed among other developing countries which rely on such products as copper, sugar, bauxite, even bananas, to fix prices and jointly inform customers in the industrial world that this is what they will have to pay.

The bauxite organization was formed in Jamaica last March. Venezuela, the major Latin-American member of the OPEC group, will fund Central American countries in their efforts to set up an OPEC-style operation for fixed prices and quantities of banana exports.

These new cartels are having other side-benefits for the developing countries, especially the Arab ones: huge new funds to diversify lagging economies which our many aid programs after 25 years have done very little to help.

In fact, Venezuela is so rich from oil royalties that she has contributed $500 million to the Bank in Washington for lending to less fortunate and still needy Latin member countries.

A further end-product of the new moves by the emerging world is a more strident leadership, (not necessarily based on such moves as stronger control of their countries to prove how tough they are,) but plans to control their natural resource exports to wealthy countries, during meetings of their commodity cartel.

Yet another result has been stronger measures to take over multi-national companies in sovereign developing states, a move which hasn't always worked in favor of the economic nationalists.

You can nationalize a complex structure like a multi-national company, with its ability to transfer technical and managerial expertise into a developing country, but you can't hold on to that expertise if it doesn't want to stay.

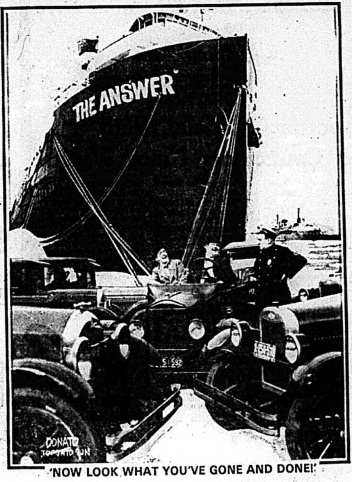
Accordingly, some countries, the Congo and Zambia in Africa, Venezuela in Latin bamerica, are working out management contracts with the powerful, foreign-owned companies they are nationalizing.

In one sense, this still leaves personnel of the formerly foreign-owned companies in charge of their original operations plus a generous financial arrangement with the departed foreign owners.

A multi-national Canadian bank, the Royal Bank of Canada has benefited mightily from a local law requiring majority local ownership before the bank can expand.

In Venezuela, the Banco Royal Venezolana C.A. now is only 20 per cent owned by the Royal Bank in Canada, after being wholly-owned by it. But conformance to the new banking ownership law meant permission to expand in that country, fortunately just at the point the oil economy was creating a huge boom.

A returning Canadian businessman from Caracas told this journalist that as a result, The Royal Bank in a very nationlistic country is "making fistfuls of money."



'NOW LOOK WHAT YOU'VE GONE AND DONE!'

Kissinger Peace Diplomacy Fails

By BRUCE LEVETT

WASHINGTON (CP) — The feeling was close to disbelief when Henry Kissinger came home from the Middle East and, in his rumbling monotone announced failure.

In light of other faltering United States policies across the world, that failure is being interpreted here as possibly the most severe blow yet to the U.S. image overseas.

American foreign policy, of which Kissinger is the star if not the sole player, has taken heavy blows recently over such issues as the failure of the Kissinger-negotiated Paris peace agreement on Vietnam and the impending defeat of the U.S.-backed military government of Cambodia.

It has suffered further over revelations of Central Intelligence Agency involvement in the overthrow of Chile's Allende government and over reports that the CIA had considered the question of assassination of certain foreign leaders.

Kissinger has suffered personally over his tilt toward Pakistan in the India-Pakistan dispute and over his pleadings on behalf of Turkey in the recent Cyprus upheaval.

Once more the criticism is heard that then President Richard Nixon was the ringmaster who programmed Kissinger for his early successes on the international scene and that without Nixon's guiding hand, the secretary is foundering.

Such critics point out that since the departure of Nixon, little has evolved in U.S.-China relations fostered by the former president.

Post-Nixon trade moves with the Soviet Union turned sour on the issue of U.S. congressional insistence upon coupling trade with Soviet emigration policy

One of the most recent attitudes toward U.S. international manoeuvrings is articulated by Sir Robert Thompson, former chief of the British advisory mission in South Vietnam and once a consultant to the U.S. government.

"After Congress's refusal to back up South Vietnam, why should Israel—or others—trust America," he wrote in a London newspaper.

"Israel realizes that she is the next domino."

The racing schooner Bluenose was launched 54 years ago today—in 1921—at Lunenburg, N.S. Captained by Angus Walters, she raced five times for the North Atlantic Fishermen's championship and was never beaten. Sold during the Second World War, while the Nova Scotia Regiment's banner still bore her outline, the Bluenose was wrecked near Haiti in 1946. After years of campaigning, 82-year-old Capt. Walters was able to officiate at the launching of Bluenose II, built to the same plans at the same shipyard, in 1963.

Arab Doltars for Our Agricultural Products

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — Those billions of dollars that the Arab countries have been building up.

Every country in the world and a good many of their citizens have been eyeing them with lust trying to figure how they will get a hand on some of them.

Well, we in Canada and Ontario may be among the lucky ones.

And not essentially in capital investment either, which we want; we don't want our country and its industries controlled by the Arab states.

No, by straight cash-over-the-counter sales.

And the source? Agriculture.

Recently through the Ministry of Agriculture we have had a couple of trade missions visit the Arab countries and they have come back surprisingly optimistic.

Apparently there is a whole range of products we could sell these countries, and they are very receptive.

Already there is a big shipment of white beans on its way and experts see this as only a forerunner.

They see a market for everything from meat, canned and frozen, to vegetables, canned or frozen.

One factor definitely in our favor is that these countries now buy 6 per cent of their food products from the United States and they are anxious for alternative sources of supply.

Which means Canada is right in line.

The U.S. might not like it if we start cutting seriously into their trade—their balance is a great worry.

But that is something which has to be faced when it crops up.

As of now we are going all-out for Arab sales.

Referring to agriculture, incidentally, some of the things we are doing in the field are quite striking.

For instance we just sent a big shipment of pasta to Italy.

Ontario selling macaroni to Italy?

It isn't as absurd as it sounds. The Italians have been buying our soft wheat to make their pasta.

So why not manufacture here?

UK's 'Invisible' Exports

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

LONDON — They call them "invisible" exports. Unlike British cars, scotch whisky and similar products, they tend to be overlooked in the export picture because they can't be seen.

But invisible experts keep the British economy afloat, offsetting the faltering performance of the manufacturing sector.

What are invisibles? Basically, services provided to people living abroad. They are generally classified in two ways:

—Interest, profits or dividends earned by individuals or companies from investments in foreign enterprises.

—Money received from foreigners in return for services provided by Britons.

Those services are many and varied—shipping of foreign goods in a British freighter, insurance on a Canadian factory, accounting advice to an overseas client.

Some invisibles are almost visible—such as a British play touring North American theatres.

One significant source of invisible earnings is the British "public" (that is, private) school system. Some 7,000 public and 207 independent schools in the United Kingdom, each contributing about $2,400 a year to British "exports."

The British ranked second among all countries in terms of invisible earnings in 1971, latest year for which complete comparative figures are available.

The U.K. accounted for 11.3 per cent of the world's total invisible trade, second to the United States' 22.2 per cent but well ahead of third-place West Germany's seven per cent and Canada's 3.2 per cent.

Invisibles represented 35.8 per cent of total British receipts (vs. 15.3 per cent in Canada) and 8.8 per cent of Britain's gross national product (vs. 3.6 per cent).

But since the world oil crisis began nearly 18 months ago, Britain's deficit on commodity and merchandise trade has grown dramatically.

That has given a new importance to invisible earnings—and also new opportunities to achieve them, because of the accumulation of wealth in the Middle East.

To capitalize on those opportunities, the Committee on Invisible Exports (made up of representatives of government departments and agencies as well as the private sector) has been sending out missions to stage seminars in potential markets such as Kuwait, Caracas and Tehran.

Throughout three days of discussions at these seminars, the British make a discreet sales pitch for the services in which they excel—insurance, banking, shipping and the like.

Through the Committee, the British help the less developed countries to establish financial centres of their own. Lloyd's of London, as re-insurer, would back up new insurance companies, for instance, while the Bank of England would become a kind of central banker to the new central banks being set up abroad.

Financial services such as those contribute roughly one-third of Britain's gross invisible receipts (which amounted to about $18-billion in 1973).

Another third was the yield on foreign investments held by the British.

The rest came from a variety of sources—professional services, civil aviation, the money that tourists spend to stay in London hotels and to visit their birthplace, and even the gambling casinos.

Recipes for Traditional Seder Feast at Passover, Jewish Festival of Freedom

Chicken Soup (Ruth Lear)

one soup chicken, five or six lbs.
3½ quarts water
large whole onion
one tbsp. salt three carrots
three stalks celery
one parsley root (optional)
three parsley springs

Simmer these ingredients as long as necessary about two or three hours, to make chicken soup stock.

Matzo Balls (Beck, Shutman)

two eggs, separated
1 cup matzo meal
salt and pepper to taste
two tsp. chicken fat

Beat the eggs yolks slightly, and beat the whites until they are stiff.

Mix the yolks with the matzo meal and the chicken fat and then fold in the whites. Put the mixture in the refrigerator for about an hour. Roll the mixture in your hands to make balls about the size of golf balls. Let them stand about five minutes.

Drop the balls in boiling water, and then simmer for about 20 minutes.

Matzo Kugel (Sylvia Basch)

one cup minced onion
one cup finely diced celery six tbsp. chicken fat (or pareve margarine) six matzos broken in small pieces
salt and pepper to taste
two tsp. paprika
two eggs, slightly beaten
1¼ cups hot water
a little chicken soup

Matzo Kugel is a traditional Seder pudding, that takes the place of potatoes or rice with the meal.

Saute the onions and celery in the chicken fat, until tender. Add the crumbled matzos.

Combine the remaining ingredients and add to the first mixture.

Pour the pudding into a well greased 1½ qt. baking dish.

Bake in a 375 degree oven until firm.

Gefilte Fish ([illegible])

three lbs. fish (pike or carp or whitefish) salt as required and a little sugar two large onions, sliced
two eggs
¼ cup matzo meal
salt and pepper to taste
one stalk celery, diced
one large carrot, diced cold water (to cover) chopped parsley
sliced parsley root

Cut fish into two-inch slices. Carefully remove flesh from the skins and the bones.

Salt the skins and bones and place in a covered bowl in the refrigerator while preparing the filling.

Put flesh and one onion through a food chopper and then chop until smooth in a wooden chopping bowl. Add eggs, matzo, salt, pepper and enought cold water to make the mixture light and soft. Blend thoroughly.

Wet hands with cold water. Take a large spoonful of the mixture and pat it into an oval cake in your hand.

Place skin and bones in bottom of kettle.

Add remaining onions, carrot, celery and cold water to the kettle, and cover. Bring to a quick boil and then remove cover. Reduce heat and then add the gefilte fish. Cook at a slow boil for at least two hours, until the liquid is reduced by half. Remove cakes carefully so that their shape is retained.

Allow to cool slightly, and garnish with cooked carrots and horseradish. The jellied sauce may be used as a garnish.

Haroset (Lily Kodash)

½ tsp. ginger
½ lb. walnuts
¼ lb. raisins
¼ lb. dates
¼ lb. figs
passover grape juice and passover wine as needed

Chop or blend all the dry ingredients together until they are thoroughly mixed. Add just enought liquid to moisten the haroset into a thick paste.

Mrs. Kodash, the Rabbi's wife, brought this haroset recipe from Morocco, where these ingredients are always available. Mrs. Burke has also supplied another traditional recipe for this dish that must be served at both the first and second Seder meals.

Haroset (Ethel Burke)

two tart apples
¼ tsp. cinnamon
½ cup walnuts
two tsp. honey
one tbsp. passover wine

Chop the apples and nuts finely, add the other ingredients and blend into a paste.

Fruit Compote (Elsa Goldberg)

one lb. dried unpitted prunes
½ lb. dried peaches
½ lb. dried apricots
½ lb. dried pears
five or six cups of water
two-thirds cup sugar
one lemon, sliced

Soak fruit in water overnight and then add remaining ingredients. Cover and cook until tender, about 45 minutes.

Sponge Cake (Nelly Schwab)

seven eggs, separated one cup sugar
juice of half a lemon
½ cup potato starch
¼ cup cake meal

Beat egg yolks uhtil light and fluffy. Add sugar and lemon juice and beat until well blended.

Combine dry ingredients and stir, beat egg whites till stiff and fold into batter. Beke in an ungreased 10-inch tube pan at 300 degrees for 30 minutes and 325 degrees for 18 minutes. Invert and cool.

Passover Rituals and Customs

The Jewish festival of Passover begins today. This week-long commemoration of their deliverance from Egyptian bondage is celebrated annually by Jewish people everywhere.

Yet this festival of freedom has a broader meaning as well. For men of all generations and all faiths, Passover symbolizes the quest for liberty, and the promise that freedom can be won.

Looked at in this light, the Pharaoh from whom Moses delivered the Israelites is not only one ancient tyrant — he is all tyrants. From his defeat men can take hope that all chains of slavery can be broken.

In a broader sense, this means that each individual can become enslaved by habits of speech or thought or action, but can release himself by personal endeavor and desire for freedom.

• • • • • • • •

One of the outstanding features of the Passover celebrations is he adherance to customs that stem from the escape out of Egypt.

Passover begins with special family services and meals the first two evenings of the festival. At this service (Seder), the Haggadah — a book containing the ritual services, songs and stories of the exodus from Egypt — is read.

During Passover, Jews must refrain from eating leaven in any form. Instead, they eat matzo, unleavened bread which is used in several dishes as well as on its own.

At the Seder feasts, there are traditional foods which must be prepared and eaten in designated ways. Special tableware and cooking and serving utensils are also part of the Passover observance.

Some of the symbolic foods of the Seder feasts are:

—Matzo is unleavened bread, a reminder of the Israelites' hurried departure when they had to bake their bread without permitting the dough to ferment.

— Arba Kosot are four cups of wine, drunk by everyone to recall the four expressions of freedom in the Bible.

— Kaarah is the decorative platter on which are placed these six reminders of the exodus:

— Maror is a bitter herb, symbol of the bitter hardships endured in Egypt.

—Haroset is a mixture of apples, nuts, wine and cinnamon to symbolize the mortar used by the Israelites in building for the Pharoah.

— Zeroa is a roasted shank bone and Betsah is a roasted egg, in memory of the offering in the days of the temple.

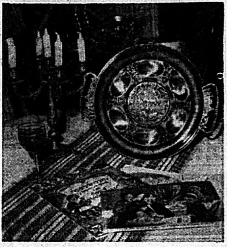
— Carpas is parsley, as symbol of thankfulness to God for the products of the earth.

—Salt water signifies the tears shed by the Israelites in slavery.

—Afikomen is a piece of matzo set aside as dessert to be eaten at the end of the meal.

All food used during Passover must be specially blessed by rabbis, and is call kosher-shel-pesah (fit for Passover).

The recipes here are traditional Passover dishes, collected from the women of the Sons of Jacob congregation by Ethel Burke.



Elijah's cup of wine, the Seder Platter, and the Haggadah, special book to be read at Passover, some of the symbols of the traditional meal.

Puppet Show Draws Hundreds to Library

More than 400 children turned out for a puppet show at Corby Library Tuesday — so many, in fact, that the performance had to be given twice by puppeteer Kae Oatman.

"We've never had that many children before," children's librarian Jean Williams said.

While 200 children watched the show, in the gallery including an Aesop fable, an explanation of puppet types and a talk about libraries by "Dewey" the bookworm and Miss Williams, the remaining children waited in the children's library.

Shirley Follen, English department co-ordinator at Loyalist College, who teaches a course in children's literature at the college, entertained the waiting chiildren with stories.

Mrs. Oatman was assisted by her husband Donald.

GUIDES AND BROWNIES

Leaders of Brownie and Girl Guide troops in Belleville arranged activities during the school vacation this week. Monday there were skating tests at Memorial Arena for 78 guides and brownies, who spent the day winning badges. Four teen-aged volunteers — Tracy Thompson, Janice Maher, Cher Niles and Keri Thompson — did the testing.

A Camp Leader Badge Workshop took place at St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill Church on Tuesday, teaching guides the basic camping and outdoor skills necessary for good camp leadership.

BGH AUXILIARY

At a recent meeting of the Belleville General Hospital Auxiliary the ladies of the Opportunity Shop entertained with a mini-fashion show using clothes and accessories from the shop. Following the show, a white elephant sale was held.

Win Bowles was commentator for the afternoon, and modelling was done by Dorothy Seibert, Evelyn Campbell, Rene Robertson, Alvina Woods, Jean MacLeod was dresser for the fashion show.

ANAF LADIES AUXILIARY

March 17 was the regular meeting of the Duke of Edinburgh Unit 210 Ladies Auxiliary, presided over by Alice Storms.

The position of honorary past president was conferred upon Elizabeth Lunberg, and two new members, Diane La Rue and Elsie Browning, were installed.

Delegates were selected to represent the unit at a zone convention in Stratford in May. Members were reminded of the dart tournament to be held in Toronto on April 19.

Refreshments followed the meeting.

THRESHERMEN'S BANQUET

The Ontario Threshermen and Power Farmers' 49th annual banquet was held at the Legion Hall March 21 with an attendance of nearly 350. Horace Knight, president, Ken Mechan, vice-president and Goldie McInroy, secretary-treasurer welcomed the crowd.

The Legion auxiliary served a dinner, which was followed by a dance at which Dad and the Lads provided the music.

Hoggish Relatives Descend at Death

Dear Ann Landers: Perhaps if you print this letter it will alert the unwary to how hoggish relatives can be.

My uncle died two weeks ago. Before he was even buried a horde of "grief-stricken" relatives descended on the house and picked the place clean. The vultures rummaged through the closets, drawers, and toolshed—grabbing whatever they saw.

My poor aunt was so out-of-it she just said, "Take what you want." What really teed me off was when my cousin Hilda latched on to a beautiful sweater my aunt had bought Uncle two months before he died. Hilda said, "You won't be needing this now and it would just about fit my son."

Please warn your readers against giving anything away until they get darned good and ready. After the grief subsides, they'll discover plenty of things missing—things they could use very nicely.—Can't Stand Grabbers.

Dear Can't: Thanks for a good letter. Benjamin Franklin said, "If you want to know the true character of a person, divide an inheritance with him." Old Ben was never more right.

Dear Ann Landers: What do I want in a husband and bed-mate? Exactly what I have—a considerate, passionate, appreciative, sensitive, stimulating, ego-building, helpful, sharing, aggressive, bashful, beautiful hunk of male!

We both came to our marriage bed as virgins, not fumbling novices, but eager-to-learn, sensitive sweethearts. Together we have experienced a love affair that is still growing and is highly stimulating. Besides sex we have shared many new exciting experiences. Together we earned my law degree and I am now a lawyer. Together we experienced childbirth and we have a beautiful son to share. Together we are obtaining his airplane license. What lies ahead? More exciting years of sharing. Sign me—Lucky

Dear Lucky: So is he. Thanks for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I doubt this letter will ever appear in the paper but I must take the chance and hope and pray you'll choose it. I can't get any mail at home because I am 13 years old and my mother opens everything. Here is my problem:

No matter how hard I try, I can't fall asleep until midnight or later.

I have to get up at six o'clock in the morning to go to school. When my alarm clock goes off I'm so beat I can barely pull myself out of bed. I fell asleep in class three times this semester and it was very embarrassing. It is also a drag to be so beat during the day. I get peppy about supper time and when I get ready for bed my mind is going a mile a minute and I can't fall asleep.

Please, Ann Landers, you help so many people. Can you help me? I would be so grateful.—Goofed Up Clock In Freeport, Illinois.

Dear Freeport: Ask your mother to make an appointment for you with a doctor. You should first find out if some physical problem is at the bottom of your sleeplessness. If there is none, I recommend counseling because the problem is emotional.

You can be helped but you need professional guidance. This is too big a problem for a 13-year-old to handle alone. Get moving, honey.

Doris Clark

Self - Satisfied — But Very Sloppy

Last summer a friend related a masculine conversation she heard at the beach. The discussion was about some girls in bathing suits.

"You should have heard those self-satisfied males go on!" she said. "They practically dissected the girls. Every slightest fault was critized. And then to look at the people who were talking — bristly chins, skins marred by blemishes, messy hair, poor stature, skinny legs and so on. The nerve of them!"

How about it, boys? There is nothing attractive about a dirty face.

Dear Doris: Our son is being married at his girl's home city 100 miles from here.

The wedding is at 7 p.m. and I'm concerned with out-of-town guests of ours and who supplies the accommodation that night, or can we all drive home to this house? It might be too late for a drive after the reception.

Groom's Mother.

Dear Mother: It sounds as if it is going to be a late night for all of you. You can drive back to your home if you feel like it, but a hotel bed in the bride's city can look mighty good after the very sociable (but lengthy) wedding reception.

When a wedding is held a long way from either bride or groom's home, the groom is likely to provide a room for his best man and any other attendants in a hotel. Otherwise guests who cannot be accommodated privately usually pay for their own accommodation.

And if you and your husband have a hotel room you can entertain some of the guests there before they leave for home or retire to their own rooms.

Or would you have enough staying power for the 100-mile drive back to your own home town? If so, the offer of your own guest rooms to your special guests might be the best fun of all. You can visit with people better when there aren't too many of them, I have found!

Dear Doris: I've known many people, including myself, who became over-anxious about something they thought they wanted so badly; but, you know, I've learned to actually live by, "What is to be, will be." — At the same time never forgetting what my grandmother often said, "The Lord helps those who help themselves."

Nan.

Dear Nan: Thank you, Nan. What you are really saying is that you have learned acceptance. Isn't that it? It is the opposite to grumbling and chewing about the little nit-picking pettinesses which can spoil whole days.

Granny ws right, to add to that a little push to get busy and take a hand in one's own fate. And I think this means making the "good" happen. Agreed?

Nun Became Chaplain

MATSQUI, B.C. (CP)—When somebody first told Sister Judith Morin she couldn't be a chaplain, her reaction was basic.

"Why not?" she said.

The argument was that she was unordained, a woman and could not administer the sacraments of the Roman Catholic Church.

"That's true," she said, "but I can get somebody to do that."

That's the way things worked out.

Sister Judy, of the Sisters of Saint Anne, is the Catholic chaplain at the maximum-security regional medical centre, about 40 miles east of Vancouver, which confines and treats mentally-ill federal penitentiary prisoners.

She got the job last summer and said she didn't think it was a big thing "because I had been a campus minister at the University of Alaska, a campus chaplain for five years."

Rev. Mel Cropley, chaplain at the Matsqui medium-security prison, handles the mass and other sacraments at the medical centre while Sister Judy does counselling work at the prison.

Deserting Fathers Just Ordinary Men

TORONTO (CP) — Marlene Mathers, a social worker, says fathers who desert their families often are ordinary men with problems and not the monsters described by their wives.

"It's really kind of fascinating," Mrs. Mathers said in an interview. "I meet the father and I remember what the mother's story was.

'You really get a slanted view."

Mrs. Mathers, a worker for the Ontario ministry of community and social service's new parental-support program, said the program is helping men previously ignored by social agencies.

The men usually were happy to have someone listen to their side and suggest ways to cope with back-payments of support owed to the province.

The 21-member parental-support team was organized last April to collect more than $7 million in support payments that the province had not been receiving from husbands.

For several years, women have signed their support payments over to the province when they have become family-benefits recipients. Recipients of family benefits are ensured a steady income.

John Anderson, assistant deputy minister of community and social services, said in a progress report last November that of $7.8 million owing, $5.3 million was collectible.

In January, there were 16,082 deserted families in Ontario living on family benefits, almost a third of the total of 42,000 family cases handled by the province.

The workers' first contact with the men usually is in family court where they appear in response to a summons automatically issued when support payments fall behind and a letter asking for payment draws no response.

"They come in frightened and you have to break through," said Polly Spearman, a support worker. "You sort of hold their hand through the process."

One man who had difficulties in his family-support responsibilities said treatment he has been given is "fair and decent."

"Until then, I had always found it very impersonal and one-sided," he said. "You were always told you had to pay this and pay that. "It's like banging your head against the wall. If you just forget it, you end up with a summons. When you go in, you get browbeaten."

Size of Alberta Vote May Determine Result

EDMONTON (CP) — The results of today's Alberta election may depend to a large extent on how many of the province's 985,000 eligible voters actually go out to vote.

Many political officials believe the size of the voter turnout following 40 days of quiet campaigning could well deter- Lougheed's Progressive Con- mine whether Premier Peter servatives will gain a huge majority in the legislature.

If the turnout is light, they say, Mr. Lougheed may have to be satisfied with only a handful of new seats to add to the 49 he held in the last legislature.

Few Flood Troubles Predicted

ARNPRIOR, Ont. (CP) — Flood control officials from across the country indicated some trouble spots at a conference here Tuesday, but the over-all picture was of a springtime generally unmarred by rising waters.

The trouble spots indicated included the Okanagan Lakes area and North Thomson River in British Columbia, the Eastern townships of Quebec and the St. John River in New Brunswick.

In addition, officials from Alberta and the Northwest Territories said they are always subject to flooding produced by river ice jams, but there is no way of predicting such floods.

And Manitoba, while expecting "no abnormal flooding," was subject to floods every year as the lowest point in the Prairies, with water flowing in from Saskatchewan, Ontario and the United States.

The officials were gathered at the Arnprior Training College of Emergency Planning Canada, the agency that used to be called the Emergency Measures Organization (EMO).

Accused Obsessed With Kidnapping

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — A witness testified Tuesday that James Hutchison, a defendant at a murder trial, appeared obsessed with kidnapping someone, particularly Moncton restaurateur Cy Stein.

James Nelligan, Hutchison's brother-in-law, and Patricia Donnovan, another Crown witness, testified that Hutchison had talked at various times of kidnapping Mr. Stein, Mr. Stein's girl-friend and a Saint John, N. B., man, and that Hutchison once said he planned to carry out a $100,000 kidnapping in Ontario.

Hutchison, 47, and James Ambrose, 26, are charged with murder punishable by death in the shootings last December of Cpl. Aurelle Burgeois and Constable Michael O'Leary of the Moncton police force.

They also are charged with kidnapping Mr. Stein's 14-year-old son, Raymond, Dec. 13, two days before the bodies of the two policemen were found a few miles east of here, buried in a wooded area.

Mr. Nelligan testified that during the summer of 1972 he and Hutchison made 12 to 14 scouting runs past Mr. Stein's downtown Moncton restaurant and suburban home, always about midnight and with a balaclava and revolver in the glove compartment.

He said Hutchison told him to go into the Stein home, tie up everyone, and kidnap Mr. Stein.

Government Security Rules Just Convenient

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says the federal government uses security provisions which are designed to protect Canada from foreign threats and subversion, to hide behind an unnecessary curtain of secrecy.

The newspaper quotes a report by a study group, composed of members of Parliament, academics, cabinet ministers and senior bureaucrats, as saying that too much government business is conducted in secret simply for government convenience.

Attempts to open up government procedures have failed because those with power to make the necessary changes—such as cabinet ministers—are the same ones who would be most embarrassed or inconvenienced by disclosure, says the newspaper.

It cites the recent refusal of the government to name the 25 persons who contributed to a $200,000 swimming pool at the prime minister's residence.

Check the package to ascertain whether your ham is fully cooked and ready to eat, or whether it requires cooking before eating. Remove the wrapping, arrange ham in baking pan. Bake in a slow moderate oven (325°F) for designated time. "Fully Cooked Hams" require 10 to 12 minutes per pound, to reach 250°F on the meat thermometer. "Cook Before Eating Hams" take 18 minutes per pound, if whole, 25 minutes per pound in small portions, to reach 155° - 165°F on the meat thermometer. 'Poor' Pilot Still Flies At Age 60

TORONTO (CP) — "You'll never make a pilot," Charles Catalano was told by the instructor who gave him his first flying lesson in 1933.

Now, at the age of 60, Mr. Catalano still is enjoying weekend flights over Metro Toronto, despite some traumatic experiences.

Owner of a television and variety shop, Mr. Catalano wanted to fly from the day he first saw an aircraft nearly 50 years ao.

Rebuffed by his instructor, he confined his fascination with aviation to making models and might have remained grounded except for his entry into the sound-truck advertising business immediately after the Second World War.

"The aim was to get your message to as many people as possible," said Mr. Catalano. "By putting the sound system into an airplane you could reach more people over a wider area."

By 1948 he had saved enough money to buy a Fleet 80 Canuck for $1,450.

After 20 hours of tuition and some nagging doubts about his ability to fly, he was allowed to solo.

"One time I made so much noise over the Canadian National exhibition I blanked out show at the bandshell and there was hell to pay. After that I concentrated on towing banners."

The first of the three Tiger Moths that he used commercially was borrowed by a friend who crashed on a city street in 1952.

"That was the first fatal flying accident, I believe, in the city of Toronto."

About a year later, Mr. Catalano sideslipped on top of a Fleet Canuck when landing at Toronto Island Airport.

"Both of us fell 30 feet to the runway but nobody was hurt. But my Tiger Moth was a writeoff."

The president of the Toronto and District Chapter of the Canadian Aviation Historical Society, which he founded in [illegible]63, Mr. Catalano had his closest brush with death on a flight from Port Severn, Ont., to Markham, Ont.

His wife Virginia was travelling by car but had remained to watch him take off.

"Until that day she had always refused to watch me take off and I remember being puzzled as to why she changed her mind."

Mrs. Catalano is convinced she had a premonition. She saw one wheel fall away from the main landing gear to dangle beneath the aircraft. She telephoned Markham airport to advise the owner, John Lewandowski, who took off in his own aircraft to warn her husanbd.

"I spot-landed at minimum speed and switched the engine off as I touched down," said Mr. Catalano.

"Damage was about $125 in repairs. Had I attempted a routine runway landing I doubt if I would be around today."

HIGH REALISM IN CANADA — Paul Duval.

This is an impressive book covering thirteen Canadian painters. Duval gives backgrounds of Ken Danby, Alex Colville, Jack Chambers, Hugh MacKenzie, Christopher Pratt and others. There are many beautiful pictures by these artists of Canada.

LIFE LIBRARY OF PHOTOGRAPHY — Time-Life Editors.

Time-Life editors have put out a dozen or so volumes of the most complete, comprehensive library of photography ever published. Each volume contains hundreds of photographs from the thme past and present. All have been gathered from archives and museums and private collections thoughout the world. Here are three titles from this collection:

() THE CAMERA

This first volume is an introduction to the art and techniques of photography. It teaches the use of light and lenses and presents a portfolie of outstanding photographs.

(2) COLOUR

Taking good color pictures can be almost as easy as taking black and white shots. This volume explains the development of color film and how it works.

(3) THE ART OF PHOTOGRAPHY.

The factors that may make a photograph a work of art are analyzed. Text and pictures explain how creative photographers seek to express their ideas through their work.

ALL THINGS BRIGHT AND BEAUTIFUL — James Herriot.

This is a warm and joyful sequel to Mr. Herriot's first book — "All Creatures Great and Small." The author is a veterinarian in a small town in Yorkshire and he shows us the day-to-day problems and rewards of his practice. We journey with him across the dales of Yorkshire into the homes and barns of the local farmers. And we happily share the pleasures and frustrations of treating the nearly endless stream of pets paraded daily through his surgery.

THE ROYAL HOUSE OF WINDSOR — Elizabeth Longford.

The first World War forced George V to change his German-sounding name to Windsor. This book presents the life and times of George V, Edward V111, George V1 and the present monarch Elizabeth 11.

CAVETT — Dick Cavett and Christopher Porterfield.

Dick Cavett is familiar to thousands of people through his television program. Here in his book we have conversations without commercials or censor. He discusses topics from the silly to the satirical. He tells of the trials of starting out in show business, as host of a talk show. He gets strange requests from his fans — often doesn't hold his tongue whilst on the air — and the fur flys. And he tells how he got to know the Lunts, Laurence Olivier and Katherine Hepburn.

1,466 British Pilots Bring Ships to Ports

LONDON (CP) — There were gale conditions on the night 49-year-old Captain Laurie Mitchell set out from Falmouth harbor to reach a disabled ferry and bring it to safety.

But he was swept off the boarding ladder of the ferry and drowned.

Mitchell was one of 1,466 British pilots whose job it is to bring in and take out every ship which lands in Britain.

When a pilot boards a ship he assumes a personal responsibility to guide it in or out of port. The ship's captain passes the wheel to the pilot the moment he boards.

The death of Mitchell was an isolated incident. In fact his death is the first fatal accident recorded in five years.

But it does point up the risks taken by these men of the sea who may be called out any time of day or night and in any conditions. They can refuse to go out if they judge conditions too precarious, but they usually put the safety of the incoming ship ahead of their own.

Mitchell was a member of the oldest and largest pilotage authority in Britain, the Trinity House Corporation. Under its charter of 1514, Trinity House was charged with supervising the activities of British pilots so that foreigners would not "learn the secrets of the King's streams."

Trinity House also assumed responsibility for all lighthouses, buoys and beacons in British waters in 1594.

Today the corporation consists of about 750 pilots who carry out approximately 200,000 pilotage missions a year, or 275 ship movments a day.

Trinity House will not consider licensing a pilot before he has his high ocean-going master mariners certificate and eight years' experience as a ship's officer. He also must be of British nationality and under 35 years of age.

After a six-month apprenticeship, accompanying other pilots in the coastal area, he is examined by a board member of the corporation, and if successful is issued his third-class pilot's licence.

With this licence, he is entitled to handle only small ships for three years before being examined for a second-class licence which will let him pilot ships up to 12,500 tons.

After one more year, he can apply for his first-class certificate which allows him to pilot ships of any size.

Trinity House pilots are self-employed members of the organization. They work from land-based pilot stations on a rotation system and their earnings are pooled and shared equally.

The corporation is completely self-sufficient, supporting itself on licence fees and dues levied on pilots and the ships they bring in.

End Seen to Recession

No Over-all Growth Is Seen for Economy

OTTAWA (CP) — There will be no over-all growth in the economy this year, despite expected gains in the last half, and inflation will be about 10 per cent, the Conference Board predicted Tuesday.

The private economic research organization said in a quarterly report that the economy now is in a recession but it will soon be over.

Unemployment is expected to get worse throughout the year—averaging about 8½ per cent in the last quarter, inflation rates will drop and corporation profits will drop by 10 per cent in 1975.

The report is more pessimistic than the groups previous prediction and recessions in other countries are given as a major factor in the reassessment. A deficit of $5 billion is predicted for foreign transactions—trade and services.

Finance Minister John Turner has said that the recession in the United States was worse than was expected and, in consequence, his department is revising its forecast for Canada.

His last forecast was made in November, when he predicted growth in 1975 of four per cent. That prediction was made in a federal budget which cut taxes, and which the board forecast says should soon affect consumer spending.

"Real personal income per capita, which is frequently used as a rough measure of the standard of living, is expected to rise by less than two per cent in 1975 after an increase of over four per cent in 1974."

While the average inflation rate is projected at about 10 per cent, it is expected to be well below this figure by the end of the year.

Among factors the board sees trimming inflation are declines in the price of many basic commodities, strong productivity gains offsetting high wage settlements and a less rapid rise in food prices.

Unemployment will increase because few jobs will be created, the forecast says. Employment is expected to grow by about one half of one per cent, well below the expected growth in the labor force.

Wrong Image Of Immigrant Is Prevalent

OTTAWA (CP) — A study prepared for the immigration department says that Canadians "appear to have a mental image of an immigrant as a poor, starved and pathetic creature grateful to be given a new chance in our country."

Nancy Tienhaara, who prepared a report on Canadian views on immigration and population, said that image is "quite out of keeping with the high proportion of skilled and successful immigrants to Canada."

The report said Gallup polls show that "only about one-third of Canadians think Canada needs immigrants, while more than half are opposed and the remainder are undecided." The persons polled were not asked if they favor immigration, but they were asked if Canada needs immigrants.

She added that "views and conclusions expressed in the study are entirely the responsibility of the author and do not necessarily reflect those of the department of manpower and immigration."

Turner Reviews Plans to Visit Saudi Arabia

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister John Turner said Tuesday he is reviewing his plans to visit Saudi Arabia following the death of King Faisal.

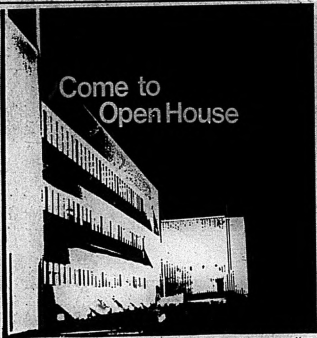
"That was one of the countries I intended to visit," Mr. Turner told James Gillies (PC—Toronto Don Valley) in the Commons.

The 69-year-old king was assassinated earlier Tuesday by a nephew.

External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen expressed his "regret at the untimely death of the king."

Mr. Gillies said that 11.8 per cent of Canada's oil imports come from Saudi Arabia and asked what effect King Faisal's death would have on future imports.

Mr. MacEachen said he had "not yet received an analysis from our ambassador on the effect this incident will have on . . . a number of issues."



Displays, demonstrations, films, arts and crafts from the four counties; plus labs, workshop, television and radio studios, bands, dancing, refreshments . . .

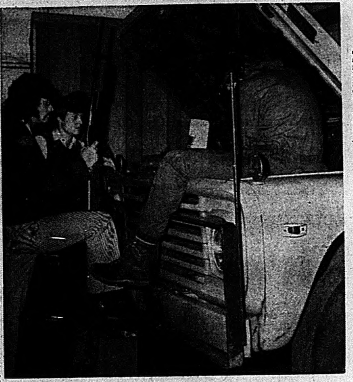
Trappers Form Council

An association of more than [illegible]0 trappers in the Quinte area has been formed. First meeting of the Quinte Trappers Council was held at the offices of the Ontario ministry of natural resources, with a number of ministry officials.

There are about 850 trapping licences issued in the ministry's Napanee district each year and, said Lloyd Cook, resident of the Ontario Trappers Association, there are more fur-bearing animals in Ontario now than there were when the white man first came to the province.

In spite of this, Mr. Cook said, it is essential that there be no waste of this natural resource through poor handling.

At their first meeting the trappers formed an executive made up of representatives from each of the counties under the Napanee districts jurisdiction. Chairman is Clifford Burich, Battersea, from Frontenac county; Keith Miller, Stella, Lennox and Addington; Sam Dean, Shannonville, secretary-treasurer from Hastings county; Jerry Maltis, Hillier, Prince Edward; Steve Flindall, Brighton, Northumberland county.



A Watchful Eye

While it appears Jim Sheridan, holding the shotgun, and Rick Langabeer are looking for their money's worth in truck repair costs, it is something quite different. Both men are employed by Brinks of Canada Ltd. While their armored van was being repaired Tuesday, the men held their firearms while outside the cab in accordance with company regulations.

Brant Critical of District Shuffle

TYENDINAGA — The band council of this reserve will be asked to back a resolution from a conference of Ontario Indian Chiefs protesting greater centralization of Indian Affairs department administrative offices.

Chief William Brant says he will propose the move at the next meeting of the reserve council April 2.

Chief Brant seconded the resolution approved by chiefs from 105 Ontario Indian groups at the conference in Toronto recently.

The chiefs are protesting reorganization that would reduce the number of district offices from 14 to six, said Chief Brant.

The proposed move would see this reserve, now served from an Indian Affairs district office at Kingston, dealing with authorities centred in Orillia.

The chiefs also demanded a say in any restructuring of the department's local offices.

They asked that they be involved in the planning stages of such moves or any other issues relating to Indians in Ontario, said the chief.

Indian Affairs officials are "always saying they want Indian input into everything" he said.

"We're quite aware they want to make some changes. . . . Some have been made and brought into us afterwards."

Trustees Want More Say In Education Task Forces

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

County trustees want to play a role in the development and workings of temporary task forces set up to explore education concerns.

The issue was raised by Belleville trustee Eloise Burr this week who argued trustees are not being invited to take an active role in these task forces.

The Hastings County Board of Education now has about eight temporary committees designed to explore various aspects of education. Topics range from alternatives in education to the use of calculators in schools.

This week acting director of education L. F. Reid, outlined the various committee activities to the trustees. One trustee, Richard Williams, has been attending the task force looking into alternatives in education.

Mrs. Burr said she feels trustees could be of assistance to these task forces. Mr. Reid responded with "our idea is to include as many trustees as possible".

Trustee Donald Williams asked the board who starts these task forces, how are they generated and who funds them? He said he only hears about these task forces through the press.

Mr. Reid replied the board is funding the task forces but that the money comes from professional development budgets. He said the task forces are generated by a concern from the administrators, citizens and teachers.

The task force looking into alternatives in education was started last September when a provincial judge told county educators there were not enough alternatives for juveniles who end up in his court.

Board vice-chairman Miriam Graham said "the board should be informed at the instigation of these movements". She also agreed the trustees should have input into the task forces.

The most recent task force to be established in one which consider health and nutrition in the schools. Driving training, special education futures, supply teachers, teacher mobility and teachers available for transfers are some of the task forces now in existence.

A resident on this street has asked city hall for its improvement. Mt. Pleasant Rd. — which Glen McIntaggart (left), Greg Seemungal and Scott Grenville play ball — is one of the smallest streets in the city. It's fronted by only three homes.

Land Bought For Dams

The Moira River Conservation Authority is in the process of buying 23 properties for its two ice control dams at Reid St. and at College St.

Thirteen properties are required for the Reid St. dam and 10 at College St.

Authority secretary-treasurer James McLeod says that to date nine properties have been purchased at a total cost of $205,144.06. Ten properties have been optioned and the options taken up to a value of $382,500.

The four remaining properties have not been optioned but, said Mr. McLeod, one of the four will be. The other three properties will probably have to be expropriated, Mr. McLeod said.

The appraised price of the four properties that have not been optioned is $326,700, bringing total costs of the required property to more than $900,000.

Telecare Offers Service Outside City Boundaries

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

To 962-4111 add Zenith 44770.

Telecare is extending its emergency phone-in service into central Hastings County.

Telecare is the Belleville-based telephone centre whose volunteers wait round-the-clock to talk to people in distress.

Starting April 27, Telecare plugs into the Marmora-Madoc-Tweed-Stirling sector of Hastings by direct line.

The toll-free Zenith telephone extension follows a request from a group concerned with youth problems in their rural-area communities, says Peter Potstra, Telecare director.

"I don't know that they have any worse problems than any place else. But at least they were concerned," said Mr. Potstra.

The move was initiated after a meeting with ministers and high school teachers last summer at Centre Hastings High School.

Alcohol problems involving young people, particularly on weekends, were among the "concerns" expressed, said Mr. Potstra.

The group also felt there was a need for such a service as telecare where willing listeners can be reached easily by those with personal problems.

A service club in the area has agreed to pay the monthly cost of the Zenith telephone line, he said.

Meantime, there have been "feelers" for a similar Telecare link with the Picton-Wellington area, said Mr. Potstra.

Launched in 1967 as Lifeline, the phone-in distress centre has been on the line 24 hours a day ever since. In that time its volunteers to date have answered 13,810 calls.

Mr. Potstra says "quite a percentage" of them are from teen-agers whith family, drinking or drug problems.

Many of the callers are repeaters which seems to bear out the likelihood that the problems involved stem basically from loneliness, said Mr. Potstra.

Telecare volunteers work five shifts a day and at present they total about 90. Their numbers are renewed by annual training courses.

Mr. Potstra, as director, is the only one who does not remain anonymous. For the rest of the operation — including its location — only Telecare's name and number is known.

City Committee Says No To Proposed Four-plex

Permission to transform a MacDonald Ave. duplex into a four-plex was denied Tuesday by Belleville's subordinate planning advisory committee.

While the subject property — on the east side of the street next door to Stewart Warner Ltd. — is small and would have little affect on the character of the neighborhood, Mayor Robin Jeffrey said permission would create a dangerous precedant.

Lewis Kline, owner of the building, said the home was originally to be a four-duplex.

At a public meeting and in letters to the committee, neighbors argued that the building (already standing) was alway intended as a fourplex and that the owner was hoping for a subsequent re-zoning change.

Planning Board staff said the building would be acceptable as a fourplex, would have little impact on the community, and that a fourplex would be an ideal buffer between the factory and nearby single-family homes. Planning of the staff also warned possibility of other homeowners following suit if the city allowed the conversion.

Remarking on the planning report, Ald Ben Corke said it seems "contradictory."

"What you're really saying is the man man sinned but it's really a pretty good sin the way it turned out," he said.

"If we allow this to go through, we're opening the door," said Mayor Jeffrey who then asked for a recorded vote.

Committee chairman Ray Michol (acting in the absence of Ald. Joe Cox) broke the tie with the application denied.

The decision may be over turned as it is only a recommendation to council and not he final word on the matter.

Mount Pleasant Road - Is It Really a Street?

A resident on one of the shortest streets in Belleville has complained to city hall about its upkeep.

The street is Mount Pleasant Rd., a cul-de-sac with only three houses fronting on it.

In a letter to Mayor Robin Jeffrey, one of the three householders sought help in getting the street surface repaired by the public works department.

In 13 years of residence, wrote Mrs. Joan Douglas, the street outside her home has never been surfaced. As a result in spring or fall there is "considerable mud".

Since there's little traffic it becomes a "weedy dirt track" in summer.

She says public works has promised renovations several times but never carried through.

Meantime, at public works they were pondering Tuesday just when the cul-de-sac became a public street. The city's registered plan, dating to 1829, shows it only as a public lane.

He conjectured Mount Pleasant may have gradually evolved as a street allowance, but wasn't sure when it was named as a street. Mount Pleasant runs off Alexander St., and is linked to Great St. James by a long flight of steps down an embankment.

To trace its origins might mean a lengthy search through city street-naming bylaws.

One city official may have the task of unravelling the puzzle.

Mrs. Douglas' letter was introduced by Major Jeffrey at a meeting of city council's traffic committee Monday.

The committee decided it wasn't a traffic matter. It referred the letter to city manager Wilbur Puurcell.

Planners Move Quickly To Help Nursing Homes

Two Belleville nursing homes are under provincial government pressure, a situation further hindered by restrictive city zoning bylaws.

Jim Clegg, president of the Montgomery Lodge Nursing Home on Dundas St. East and Belcrest Nursing Home on Dundas St. West, asked city planners Tuesday for speed in processing his re-zoning application so that he can meet government deadlines.

With the passing of a new provincial nursing home act last September, several new regulations came into force.

Mr. Clegg said following the public meeting in council chambers, the renovations needed on his wo homes will amount to approximately $300,000.

Standing in the way of renovations — ordered by the province — is land zoning that does not show nursing homes as permitted uses on Mr. Clegg's two properties.

Mr. Clegg asked that the present residential designation be changed to a nursing home designation, thereby allowing renovations to be completed.

He said a July deadline has been set by the province for required work to be completed but said following the meeting that the province would likely extend this limit if he had made a reasonable start on the project.

The subordinate planning advisory committee referred the matter to professional staff for recommendations and arranged a special meeting for April 9 to make a committee recommendation to council.

If all details can be handled quickly — including provision of a site plan for staff reference — the committee hopes to be able to make a formal recommendation to council April 14.

Making a Point

Guest speaker at Tuesday night's meeting of the Belleville Sales and Ad Club was Alexander Innes Inglis (left) editor of a book on the memoirs of former Canadian Prime Minister, Lester B. Pearson. Here Mr. Inglis has a few words with Sales and Ad Club president, Jack Dickens.

Editor Recounts Pearson Years in Ottawa

By JIM SMELLE
Staff Reporter

Canada's role in the world as a peacekeeper and in the area of foreign affairs since the Second World War especially with the United States was examined Tuesday by a man who worked closely with the late Lester B. Pearson.

Mr. Pearson's role in Canada's affairs was examined by Alexander Innes Inglis, who got to know Mr. Pearson while working with him on the book Mike, Memoirs of the Right Honorable L. B. Pearson.

Mr. Inglis was speaking at the monthly meeting of the Sales and Ad Club of Belleville.

Mr. Inglis, editor of International Perspectives, said he first began working with Mr. Pearson in 1970 and continued to work with him until the former prime minister's memoirs is due this fall.

Mr. Inglis said he considered himself lucky to know Mr. Pearson, to have worked with him and to have finished the memoirs before his death.

"I guess he wanted some objectivity in his memoirs as I was a Tory then and still am," said Mr. Inglis about the Liberal prime minister.

"Pearson was lucky as well to have arrived on the world stage when he did after the Second World War," he said.

"After the war, Canada was among the top level of superpowers. Pearson was thrown into the world at a time of challenge when nations of the world were getting together through the United Nations to settle disputes.

"Pearson was lucky o come when he did for a man faced with a challenge can then do his best work."

Mr. Inglis, who came to Canada in 1958 from Glasgow and received degrees from the University of Toronto and University of Manitoba, mentioned four areas where Mr. Pearson faced challenges after the Second World War.

"These were in the area of world peace, especially after Hiroshima and Nagasaki, in living next door to a superpower like the U.S., in making the United Nations work and in leadership provided after the war."

He said that after the war Canada entered one of its most exciting eras of world relationships. "We were entering the era of trying to bring ourselves away from the control of Canadian society by the U.S. The important thing about Canadian foreign policy was in rethinking our relationship with the U.S."

Referring to his position as an editor to point out how Canada is breaking away from the U.S. influence he said that in Centennial year, 1967, there was a special effort made to double the number of Canadian books sold.

"We thought that after 1967 the sales of books would drop way down but they didn't. In fact, in 1968 they increased going up after that."

going up after that.

Pointing to the proximity of CFB Trenton from which many of Canada's peacekeeping forces embark and return, Mr. Inglis said that Canada's role in peacekeeping has grown a great deal since it was first set up in the 1950s. "Our forces are respected by themselves and by those they help, the Turks, the Greeks, the Arabs, the Israelis and others."

He said that Canada has a respectable image in the area of arms and defence. "Looking at a chart listing Canada's position in such areas as power or standard of living I see that we're third or fourth. But in the amount of money spent on defence we're 25th or so and in defence manpower, we're something like 43rd."

Big Payday for 10-pinners

The 14th Annual Belleville Men's 10-Pin Bowling Association Handicap Championships wound up Monday night with the presentations of trophies and prize money at Brunswick Belleville Bowl on the Belleville Plaza.

This year's event was rated the best ever. Twenty-three five-man teams, 52 singles and 26 doubles participated in the double weekend roll-off. Competitions took place on the 1st and 2nd and on the 8th and 9th. All facts and figures were computed last weekend and prizes were awarded Monday.

All entry fees were $6. The team champions were the ones who really got their $6 worth. With a 3140 total pinfall, the Potty Boopers, from Napanee, earned $250. The five-man-team consisted of Doug Duff Bob Sherman, Doug Young, Joe Tustin and Charlie Ackerman. Each received $50.

Second place went to Belleville's Rookies. They were awarded $150 or $30 each. Members of that team were Rick Watt, Carl Baldwin, Greg Lloyd, Lloyd Buxton and Mike Fliegher.

The doubles competition was won by George Ling and Ron Swatuk. They each received $50 for their total pinfall of 1366.

Second in doubles, winning $30 each, were Barry Smith and Ernie Greene.

Singles went to Les Wynne. He rolled 653 and walked away with $85. Second was Frank Podrubszky with a 649 and $55.

In the all-events competition — the combined totals of all three events for those bowlers who went in all three — George Ling had the highest total. His 1905 gave him $45. Ling finished way out in front of his competitions by way of an incredible 277 single. Doug Duff came second with an 1899 total for $30. There were 43 ball handlers in the all-events running.

Golden Hawk Teams Nearing Title Games

TRENTON — After four days of play in the annual Golden Hawk Midget Hockey Tournament here, 20 of the 32 starters have been eliminated; four teams owned perfect 3-0 records when they headed into today's action, and eight clubs were still in contention with marks of 2-1.

The four undefeated teams, Belleville Lions, Nepean Raiders, Galt Gores and Ottawa West Golden Knights were scheduled for confrontations today as the double knockout competition continues.

Tournament officials, pointing out a typographical error in the schedule, said Belleville and Nepean would meet in one matchup while the Golden Knights hooked up with Galt in the other showdown. Earlier, it was reported Lions would play Ottawa West.

Losers in these games remain in the hunt for the grand championship, since a club most lose twice before bowing out.

Joining Lions and Raiders with 3-0 marks as the result of continuing win streaks, Tuesday, Galt and Ottawa West knocked Gloucester Rangers and Gananoque from the ranks of the undefeated.

After goalie Chris Bonney gave up his first goal in three games, Golden Knights stormed back to trim Gananoque 4-1. Galt had to go to an overtime period before slipping past Gloucester 3-2.

Sitting with 2-1 records along with Gloucester and Gananoque are Lindsay and Ottawa South who join Toronto Blues, Smiths Falls, Kingston City Majors and Peterborough Minors who reached that level Sunday.

Highlights of the Tuesday action included three shutouts and a five-goal performance by Frankford's Paul Bedard in his team's 6-3 defeat of Brighton.

Chalking up the shutouts were Ottawa South's Tony Lamonica in a 3-0 win over Napanee; Gary Jackson of Burlington as his club turned back Aurora 3-0, and Bowmanville's Bob Koczulab as Frankford fell 7-0.

Teams eliminated were Stirling, Campbellford, Greenwood, N.S., Brighton, Napanee, Aurora, Wellington, Frankford, Burlington and Bowmanville.

It will be showdown time Thursday when titles are on the line in games scheduled for 9 a.m.; 10 a.m.; 3 p.m., and 7 p.m.

Saints Squelched in AAA Opener

Collegians Earn Top AA Billing

As anticipated, Belleville Collegiate (BCI) reigned supreme in their first round Ontario Federation of Schools Athletics Associations (OFSAA) AA championship game in Timmins. The local squad breezed over Dryden, who were supposed to be one of the tougher teams in the tourney, 59-33. The convincing victory gave BCI top rating in the tournament. Officials ranked them top seed therefore giving them a bye in this morning's action.

Quinte Secondary, playing in the OFSAA AAA all-Ontario Golden Ball Tournament at Brock University in St. Catherines, weren't as fortunate in their opening contest. The Saints were whipped 80-43 by A. N. Myer, from Niagara Falls. Quinte plays again this afternoon. If they are defeated then they are eliminated from the 16-team competition.

The Collegians do not have to play until 7 p.m. this evening. Their opposition for that game will be decided earlier today. BCI got 11 points from Larry Wilson and nine from Gary Donovan. Gord Wright added eight and Chris Lachman and Brian Bell got six apiece.

Quinte will play Toronto's North York MacKenzie in their hook-up. It is do-or-die for both teams. Under the revised Golden Ball system, winners of the first round play losers of the first round to comprise second round games. There is no consolation champion this year. Any losses after the opening round are fatal.

North York won their opening round game against Ottawa's St. Pius X 51-37.

League scoring leader Loren Hawley led Jets with three goals. Chris Altoff rounded out the Bancroft scoring.

Jets presented team manager Hugh Laundry with a trophy following the Laundry was honored for his work with minor hockey in Bancroft over the years.

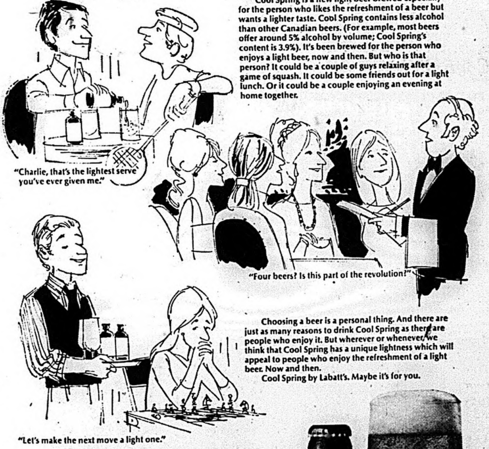
INTRODUCING A NEW BEER

WHO'S GOING TO DRINK IT?

Cool Spring is a new light beer brewed especially for the person who likes the refreshment of a beer but wants a lighter taste. Cool Spring contains less alcohol than other Canadian beers. (For example, most beers offer around 5% alcohol by volume; Cool Spring's content is 3.9%). It's been brewed for the person who enjoys a light beer, now and then. But who is that person? It could be a couple of guys relaxing after a game of squash. It could be some friends out for a light lunch. Or it could be a couple enjoying an evening at home together.



"Charlie, that's the lightest serve you've ever given me."

"Four beers? Is this part of the revolution?"

"Let's make the next move a light one."

Choosing a beer is a personal thing. And there are just as many reasons to drink Cool Spring as there are people who enjoy it. But wherever or whenever, we think that Cool Spring has a unique lightness which will appeal to people who enjoy the refreshment of a light beer. Now and then.

Cool Spring by Labatt's. Maybe it's for you.

Individual Instruction At Black Belt Studio

Belleville's third Karate School, Black Belt Studios, has thrown a new kick into the teaching of the 400-year-old art.

Black Belt Studios, located at 161 Front St., south, opened March 8 with a system of teaching which offers students lessons on an individual basis. The club now has 35 students.

Instructor and manager Steve Morton, a brown belt, said the usual style of teaching Karate is in a class situation. Perhaps one instructor teaches 40 students of all ages.

Steve, a 21-year-old native of Belleville, believes each Karate student has different needs and one-to-one correspondence is the ideal relationship.

Black Belt Studios, is a franchise consisting of 11 affiliated clubs across the province. Black Belt president Fred Southern, from Elora, Ontario, hopes to open new franchises in western Canada and the United States. A new club will be soon opened in Montreal.

Steve, who took a special Karate teaching course with Black Belt in Oshawa, said he normally spends about one-hour a week with each student. However, a student can drop into the school at any time for a workout or use of the exercise equipment.

He said people take Karate lessons for many reasons and many avoid class situations because of the large numbers involved. He will not take a student under the age of 11. He said several students are middle aged.

"I teach the punch and theory method to my students," said Steve. "I try to give them an understanding of what is involved with the punch." Often Karate students just learn the technique.

Steve, who has been involved with Karate on a full-time basis for the past three years, said his class is composed of about 15 per cent women. "And sometimes we find they can learn faster than the men," he added.

He said women are becoming more and more interested in the Japanese art.

As for facilities, the Black Belt Studios offer a large gym for workouts as well as sophisticated exercising equipment. The club also has two private teaching rooms for individual learning. The club is open between 12 and 9 p.m. on weekdays and on Saturday afternoons unless students are attending a competition.

And in case you lose interest in Karate the club's mascot, Tiny the Tramp is guaranteed for one round in a dog fight.

Blocking A Kick

Fourteen-year-old Paul Templeman (white suit) blocks a kick from Black Belt Studios instructor Steve Morton during a recent lesson. The new Karate school, located at 161 Front St. south, opened March 8 and specializes in individual lessons.

Competitive Karate Growing in Popularity

Competitive Karate fighting is growing with leaps and bounds in Canada, says Steve Morton, instructor and manager of Belleville's newest Karate school, Black Belt Studios.

The 21-year-old brown belt instructor said the competitive approach to Karate as opposed to the strict self-defence techniques is quickly becoming a popular sport both among fighters and fans.

Karate, a Japanese self-defence which developed around 1600, became popular as a competitive sport in the early '20s. Since then Canada and the United States have developed some of the world's best Karate fighters.

Steve said the major problem today is there are too many organizations trying to sponsor tournaments. He feels competitive Karate should have a national association — with one set of rules for competition.

Steve has travelled to Pittsburgh and Buffalo for tournaments. He is hoping to sponsor a Black Belt competition in Belleville in late 1975.

League for 16 To 21 Group

The Belleville Olympics are attempting to bridge a gaping hole in this area's soccer system. For years Bay of Quinte Soccer players have developed through local minor associations and then advanced to the Bay of Quinte Soccer Association (BQSA).

However, from the time the players graduate from the minor ranks to the point they begin play in the BQSA there lies a waiting game.

"Most minor associations end play at age 16," said Olympics public relations officer Kevin Kirby. "Players who are only 17 or 18 are generally too small or not polished enough to make a club in the BQSA. Some have to wait three or four years before they break in and others just give up and quit playing."

The Olympics, Belleville's entry in the Premier Soccer League, have decided it's about time something was done to remedy the situation.

"We felt that we could begin an under-21 league in the area," Kirby explained. "There are likely hundreds of players around that fall into this category."

The organizers were specific in pointing out that the league would not be running in opposition to the BQSA. Its sole purpose is to further develop soccer in the Bay of Quinte area in the "Under 21" age bracket.

Many players who participate in the Bay of Quinte Secondary School Soccer League would be eligible for the new summer league.

There are high school teams who would play all summer just to get in shape for their own league. Moira, for example, has a team that is playing in the indoor soccer league. The Trojans, last year's Central Ontario Secondary School Athletics Association champions, are one club that may very well end up playing year round. The Under 21 League in the summer months, the Secondary School League in the fall and the Indoor Soccer League through winter and spring.

The Olympics are holding registrations at King George School, on North Front Street, on Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. A second registration session will be held a week from Saturday, during the same hours, at the Golden Mile Restaurant, on North Front Street.

If a club, or players wish to register early for the league they may contact John O'Neill at 962-7841.

A registration fee of $10 a player is required.

Included in the organizers' plans are indoor training sessions at Sir MacKenzie Bowell School, on Leland Drive, every Thursday from 7-9 p.m., commencing April 3.

Kirby stated that the Olympics organization was behind the new league all the way and they would supply everything from referees to administrative help, if necessary.

Olympics Crush John's

The Belleville Olympics, led by John O'Neill's five goals, whomped John's Variety 13-2 in Belleville Indoor Soccer League action. The Olympics need only one more win to clinch first place in the league standings.

Kevin Kirby and Chris Johnson tallied three each and George Del Grosso scored a pair.

Rollins Peewee's In Split

NEPEAN (Special) — Belleville Rollins Majors didn't have much luck repelling the Raiders but when it came to matching skills with the Indians, — they had the answers during a four-game peewee exhibition serie here on the weekend.

Nepean Raiders posted wins of 3-1 and 8-2 over the visitors who bounced back with victories over Nepean Indians by 5-4 and 6-2 scores.

Jamie Robertson picked up five goals for Rollins, clicking once in each of the first two games and firing three in the 5-4 win.

Denny Rose was good for three goals in four games.

Robbie Soule and Steve Slaughter each checked in with a pair while Joe Guthrie and Tony Parks rounded out the Belleville team's production.

Rollins visit Frankford, Thursday night, when they will face that community's bantam team in an exhibition match as the Belleville squad prepares for the annual Shrine Tournament at Memorial Arena, April 4-5-6.

Islanders Challenge Rangers for Second

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Five days ago, New York Rangers had to give up any hope of winning the National Hockey League Patrick Division title when Philadelphia Flyers clinched the crown.

Now, the Rangers may be hard pressed to hang on to second place with the cross-town rival Islanders breathing down their necks.

The Islanders moved to within one point of the idle Rangers in the scramble for second place with a 3-3 tie Tuesday night against Montreal Canadiens.

If the Rangers lose to Minnesota tonight, second will be at stake when the Rangers and Islanders meet Saturday night, or when they play in Madison Square Garden on Sunday, April 6, the final day of the season.

The tie Tuesday night moved the Islanders closer to clinching the first playoff berth in their brief history. They can lock it up with a sweep of their two-game series of fourth-place Atlanta Flames next Sunday and Tuesday night. The Flames, with seven games to play, two more than the Islanders, trail them by seven points.

In other NHL games Tuesday, Philadelphia beat Vancouver Canucks 5-3 and Minnesota North Stars defeated Kansas City Scouts 2-1.

"It was a good point as long as it helped the club," said Islanders defenceman Dave Fortier who beat Montreal goalie Ken Dryden with a high shot for the tying goal at 18:55 of the third period.

The Islanders defenceman has spent most of the season on the bench, seeing spot duty. "I don't need goals and don't think this one will help my situation any. It's not gonna help me at all. I don't like the fact that I'm not playing. But if we're winning, I can't complain too loud."

With Fortier's goal, the Islanders finished unbeaten against the Canadiens this year, winning two games and tying two.

Murray Oliver and Ernie Hicke scored less than a minute apart in the first period and goalie Pete LoPresti held off the Scouts to give Minnesota the win over Kansas City.

LoPresti was particularly busy in the second period when the Scouts had a 20-3 advantage in shots and got their only goal from Ed Gilbert.

Ross Lonsberry's 21st and 22nd goals of the season and his fourth and fifth in the last three games, led Philadelphia against the Canucks at Vancouver.

Bill Barber added his 30th goal of the year and Reg Leach his 39th.

The Canucks had a 2-1 lead after the first period and then went in front 3-2 midway in the second period before Lonsberry and Leach scored within a 16-second span to put the Flyers in the lead.

Bruin Farmhands Can Score Goals

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

If Boston Bruins decide they need more scoring punch next National Hockey League season, they need look no further than their American Hockey League team at Rochester.

Dave Hynes became the Americans' third 40-goal scorer Tuesday night when he scored twice in a 5-1 win over Richmond Robins. New Haven Nighthawks topped Syracuse Eagles 3-1 in Tuesday's only other game.

Hynes, a second-year pro from Cambridge, Mass., finished last season with 35 goals for Boston Braves, the Bruins' former AHL farm team. The 24-year-old left winger turned pro after playing college hockey at Harvard University.

He joined Barry Merrell and league scoring leader Doug Gibson as other members of the Americans 40-goal club. Last year the whole AHL had only four 40-goal scorers.

Merrell, a 29-year-old right winger, scored his 41st goal in Tuesday's game to bring his three-season total with the Americans to 101 goals.

Gibson, a 21-year-old native of Peterborough, Ont., failed to score in Tuesday's game but drew two assists to bring his point-total to 108. Last year he had 31 goals and 51 assists as a rookie with Boston Braves.

Duncan Rousseau and Ron Garwasiuk were other scorers for Rochester, which moved three points in front of Nova Scotia Voyageurs in the fight for second place in the AHL Northern Division. Paul Nicholson scored the only Richmond goal.

At New Haven, the Nighthawks closed to within a point of Springfield Indians, who occupy fourth place in the AHL Northern Division.

Alain Langlais scored twice with 10 minutes in the second period for New Haven. Walt Ledingham had the other New Haven goal while Dave Ferguson scored for Syracuse.

Tonight's schedule has Nova Scotia at Hershey Bears, Providence Reds at Springfield and Rochester at Virginia Red Wings.

Ailing Simpson Hits 50 Mark

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Tom Simpson wasn't feeling well Tuesday and almost stayed home instead of going to work for Toronto Toros.

But after he got to work and scored four goals in the Toros' 8-4 World Hockey Association win over Vancouver Blazers, he felt a lot better.

"Earlier today I felt like staying at home," said Simpson, who ran his season's goal-total to 50. "I'm sure glad I didn't."

Other WHA games Tuesday saw Winnipeg Jets beat Indianapolis Racers 4-3, Minnesota Fighting Saints defeat Baltimore Blades 5-4, San Diego Mariners beat Chicago Cougars 6-4 and New England Whalers beat Edmonton Oilers 5-4.

Simpson admitted after the game he had been aiming for the 50-goal mark for some time.

"I wanted to get it over with. The pressure is off now as far as 50 goals is concerned, but the pressure is still on us all to make the playoffs."

Toros' president John asestt gives any player who has a four-goal game a new suit and Simpson noted that "that's three I've hit him for this year."

Besides the three four-goal games this season, the right winger also has had one three-goal game.

While he was happy with his own performance, Simpson was disturbed by a promotional gimmick between the second and third periods in which motorcycle stuntman Evel Knievel donned skates for a penalty-shot contest. Knievel scored two goals in four tries at Toros netminder Les Binkley.

"When we have to use Evel Knievel to bring fans into the rink to see our games, something is wrong with them," said Simpson. "We play a good, exciting brand of hockey."

A crowd of 13,213, about 4,000 more than the usual attendance for a Toros home game, saw Simpson score once in the first period when Toronto took a 3-1 lead and once again in the second when Vancouver rallied to tie the game 4-4.

He scored his 49th and 50th in a four-goal Toros comeback in the third.

Toros coach, Bob Leduc noted that the Toros had not played a game in eight days and "it took until the third period for us to get our legs and start moving the puck."

Bobby Hull scored his 71st and 72nd goals of the season in the first period at Indianapolis to start Winnipeg on its way.

Jim Cochrane, Duffy third period to tie the game but Norm Beaudin's goal at 1:32 of overtime won it for the Jets.

At Chicago, Gene Peacosh scored three goals, running his season's total to 39 and leading San Diego against the Cougars.

Wayne Rivers added his 51st goal of the season for San Diego and centre Gary MacGregor of the Cougars got his 40th.

Rookie Mike Rogers scored twice for Edmonton but the Whalers got goals from five different players to record the win.

Mike Walton and Wayne Connelly each scored twice to lead Minnesota over the Blades.

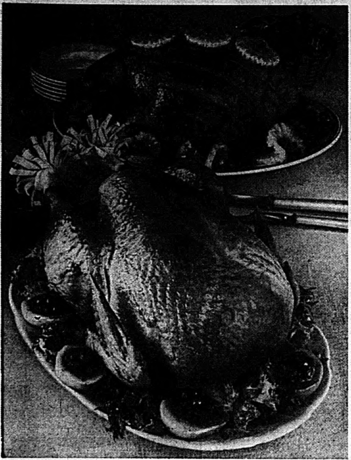
Turkey vs. Ham.

Either way you'll feast this Easter.



Why do so many Canadian families shop Dominion for the Holidays? Is it because of Dominion's Deluxe Golden Bird turkeys? Because these plump breasted Golden Birds roast so delightfully crisp?

Or because each slice tastes so juicy and tender?

Or is it because of our Festive Season Smoked Ham? The ham that steals the show in any dinner act. Well, the choice is certainly a matter of taste. But either way—turkey or ham—you can be assured of one thing. Dominion quality will help make your Easter dining a very special, very delicious occasion.

Now, here are two special holiday recipes—one for turkey, one for ham.

Potato Stuffing for Turkey

Sufficient to stuff a 6 to 10 pound bird.

- 6 cups fluffy mashed potato
- ¼ cup melted butter or margarine
- 2 tblsp. minced celery leaves
- ¼ cup finely chopped onion
- 1 to 2 tsps. poultry seasoning
- 1 tsp. salt (approx.)
- ¼ tsp. pepper
- 1½ cups finely soft bread crumbs
- 2 egg yolks
- 3 tblsps. cream or top milk

Combine all above ingredients except for poultry seasoning. Add seasoning a little at a time to desired taste. Pile stuffing lightly into neck and body cavities of turkey.

Apricot Glazed Ham

Place ham fat side up in a shallow foil-lined roasting pan. Do not add water or cover. Insert a meat thermometer into the thickest part of the meat and bake in a 325°F. oven, according to ham cooking time table. Half an hour before ham is done, remove it from the oven. Spread with glaze of ½ cup brown sugar and 1 cup apricot jam, simmered together. Return ham to 325°F. oven for one half hour, or until well glazed.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT!

The Quinte Canada Farm Labour Pool would like to assist you, the Dairy Farmers, in solving your summertime labor problems. In order to have a general idea of how many farmers need summer help, we prepared a questionnaire and mailed approximately 1600 of these to dairy farmers in the district. Of the 1600 questionnaire, 30 were returned.

Is this any indication of the need of a Farm Labor Pool?

ARIES (March 21-Apr. 19) Be extra careful today in dealing with close associates. Their views and yours will be on different wavelengths.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20) It would be a serious mistake to sweep responsibilities under the rug today, hoping they'll disappear. A time of reckoning looms.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You still have too much of a speculative streak in areas where you shouldn't. Take off those rose-colored glasses. Get back to earth.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Keep persons out of your family affairs who have no right to be there. Their influence will have a disruptive effect.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're a bit too resentful for your own good in dealing with authority figures. All of us have to take orders sometimes.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you don't put the brakes on your spending today, you'll need a new red pen by the end of the week.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be very careful how you handle legal matters today. Don't put your John Hancock on anything unless your attorney first checks it.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22) Someone you're counting on will let you down today. Don't belittle yourself by asking this person for help again soon.

Sagitarius November 23 - Dec. 21) You're not at your best in dealing with large groups. Avoid doing things by committee—the lonesome road is best today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be extra careful today where your image is concerned. Several interested onlookers are hoping you'll lose your footing.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 19) Steer clear of an associate whose philosophy clashed with yours in the past. An old wound will be reopened if your paths cross.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Joint ventures are very tricky for you today. If the terms aren't locked down and understood, you'll come up short.

Fasts Burn Away Valuable Tissue

By G. C. THOSTESON MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Could you comment on the value or harm in fasting? I mean from three to five days. I have heard from some sources it is a way of purging the body of poisons and toxins as well as of shedding some weight. Others say it burns away valuable tissue along with the fat.—M.S.

Give those "others," who tell you that fasting burns away valuable tissue along with the fat, a fat "A" for accuracy.

Fasting can be a very dangerous undertaking, indeed, and it should not be done without a doctor's supervision, or, indeed, without his recommendation, although you won't find many recommending it

But if you are going to do this on your own, there are some basic facts you need to know about how the body stores and burns its sources of energy—fats and proteins.

Sure, fasting will, in effect, result in the burning off (utilization) of some of the fat. But a by-product of this process, especially when speeded up, is a build-up of excess ketones—same as in the urine of diabetis resulting in a condition known as acidosis. There should be a warning in this for starvation dieters.

Another thing. At the same time the body is busily burning off fat, it is also falling back on its only other source of stored energy, proteins—and protein, need I remind you, is the stuff of which muscles are made. Since it takes approximately twice the amount of protein burning to produce the energy fat does, protein utilization must proceed at twice the pace. Weakness is the result.

But it doesn't end there. Take the process a step further and you will find that in the course of protein burning a chemical problem arises—an increase of uric acid in the bloodstream. This increase in blood uric acid can produce pain in the joints—as in gout.

Short-term fasting is being recommended by some of the crash-diet methodologists, but I consider it an unnecessary and potentially dangerous way to lose weight. A more pleasant way—don't you agree?—is to use a low-calorie regimen, with modest feedings at regular intervals, and some exercise. This will allay hunger, reduce weight, and avoid the pitfalls mentioned above.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our daughter has rheumatoid arthritis. Are vitamins ever helpful for this as treatment instead of aspirin? She is allergic to aspirin, and this also affects the baby adversely. She is nursing the little one, who is four months old.—Mrs. R.E.M.

Vitamins have no particular effect upon rheumatoid arthritis. However, if your daughter is not receiving a well-balanced diet, then a mixed vitamin supplement would be in order. This is important just from the standpoint of basic nutrition.

Her aspirin problem isn't insurmountable. Your daughter could be given another form of salicylate (other than aspirin), or she could be switched to some other non-salicylate medication. She should discuss this with her doctor.

The salicylate she is now taking can be discharged in the milk and could affect the baby. It might become important for her to abandon breast feeding because of this. At four months, the infant would be ready for bottle feeding anyway, and this would remove one part of the problem.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have false teeth and use salt water for a mouthwash. Is there any danger of the salt shrinking the gums?—G.N.C.

No. Gums tend to shrink (recede) with age, but the salt mouthwash will not hasten this process. If the salt solution is too strong, it can irritate the gums.

Dieting can cause a shrinking of the gums, so if you are reducing you can expect some of this.

Dominion Denies Price Push

TORONTO (CP) — Dominion Stores Ltd., the country's biggest super-market chain, Tuesday denied an allegation that it unnecessarily pushes up food bills by selling only top-quality meats.

The allegation was made by Lydia Patry-Cullen, one of a three-member federal commission making inquiries into beef marketing. The commission was set up following consumer protests against rising beef prices and producer's complaints of low returns in face of rising feed costs.

The Montreal marketing consultant asked why cheaper but equally nutritious heifer meat isn't sold alongside prime steer beef at Dominion's 400 stores.

The cost of heifer beef would be between three and four per cent lower than from steers, said commissioner Hu Harries, an Edmonton economist.

Chester Wilcox, Dominion meat merchandising manager, said his company sells only steer beef because its quality is consistent, unlike heifer beef, and also sold that beef at the same price its competitors sold a mixture of steer and heifer beef.

Dominion also filed a breakdown of costs and retail prices of all types of beef which appeared to back up industry claims that there is little or no profit under current beef price levels.

During the week ended March 8, Dominion bought a side of beef at 71 cents a pound and sold it at an average of 78 cents a pound, the statement said.

North decided to jump to three notrump, rather than to use Stayman in an effort to find a 4-4 spade fit. His decision was a wise one indeed. The way the cards lie, there is no way to avoid the loss of four tricks with spades as trumps.

Three notrump makes easily, if declarer knows how to go about it. Unfortunately, South's crystal ball wasn't working for him.

East won the first trick with his king of hearts and led the suit right back. South won in dummy in order to take a club finesse. West ducked without indicating any problem. He knew all about the possibility that South would refuse a second club finesse, but West also saw that he needed to keep his king of clubs as the only possible entry for the long hearts. All of this being dependent on the chance that South would fall into the trap.

South did. There seemed to be no reason not to try to get back to dummy for a second club finesse, so South led his queen of diamonds. East took his ace and led his last heart to clear the suit for his partner. South had no reason not to take a second club finesse. As mentioned earlier, his crystal ball wasn't working.

West took his king of clubs and two hearts.

Jordan Takes Junior Tankard

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — Eighteen-year-old John Jordan of Thornhill defeated Avonlea's Ken Pierce 7-6 on an extra end Tuesday to win the Ontario Junior Men's Tankard.

Jordan, a student with only four years of curling experience, won the game with a near miss—practically the only poor shot he threw all day.

But it was enough to spill the opposition stone out of the rings and give him the junior championship and Thomas Rennie Trophy.

Curling with him were vice-Whip Moore, 17, second-Steve Preece, 17, and lead—Dave MacLellan, 18.

St. Thomas Defeats ENSS Rink

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The Parkside Collegiate rink from St. Thomas, skipped by Paula Lyle, Tuesday defeated East Northumberland secondary school of Brighton 11-3 to win the Ontario Federation of School Athletic Association's girls' curling championship.

ARTHUR ASHE

No Way On Clay

MONTE CARLO (AP) — Arthur Ashe, the No. 2 seed, was upset by clay court specialist Manuel Orantes in the second round of the Monte Carlo Open tennis Tournament Tuesday.

The Spaniard won 6-2, 6-3 over Ashe, who had said prior to the match that he doubted even his good physical condition would be enough to beat Orantes on clay.

In other second-round matches, Dick Crealy of Australia beat Patrice Dominguez of France 6-1, 6-4; Jose Higueras of Spain defeated Kim Warwick of Australia 6-0, 3-6, 6-2, and Chris Mottram of Britain downed Francois Jauffret of France 6-2, 7-6.

Homer Happy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The barrage of home runs in exhibition games at spring baseball camps is continuing.

Dave Kingman's eighth homer in 15 games, this one with two mates aboard, and Gene Clines' two-run blast lifted New York Mets to an 8-0 defeat of Pittsburgh Pirates on Tuesday. Kingman also added two singles, driving in another run, in three trips to the plate and lifted his spring average to .361.

Outfielder George Foster's homer led Cincinnati Reds to a 66-3 triumph over Baltimore Orioles. Baltimore's Don Baylor continued his hot hitting with his sixth home run in his last six games.

Montreal rookie Gary Carter's ninth-inning home run broke a 1-1 tie and the Expos went on to a 3-1 victory over Texas Rangers. The homer was Carter's third in four games against Texas this spring. The Rangers' lone run came when Cesar Tovar stole home.

Harmon Killebrew slammed his first homer for Kansas City, but the Royals needed a ninth-inning rally, highlighted by Frank White's double, to edge Boston Red Sox 5-4.

Chicago Cubs hit three home runs, including two by Rick Monday, but suffered their fifth successive spring defeat, losing to California Angels 8-5.

Wolves Finally Get Playoff Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sudbury Wolves believe in the adage if you first don't succeed, try, try again.

The Wolves tried nine times, and on Tuesday won their first Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A playoff game, defeating Ottawa '67s 6-1.

Since entering the league in the 1972-73 season, Sudbury dropped four consecutive games to Ottawa, and last season four more to Kitchener Rangers.

In other best-of-seven quarter-final action, Hamilton Fincups trounced St. Catharines Black Hawks 10-1 and Peterborough Petes downed Oshawa Generals 6-4.

The fourth series game starts tonight, with Toronto Marlboros meeting Kingston Canadians in Brantford.

After Warren Holmes of Ottawa missed a penalty shot at 1:24 of the first period, the Wolves built up a 3-0 first period lead and 4-0 second-period margin.

A home crowd of 2,982 watched Reese Dobrick score twice, and Rod Schutt, Randy Carlyle, Bob Russell and Ron Duguay get the others.

Dan Blair spoiled Sudbury goaltender Jim Bedard's shutout bid with a goal late in the third period.

Fincups 10 Hawks 1

A rested Hamilton club took period leads of 4-0 and 9-1 on home-ice before 2,572 spectators.

Hamilton has been idle since ending regular season play last Tuesday. St. Catharines finished Sunday.

Dale McCourt, Danny Shearer and Greg Hickey each scored twice for the Fincups, who finished third in the standings. Ted Long, Ric Seiling, Mike Fedorko and Greg Clause added single goals.

Gary McAdam scored for the sixth-place Hawks.

Petes 6 Generals 4

Peterborough struck for three goals in a five-minute span in the second period and earned its first win on Oshawa ice this season.

Peterborough, which ended the season in second place, and seventh-spot Oshawa played to a 2-2 tie after the first period, but the Petes' took a 5-3 lead into the final 20 minutes.

The Petes goals went to Stan Jonathan, Doug Jarvis, Paul Evans, Mike Fryia, Red Laurence and Pete Scamurra.

Brian Drumm, Pete Vandemark, Greg Malone and Bud Stefanski replied for Oshawa.

In Heart, Mind and Body Jesus Linked to Judaism

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

From the start, Jesus bore the seal of the land of Israel. In heart, mind and body He carried the mark of Judaism's hallowed covenant with God.

"Think not that I have come to abolish the law and the prophets," He said in Matthew 5:17-18. "I have come not to abolish them but to fulfil them. For truly I say unto you, till heaven and earth pass away, not an iota, not a dot will pass from the law until all is accomplished."

He was so dedicated to His Jewish descent, His people, their scripture, their land and their faith that an unorthodox Samaritan woman was startled, as noted in John 4:9, when He even spoke to her, asking for a drink of water.

"How is it that you, a Jew, ask a drink of me, a woman of Samaria?" It was not customary to deal with outsiders but He saw the wider dimensions of the cherished Jewish values and emphasized their trans-national implications, a stance characteristic of Judaism.

"I will give you as a light to the nations,' the Lord promised Israel in Isaiah 49:6. And, in Isaiah 2:3, "Out of Zion shall go forth the law and the word of the Lord from Jerusalem."

However, Jesus concentrated His ministry among the scantily versed commonfolk within the Jewish fold. "I was sent only to the lost sheep of the house of Israel," He said in Matthew 15:24.

One of the rare instances when He gave attention to a non-Jew occurred when a Phoenician woman begged Him to heal her daughter. He showed keen reluctance.

"It is not right to take the children's bread and throw it to the dogs," he said in Mark 7:27. Nevertheless, He healed the child.

His brusque remark echoed rabbinical sayings referring to heathens as "dogs." Jewish scholar David Neiman also noted that the Phoenicians at that time had betrayed an alliance to oust the Roman governor and Jesus' reaction reflected general Jewish resentment.

"Go nowhere among the Gentiles," He advised His 12 apostles in Matthew 10:05. "Their great men exercise authority over them," He said in Matthew 20:25-26. "It shall not be so among you."

He predicted, particularly in His post-resurrection instructions, that His message eventually would spread everywhere but limited His efforts in His earthly days within Judaism.

It is an arresting contrast to the long history of anti-Jewishness countenanced in later centuries and sometimes abetted by churches professing the way of Jesus.

However that attitude is being modified as Christian scholarship reclaims its Jewish origins and practices.

Jesus firmly embraced His inherited faith, striving to strengthen it, criticizing shallow approaches to it and emphasizing content rather than form as the prophets did, adding his own insights, engaging vigorously in the theological controversies of the day.

Jesus "intimately shared the Jewish faith that God had chosen that nation as His instrument for saving the world," says the noted United Church Scripture scholar George A. Buttrick.

He taught in the accents of Israel, lived and learned within its culture, spoke its prayers and liturgies, used its rabbinical teaching methods. His family and apostles were all Jewish. He worshipped in the synagogue and observed the Jewish festivals.

He identified with the land, its fields and mountains, its workers, fishermen and farmers, its vineyards, flocks and harvests, its heroes and history.

Deep attachmnt to the city and the land has always been an element of Judaism. Its birth and being hinge on that tiny strip of earth at the intersection of three continents, divinely pledged in antiquity as an "everlasting possession.'

Since the Israelites first established a nation there 3,200 years ago it has been seized about 18 times by invaders — before and after Jesus—by Babylonians, Persians, Macedonians, Egyptians, Assyrians, Romans, Crusaders, Byzantines, Arabs, Mongols, Tartars and Turks and was mandated by the British in 1922.

Jesus spoke of the country's long travail before its redemption. "Jerusalem will be trodden down by the Gentiles until the times of the Gentiles are fulfilled," he said in Luke 21:24.

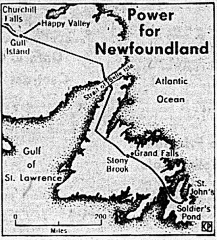
The foreign overlords, however, always ruled from a distance. Only the Jews ever organized the holy land as a home-ruled nation.

Although Jesus shunned being exalted as a political restorer, despite His apostles' persistent fascination with the idea, He fervently identified with the people.

On the doorpost of each Jewish home such as the one in which Jesus was reared was a mezuzah, symbol of divine guardianship. It contained a small folded parchment bearing the great Shema from Deuteronomy 6:4 of the Torah:

"Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God is one Lord and you shall love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind."

Jesus cited that imperative as the greatest of the commandments in Matthew 22:37-40, together with another, "Love your neighbor as yourself." This is one of the most-quoted sayings of Jesus; yet it too comes from the Jewish Torah, in Leviticus 19:18.



An estimated 1.800 megawatts of power will be available in Newfoundland with completion in 1981 of hydro development on the Lower Churchill River in Labrador. The route to major terminals in St. John's and Grand Falls will include an 11-mile tunnel through the seabed beneath the Strait of Belle Isle. First contacts for the $1.6 billion development are to be let in June. Tunnel construction is scheduled to begin next January. (CP

"I'm not trying to take away citizens' rights at all," Mayor Brandt said in an interview. "I'm simply saying 'let the objectors show legitimate, reasonable grounds for complaint and if they don't, then don't have a hearing."

Change Policy

TORONTO (CP) — Asbestos workers suffering from lung cancer will be able to resubmit claims to the Workmen's Compensation Board (WCB) as a result of a change in board policy announced Tuesday.

In a statement to the legislature, Labor Minister John MacBeth said: "Lung cancer in the presence of asbestos particles, but in the absence of asbestosis, may be considered as occupational in origin within the revised exposure and other criteria."

Plan Survey

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Anglicans across Canada will be surveyed this week for their opinions on church union, Most Rev. E. W. Scott, Anglican Primate of Canada, said Tuesday.

Too Expensive

TORONTO (CP) — James Auld, minister of colleges and universities, says Ontario cannot afford to meet student demands for an additional $300-million in assistance.

Speaking Monday at the University of Toronto, Mr. Auld said the demands by the Ontario Federation of Students would represent a 40-per-cent increase on the $568 million the province plans to spend next year on grants to universities and community colleges.

Change Costly

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government will spend $1.5 million this year on metric conversion in schools, Education Minister Thomas Wells said Tuesday.

Mr. Wells said the grants will be available to school boards to assist them in converting learning materials to the metric system.

Will Pay More

TORONTO (CP) — The provincial government intends to assume 80 per cent of the cost of most services provided by Children's Aid Societies (CAS), Rene Brunelle, minister of community and social services, said Tuesday.

No Rent Controls

TORONTO (CP) — Housing Minister Donald Irvine repeated again Tuesday that Ontario will not consider rent controls.

Police Dislike Pringle's 'Reasonable Belief' Rule

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP) — Albert Shennan, Niagara regional police chief, Tuesday criticized a royal commission recommendation that the Narcotic Control Act be amended to require police to have reasonable belief that a person has committed an offence before the person is searched.

The recommendation was written in a report by Norfolk County Judge J. A. Pringle about a raid by 50 policemen last May 11 at the Landmark Motor Inn Hotel.

The report, tabled in the Ontario legislature Jan. 27, said the raid was lawful and warranted but police took a "foolish and unnecessary" step in stripping and searching all 36 women they found on the premises.

On Tuesday, Chief Shennan said in an annual report to the police commission that the proposed changes to the federal legislation would not help police control the increasing use of narcotics.

"Nor do I think they will be of benefit to upstanding members of the community, particulary parents who are frustrated in the face of the increasing use of drugs by their children and who, in the final analysis, look to the police to take action to overcome this dreadful problem," he said.

Two More Charged

OTTAWA (CP) — Two Ottawa men were charged with gross indecency Tuesday, bringing to 17 the number of men charged with various offences in connection with a male homosexual prostitution ring involving juveniles.

Edward David Jones, 33, of Ottawa, pleaded guilty to the charge and was remanded until April 28 for sentencing. Guy Caron, 52, was remanded for plea for a week, police said.

Favoritism Seen

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario housing ministry is giving preferential treatment to regional municipalities in assigning government-sponsored housing projects, Liberal leader Robert Nixon charged Tuesday.

"It's political blackmail!" he shouted across the legislature at Housing Minister Donald Irvine.

"That's absolutely false," Mr. Irvine replied.

Study Transit

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario is continuing its research into a practical magnetic-levitation rapid-transit system, John Rhodes, minister of transportation and communications, said Tuesday.

Danson Expects to Reach Year's Housing Unit Goal

OTTAWA (CP) — Commons approval of the government's housing subsidy bill has left Urban Affairs Minister Barney Danson confident of achieving his goal of 210,000 new housing units this year.

"A lot of people, builders and the like, already have indicated they were waiting to move and were waiting for the legislation," he said Tuesday night following final House approval.

The bill is expected to receive Senate approval and routine royal assent before Parliament adjourns at 6 p.m. EST today for an 11-day Easter recess.

It is designed to increase Central Mortgage and Housing Corp (CMHC) funds for low-cost housing and to revise other federal housing programs to attract more private money into the mortgage market.

Mr. Danson said it should facilitate construction of between 30,000 and 35,000 housing units. He feels these will enable the industry to meet his prediction of a minimum 210,000 housing starts in 1975.

This optimism was mirrored in the CMHC's annual report tabled earlier Tuesday in the Commons. William Teron, the Crown corporation's president, saw hopeful signs in the housing market after the gloom of 1974.

"A softening in prices, or at least a levelling off, (in late 1974) indicated that the sellers' market that predominated during the year was ending, and that prospective house buyers were once again prepared to shop with sharpened discrimination for the homes they want," Mr. Teron said in the report.

The sharp drop in housing starts last year to 222,123 from more than 268,000 in 1973 was due to rapidly-rising prices and mortgage interest rates and a slackening economy in the last six months of the year.

While private-sector housing starts were down last year, federally - financed construction rose slightly to 29,160 starts from 28,239 the previous year.

Ontario Civil Service Contract Talks Halted

TORONTO (CP) — Contract talks between the Ontario government and the Civil Service Association of Ontario (CSAO), which represents 52,000 workers, broke off Tuesday following 11 days of mediation.

The breakdown came when mediator George Ferguson told CSAO representatives that the government had refused to consider a 1975 termination date for proposed working conditions.

Last fall, the CASO negotiated wage increases for 19,000 operations category members and since then it has concluded a fringe benefit agreement covering all civil servants. The current bargaining is for a working conditions contract for all civil servants.

Chief CSAO negotiator Andrew Todd said no decision has been reached on whether to seek a strike vote or to go to voluntary arbitration.

Aid Veterans

OTTAWA (CP) — Veterans Affairs Minister Dan MacDonald announced a three-part program Tuesday designed to assist veterans obtain housing.

Policeman Quits

TORONTO (CP) — Sgt. James Bragg has left the Metropolitan Toronto police force because he was put back in uniform for two-man patrol duty.

"This is the way they treat a man 54 years of age who has served 27 years without a mark against him," the fraud squad officer said in an interview following his resignation.

Rail Traffic Poor

OTTAWA (CP) — Officials say the recent downturn in rail freight traffic is likely to continue for months. "At the moment, the year looks considerably bleaker than we had anticipated at the time we made our projections in late fall last year," CP Rail president F. S. Burbridge said in an interview. Freight business could well finish below 1974 traffic levels. John Spicer, an assistant vice-president of Canadian National Railways, said freight probably will be less than the 3.5 per cent increase forecast earlier.

Minimum Wage to Rise

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal minimum wage will be raised to $2.60 an hour July 23 from the current rate of $2.20, Labor Minister John Munro announced Wednesday. He said the increase, affecting about 500,000 workers across the country, will put the federal minimum wage above any yet adopted by the provinces.

DREE Funds Small

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario is getting "zilch" from the federal governments department of regional economic expansion (DREE) in comparison to funds being received by other provinces, Darcy McKeough, provincial treasurer, said Wednesday.

Speedy Trial Expected

RIYADH (AP) — A speedy trial and public execution is expected for the Saudi Arabian prince accused of assassinating his uncle, King Faisal. Saudi informants said the accused killer, Prince Faisal Ibn Musaed, 27, was being questioned. Although the official radio announcement of Faisal's murder Tuesday said the prince was mentally deranged, the editor of the Caiyo newspaper Al Akhbar says doctors found him sane, and the authorities had decided to try him.

EDMONTON (CP) — Premier Peter Lougheed's Progressive Conservatives, who had called on residents to "vote for Alberta," received an overwhelming mandate in Wednesday's provincial election.

They captured all except six of the 75 legislature seats, almost eliminating the once-mighty Social Credit Party that had ruled Alberta for 36 consecutive years until 1971.

Final standing:	1975	1971
PC	69	49
SC	4	25
NP	1	1
Ind-SC	1	-
TOTAL	75	75

Two of the opposition leaders—Werner Schmidt of Social Credit and Nick Taylor of the Liberals—were defeated. Grant Notley, leader of the New Democratic Party, barely managed a victory.

It was a re-election victory beyond the wildest dreams of many Conservative candidates.

Mr. Lougheed had said he would consider a one-seat gain to 50 a strong mandate to negotiate higher oil prices at a national energy conference in Ottawa April 10.

Instead, he gained 20 seats, all of them from Social Credit who had held 24 seats at dissolution of the last legislature.

The premier said he would be at his desk today pondering the the makeup of his new cabinet. He has all except two members of his old cabinet to choose among. The missing two had not sought re-election.

Mr. Lougheed, who said he will not put any cabinet minister back in the same portfolio; told reporters he wants to have his new cabinet named by next week and sworn in before the national energy conference.

The devastating landslide was not expected to make any significant change in the federal positions on oil prices and resource taxation which Mr. Lougheed opposes.

For Social Credit, the election result meant acceleration of the downhill slide that started when Mr. Lougheed's forces gained their 1971 upset.

The party was unable to rebuild after its defeat. It was reported to be wracked by internal dissent, leadership problems and an uneasy truce between supporters of Mr. Schmidt and those said to favor a more reformist approach.

Mr. Schmidt, making his third unsuccessful try at election to the legislature in four years, was defeated in the rural riding of Taber-Warner by Conservative Bob Bogle, a schoolteacher.

The party is expected to be led in the legislature once again by Bob Clark, house leader before dissolution, considered to be the leader of the party's reformist wing.

Mr. Clark and Walter Buck, who won re-election for Social Credit in Clover Bar, both conducted election campaigns mostly separate from the main Social Credit drive and did not seek help from Mr. Schmidt.

Mr. Schmidt, a 42-year-old former educationist, said his future as party leader will be settled by a meeting of the Alberta Social Credit League. No date had been set for such a meeting.

He said that if the election result means principle has given way to political opportunism and the personality cult, "then Alberta is in a sad state."

He added that he still regards Social Credit to be strong.

"The principles we have stood upon are as firm today as the first day they were enunciated."

Mr. Schmidt lists among his principles the need for morality in politics and respect for the sanctity of the family.

The only leader of an opposition party to gain election was the 36-year-old Mr. Notley, a self-described "professional politician" who again will be the only representative of the NDP in the legislature. He first won election in 1971.

Mr. Taylor, 47 leader of the Liberal party which has not held a legislature seat since 1969, was defeated in Calgary Glenmore and not one of the 46 Liberal candidates even came close to winning.

Premier Lougheed did not see the near-decimation of the opposition as a threat to the parliamentary process.

"This is what democracy is all about," said the 46-year-old premier who recalled that he once led an opposition of only six members.

He said the size of the opposition didn't mater so much.

"It depends on how effective the opposition is."

Workers Ratify PSAC Contract

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal blue collar workers have ratified a tentative contract agreement by a slim 54 per cent majority, the Public Service Alliance of Canada (PSAC), said today.

The vote was 4,927 for, 4,171 against.

The ratification of the settlement worked out last week means a threat of renewal of widespread selective strikes is over.

The tentative agreement will provide the 18,600 members of the general labor and trades group with pay raises totalling 29.25 per cent over 26 months. Average hourly wage now is $4.42.

Claude Edwards, alliance president, said at a news conference that the close vote reflected widespread dissatisfaction among the union members with the settlement.

Members across the country had staged selective walkouts in February and March which halted grain shipments and disrupted mail and air services.

Sign for the Times

At a time when consumers are pondering food costs, Belleville's parks department has the answer for some — garden plots on a site loaned by Albert College. Thursday the area was posted with a sign inviting applications — and college assistant headmaster Joe McKay happened along to help tap the sign in place, aided by park's worker Bob Bosma. Demand for the lots is less than expected to date. For details see first page, second section.

Belleville Statistics Show Workers Are Accident-prone

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Belleville and area is one of the most dangerous places to work in the province, The Intelligencer learned Wednesday.

Jim Dunlop, chairman of the Prince Edward Hastings chapter of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association (IAPA), said during an interview, "our region is one of the most accident-prone areas in the province" on a per capita basis.

IAPA statistics show workmen's compensation claims for the Belleville-centred region to have steadily increased since 1972.

That year 396 claims were filed. In 1973 the total jumped to 443. In 1974, 595 claims were filed.

This figure is only considered as the tip of the accident iceberg, according to IAPA staff in Belleville, who say many more accidents never result in claims because their nature does not entitle the injured worker to compensation.

Kingston area — with a work force double that of the Belleville region — had 439 accident claims in 1974 — 156 fewer than the local count.

"This marks a substantial increase in the number of accidents . . . bringing attention to the need for increased in-plant safety programs," said Dunlop, who is personnel and safety manager of Lake Ontario Cement.

In an attempt to reduce the area's accident rate, the IAPA will immediately begin a public relations campaign promoting St. John Ambulance safety courses.

Safety Oriented First Aid (SOFA) is designed to reach a large number of plant employees and it is hoped the incidence of accidents will be reduced, said Mr. Dunlop.

St. John Ambulance eastern Ontario manager, Col. John Simpson, said an "extremely high percentage of workers who have received some form of first aid training remain accident-free, both on and off the job."

He told the IAPA meeting Wednesday that the money a company spends on educating staff in safety awareness will be quickly returned through the reduction of accidents and lost time.

"Safety is profit," said Col. Simpson.

Concentrated safety programs are expected to begin in the fall.

Milk Commission Plans Price Probe

TORONTO (CP) — The Milk Commission of Ontario plans to hold a public inquiry into the rising cost of milk, Agriculture Minister William Stewart said Wednesday.

"Whatever the specific reasons for increased milk prices, the consumers in Ontario as well as those individuals connected with the milk industry, have a right to know how certain elements in the milk chain, from the cost of processing and marketing fluid milk products, trade practices, price spreads, management policies and methods of financing contribute to the final price paid for a quart of milk," Mr. Stewart told the legislature.

He added that recent milk price increases at the producer level have been reviewed by the commission and upheld.

"Indeed, the Consumers Association of Canada has supported these necessary increases to our farmers but they, along with the milk commission are concerned about what happens to milk prices once the milk has left the farm."

Mr. Stewart said that the commission, on its own initiative, will investigate pricing practices and margins, inquire into the manner the practices varied within a corporate organization and examine the manner in which these practices may vary from one province to another.

"This public inquiry will begin as soon as the necessary arrangements can be made," Mr. Stewart said.

Clemency Unlikely

OTTAWA (CP)—Dr. Henry Morgentaler, a crusader against Canada's abortion laws, probably will begin serving an 18-month prison sentence this week following a Supreme Court of Canada judgment Wednesday upholding his conviction of performing an illegal abortion.

"I go with a good conscience that I saved a few hundred women from death and maybe a few thousand women from injury, humilitaiion and stress," the 51-year-old Polish-born doctor told a Toronto news conference.

In the Commons, Justice Minister Otto Lang said he did not intend to recommend clemency for Dr. Morgentaler to the cabinet.

He told Andrew Brewin (NDP—Greenwood) that the power to review prison sentences was confined to exceptional cases.

Defence lawyer Claude Sheppard, after hearing Chief Justice Bora Laskin hand down the judgment, told reporters afterwards he believes the abortion laws will disappear from Canadian law within five years.

" . . . It will be largely because Dr. Morgentaler risked his life for his beliefs," said Mr. Sheppard.

Stanfield Annoyed By PM's Attitude

OTTAWA (CP) — Parliament adjourned Wednesay for a 10-day Easter break with Progressive Conservative MPs threatening to return hostile and unco-operative when the House reconvenes April 7.

The warnin gcame from Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield when he was turned down by the government after seeking a new assessment of economic conditions and government plans.

Prime Minister Trudeau said he will not make a statement until the federal-provincial premiers' conference April 9-10.

Mr. Stanfield called the answer totally unsatisfactory and said the government should make public any plans it may have to "deal with the very serious social and economic stresses in the country."

"Does the prime minister not realize that this attitude is bound to cause a spirit of hostility and non-co-operation in this chamber after we return?" he asked.

The final hours before adjournment were punctuated with complaints that the government is undermining parliamentary rights.

Task Force on Women's Status Urged by Loyalist President

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

Herb Young, president of Loyalist College, has called for the establishment of a permanent task force to study the status of women at the college.

In a letter read Wednesday to the ad hoc committee formed about a month ago to set guidelines for a women's status study, Mr. Young requested suggestions on task force composition and duties.

He said he hoped the task force study can be implemented by the beginning of the fall semester.

Committee member Graham Spragg outlined his proposed task force which would be composed of nine members including a chairman, four students, two teachers and two persons from the college's administration and support staff.

He said the students would represent full-time, retraining and extension students, the teachers would represent both full and part-time instructors and the third group would take care of administration, clerical, maintenance, technical and technology problems.

A fact sheet of study concerns was presented to the sparsely-attended meeting of about 25 people, submitted by ad hoc committee members.

Those concerns included day care centres, equal pay for equal work, job "ghettoization", establishment of a centre for rape victims, counselling of women students on job and educational opportunities, investigation of college women's education programs, discrimination, teacher-employer attitudes and abortion.

Ad hoc vice-chairman Lana Robinsion noted the complexity of the issue. "The greatest problem about doing this is the enormity of the problem," she commented. "Where do we start?"

Committee member Marilyn Smith suggested the task force expand into the community, with perhaps the creation of a women's centre.

"I would really like to see some consciousness-raising groups," she said. Attitudes towards women in the Quinte area "are appalling", she remarked.

Fate of OFY Applications Expected by Next Month

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — By the end of April, students across Canada will know if their requests for Opportunity For Youth (OFY) grants for summer community projects will be approved.

Manpower and Immigration Minister Robert Andras is expected to announce the disposal of $27.5 million in federal government money — $8-million in Ontario — in late spring.

Upon his word hangs the fate of 42 OFY applications now filed with the ministry from students in Hastings County. Of these, two are from Trenton and by far the largest number, 13, from Belleville.

Hastings County OFY project officer Hulene Montgomery said Wednesday a total of 205 students have banded together to create the 42 proects.

In Trenton, one project will look at the recreational and social service needs of CFB Trenton personnel. The other will provide leadership training for 11- to 18-year-olds in a recreational setting.

By comparison, in Belleville, project applications indicate aims ranging from a study of local labor history to a study of the Tibetan presence in the city.

In Hastings, Trenton is among municipalities that have generated the fewest projects. Belleville, with 13, leads the list and is followed by Bancroft (5), Stirling (4), and Maynooth, and Tweed with three each.

In Northumberland County, Cobourg takes the lead with seven of the 31 grant applications filed in Peterborough OFY offices. Brighton village has generated three with Carrying Place and Colborne one each.

OFY officer Barry George said Wednesday all 31 projects in Northumberland would need $192,000 to fund, far above the approximate $70,000 available for use to the county.

Hastings officer Ms. Monvolvement by project officers, tgomery said the county-wide demand is for $250,246, but she declined to reveal what money is available. The allocation is still not firm.

"It would be safe to say we will be able to fund a third of the projects," she said. "I think it's a good idea, given that one in three will be approved, that people should be looking for other jobs to protect themselves."

OFY projects are geared to providing jobs to primarily post-secondary students who will need the money to return to school in the fall.

Applicants for grants must be between the ages of 16 to 25.

Each application must stress the community service and the social benefit each project hopes to provide. All are run, with minimal involvement by proect officers, by the project participants.

Ms. Montgomery who has worked with OFY projects for three years, said the applications this year have generally been well documented and well researched.

Province Approves Grant For Health Unit Office

PICTON — The ministry of health has approved a grant covering two-thirds of the purchase price of the former Hastings County Board of Education building on Bridge Street in Belleville for use by the Prince Edward-Hastings Counties Health Unit.

The announcement of the grant was made Wednesday from the Queen's Park office of James Taylor, MLA Prince Edward-Lennox.

Cost of the building is $110,000, with the government grant contributing $73,333 towards its purchase.

The balance of the purchase price will be met by the municipalities in Hastings and Prince Edward counties.

Shouldering the Job

Trenton works department crews shoulder pipes from a truck in the middle of work laying sewer and sanitary mains on Elgin St. Wednesday. The 12-inch pipe is being laid down Elgin from Front to King Sts. and is part of a downtown project that will see Middle and Murphy Sts. also reconstructed.

WAUPOOS — A Picton motorist and his passenger escaped injury Wednesday night after their car went out of control on County Rd. 13 striking two trees.

Richard Kerr, 19, of Bridge St., Picton, was driving downhill, lost control of his car, struck 40 feet of rail fencing, then entered the ditch striking the two trees.

Damage to the car was estimated by police at $1,200. The accident occurred at 11.30 p.m.

Glimpse of the Past

Dolls Not Child's Play For Antique Collector

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

LAKE - ON - THE - MOUNTAIN — The Doctor Welby of the doll set, Heather Wilson of Lake-On-The-Mountain has developed surgical techniques to restore Toyland amputees as collectors' items

Miss Wilson, a legal researcher for a Trenton lawyer, spends her spare time collecting and mending old dolls to complete a display for exhibition in the Quinte area.

Her interest in antique dolls began when she discovered an exhibitions of them in Toronto.

The display was owned by a Toronto collector Elsa Harvey who later employed Miss Wilson to dress her huge family of dolls.

In addition to serving as wardrobe mistress, Miss Wilson learned how to repair broken dolls. Several years later she moved to Prince Edward County where she has begun a search for antique and old dolls.

Now a collector in her own right, she plans to groups a doll display for exhibition in the Quinte area.

"I look for anything different," says the young collector describing her search for dolls of yester year.

Spare parts are particularly welcome as they can be used in repair work.

Miss Wilson observed the values of the dolls vary with age, condition and whether or not they were mass produced.

"A lot of people who call me feel their doll is priceless if its 50 years old — but it isn't if there are parts missing or it was mass produced " she commented.

The oldest doll in her collection dates to 1860 while another was made in 1870.

Miss Wilson noted some old dolls may sell as cheaply as $25, while other such as a Jumeau doll, in perfect condition, may bring up to $700 from a collector.

When Miss Wilson buys a doll she learns as much as possible about its history and records the information for display.

"I wanted to do this for the area," remarked Miss Wilson referring to her extensive search for antique and old dolls.

She said Prince Edward County's museums close in the winter months and there is little of "beauty and show" for public enjoyment.

In addition to her doll collection she is planning construction of a 36 room 16th century Tudor Elizabethan house — doll-size, of course.

The doll's house, to be complete with plug-in fire place will feature a collection of miniature furniture pieces gathered by Miss Wilson during the past 15 years.

In her search for new dolls and doll parts Miss Wilson has begun to advertise steadily in Prince Edward County and can be reached in Picton at 476-2494 after 6 p.m.

She is primarily interested in dolls 50 years old and older and in doll parts.

Bylaws Approved

AMELIASBURG — As a move to encourage better living in the township, council has approved three bylaws to take affect immediately.

Under a new regulation home and cottage builders must obtain a permit to install plumbing and also to make alterations to existing plumbing systems.

Henceforth, parking vehicles on roadways in the township is prohibited as a measure to eliminate obstructions particularly during snow removal operations.

In the future it will be unlawful to keep livestock in residential areas in accordance with the new municipal ordinance.

Bus drivers are authorized to redeem full strips of tickets. Anyone having more or less than a full strip of tickets may secure a refund at the Commission's Office, 400 Coleman Street, Monday to Friday, 8 a.m. - 5 p.m.
Since 1970 a total of 20 Transit Operations across Canada have changed to an Exact fare System. One of the main reasons for this change is for the protection of Bus Drivers. The recent events in Toronto involving the murder of one Taxi Driver and the robbery of a second at knife point certainly points out the dangers involved.
Each passenger will be expected to have the exact fare ready when they board the bus. If you are unable to have the exact fare, please board the bus and discuss the problem with the bus driver. He will be happy to assist you to the best of his ability. Quite often another passenger on the bus may be able to make change for you etc.
The Commission and its Employees intend to make every effort to assure you that no one is refused a ride and in return we are respectfully requesting the full co-operation of our passengers.

Senator Forsey Looks Back at CCF…

And Columnist Unearths a Quote by P.M. On the Ravages of Inflation

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Remember when Liberal Senator Eugene Forsey, former national research director for the Canadian Labor Congress, was a Very Big Man in the old CCF, Cooperative Commonwealth Federation which became the NDP (New Democarlic Party)?

He was big enough in the CCF, recounts his brief biography in the Parliamentary Guide, that he ran for the socialists in both Ontario provincial and federal elections.

He took three lickings, two of them at the hands of George Drew, who retired as Ontario Tory Premier to contest and win, first a byelection, then a general election, for the Eastern Ontario riding of Carleton, as federal Conservative leader.

Ever wonder why Eugene Forsey, former leading socialist light, turned Grit, and later went to his political reward in the Senate?

He tells it himself in a letter to the prestigeous British news magazine, The Economist:

Sir: It is ironic that you should call the New Democratic Party the "National Democratic Party."

For the party has, from the beginning, carefully eschewed the word "national."

In its final draft constitution, the word "national" occurred 76 times.

The founding convention struck it out at the behest of French-Canadian extremists.

I know. I was there, watched the performance, vainly attempted to stop it, and left the party as a result.

I may add that the sop to the "two nations" theorists deservedly failed to win so much as a single seat in French Canada. Yours faithfully, Eugene Forsey, The Senate, Ottawa.

(Nor has it won a seat since.)

Came across, in an old clipping, a statement borrowed from economist John Maynard Keynes by Pierre Elliott Trudeau before he became Prime Minister.

It reads:

"Governments, by a continuing process of inflation, can confiscate, secretly, or unobserved, an important part of the wealth of their citizens.

"The process engages all the hidden forces of economic law on the side of destruction, and does it in a manner which not one man in a million is able to diagnose."

How about that, and from a young political activist who was to become the Great Inflator of all Canadian Prime Ministers.

From Philip Saville of 515 Foul Bay Road, Victoria, B.C., to U.S. Ambassador Adolph W. Schmidt at 100 Wellington Street, Ottawa, has come the following tick-off:

Your Excellency; I regret I must bring to your attention an incident on Channel 7 from Seattle in a program entitled 'Magazine,' featuring 'Margaret Trudeau, First Lady of Canada.'

The use of the term 'First Lady of Canada' is wrong, quite false, and I protest in the strongest terms.

The person featured in the program is not the 'First Lady' — there is only one 'First Lady,' wife of the Governor General — there is, of course, no 'Second' or even 'Third Lady.'

Would you please be good enough to request your government at Washington to instruct the broadcasting company to televise an apology to the people of Canada, regretting its action and assuring us all that it will not offend again with such an affront.

And that was that.

Cheers for Philip Saville and his friends along Foul Bay Road.

He adds a blazing PS:

"Be vigilant!

"Watch for usurpers!"

Former External Affairs Minister and now Government House Leader Mitchell Sharp has joined the political moonlighters, with a column "Parliament Hill by the President of the Privy Council" for an undisclosed number of Canadian weeklies.

Catch is, he let the cat out of the bag in the Commons, he doesn't write it.

He only "edits material provided by the National Office of the Liberal Party," he confesses in an answer to a question filed in the House.

Bancroft Carries On

With controversy and doubt surrounding the re-opening of the Faraday uranium mine, the bustling hamlet of Bancroft goes about its business as usual.

The community attitude of cautious optimism is summed up in the person of Del Wilson, the man who lived on Faraday property as mine manager in 1964 when it closed ,and who now is back on the site supervising some face-lifting of the premises that he expects will open as Madawaska Mines to fill an Italian contract.

"I think Mr. Ellis (Hastings MP Jack) has all the reason in the world to be optimistic," Mr. Wilson says calmly, re-arranging some dusty filing cabinets in the gatehouse to the once booming Faraday site.

Noting that "everybody wants uranium now" with other energy resources either being depleted or price-inflated, he can recall when "they were giving the ore away for $4 a pound," about the time the Fraday closing put 250 employees out of work.

"It's selling for $20 a pound today," says Del Wilson, adding that only a "political hitch" in Ottawa is holding up the official go-ahead for Bancroft production.

That "hitch" came in the form of some doubts in the office of Industry, Trade and Commerce Minister Alastair Gillespie concerning the Canadian government's insistence on reserve clauses normally requiring uranium mines to set aside about 30 per cent of their production for domestic use.

Mr. Ellis, Energy Minister Donald MacDonald, and the 2400 people of Bancroft are waiting for what Mr. Wilson feels will be the inevitable — an easing of the reserve clause restriction to allow Madawaska to get into 300-man production by next year to begin filling the proposed six-year contract with Italy for a million pounds of ore per year.

When the second boom hits Bancroft, its residents will be better prepared than they were for the first in the fifties.

The village has a booming year-round tourist industry, with snowmobiles now getting to cottages that used to only be inhabited during summer months. There are also a number of provincial government ministry area offices to help diversify the community economy.

Bancroft has done a lot of growing-up since 1964. More uranium mining will always help, and likely never again hurt the scenic little North Hastings village.

Early Start for NDP

Carson McLaughlan is actively campaigning for an election that hasn't even been called yet, but the Quinte riding's New Democratic Party candidate deserves credit for at least making voters aware that there likely will be one before the year is out.

Mr. McLaughlan's chances of unseating incumbent Dr. Richard Potter — if the Minister of Correctional Services choose to run again — or of even polling more votes than the as yet unchosen Liberal candidate are slim, judging by past political circumstances in any Belleville-centred riding.

But, with campaign manager and long-time NDP stalwart Ian Reilly at his side, Mr. McLaughlan has been mainstreeting his party's message throughout the city.

Hopefully this early sign of political activity augurs well for a campaign of considerably more widespread interest than was generated by the December municipal election.

Meanwhile, at Queen's Park, Robert Nixon's Liberals seem content to lie back and hope the pollsters are right—that they are for the first time in years leading the entrenched Tories in public popularity in a province disturbed by teachers' strikes and mail muddles, to go with everybody's everyday inflationery headaches.

But it will take more than public opinion forecasts to topple William Davis and Co. The Big Blue Machine not only is in the habit of getting things done, but it's also not shy about telling the taxpayers about it. Thus an auditor-general's report estimating provincial government advertising at some $200 million for fiscal 1974.

Such strategic political ploys as the roving cabinet sessions — like the one held in Belleville in February — are also the best possible public relations.

No, Robert Nixon needs more than pollsters to switch benches with Bill Davis when the expected call to the polls comes.

Pro Circuit Tough Going

There is no escape, is there, from the treadmill? It gets to everyone in the end.

Or so it would seem, in a manner that may afford some comfort to every overworked professional man who earns his living by the sweat of his brow.

Golfer Bert Yancey is back on the pro tour, but has played only a few tournaments thus far this season. Yancey was hospitalized in Japan last winter for "nervous exhaustion."

So you thought the pro golf tour would be a nice way to make a living?

Parkland

NAPANEE BEAVER

Announcements made recently by the Cataraqui Region Conservation Authority, Hon. Leo Bernier, Ontario Minister of Natural Resources, and Dr. W. J. Nuttall, of Kingston, MLA for Frontenac-Addington, that Le-Moines Park near Kingston will be acquired for public use, is a giant step in what has been a gradual development of a parkland program for this part of Ontario. Perhaps it is a foretaste of things to come for that part of the region to the west, in Lennox and Addington County.

Politics of Northland Transport

By DON O'HEARN

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — Sweet mysteries of life. They are always present in politics.

The most recent one we have here is that Jim Jessiman of Fort William resigned as president of the Ontario Northland Transportation Commission.

Just what does this mean.

When government makes moves like this it doesn't give explanations—no real one.

So the guessers first, second and third have been having their think day ever since.

There are various explanations that quickly come to mind: all of them political.

One is that Mr. Jessiman, after last year's investigation into the ONTC was found wanting.

A second is that Ed Havrot PC member for the riding of Temiskaming (the centre of the ONTC) is in trouble and needs bolstering.

A third is that Mr. Havrot is in trouble and by moving him side-ways the party can make room for a more promising candidate.

The fourth is that the government just wanted to step up the ONTC.

Personally I am not going to call any shots.

There was a rumor dating back to last fall that Mr. Jessiman would be asked to retire.

This was after the rather silly investigation into the ONTC, which showed it was sloppily run but hardly venal.

Then it is agreed that Mr. Havrot is probably in political trouble.

Temiskaming is a three-way riding, based on Kirkland Lake.

All three parties have held it recently.

And the present PC member hasn't been able to get his pet present project, Maple Mountain, off the ground.

Appointmentship to the ONTC does give him prestige which might carry him through.

At the same time Mr. Jessiman doesn't need this prestige in his riding of Fort William, there he tends to be strong.

If the PC's, needing every seat, as they do, intend to sacrifice Mr. Havrot, they do without loss of dignity by giving Mr. Havrot an important job.

Finally, if they decide the ONTC needs a full over-hauling this obviously will wait until after an election.

In the meantime by switching commissioners they have given public notice they are aware of the problem.

U.S. Money Backs Our Small-town Affluence

By JOHN D. HARBRON

BARRIE, Ont. — This prosperous small city 50 miles north of Toronto, with many of its affluent citizens far away from home in Florida and California at the time of their city's famous Winter Festival, is proud of its British origins.

This is true even though its prosperity and those American holidays are paid for from salaries earned in this community's approximately 30 U.S.-owned branch plants.

Its name is that of a Scottish town. It was built on Lake Simcoe, a tourist's lake named for the first British governor of Upper Canada. Many of its first settlers were United Empire Loyalists, Americans loyal to the Crown who fled into the harsh countryside of Upper Canada rather than accept republicanism.

Barrie and its growing array of American branch plants is spread half-moon fashion around Kempenfelt Bay, named after a distinguished British admiral of the warlike Eighteenth Century.

Whenever he fought the French at sea he always beat them. And there's more than a hint from the citizens of Barrie that the "French fact" isn't for them in the Twentieth.

Barrie consistently returns an elderly doctor as their Conservative member of Parliament. Trudeaumania wasn't and isn't for them. As for bilingualism, well, let's just forget it.

The hard economic fact of Barrie's recent history is that it could not afford to perpetuate such ancient concepts of WASP superiority without the postwar inroads of American capital and establishment of new U.S. branch plants.

In late 1945, the year the war ended, Barrie looked like a dying town. It was trying to survive on a depleting Canadian army base, seasonal tourism, railway services and a declining family-run tannery.

Then, in 1946 General Electric built a plant for manufacturing fractional horsepower motors. Since then, a stream of American firms have built plants here and prospered, Barrie along with it.

During the late 1950s such well-known U.S. multi-national corporatoins as de Vilbiss, Mansfield Rubber and West Bend Aluminum Products built plants in Barrie.

And in the mid-1960s, the proud city fathers and local chamber of commerce produced the buoyant statistic that for every 100 jobs created by the new plants, they also brought in 400 new citizens, the reason for a continuous real estate and housing boom to go along with the industrial one.

Willard Kinzie, ex-mayor, a self-made businessman and one of Barrie's most distinguished citizens, even reversed the his dairy business to Beatrice Foods Company of Chicago, a $2 billion American dairy products multi-national company.

In the 30 years since the Second World War, Barrie has grown from 6,000 uneasy citizens to 30,000 optimistic ones. There are occasional local twinges of fear that if times get worse the far-off but still all-powerful American head office will suddenly close down a plant in this far-off Canadian town.

Such sudden branch plant closings happen all the time in Latin America, Asia, even in America itself, so why not in Canada too?

At the same time in small Canadian cities, Barrie included, there is very little of the stri- the luxury of Canada's big cities with their college campuses of leftwing, tenured academics.

And besides, it's hard to knock the U.S. boss when his local plant is just around the corner in a small city and the manager may be a fellow Rotarian or Kiwanian.

Most citizens in small-town English Canada have the best of two worlds, a proud English-dominated history in which they can indulge nostalgically, an affluent American-dominated present in which they live. It's the paradox in late Twentieth Century Canadian nationalism.

Soft Water and Health

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

We have noted with interest the article from the Universal Inquirer on your March 11, 1975, editorial page captioned "Soft Water Link in Heart Attacks According to British Scientist". We had previously noted your own editorial on March 7, 1975, obviously quoting from and commenting on this same article.

We agree that a number of statistical studies have indicated a correlation between water hardness and total dissolved solids and cardiovascular mortality. However, the article fails to mention that several studies have indicated an opposite correlation or have found no correlation.

A case in point is a recent study in the Los Angeles area and which appeared in the October 12, 1974 issue of the British Medical Journal, The Lancet, entitled "Mortality and Water-Hardness". The authors of this study concluded: "In summary, our study does not support the hypothesis that mortality from cardiovascular diseases and infant and neonatal mortality are related inversely to hardness of drinking water."

We have only recently learned that the Lancet has published another article on mortality and water hardness showing Australian experience supports the Los Angeles study of three matched communities.

Naturally soft water and softened water are not synonymous and the assumption that they are is completely misleading and erroneous. Unfortunately the studies use the common terms "hard" and "soft" to describe water supplies which for purposes of the studies would be more appropriately described as being either high or low in mineral content. Thus, our industry is being harmed not only by unproven statistical studies which usually receive wide publication in the press, but unfortunately we are being judged guilty by association as the result of misuse and ambiguity in terminology.

Old Records Describe Early School Operation

MARMORA — Two collections of old records describing operations of the eight one-room schools that served Marmora Township have come to light after a recent request by the Hastings County Board of Education for historical information.

One of the collections, stored for many years in the vault of the Marmora and Lake Townships office, has been transferred temporarily to Earl Prentice School.

The collection is in the hands of Mrs. Gladys Leonard, secretary-treasurer of the Marmora Township Public School Board for 25 years, from 1942 to 1967.

The records, in Mrs. Leonard's handwriting, give an insight into operation of the schools on a tight budget.

For instance, tenders for supplying wood for the schools were awarded at $9 a cord for hardwood and cedar. Most of the schools required five cords to see them through the winter. Caretakers were responsible for getting fires lit an hour before school opened and for all other cleaning and maintenance chores around the schools. For this they received from $35 to $80 a year.

By 1964 all the schools had been sold at prices ranging from $200 to $1,000.

Bancroft Library Gets Art Books on Loan

BANCROFT — Regular visitors to the Bancroft Municipal Library are being invited by the staff to enjoy the delight of more than 75 new art books that are on the shelves.

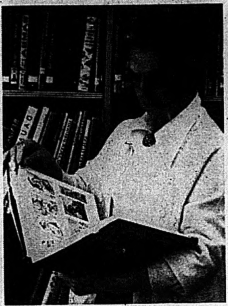
The books, which librarian Bonnie Murdock says are, "having a tremendous reception from readers," are on six-month loan from the Lake Ontario Regional Library in Kingston.

Included in the display of richly — illustrated volumes are books that run the full gamut of artistic expression.

The selection awaiting Bancroft readers includes great artists, Greek ,Mexican, and other national artistic expression, art in the theatre, primitive art and many other facets of the field of art.

Mrs. Murdock, who enjoys scupture as a hobby says she is particularly pleased with the selection of books dealing with sculpture and ceramics.

The books are available at no charge to residents of the village and for a nominal charge to residents of surrounding townships.



New Arrivals

Librarian Bonnie Murdock spends a quiet moment looking at one of the 75 vplumes on art that are presently available through the Bancroft Municipal Library. The books, which are on loan from the Lake Ontario Regional Library will be in Bancroft for about six months.

Glass Blower Switches To Career in Ceramics

..By CHRIS ALMEY
.Staff Correspondent

STIRLING — Pearl Rose's first love is glass blowing. At the time she learned the art, she and another female student were the only two students in England who graduated, and she knows of no other women who did this craft.

Pearl graduated in 1950 after eight years of a study which saw her awarded with ARCA (Associate of Royal College of Art).

She did not pursue glass-blowing as a career, she explained in an interview at her studio on Front St., in Stirling, since she got married, came to Canada, and was busy raising a family.

"Glass blowing is a boys' thing," Pearl added. "There are few lady glass blowers in the world. Our instructor used to strip down to his shorts with the boys, but he wore his waistcoat when he taught us."

There are no facilities in Canada for Pearl to make glass, and she said she doesn't feel she could afford the equipment. She also said she physically couldn't make glass now. She said it takes a lot of strength to lift the blow iron and work in the intense heat of the furnace.

One thing Pearl does make is ceramics. She has two kilns and a potter's wheel in her Stirling studio. She also teaches ceramics at Loyalist College.

The Pearl Rose studio opened in Stirling 2½-years ago. She taught 24 students under an extension program here in afternoon and evening classes, but her activities at Loyalist keep her busy there now. Now her studio is like a drop-in centre for her former students. Pearl has two former students working part-time for her.

Vi Peel, RR3, Frankford, and Flo Gainforth, Stirling, turn out molded items which Pearl says that although they are mass produced in a sense, they are still individual items, normally with names on them.

"I thought I would phase out the molded work, but there is a big demand for it. That's why I have Vi and Flo here. I would like to get a government grant, then I could have a place where young people could come," Pearl said.

Read your Tax Guide.
It will tell you what's new.

This year the Federal Government has included many new tax benefits that are important to you because they could save you money.

Your federal income Tax Guide explains them thoroughly.

It's a good idea, by the way, to read your Tax Guide carefully a day or two before tackling your income tax form. That way you familiarize yourself with the Guide and you'll have a better understanding of how it relates to your tax form.

Let's take the Interest Income Deduction as an example. This year for the first time, if you received and have reported on your income tax form interest income from many legitimate Canadian sources, including bank deposits, bonds, mortgages and notes, you are allowed to claim as a deduction the total of the amounts up to $1,000.

It's as simple as that. Your Tax Guide explains it in detail. Check Item 35.

Increased Personal Exemptions is another item changed from last year. All it means is that the Federal Government has increased your personal exemptions to coincide with the rise in the Consumer Price Index. The new personal exemptions are printed on your income tax form. Guide Item 41 tells you more about it.

Remember to check the other items listed in the Tax Guide which may entitle you to claim deductions, such as Child Care Expenses. Guide Item 33 tells you all about that one. And you may be entitled to deduct your Moving Expenses if you moved during 1974 to earn income in a new location in Canada. Check Item 34B carefully for the details.

Two other deductions, Tuition Fees, which can only be claimed by the student, and the Education Deduction are fully explained in Guide Items 32 and 47B.

Well, those are just some of the areas where it pays to follow your Tax Guide and, of course, there are others. The Federal Political Contribution Tax Credit is new as well. Guide Item 52H will tell you all about that one. This year, Family Allowance Payments are income and have to be declared as such. Check Item 7.

And don't forget, it you have contributed to a Registered Retirement Savings Plan, be sure to include your receipt and deduct the allowable amount. Guide Item 29 explains it in detail.

Use your Tax Guide and fill in your tax form carefully, step by step. You'll find it's not as difficult as you think.

If you should have difficulties, however, District Taxation Office addresses and telephone numbers are listed on the back page of your Guide. There you will find the help you need.

Tax Guide '74. How long has it been since you've read a really good book?

We're making it easier to understand.

In Case of Divorce Save Your Receipts

A smart married woman is one who is always prepared for the possibility of divorce.

That seemed to be the gist of a speech by Laura Sabia, chairman of the Ontario Status of Women Council, given Tuesday evening to the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce.

Extreme as this approach sounds, it may be the only way women can leave an unhappy marriage with their fair share of the marital property.

Mrs. Sabia referred to the now-existing law that states unless a wife has made payments on a house with her own money, having her name on the deed will make no difference in the event of divorce or separation.

In the event of divorce, the courts are obliged to trace the ownership of property to the spouse who was the source of the funds with which it was purchased. This sounds fair. But in fact it is anything but fair, especially to divorcing couples where both husband and wife have earned income to support their family.

Where the earnings of one spouse have been used to pay for property (mortgage payments, etc.) and the earnings of the other have been used for consumable items such as food, clothing, holidays, it is the wife who loses out most often.

Because of the limitations on credit available to married women, and the less-certain continuity of married women's income, it is usually the husband's income that is used for large charge-account purchases or car and mortgage payments.

It is legally immaterial to the question of who owns property that a wife's earnings have taken up enough of the slack in a family budget to allow a husband to be able to make payments on property.

The law does not look at the total picture of family finances, but only at who pays for what. This can work both ways, so that it is not always the wife at a disadvantage. But more often than not she is.

What Mrs. Sabia recommends, until the laws are changed, is that wives who do bring income to the family budget should insist on paying all or part of the mortgage payments on their home, and let the husband pay for the other essentials. In this way, she has some legal leverage, proof that she does actually own half the property.

"Keep your mortgage receipts," she advises, "so that on the day of dissolution of the marriage you'll get that portion of what you paid for."

It's a peculiar notion in a way. For how many of us can admit that we think our marriages are going to fail? How many of us could prepare for the possibility of divorce without feeling that we might somehow be causing it to happen by considering it?

The provincial government is being asked to change the laws to make matrimonial homes shared by both parties. The change, bound to come eventually, will end the present inequalities, that affect both women who work outside the home and those who work as housewives.

"Surely a woman who has worked in a home, raised a family, looked after his (the husband's) wants and needs and made it possible for him to work — surely she is entitled to half that home, whether her name is on the deed and whether she's paid for it or not," says Mrs. Sabia.

Do you agree?

BAY OF QUINTE NSA

The Bay of Quinte Chapter National Secretaries' Association, held its regular meeting at the Sun Luck Gardens on March 18.

Joyce Brownlee, Canadian Division Treasurer was there to explain her job as a Canadian Division Officer and to answer any queries we might have.

Mrs. Brownlee, although currently residing in Toronto, was born in Belleville and educated at Belleville Collegiate Institute. She has 28 years experience as an executive secretary in industry, banking, finance, legal and retailing. For the past seven years she has owned her own business "Perfect Secretaries Services" and has rendered secretarial services to clients as a public stenographer.

Mrs. Brownlee has been a member of NSA for the past 15 years. In 1973 she was voted Canadian Division Board Secretary and in 1974 became Canadian Division Board Treasurer.

The April 5 Seminar called "Please! Listen" will be held at Centennial Secondary School, to which business people of the Quinte area are invited.

MARMORA W I

A Tea and Bake Sale sponsored by the members of Marmora Women's Institute coincided with the official arrival of Spring.

The president, Maud Carman, and Marie O'Neill were in charge of the bazaar table and the bake table was looked after by Eva Post, Mabel Nayler and Evelyn Murphy.

In charge of preparing and serving guests in the tearoom were Ethel Nobes, Mary Hickey, Verna Neal, Ellemore Barker and Eileen Demorest.

The tea tables were decorated with floral centrepieces donated by Suzanne's Flower Shop.

Tickets were sold on a cake made to resemble a spring lamb donated by [illegible] Empey, won by Tammy Corrigan of Deloro.

The event raised $90, which will be used for various Institute projects.

Dianne Hews, Ski Instructor

Having just returned from a skiing holiday in Aspen, Colorado, Dianne Hews is more enthusiastic than ever about her favorite winter sport.

Mrs. Hews, who works as a medical laboratory technologist at Trenton Memorial Hospital is also a professionally qualified ski instructor. She received her ASI rating (Assistant Ski Instructor) a year ago in Germany.

Stationed with her husband Don at the Canadian Forces Base in Lahr, Mrs. Hews was unable to find a hospital job. Instead, she volunteered to teach skiing to military personnel at the Brigade Ski School.

The school was organized by Canadian forces, to give ski instruction as part of a recreation and keep fit program.

"Many of the 70 skiers in each week-long course were beginners," recalls Mrs. Hews. "A lot were office workers who were in need of some outdoor exercise.

"We'd start off with basic positions and demonstrations — all the instructors at the school were given a course in approved Canadian skiing techniques beforehand — and as each week passed, we'd see people getting better and more confident.

"I really like teaching skiing though I'm not sure I'd be good at teaching anything else. But with this, you can show someone what you mean, and that makes it so much easier."

Since moving to Trenton, Mrs. Hews has found a twice-weekly job teaching skiing to both young people and adults, 70 miles away in Bethany.

"There's night skiing up there, and I've enjoyed going up there after work," she says.

"I guess what I like about this sport is what everyone else does too. It's challenging, and exhilarating, and you can keep improving. On this visit to Aspen for example, I tried slopes I didn't dare to ski a few years ago.

"I like the way you clear your mind while you're skiing. Its refreshing because you just can't think of anything else."

A GREEK RECIPE

"The discovery of a new dish does more for human happiness than the discovery of a new star". — Brillat-Savarin.

* * *

Here in Belleville an annual dinner-meeting of the local Women's University Club was held for the first time at the Greek Orothodox Church.

The ladies of the church prepared and served a delectable Greek dinner. The menu included Stuffed Grape Leaves which drew smiles of enjoyment and expressions of delight and appreciation from everyone.

The following is a family recipe for Stuffed Grape Leaves known in Greek as dolmadas which Mrs. George Zegouras, Albert Street, and member of the church, graciously shares, upon request, with our readers.

Serves four to six people:
one lb, minced beef (or lamb)
one chopped onion
two tsp. mint
salt and pepper to taste
one egg
⅓ cup of rice
one tsp. tomato paste
¼ cup mazola oil (or olive oil)
50 vine leaves (available in Belleville from Quinte Drive In Food Market, Cannifton Road).

Combine meat, rice, mint, salt, pepper, onion, egg, tomato paste, mazola oil and mix to-gether well.

Rinse and drain grape leaves. Place about one tablespoon of the meat mixture in each leaf and roll, folding over sides first so as to seal. Do not roll too tightly because the rice will expand when cooked.

Arrange dolmadas side by side and layer upon layer in a sauce pan (six quart) until all leaves and filling are used.

Invert a plate over the rolls (. to prevent them from splitting). Then add enough water to cover. Bring water to boil, cover, and cook over low heat for 45 to 50 minutes.

Serve hot with egg and lemon sauce.

Avgolemono (Egg and Lemon Sauce)
two eggs
Juice of 1 lemon (or 2 depending on taste).
Juice from cooked dolmadas (1 cup)

Beat egg-whites until light and fluffy.

Add yolks, continue beating add lemon juice, continue beating and carefully add juice from dolmadas. Continue beating so that eggs will not curdle.

Pour sauce over dolmadas and serve at once.

This is an excellent recipe to have for Easter time.

Upon thanking Mrs. Zegouras for her kindness we asked if she would say a few words about the church, when we spoke with her over the telephone. She charmingly complied, saying:

"Yes, our Greek community of four hundred is proud and happy to have built our church after four or five years of making plans for it. The first sod was turned in June, 1973. The first service was held at Chirstmas time, 1973.

"This is the only Greek Orthodox Church in Belleville. Services are held in it every other Sunday, when a priest comes from Toronto to officiate. We do not have our own priest.

"The furnishings of the interior of the church, such as the chandeliers, the icons, the carved wooden screens and altar objects, are from places in Greece where such appointments are made.

"Here in the Greek community there are about a hundred families with young children. At night about fifty of the children attend a small Greek school where they are taught the Greek language, as well as Greek dances and songs".

Happy Easter Everyone!

Best Advice for Burns

Dear Ann Landers: As a surgeon who specializes in the treatment of burns I was interested in your reply to the young mother whose five-year-old had burned her hand on a hot pan. It seems granny smeared the burn with butter, then sprinkled it with salt. The young mother wondered if it wouldn't have been better to put ice on it.

Ice was once recommended as first aid for burns, but now we know that applying ice to a burned area can have serious consequences. The danger is adding possible frostbite to already-damaged tissue.

Please tell your readers the best way to treat a minor burn is to first flood the burn with cool (not ice) water, then wash with cool water and soap. As the burn heals, cleanse the area once or twice a day with soap and water; rinse thoroughly and pat dry.

Do not break blisters. They provide a sterile cover for the wound. When blisters break on their own, remove the loose skin and watch for signs of inflammation—redness, pain, heat or swelling. If they occur, see you physician or go to the nearest hospital emergency room.—Irving Feller, MD, Director of U. of Mich. Burn Care Centre

Dear Dr. Feller: Thank you for taking your valuable time to write to us. Today millions of people received advice from a top specialist without leaving their homes. And they won't get a bill!

Dear Ann Landers: I am an 18-year-old boy with a problem who is 16. Her name is not Kathy but I will call her that. Actually the problem is the girl's mother.

Kathy works part-time and makes $40 a week. She hands over nearly every dime to her mother who is supposed to be saving it for her, but I suspect she may be spending it.

Kathy and I got pre-engaged a few months ago. Everything was fine until last week when I told Kathy I would like to progress from the pre-engaged state to the engaged state. Her mother blew her lid.

Don't you think a girl of 16 is old enough to make such a decision on her own? I think Kathy's mother is running her life and I told her so.

I am in the U.S. Air Force and plan to stay in it. I'm willing to wait two years before we get married. Kathy's family says it is not fair for a girl to be tied up to one guy while she is still in high school. What do you say?—Peace Is Our Profession

Dear Peace: I say Kathy's family is right and I hope she listens to them. If your love is real, it will withstand the test of time—and dates with other young men, which I hope she will accept.

Kathy is like a worm in the jar of horseradish. She thinks it's the sweetest place in the world because it's the only place she's ever been.

Where to Get Career Information

Dear Doris: Is there any way I could find out just what an air conditioning technician has to know, and what his chances are of getting a good job and promotions?

Ambitious.

Dear Ambitious: It so happens that there is a very fine 1975 monograph on the vocation of Refrigeration and Air Condition Technician, which has been turned out by The Guidance Centre, 1000 Yonge Street, Toronto, Ontario, M4W 2K8.

They have researched the whole occupation and can give you details regarding the nature of the work, working conditions, qualifications needed, chances for advancement, remuneration, advantages and disadvantages, and how to get started towards the occupation.

Write to The Guidance Centre at the above address, asking for a copy of the monograph, enclosing 50 cents Guidance Centre now has some 200 monographs on various careers in Canada. If you want their up-to-date list, ask for that too.

Dear Doris: I wonder if you could tell me where I could get books of skits, recitations, readings, etc., both humorous and other kinds.

We put on community concerts and I like to do my part, although I am a senior citizen. I heard of one: Almost Rehearsalless Plays, by Margaret Parsons, published by Walter H. Baker; also, Funny Stunts With Music, by Baker Plays.

Could you recommend some good ones? Do you have the poem "A Pioneer Wife"? I will gladly pay whatever any good books cost.

Nellie.

Dear Nellie: You have already named two good ones yourself. Perhaps the place to look for them is in your nearest good book store or public library.

I am sending you my List of Skits and Games For All Ages, and a list of the poems we have collected here through the years, marking several of the humorous ones. Just send in 25 cents for any individual item you would like, and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

I do not have "A Pioneer Wife" among my poems. Perhaps one of our readers does and wouldn't mind sending it in. If that happens, it will go right on to you, never fear.

You Can Deduct 'Action' Stamps

OTTAWA (CP) — The purchase of so-called Olympic action stamps can put any taxpayer in the same league as the anonymous donors of Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau's swimming pool.

Both are allowable income tax deductions.

The 1976 Montreal Olympics receive no direct federal subsidies. But through a surcharge on special-issue postage stamps, there is a provision for funnelling money to the Olympic Organizing Committee (COJO).

Provided that a taxpayer buys stamps with a surcharge value of $5 or more, he can request a receipt from the Canada Post Office and claim the amount for a reduction in taxable income. It is claimed on Line 46 of the tax form, as a gift to Canada.

There were three surcharges stamps issued: an eight-cent with two cents surcharge, a 10-cent with five cents surcharge and a 15-cent with five cents extra. The first issue was made April 17 last year and a new issue was released Feb. 5 this year.

David Garmaise, manager of the post office's Olympic stamp program, says a "rough estimate" is that between $100,000 and $150,000 has been raised in surcharge so far. However, there is no telling how much of that was accounted for in $5 lots or larger, and those are the only purchases that qualify for tax deductions.

In fact, says Mr. Garmaise, sales of Olympic stamps have been "very poor." The post office is not keeping a record of how many purchasers have asked for a recept for tax purposes when they buy the Olympic stamps.

They are available at all 8,500 post office outlets. It is the first time this type of surcharge has been used, so of course it is the first time taxpayers have had this deduction.

The revenue department says it will not try to separate the amount of tax deductions claimed for Olympic action stamps from the other allowances against income for gifts to Canada or a province.

The range of items that can qualify for a gift to Canada is practically limitless, provided you can convince the tax man it's a genuine gift.

A tax official in the technical interpretations division of revenue says Prime Minister Trudeau's pool is one good example. Another might be the contribution of a valuable painting to the National Gallery of Canada.

In that case, the question of valuation can be a bit sticky. Experts would probably be called in by the gallery to decide upon a figure the taxpayer could legitimately claim as a reduction from his taxable income, a revenue official said.

Mixed Adoption:

Story of Family Nobody Wanted To Be Told in Television Special

HOLLYWOOD (Reuter) — A woman who helped pioneer the adoption of families of mixed races in the United States is to have the story of her own "little United Nations" family of 12 children told in a television special.

Helen Doss and her husband Carl raised a family which included Japanese, black, Chinese, Korean, Indian, Mexican and Filipino children while he was a poor Methodist minister earning $4,000 a year.

Mrs. Doss, author of a book on her child-raising experiences called The Family Nobody Wanted, recalled she ran into bitter opposition when she tried to adopt a child of another race.

"One adoption agency official told me, 'I would rather see a child grow up in an institution than be placed in a home where he doesn't match,'" she said.

"I told her I thought the most important thing was to match a couple with love to give with a child that needed love."

Today, partly as a result of her insistence, no barriers are placed on adoption of children of another race, she said.

May adoption agencies now ask potential adopters if they would like a child of another race.

Universal Studios is filming for television the final part of her adoption story when the Doss family had reached [illegible] children and decided they wanted just one more.

Her boys pressed her to get another boy. The girls wanted another girl. As Mrs. Doss moved around the agencies the fate of three children particularly touched her and she could not decide among the three.

"So finally I brought home all three and that's how we reached the round dozen," she said.

Ironically, her marriage, which survived the hardships of having to feed and care for such a big family, has since broken up.

Now that her 12 children have left home and she has 24 grandchildren spread around the western United States, Mrs. Doss said she can look back on a lot of happy memories.

She said her children might have run into some racial prejudice but it was never serious.

Dieter Keeps Her Mouth Shut— With Some Help From Dentist

TORONTO (CP) — Hamina Ibrhim, 26, who weighed 222 pounds last summer, is saving $1,000 for a new wardrobe and hopes to outfit herself in size 10 dresses.

But she says she will have to keep her mouth shut to reach her goal.

Mrs. Ibrhim said she will get her jaws wired shut for a third time to reduce her weight to 100 pounds. She recalls longingly the days of her marriage when she weighed 90 pounds.

"I love spaghetti-oh, man, that was my downfall," said Mrs. Ibrhim, five feet, one inch tall.

Mrs Ibrhim, a former restaurant cook, said she had dieted from time to time since coming to Canada from Egypt in 1970 but every time she got near a plate of spaghetti she fell off the diet.

She finally took action last August. After consultation with her doctor, her dentist wired her rear teeth together so firmly that even the lemon pulp in lemonade could not seep through.

"The next two weeks were torture. I'd smell a steak cooking and wish I was the one sitting down to eat it.

"Then I would remember looking in the mirror every morning and saying 'this isn't the way I should be.'"

Mrs. Ibrhim said the wires were removed three months later and she had lost 80 pounds. By that time, her friends were not recognizing her.

She said she hoped to lose the remaining 42 pounds gradually by sticking to a diet of small portions of lean meat and salad with vinegar and salt recommended by her doctor.

Best Wishes

The management and staff of Wray's Home Furnishers, 306 Front St. would like to take this opportunity of wishing you a lovely Easter with your family and friends. Wrays is a family business too and appreciates the opportunity this weekend provides for a significant celebration of a season. Wrays also wishes to inform its customers that the store will be closed on Good Friday, but open on Saturday and Monday. I would also like to join Wrays in sending you Easter greetings. Thank you to Wrays for letting me do so here.

Really in the Business

The Tropical Garden Pet Shop, 301½ Front St. has some delightful new residents, perfect Easter gifts — bunnies, chicks, and ducks. But the great thing that Tropical Garden has is the knowledge and concern which goes along with selling these pets — esomething you can't get except from a pet shop. The Tropical Garden isn't exploiting these animals by selling them just for something to sell at Easter; they are in the business all-year round and want your purchase to be a wise and happy one for you and the animal. For a responsible and darling pet purchase, visit the Tropical Garden and select an Easter present which can become part of the family.

Easter at Sidney Inn

The Sidney Inn, 265 West Moira, is well stocked with Easter gifts such as stuffed animals and Easter novelties, not to mention that great Easter Bunny resource, candies. The Sidney Inn also has a good supply of Easter lillies and flowers. And for your convenience, the Sidney Inn will be open from 11 p.m. on Good Friday and Easter Sunday. So for cooking supplies, entertaining accessories and last minute gifts, you know the Sidney Inn will be there waiting to help you. And of course, the management and staff of the Sidney Inn wish you all a lovely Easter holiday with your family and friends.

In Full Bloom

I saw two great fat robins this Tuesday morning. They are more welcome every year aren't they? And this is traditionally the weekend when we can wear spring clothes in the celebration of a religious event of great significance and the beginning of a new season of rebirth. Studio 231 at 231 Front St. can help you celebrate with color and fabric from their fine selection of spring arrivals. If you can't get in the mood with a visit to Studio 231, then you must still have the flu. Maybe the Easter bunny might find something that beats a chocolate egg too eh? Happy Easter and a Happy time at Studio 231.

Now's The Time To Try

The Inn On The Bay Tavern in Picton will be open this weekend as usual. But it will be open on Easter Sunday, which is not usual since, for the winter months, the Inn has been closed on Sundays. Lunch will be served from noon until 2 p.m. and dinner, from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. For reservations call Picton, 476-3114. Again, may I recommend the meat pie as luncheon fare and the Shrimps a la Maison for dinner. But of course, there are also the excellent dinner selection of roast beef, steak, lobster, and coq au xin (a favorite with Inn fans). So if you haven't yet tried the Inn On The Bay, do so this weekend. If you have, go back again and take your Easter guests with you.

Worth Looking Into

I think that new slogan for Trenton Optical is so good I like using it. Trenton Optical will be closed Good Friday, but open on Saturday and Easter Monday. So you'll be able to take the children, or yourself, down to 54 Bridge St. East and look over the selection of fashionable, yet durable glasses frames available at Trenton Optical. Trenton Optical's selection has increased ever since the last time I mentioned it to you a few weeks ago. The courteous and competent service provided at Trenton Optical are also other reasons that T.O. is "worth looking into". (And I don't mean Toronto). And remember that you don't need an appointment either.

For Something Special

Gord Roblin Real Estate, 117 North Front St. has three recently listed lots which will provide the imaginative home-builder with just the right country location for a dream home. All three lots are about 11 miles north of Belleville. One is almost three acres on the side of a hill, is partially wooded and has an extensive view. The other two lots 1.75 and 1.3 acres respectively are more wooded, are sloped somewhat and are great for the home builder who really wants to participate in his environment. But the prices of these lots are exceptionally reasonable — all range between $5500 - $6500. For more information, call the Gord Roblin number — 968-6475.

While The Supply Lasts

Belleview Glass and Mirror, 354 Pinnacle St., has a new shipment of vinyl-covered aluminum patio doors. And while the supply lasts, Belleview is offering a 10 per cent discount. Just think! Those glorious days are almost upon us and you can enjoy your house and your property far more with the beauty of having a patio door. As you know, or maybe you don't, all patio doors are "tempered" in heat-treated glass which provides 40 per cent more strength. So your investment has the added merit of durability. And with vinyl-coated aluminum, we're talking durability too. Belleview Glass will be closed on Friday and Saturday, but open on Monday.

Some Great News

I always know when I call Superior T.V., 103 Cannifton Rd., that I'm going to get some useful information. Superior didn't let me down this week either. They have recently introduced a 5 year warrantee on all the new Hatachi T.V. sets they sell. This is a complete warrantee — and I mean complete! If anything at all goes wrong with your set (other than in cases of abuse) Superior will absorb all costs, including labor and parts. And if that isn't great news for the shopper of a new T.V. set, I don't know what is. Need I say where you should go to get your new Hatachi?

It's Getting Around

Clint Vader of Vader's Car Sales and Service at College and North Front St. (new College St. location is just around the corner from the former North Front one) tells me that people responded to the Spring tune-up suggestion in last week's column. You can too by calling the new Vader number 966-5302. Believe me, your car never had it so good. The interior of the new Vader's service centre looks like a hotel lobby, almost, and the mechanics have lots of room in which to work and a fully stocked and organized parts department to help them do the job. You'll be pleased about the service, the job and the surroundings. You needn't wait for Spring any longer. It's here!

Oil Companies See Surplus Here

OTTAWA (CP) — Texaco Canada Ltd. estimates there will be a surplus of domestic crude oil in Canada until at least 1994.

Texaco, one of the country's largest integrated oil companies, produced figures in a report to the National Energy Board showing production surpluses for the next 18 years.

It was the second major petroleum company to submit an optimistic assessment of domestic oil supplies in as many days.

A brief Tuesday to the board by Gulf Oil Canada Ltd. said "an apparent surplus" will be available until at least 1985.

Imperial Oil Ltd. said in a brief to the board earlier this week that the surpluses will run out in the early 1980s.

Under current regulations, exports could be continued past a 1982 cut-off date if the board finds there is a surplus of domestic oil.

The figures take into consideration only demand west of the Ottawa Valley, the traditional market for domestic oil, plus 250,000 barrels for Montreal. A pipeline to Montreal is expected to be ready by 1976.

Other areas of the eastern provinces will continue to rely on imported oil from Venezuela and the Middle East.

A major report on oil supplies and demand produced by the board last fall said a surplus of domestic oil will run out in 1982, even with gradual reductions in exports to the United States.

The briefs are being presented for new hearings this spring to set export levels for 1976.

In its brief, Texaco estimates two additional oil sands plants will be in operation by 1990, raising production of synthetic crude from the Alberta sands to 390,000 barrels a day by 1990. So far, only one has been built and one other is under construction.

It also estimates production from the Northwest Territories, the Beaufort Sea, the Arctic Islands and off the East Coast will rise to 450,000 barrels a day by 1985, reaching more than one million barrels by 1990.

Texaco estimated a surplus of 1.1 million barrels this year, dropping to 126,000 barrels by 1980.

The surplus begins to increase in 1985 with the start of production from the frontier areas and additional production from the oil sands. The surplus that year will be 147,000 barrels a day, rising to a peak of 265,000 barrels by 1990.

The company's figures show the surplus starting to drop after that, falling to 45,000 barrels daily by 1994, the last year for which calculations are made.

Major reason for the drop in surplus, despite rising production volumes, is an increase in domestic consumption.

Demand of just more than one million barrels in 1975 will reach 1.5 million in 1980, 1.8 million in 1985, 2.4 million in 1990 and 2.6 million in 1994.

Board hearings on oil supply and demand are to open in Calgary April 15 and will continue in Ottawa April 22.

High Price Seen Way To Cut Use

OTTAWA (CP) — Two major oil companies took issue Wednesday with the federal government's energy conservation program, saying the only sure way to cut demand is to allow higher prices.

The comments came in briefs to the National Energy Board from Gulf Oil Canada Ltd. and Texaco Canada Ltd.

Gulf said the federal government decision to freeze domestic oil prices had protected Canadians from higher energy costs, and because consumers had suffered no shortages they saw no need to conserve.

"We recommend conservation through legislation where necessary, and through economic policies designed to permit energy prices to reach competitive levels in the marketplace," Gulf said.

Pollution Award Wiped Out

OTTAWA (CP) — A multimillion dollar award by the Manitoba Court of Appeal against Interprovincial Co-Operatives Ltd. and Dryden Chemicals Ltd. for pollution of Manitoba waters was wiped out Wednesday by the Supreme Court of Canada.

The suit was brought against the companies by the government of Manitoba and was based on the common law as well as a provincial act known as the Fishermen's Assistance and Polluters Liability Act passed in 1970.

Six of the nine high court judges agreed that because the pollution was caused by dumping mercury from company plants in Ontario and Saskatchewan and carried by river flow into Manitoba, the matter was for federal, not provincial remedies.

Manitoba paid about $2 million under its assistance act to 1,590 persons involved in commercial fisheries and whose livelihoods were affected by the pollution.

Language Training Held Poor

OTTAWA (CP)—Seeing what he termed a "national disaster," Official Languages Commissioner Keith Spicer attacked the country's elementary and secondary school systems Wednesday for churning out unilingual and barely literate graduates.

In his fourth report to Parliament, Mr. Spicer also chided the government for failing to make full use of its own costly language training programs and singled out three federal departments for their dismal efforts to promote bilingualism.

Mr. Spicer, the Parliament-appointed policeman of Ottawa's bilingualism programs, said school boards are wrecking the chances of having a more bilingual country by cutting down on French language instruction and giving students too many course options.

He said the government itself is helping to frustrate the cause of bilingualism by sending civil service language school graduates into jobs where they do not have to use their newly-acquired language skills.

Rabies Rampant

WESTPORT, Ont. (CP) — An outbreak of rabies among wild animals, first noticed last January, has reached serious proportions, residents in this village about 65 miles southwest of Ottawa say.

In the last week 13 rabid foxes and two racoons suspected of having rabies have been shot by provincial police and local farmers, police say.

Pay No Tax

OTTAWA (CP) — The tax review board ruled Wednesday that Indians working for native organizations located off reserves do not have to pay income tax.

The board said an employee of the National Indian Brotherhood who works at the group's headquarters here, is not required to pay tax on $21,941 in income earned between 1970 and 1972.

Trustees Resign

HAILEYBURY, Ont. (CP) — An election will be held April 25 to replace six of the eight members of the Timiskaming hospital board who resigned Monday.

The members resigned to protest Ontario Health Minister Frank Miller's choice of the nearby New Liskeard area as the site of a new area hospital, as well as the minister's appointment of four new board members.

Tax Cut 12 Per Cent, Prices Dropped 5 Per Cent

OTTAWA (CP) — Consumer prices for clothing and footwear declined by 5.2 per cent following removal of the 12-per-cent federal sales tax on these items July 16, says a study made public Wednesday by Corporate Affairs Minister Andre Ouellet.

The tax change last July affected all adult clothing and footwear. The tax on children's clothing and footwear was removed in February, 1973.

It was announced by Finance Minister John Turner who said it would affect $5 billion of purchases annually, and "save consumers directly $280 million in taxes" in 1974.

The department also analysed the consumer price index, and reported that without the tax change the rate of price increase for items in it affected by the tax removal "would have been higher by at least three percentage points.'

OTTAWA (CP) — Strikes and lockouts resulted in a total time-loss of 433,110 man-days in January, up from 265,000 in the same month last year, the labor department reported Wednesday.

PC Advocates Government Sell Its Land

TORONTO (CP)—Government-owned land should be sold to prospective home owners at cost price, R. D. Kennedy (PC-Peel South) said Wednesday.

"Those who are in apartments and wish to move, let them come out and have a home, get out into the sunlight, give them some hope, give them the opportunity . . ." Mr. Kennedy said in his reply to the speech from the throne.

He said sale of government land for building purposes, would enable young couples who cannot afford to purchase homes at current market prices to proceed into the home-ownership market.

Government Examines Power Bid for Argus

OTTAWA (CP) — The government is examining the implications of a proposed takeover of Canada's second-largest investor-owned industrial holding company, Prime Minister Trudeau said Wednesday.

That was as far as he would go in a Commons exchange with Ed Broadbent, parliamentary leader of the New Democratic Party, about the move by Power Corp. of Canada Ltd. on Argus Corp.

Mr. Broadbent had suggested the government prevent the takeover because there was no evidence it will lead to increased productivity.

Spokesmen for Argus Corp. Ltd. of Toronto have said it is not for sale to Power Corp.

Year's Food Supply Offered for $395

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—If you fear that famine or depression is around the corner or that rising food prices will leave you hungry, Ron Whipple has an offer for you.

For $395 he'll sell you 11 small cartons of dehydrated food which he says can be stored for 15 years or more and will provide one person with three balanced meals a day for a year.

Whipple, president of Beehive Specialty Foods, said there are three reasons to buy his food package.

"First, it's a hedge against personal or natural disaster," he said. "If pop gets run over by a truck, the family still eats.

"Second, it's a hedge against inflation. If anything goes wrong, you still eat.

"Third, many of these foods are economical on a day-to-day basis."

The idea of dehydrated food is not new. Schools, prisons and other institutions have been serving dehydrated potatoes and vegetables for years to save the waste and shipping costs of fresh produce.

But suddenly dehydrated foods have become a $30-million-a-year business. Beehive is one of six major companies and a score of smaller ones riding a wave of concern over possible food shortages. Their national advertisments tout their products as a way to beat inflation and avoid starvation if recession turns into depression.

Beehive's food comes in cans which look much like gallon paint cans. A new process has been added—vacuum sealing with gases which prevent spoilage—to ensure long shelf life. To prepare it, you scoop out as much of the shrivelled foodstuff as you want, add water and heat.

The results look like food and tastes to some likek real food.

Whipple's $395 food plan includes fruits such as apples, prunes and bananas as well as vegetables such as potatoes, carrots, celery and various kinds of beans. It also includes non-fat dry milk, bouillon, peanut-butter powder, spagetti, several kinds of cereal and 53 three-ounce servings of popcorn.

There is no meat, although Whipple does sell dehydrated meat in his retail stores. It's expensive. The food package contains a cheaper soybean substitute variously flavored like beef, chicken, pork or hám.

As for nutrition, Whipple said his dehydrated food is better than canned products because it is not heated to high temperatures before packing. Heating robs vegetables of many of their minerals and vitamins.

Whipple, a 31-year-old businessman who also cleans and repairs shopping carts for supermarkets, got his start in dehydrated foods in 1972 selling mostly to his fellow-Mormons, who are required by their religion to keep a one-year supply of food on hand.

The Mormons' precept about stored food got the national dehydrated food industry going. Now only about five per cent of all such foods are bought by Mormons. The great majority of purchasers are upper-middle-class Easteners, industry officials said.

Each meal in the one-year package costs about 40 cents and provides three-ounce servings of four items.

"And that doesn't count what you save or waste," said Fred Teicher, a Whipple associate. "It's basically zero waste."

Pharisees Were Intellectual Colleagues of Rabbi Jesus

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Both admiration and controversy swirled about Jesus. Thousands of fellow-Jews acclaimed His ways and teachings and the support built into an emotional crescendo on that final entry into Jerusalem.

Welcomers packed the roadside tossing garments and palm branches in His path and crying: "Hosannah! Blessed be He who comes in the name of the Lord, even the king of Israel."

That fervent reaction had trailed Him throughout His ministry. The Jewish citizenry flocked to Him both in rural Galilee and cosmopolitan Judea, fascinated by His insights, His directness and His healing touch.

"The people pressed about Him to hear the word of God," notes Luke 5:1. Similar evidence runs through the record.

Once, on the seashore, He had to speak from a rocking boat because of the crush (Mark 4:1); listeners packed a synagogue "even about the door (Mark 2:1); His relatives could not reach Him for the crowd (Luke 8:19); so great was the milling about him he could hardly find a chance to eat (Mark 3:20).

He had critics among His fellow-rabbis. He argued forcefully with them, as they did among themselves, over theological issues. But His basic conflict was not with other Jewish teachers but with the occupation regime, the wealthy Sadducean officials appointed by the Roman governor, Pontius Pilate.

Other rabbis of the day also castigated the collaborating Sadducean administration, which the Jewish populace scorned, as related by the contemporary Jewish historian Flavius Josephus.

In contrast with the powerful, pragmatic Sadducees who denied God's concern with human affairs and whose conversation was "boorish and rude," Josephus said, the teaching rabbis were popularly respected, friendly and concerned with human need. They stood for "the exercise of concord and regard for the public."

They were called Pharisees. The name has taken on pejorative overtones implying sham and hypocrisy, even in dictionary definitions. But deepening scriptural and historative overtones implying Pharisees to be the enlightened preservers of Judaism's vitality through that oppressive era.

They were the most learned, devout Jewish group of the time and, intellectually, colleagues of Jesus. He had personal friends among them and frequently visited in their homes.

"He, like them, was working for the continual purification of Judaism," writes Roman Catholic scholar Thomas Suriano.

"He, like them, respected the oral traditions surrounding the Torah. He, like them, believed in immortality and resurrection, which the Sadducean priests rejected bitterly."

Jesus argued strenuously with the Pharisees, denouncing their stress on outward observances. But the issue involved only outward ritual forms, not basic concepts.

On occasions, He disregarded traditional disciplines for fasting, for observing the Sabbath by healing on that day or letting His apostles pick corn to eat, and by skipping prescribed washings before meals. Jewish commentaries record the same issues being argued among other rabbis but some disputed with Jesus about it.

When one of them with whom Jesus was dining raised the washing issue, as noted in Luke 11:38-39, Jesus fired back: "Now you Pharisees cleanse the outside of the cup and dish but inside you are full of extortion and wickedness. You fools!"

The record crackles with similar strong language: "Woe to you scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites . . . you blind guides, straining out a gnat and swallowing a camel. . . . You are like whitewashed tombs which outwardly appear beautiful but within they are full of dead men's bones."

But Jesus at times was equally harsh with His own apostles, upbraiding them for obtuseness, fear and faithlessness. He once censured Peter, his chief apostle, in terms about as strong as imaginable:

"Get thee behind me, Satan. You are a hindrance to me, for you are not on the side of God but of men."

Just as uncompromising ministers, Christian and Jewish, have done throughout history, Jesus levelled sweeping indictments at the society around him for its injustice and phoniness.

Jesus also upset the Pharisees by mingling with the wanton, the religiously slack, the Roman-hired tax collectors, the prostitutes. It vexed them for a fellow-rabbi with whom they associated closely to do that.

"Those who are well have no need of a physician but those who are sick," He told them.

But on basic matters Jesus and the conscientious Pharisees stood together against the rich, power-manoeuvring Sadducee party.

That they seriously respected Him is explicitly brought out in several scriptural passages. "You are right, Teacher," they say on various occasions. "Teacher, you have spoken well."

While the Sadducees worked with Pilate to get rid of Jesus, Bible scholar Gera Vermes says there is no evidence of any active, organized part in it by the Pharisees, only indications of their distress.

Before the generation ended, both Pilate and the Sadducees had vanished into history, while the sway of Jesus continued, as did that of the Pharisees, whose devotion, intellectual vigor and synagogue leadership became the heritage of modern Judaism.

Instructor Shortage Critical

There is a critical shortage of St. John Ambulance instructors in Prince Edward and Hastings County — a shortage that is damaging the safety performance of Quinte area businesses, says Col. John Simpson, eastern Ontario manager for St. John.

"I can think of no other area in eastern Ontario where there is such a crying need for instructors as there is in the Belleville and Picton areas," he said.

This area was described by Industrial Accident Prevention Association chairman Jim Dunlop as "having one of the highest incidences of accidents in the province," following an association meeting Wednesday.

Col. Simpson was the guest speaker at the association's meeting Wednesday. He told members of a new program sponsored by St. John Ambulance and urged local co-operation to get in-plant classes going to reduce accident rates.

"Not only will a trained person know how to help some one else, but the risk is also reduced that he will have an accident on or off the job," he said.

Before the programs can start, more instructors are needed, he said.

To bolster instructors already in the area, Col. Simpson said he is trying to arrange a special instructors' course for Belleville to be held sometime in May.

He said 12 candidates would be invited to take the course but it is "up to the employers to screen their staff for potential students who have some first aid training and who might have teaching capabilities."

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, MARCH 27, 1975

City Reports Poor Response To Private Garden Plot Offer

Spring has sprung but Bellevillians haven't risen to a novel opportunity offered them for growing their own food.

A city parks official admits surprise at the slow response to the department's latest project — rented garden plots.

The department announced a month ago it was taking applications for food-growing plots on land made available by Albert College.

Ground was broken for an initial 26 plots on the 3.9-acre site between Sidney and Wellington streets behind the college. The department waited for a rush of enthusiastic food gardeners.

But, to date, only 11 of the plots have been sought by city residents, says Gene Gemmell, department horticulturist in charge of the project.

"Yes, we are surprised at the response so far," admitted Mr. Gemmell Wednesday as parks workers erected a sign on the site advertising the project — and inviting inquiries.

"We were hoping the response would be overwhelming."

Some distinctions have emerged among the applicants:

— A number are recent newcomers from other cities who already had worked municipally-rented plots.

— More younger people seem anxious to rent a plot, married couples, mostly apartment dwellers.

Mr. Gemmell said he believes the novelty of the project to Belleville may be one reason for the slow public reaction. Not having experienced the idea first-hand before may have caused "local citizens to be a little reticent," he said.

However, weather may also be a factor. Once it turns warmer people may be more stimulated to thoughts of gardening, said Mr. Gemmell.

If so, it's possible more plots can be made available. The site has sufficient land for about another 40 of the 20-by-50-foot lots, now renting for $15.

Applicants can call on the department for further information. The telephone number on the site sign says 962-9593.

Rifle Confiscated

TRENTON — Trenton police have charged Michael Clarke, 23, of 351 Dundas St. west with possession of a weapon dangerous to public peace after an incident in the town hall Wednesday.

Police say constable Wayne Dobson came upon a man with a rifle in a vestibule off the second parking level at the town hall. The constable talked the man into surrendering his weapon.

Police said the constable was investigating an anonymous telephone tip.

Stock Up, Most Stores Closed for Good Friday

Tomorrow being Good Friday and a day off for most people, many places in the city will be closed in observance of the holiday.

All beverage rooms and drinking lounges will be closed but some hotels will have their dining rooms open for dinner that day. It's wise to check beforehand to make sure which ones are open.

Closed on Good Friday will be all banks, liquor outlets, brewers retail stores, the post office and most downtown stores as well as many at the Belleville Plaza and Quinte Mall.

Those large grocery stores open on Good Friday are Food City, Miracle Food Mart at the Quinte Mall, Amodeo's, Loblaws, and A and Ps two stores at the Plaza and on Pinnacle St.

Those stores closed are Dominion's at the Plaza and Murray's downtown.

All churches will be holding special Good Friday observances.

Service Expanded

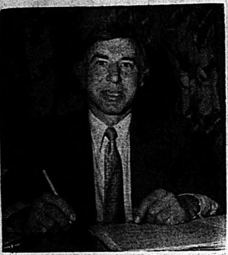
Telecare, the Belleville phone-in distress service, in Wednesday's Intelligencer was reported extending its service to central Hastings County by April 27. The toll-free service, underwritten by community groups and individuals, starts March 27 — today. Telecare has been operating round-the-clock since it was founded in the city in 1967. It is staffed by specially-trained volunteers.

Alarm Box

Belleville firefighters responded to the following calls for assistance during a 24-hour period which ended at 8 a.m. today.

Wednesday, March 26, 12:40 p.m. — bonfire started by children at foot of hill on Stokes St., no damage.

Wednesday, March 26, 3:31 p.m.—smoking fan motor on oil furnace at 31 Glen Rd., damage confined to motor.



A Reason to Smile

City Treasurer Frank Morrell has reason for on-the-job smiles these days. Interim tax payments — funds raised for treasury until city council strikes next tax rate — this year is running ahead of 1974 collections.

Many Paying Taxes Earlier This Year

These are satisfied days around the city hall treasury.

Belleville property owners are paying their interim local taxes at an even faster rate than last year.

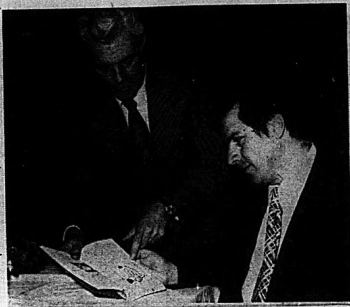
To date, reports city treasurer Frank Morrell, more than half the interim taxes due by the end of April have been collected.

The 11,400 bills sent out by the treasury to date have returned $1,751,000. This compares with about $1.5 million at the same time last year.

"The collections to now are excellent," said Mr. Morrell.

Interim taxes are levied each year specific deadlines set by city council until it approves its annual budget. This usually is in mid-May — leaving a four-month financing gap before the beginning of the city's financial year and the setting of the budget's annual tax rate.

The interim payment deadlines this year were set at Feb. 28 and April 30.



Safety Means Profit

Local chairman of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association Jim Dunlop confers with St. John Ambulance Eastern Ontario manager Col. John Simpson. Col. Simpson, speaking at an association meeting, said safety means profit and urged local members to step up first aid programs in their plants.

The Educators

Home and School Group More Than Social Gathering

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the second of a series featuring county educators. The personality sketches will include teachers, administrators and trustees.

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

If you still think home and school associations exist to provide tea and cookies for visiting trustees — then you've never met 60-year-old Patricia March.

Mrs. March, who is known as Pat, is chairman of the board of directors of the Hastings County Council of Home and School Associations as well as being a supply teacher with more than 20-years experience.

Born in Toronto, Mrs. March graduated from Toronto Normal School in 1934 and taught in many small and large Ontario towns. She married her husband Ed, in 1947, and in 1954 she quit teaching to raise her son. Stanley, 19, now is taking a systems design engineering course at Waterloo University.

Since that time Mrs. March has been a supply teacher but her main interest in education has centred chiefly around the work of home and school associations.

A 25-year resident of Belleville, Mrs. March would not admit the role of the association is agitation. "However, it's not a social group . . . we try to promote progress in education, it's an action group," said Mrs. March, who faithfully attends each board meeting.

Prior to the formation of the county boards in 1969 there were 30 associations in the county, representing 700. Today there are only 10 representing 260. The council is the governing body.

The outspoken educator said with more membership the council could be even more powerful. She said home and school associations have left their marks on several areas of education, including school guards, drug education and most recently adult metric education.

"Our main concern now, in the area of community use of schools, is to promote parent education, not just about how the school operates but adult education itself," explained Mrs. March, who lives at 282 Victoria Ave.

The home and school council holds no regular meetings. It merely arranges various activities to deal with problems or new programs as required.

When Mrs. March retires area residents can expect to see her seeking election to the board — and she won't be serving tea and cookies.

Convict Sought

WARKTORTH — A province-wide search is under way today for a Warkworth medium security institute prisoner who failed to return from a three-day temporary absence Wednesday.

Provincial police are looking for Edward Stephen Piercey, 20, formerly of Bramalea, who was to have returned to the prison at 2 p.m. Wednesday.

Piercey was committed to prison in October 1973 for possession of stolen goods, fraud and theft. He was serving a three-year sentence.

Four Hurt In Crash

TRENTON — A woman remains in Trenton hospital today following a two-car collision that sent four people to hospital and resulted in $2,700 damage to the two vehicles.

In Trenton Memorial Hospital is Michenine Duguay, 22 of 12A Barbara St. She is in satisfactory condition and under observation for possible abrasions, a hospital spokesman said.

Treated and released from hospital were her husband and driver, Denis Duguay and cab driver and passenger, Gerald Holnbeck, 60 of 386 Front St. and Roger Williams, 21 of RR 3 respectively.

Police said the Duguay compact car was eastbound on Henry St. when it was in collision with the northbound taxi in the intersection on Catherine St.

Blood Needed

Those wishing to donate blood may do so today from 1:45 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. and again this evening from 6 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. This clinic is being held at the Masonic Temple on Foster Ave. and Dundas St., and is sponsored by the Belleville Lions Club.

Talks About Role

Pat March, chairman of the board of directors of Hastings County Council of Home and School Associations, talks about the role she plays as a county educator. She now is a supply teacher with the board and has been a teacher since 1934.

Dance Marathon Raises $4,800 for Handicapped

A recent marathon square dance in Belleville now is estimated to have raised $4,800 in pledges for the physically handicapped.

The marathon — organized last weekend by the Single Secondary School — lasted 16 hours, with participants collecting donations on the amount of time danced.

The money is donated to the Ability Fund and puts the organization's 1975 annual fund drive in the Belleville area at about $14,000.

The annual campaign canvass in January already had raised $9,350 — compared to $8,600 in 1974, said Vera Morphy, district fund-raising chairman.

Mrs. Morphy said she has written Ability Fund executives suggesting the money raised by the square-dancers be allocated the Cheshire Home for handicapped adults in Belleville.

The money could be used to build a sun porch needed at the home, she said.

Syrup Festival This Weekend

The Moira River Conservation Authority's annual maple syrup demonstration will be held this spring on the weekends of March 29-30 and April 5-6.

The roadside bush will be open to visitors from noon to 4 p.m. Demonstrations will include sap collecting and boiling down. In conjunction with the event, the Crescent Rebekah Lodge, Thomasburg, will hold a pancake festival both weekends in their lodge hall in Thomasburg.

To get to the Charles Irvine bush at Fuller from Highway 37, turn west to Thomasburg and follow signs. Or, from Highway 62, turn east on the sixth concession of Huntingdon and follow signs.

Farmers Visit Show

Members of the Hastings Farm Service Club took off by bus today for a day-long tour of the Ottawa Valley Farm Show in Ottawa. The trip each year gives area farmers an opportunity to see the latest in farm equipment and supplies.

Students Party

The Students Association of Loyalist College will hold another of its keg and barrel nights April 9 in the college cafeteria from 8.30-midnight. It is open to Loyalist students and staff and their guests.

Vance Promoted

Col. John E. Vance, 41, of Belleville and Tweed, has been promoted to brigadier-general. He currently is director of individual training at national defence headquarters in Ottawa. A graduate of Royal Military College, Kingston, he is a member of the Royal Canadian Regiment, and has held various senior appointments including command of a mechanized commando unit in Canada's NATO contingent.

Now is the Time

The vice-chairman of the Loyalist College ad hoc committee studying the status of college women and the formation of a permanent task force on the subject says now is the time to solve the issue. "We can say it's late or whatever," notes Lana Robinson, a college teacher. "But it's always too late. We have to start sometime."

Should Teachers Control Hiring of Teachers?

A study by the 34,000-member Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation has recommended that teachers should be allowed to decide who can become a teacher and who cannot.

The $50,000 report said teachers should be allowed to conduct entrance examinations for new teachers similar to bar examinations now conducted by the Law Society of Upper Canada for would-be lawyers.

"We need to control the type of persons we are getting into teaching," said James Head, co-ordinator of the study. Mr. Head said that provincial education facilities are producing a "variation" in the competence of teacher trainees.

The proposal drew a mixed response from downtown pedestrians interviewed by The Intelligencer Wednesday.

BECKY HOLWAY

Instructor in recreation and crafts at Sir James Whitney School (OSD), Becky Holway, 21 Greenlawn Ave., feels aspiring teachers with the proper qualifications are duly qualified to teach. "I think they've been examined and tested enough as it is."

PTE. ALLAN BRADIE

"The idea makes a lot of sense to me," said the 20-year-old Middleton Park resident. "If would-be teachers are examined by other teachers, they should be able to teach, not just read of textbooks."

REG. FEATHERSTONE

"In a way I think this could be a good idea because present teachers are going to have to work with these people. Also, it could raise teaching standards in the province. Mr. Featherstone, 67 and retired, lives at 103 Yeomans St.

JOAN MOORE

"This seems to be a good idea. Teachers know what qualifications teachers need and they also know what teachers have to put up with." Mrs. Moore, a provincial employee, lives at 265 Haig Rd.

JUANITA DENIKE

"Teacher hiring should be left in the hands of the boards of education. If it was changed as suggested, it would be just like me judging another hairdresser." Mrs. Denike, with three school-age children and her husband, Bob, lives at 133 Chatham St.

The 53-year-old CN yardmaster, 52 Octavia St., asks, "What have you got boards of education for? The situation as it is now seems to be working. Why change it?

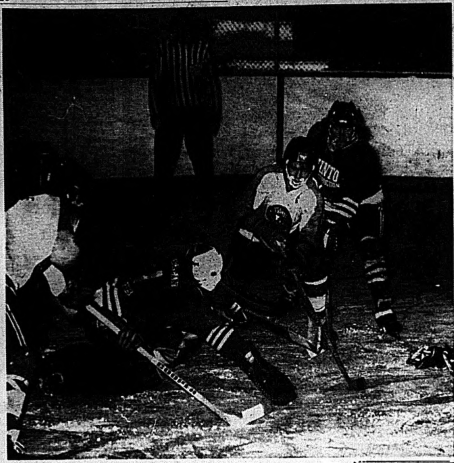
Police Charge Donato With Motel Robbery

A 32-year-old Trenton man has been charged with the armed robbery of the Black Hawk Motor Inn at 325 North Front St. which occurred early Tuesday.

A city police spokesman said today the man is Patrick R. Donato of 39 Bocage St. He was arrested Wednesday by Det. Don Yearwood and Constable Maurille Roy.

The spokesman said the charge was laid followed Donato's arrest and charge in connection with fraud at the Black Hawk sometime before the robbery took place. That case involved non-payment of a lodging bill.

A man robbed night clerk Malcolm Denton, 50, of 151 North Park St. of $244 in cash from the motel till at gunpoint about 3 a.m. Tuesday.



Goalie to the Rescue

Belleville Lions Sandy Waterson (left) and Paul Hayman are in on Nepean goalie's doorstep but Steve Lemmex comes to the rescue, getting [illegible] puck during Wednesday Golden Hawk [illegible] play. Nepean went on for 4-3 win in overtime to advance to A final. It was Lions' first loss.

4 Teams Left in Golden Hawk

By DOUG WALSH
Sports Editor

TRENTON — Four teams were left in the hunt for titles after Wednesday action in the annual Golden Hawk Midget Hockey Tournament at the Community Gardens here.

Still undefeated were Nepean Raiders, last year's champion, and Ottawa West Golden Knights.

Tasting defeat for the first time, Belleville Lions were nipped 4-3 in overtime by Nepean Wednesday afternoon but remained in contention when they knocked Gloucester Rangers out of the running by a 4-2 score in the final game of the day.

Toronto Blues earned the other berth on the B side, shading Peterborough Minors 3-2 in overtime and nipping Kingston City Majors 5-4. The Toronto team's only loss came, at the hands of the Belleville club, 4-1, Sunday.

Blues and Lions were scheduled to meet in today's opening game at 9 a.m. with the winner hooking up with the loser of the 10:30 a.m. Nepean-Ottawa West showdown, at 3 p.m.

At 7 p.m., the two survivors clash.

Lions got goals from Robb Chase, Sandy Waterson, Marty Lowry and Kelvin Pope in the win over Gloucester. Replying for the Rangers were Jacques Robert and Greg Gerrie.

Trailing 1-0 after two periods of play, Lions got untracked in the third frame to outscore Gloucester 4-1 and stay alive.

Lions had their chances in the match with Nepean. With the score tied 3-3 and time running out, Tony Meagher put Paul Hayman in home-free but the Belleville captain just failed to connect.

In the overtime, Lowry was right in on Ranger goalie Steve Lemmex's doorstep without results just before Dave Weatherdon beat Mark Mechan for the winner.

Lowry was a two-goal shooter for Lions. Meagher had the other Belleville counter. Clint Riendeau and Dave McBride each drew two assists.

Weatherdon's two goals paced Nepean. Singles went to Bruce MacNicol and Mike Prokopowich.

Wednesday's action was highlighted by three overtime games. Kingston City Majors needed extra time to put Smiths Falls on the sidelines 2-1; and Toronto Blues were taken to the sudden death period by Peterborough Minors before earning a 3-2 win.

Galt Gores, unbeaten going into Wednesday's games, were bounced out on losses to Ottawa West, 9-2, and Toronto Blues, 3-1.

Eight teams saw their hopes dashed Wednesday. Knocked out were Galt, Gloucester, Smiths Falls, Peterborough, Lindsay, Gananoque, Kingston City Majors and Ottawa South.

Wednesday's Scores

Kingston City Majors 2 vs. Smiths Falls 1
Toronto Blues 3 vs. Peterborough 2
Ottawa South 0 vs. Gloucester 6
Gananoque 4 vs. Lindsay 2
Nepean 4 vs. Belleville 3

Lions Bow Out

TRENTON (Special) — Belleville Lions bowed out of the Golden Hawk Midget Hockey Tournament this morning, losing 6-1 to Toronto Blues Majors. The teams went into the game with identical 4-1 records.

Toronto will now meet either Nepean Raiders or Ottawa West Golden Knights who remained unbeaten in tourney play going into a 10:30 a.m. showdown today.

It will be Toronto and the loser of the Ottawa - Nepean match hooking up in a 3 p.m. contest with a championship match scheduled for tonight at 7 p.m.

Collegians Upset in Semi-final

The Belleville Collegiate (BCI) senior basketball team drove for 10 hours Monday to get to the Ontario Federation of Schools Athletic championship in Timmins. Despite travelling all that distance, the Collegians walked on the court in their first start of the tournament Tuesday and whipped Dryden 59-33.

The locals played so well that they were seeded number one in the tournament. That honor gave them a bye, past the second round, and right into the quarter-finals Wednesday night.

The roof fell in, however, in their second game as Woodstock pulled off a surprise 57-49 victory, to oust the Collegians from further tournament action.

Brian MacKenzie, coach of the BCI squad, just wasn't sure what had happened. He had planned very carefully all season for this tournament.

"Ill need some time to think things out before I'll really be able to tell what happened," said MacKenzie.

The locals had the lead in the first and third quarter and Woodstock never really took the lead in the fourth quarter until the dying minutes. The final 60 seconds made the big difference as Woodstock outscored Belleville 7-0.

After finishing second at the AA championships in '74, MacKenzie had figured on winning it all this year since his entire team was returning. In '76, the BCI coach will have his work cut out for him as he goes through the tedious task of rebuilding his squad. Next year MacKenzie has only two players returning.

Larry Wilson was top scorer for the Collegians with 19 points and Gord Wright had eight. Larry Savage got seven, Chris Lachman had six, Russ Simmonds had five and Gary Donovan added four.

Woodstock now plays in today's semi-finals.

Birt's in Final

TRENTON — For the third time in as many years, Birt's Handy Stand has advanced to the Ontario Minor Hockey Association (OMHA) Juvenile AA finals but this time, a protest has played a part in the success of the Trenton team.

Winner of the OMHA title the past two years, Birt's appeared well on its way to a berth in the final again this year when the team opened up a 3-0 lead in games over Richmond Hill Rams in the semi-final set.

Rams won Sunday, 7-3, to stay alive but officials of the Trenton team questioned the eligibility of two Richmond Hill players and lodged a protest with the OMHA.

Wednesday, the OMHA informed the Trenton team that the protest had been upheld and the Birt's skaters were awarded the Sunday game and the series.

Apparently, Richmond Hill used a player who is attending McMaster University in Hamilton, in that Sunday game.

Oakridge Acres or Georgetown will supply the opposition for Birt's in the final series expected to open the weekend of April 5.

Oakridge leads in its series with Georgetown, 2-1.

Muldoon, Wayne Clapp and Gord Male won most valuable player honors for Shells in the three games.

Today, the Belleville team is in Petawawa for tournament action.

Generals Get by Caterers

Belleville Generals earned the right to advance to the Gas House Hockey League championship series against Stanley Structures, by eliminating Chuckwagon Foods 3-1 in the best-of-five semi-final series.

Wednesday the deciding game in the series was played and the Generals came out on top 6-3.

The final series begins Monday and continues Wednesday. Both games in best-of-seven final are scheduled for 8.30 p.m. at the Memorial Arena.

Saints Lose Two Straight

ST. CATHERINES (Special) — Quinte Saints lost their second game in as many starts, here, Wednesday to be eliminated in the second round of action in the Ontario Federation of Schools Athletic Associations AAA championship.

Their afternoon loss Wednesday was by a score of 71-54 to MacKenzie North York from Toronto. MacKenzie then advanced to the quarter-finals. However, the Toronto school's game was scheduled for Wednesday night. Wednesday, at sunset, the Jewish Passover began. Jews, as a sign of respect, go through no physical activity once the Passover begins.

After beating Quinte in the second round, MacKenzie, which has 11 Jews on the team, refused to play in the quarter-final. Only one player is not Jewish. They were to have played Stamford, from Niagara Falls. Stamford won the game by default and got a free ride into the semi-final round today.

Other schools in the semi-finals today are Glendale High, from Tillsonburg, Bawating High, from Sault Ste. Marie and Toronto Parkdale.

The semi-final winners, square off for the Golden Ball title and the losers hook-up to decide third and fourth place.

Reds Feel Something Slipping

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

After holding first place in the Northern Division for most of the season, Providence Reds are in danger of losing the lead as the American Hockey season schedule.

Providence was upset 6-5 Wednesday night by Springfield Indians while Rochester Americans edged Virginia Red Wings 3-2, pulling the Americans to within three points of the division lead.

Providence has 96 points on 42 wins and 12 ties, while Rochester has the same amount of wins and nine ties. Both teams have played 73 games and have three games remaining.

Nova Scotia Voyageurs, trailing Rochester by three points going into Wednesday night's action, lost valuable ground in their attempt to chase Providence when they dropped a 4-2 decision to Hershey Bears in the only other league game.

The Springfield win was the first in 11 tries after losing seven and tying three.

Dale Lewis and Tom Cassidy each scored a pair of goals for Springfield. Paul Shakes and Phil Hoene scored the other Springfield goals.

Ed Johnstone scored two goals for Providence while Doug Horbul, Pierre Laganiere and Bob MacMillan picked up single goals.

Gordon Clark scored the winning goal at 9:30 of the third period to give the Americans their win over Southern Division-leading Virginia.

Dave Hynes and Dave Gibson scored the other Rochester goals while Bob Krieger and Jim Salvoraara replied for Virginia.

Hershey picked up three goals late in the third period to defeat the Voyageurs and keep alive its hopes for finishing second in the Southern Division.

The victory pulled Hershey to within a point of second-place Richmond.

Don Seiling's breakaway goal for Hershey midway through the third period broke a 1-1 tie.

In the next five minutes, defencemen Paul McIntosh and Dennis Owchar put long shots past goalie Dave Ellenbaas.

The two clubs exchanged power-play goals in the opening period, with Pete Sullivan scoring first for Nova Scotia and Morris Titanic tying the game for Hershey.

With only 36 seconds to play, Goenn Goldup scored for Nova Scotia.

In tonight's only game, New Haven travels to Syracuse.

Smiths Falls Takes 2-0 Lead

SMITHS FALLS, Ont. (CP) — Smiths Falls Bears took a convincing 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven Centennial Cup eastern junior hockey quarter-final series with Gander, Nfld., Flyers Wednesday.

After beating the Flyers 5-3 with two goals in the last minute of play Tuesday, the Bears hammered out an 8-3 victory in the second game.

Next action in the tier two series will be Saturday and Monday in Gander.

The Bears, of the Central (Ontario) Junior Hockey League, wasted no time Wednesday, driving Kev Kelly out of the Gander goal at 1:18 of the first period by scoring on their first two shots.

From there the Bears built a 6-2 first period lead, slipped to 6-3 in the second period and then drilled home two unanswered goals in the third.

Hal Baird took over from Kelly in goal and, despite giving up six goals, was said to have played a fine game as he faced 49 Smiths Falls shots.

The Bears opened with Esa Mottonen in goal, pulling him in favor of Fraser Greenwood in the second period after the third Gander goal. They faced 34 Gander shots.

Playing in a packed arena of 2,300 fans, the Bears got two goals each from Bob Ferguson, Brian Trimble and Don Kells with Randy Pearce and George Thompson adding single goals each. Trimble and Pearce were picked up for the playoffs from the junior B Carleton Place, Ont., team.

Tom Rafuse and Doug Batston scored in the first period for Gander and Ray Love in the second.

A total of 11 penalties were called against each team and for the first time tempers flared.

Paul Redden of Gander and Darrel Traer of Smiths Falls tangled in the first period, each drawing roughing minors and fighting majors, and then Traer went at Dave Neil in the third period. Both got minors and major for that scrap with Traer getting a game misconduct added.

That will mean his absence from the main Smiths Falls attacking line Saturday.

Despite the score, observers rated the game exciting with Gander simply unable to capitalize on scoring chances, especially against Greenwood, even though they worked hard and showed strong, accurate passing.

Unlike the first game, Smiths Falls went to a forechecking game and this appeared to unsettle the Flyers.

Toronto Nats Win Opener

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — Toronto Nats went on a five-goal scoring spree in the second period Wednesday to beat Guelph Biltmores 9-7 in the opening game of the best-of-seven Centennial Cup quarter-finals.

The Nats, Ontario Hockey Association Provincial Junior A champs, led 2-1 after the first period and opened up a 7-4 lead in the second.

The Biltmores, Southern Ontario Junior Hockey League leaders, outscored Nats 3-2 in the third period, but were unable to draw closer than two goals.

Bob Wasson and Dave Currie scored two goals each for Nats, who outshot Biltmores 47-32. Guy Mortson, Paul Titanic, Rob Hitchcock, Peter Sands and Brian Wilton scored the other Toronto goals.

Guelph scorers were Terry Gregory with two goals and singles by Craig Hartsburg, Phil MacDonald, Jim Joy, Tim Holder and Zane Forbes.

The second game in the series will be played in Toronto Friday.

April 12 Decision On WFL

CHICAGO (AP) — The president of the World Football League said Wednesday that he expects the financially shaky group to be in business this summer.

"I feel the league will be in operation but there is much documentation yet to be done before the April 12 specific announcement," Chris Hemmeter said at a news conference following a meeting with representatives of 11 franchises or possible franchises.

When the WFL met recently in Philadelphia, Hemmeter had disclosed that the league would lay out its plans for 1975 in one package on April 12 in New York.

"We could go in 1975 with a minimum of eight franchises," said Hemmeter. "We could have 10 and might have 12."

Hemmeter refused to name those attending the talks, but sources said franchises ready to play are Hawaii, Southern California, Memphis, Birmingham, Shreveport and Philadelphia. They said bids also have come from Jacksonville, Akron, San Antonio, Portland and Chicago.

WILL PLAY IN ITALY

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Purdue's basketball team will play Notre Dame—in Italy. The Boilermarkers announced Wednesday they will compete in a six-team round-robin tournament May 27-31 in Italy. A Canadian national team and two Italian national clubs will also take part along with another U.S. representative.

Montreal Skid Doesn't Bother Scotty Bowman

By NEIL CAMPBELL
The Canadian Press

Captain Peter Mahovlich says Montreal Canadiens are in a "little slump" but his coach isn't about to push the panic button.

The Canadiens saw their winless streak extended to four games Wednesday night when they lost 6-4 in a National Hockey League game at Pittsburgh. It was Montreal's first loss to the Penguins since Christmas, 1971.

"Yes, we've been in a little slump," said Mahovlich. "We'll just have to regroup."

But coach Scotty Bowman wasn't worried about the tailspin, all of which has taken place in a five-day period.

"These things just happen," he said. "That means we've lost six of the 36 road games we've played this season. So what? You can hardly beat that kind of record."

After batting Buffalo Sabres for the NHL's over-all points lead for most of the season, the Canadiens found themselves in a second-place tie with Philadelphia Flyers after Wednesday's games.

The Flyers beat California Golden Seals 6-2 and the Sabres lost to Chicago Black Hawks 5-1 Wednesday night.

In other games, St. Louis Blues beat Boston Bruins 3-1, Minnesota North Stars topped New York Rangers 4-2, Alanta Flames defeated Detroit Red Wings 5-3, Los Angeles Kings whipped Washington Capitals 5-1 and Toronto Maple Leafs tied Kansas City Scouts 2-2.

Although the Sabres and Flyers have their division titles clinched and the Canadiens lead their division by five points, the over-all league points standings is important under this year's Stanley Cup playoff format.
points gets the odd game in each series, regardless of its individual standing, meaning the team that finishes on top overall is assured of an extra game in each series it plays. Buffalo has 107 points, Philadelphia and Montreal 104 each.

Former Seal Reggie Leach scored three times for the Flyers at Oakland and team-mate Bobby Clarke added four assisst, giving him a career high 107 points for the season.

The Sabres outshot the Hawks 34-21, but couldn't score on Chicago goalie Tony Esposito until Fred Stanfield got a goal early in the third period. Keith Magnuson, Cliff Koroll, Dick Redmond, John Marks and Stan Mikita scored fr Chicag.

The Chicago and St. Louis wins tightened the first-place race in the Smythe Division. The Black Hawks, who have 78 points, took over first place from the idle Vancouver Canucks, who have 77. St. Louis is third with 76.

Floyd Thomson scored one goal himself and set up another for the Blues, who extended their unbeaten streak at home to 10 games.

The Rangers missed an opportunity to strengthen their hold on second place in the Patrick Division when they lost to the weak North Stars. The Rangers lead the idle New York Islanders by a point.

Tim Ecclestone scored with less than six minutes to play to break a 3-3 tie and keep the Flames' playoff hopes alive. The win moved Atlanta to within five points of New York Islanders, who occupy the final playoff spot in the Patrick Division.

Mike Corrigan and Bob Berry scored two goals each for the Kings, who moved to within five points of the Canadiens. The defeat was the 37th in as many road starts for the Capitals, tying the record set last year by California.

A 35-foot shot by Robin Burns went through the leg pads of Toronto goalie Gord McRae with less than seven minutes to play to give the Scouts their tie.

Tonight's schedule has Buffalo at Atlanta, Washington at California and Los Angeles at Vancouver.

Celtics, Bullets Aiming for Top

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Let the others scramble around in search of second-place finishes or wild-card playoff berths. Boston Celtics and Washington Bullets are playing for higher stakes.

"We're a half game behind Boston in the win column now," Washington coach K.C. Jones said Wednesday night after the Bullets dropped a 94-91 decision to Buffalo Braves. "But we're still in good shape.

"We play once more in Boston and they think they can do it to us and take the best overall record. Strangely enough we have the same idea."

The Bullets and the Celtics have long since wrapped up first place in their respective divisions and are now trying to post the best record in the league.

In Wednesday's other NBA games, Detroit Pistons beat Portland Trail Blazers 110-107, New York Knicks beat Philadelphia 76ers 128-98 and Seattle SuperSonics defeated Los Angeles Lakers 110-89.

In American Basketball Association games, Kentucky Colonels edged New York Nets 103-102, the Spirits of St. Louis whipped Virginia Squires 116-99, San Antonio Spurs topped Memphis Sounds 133-122, Denver Nuggets defeated Utah Stars 121-109 and Indiana Pacers dropped San Diego Conquistadors 121-111 in overtime.

Buffalo's Bob McAdoo scored 34 points, 12 of them in the final period against Washington. Randy Smith got the winning basket for the Braves, a jump shot with 25 seconds left.

Jo Jo White scored 23 points and Dave Cowens 20 were the top men for Boston as the Celtics pulled away from New Orleans early in the second half and held off a late rally.

Dave Bing scored 28 points and Curtis Rowe added 26 as Detroit closed in on the Western Conference wild-card playoff berth. The Pistons lead Portland and Milwaukee, the other hopefuls, by 3½ games with five left.

Thomas – Press Box Blues

Habs' Goalie Accepts Fate

NEW YORK (AP) — There will be no goaltending awards this year for Wayne Thomas, even though he hasn't allowed a goal in National Hockey League competition.

Thomas hasn't played a minute this season. He hasn't faced a shot in a game because he's watched more action from the press box than some of the writers who cover Montreal Canadiens.

But he accepts his fate because arguing didn't do any good at the season's start.

"I was very upset in November," said the 6-foot-2, 200-pound Ottawa native. "I could have caused problems with the team. I complained on a regular basis every two weeks to the general manager (Sam Pollock).

"Then I just realized that I wasn't going to do the club any good if I was going to be an upset person trying to break up the team and ruin morale. I just accepted my position and hoped something would happen."

So Thomas, 27, watches as Ken Dryden and Michel Larocque share the netminding duties.

Coach Scotty Bowman never explained why Thomas never plays although Thomas had a 2.76 goals-against average in 42 games last season.

"There's no reason for him to explain," Thomas said. "He's picked his two goalies. It's obvious I'm No. 3. That's his opinion.

"I've asked to be traded. I'm still not happy, but I'm satisfied. I expect they will trade me at the end of the season."

Oilers Can't Gain Ground

Things No Brighter After Win

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Tight checking gave Edmonton Oilers a win over Quebec Nordiques on Wednesday night but it didn't improve their dwindling playoff chances.

The checking helped the Oilers defeat the Nordiques 6-4, but Minnesota Fighting Saints and San Diego Mariner, the teams they are chasing for a World Hockey Association playoff berth, each won too.

"We played a checking game we never played all year," said coach Bill Hunter. "It was a crucial game for us.

"When playing against Quebec, if you don't play man for man, they fly against you. We weren't letting them out of their own end."

The Mariners downed Baltimore Blades 5-2, Minnesota Fighting Saints edged Chicago Cougars 4-3, Cleveland Crusaders stopped Vancouver Blazers 4-2, and Phoenix Roadrunners edged Houston Aeros 2-1.

The Saints, with 80 points, and the Mariners, with 79, occupy the league's two wild-card playoff positions. Winnipeg Jets, with 76 points, and the Oilers, with 71, have the best chance of catching them.

Phoenix, which leads Minnesota by three points in the West Division, and Toronto Toros, who lead Winnipeg by four points in the Canadian Division, could also enter the wild-card picture if they are knocked out of second.

The top two teams in each division win automatic playoff berths, with the wild-card spots going to the also-rans with the best records.

Ross Perkins scored twice for the Oilers, who had won only three of 11 games since Hunter replaced Brian Shaw behind the Edmonton bench.

The loss was the sixth in a row for the Nordiques, leaders in the Canadian Division. Quebec holds a four-point lead over second-place Toronto. Each club has six games to play.

The Mariners are in a strong playoff position, with four of their seven remaining games against Indianapolis Racers and Baltimore, the two worst teams in the league.

That schedule isn't good news for the Mariners' Andre Lacroix, who now trails Winnipeg's Bobby Hull by seven points in the scoring race. Lacroix had only one assist Wednesday and said later he has had trouble this year scoring against last-place teams.

"Actually, I feel its because these teams concentrate on a checking line against me," he said. "I was shadowed constantly against the Blades.

Defenceman Jim Hargreaves picked up the slack for Lacroix against Baltimore, scoring two first-period goals.

John Hughes' power play goal at 12:52 into the third period broke a 1-1 tie and gave Phoenix its win.

Wayne Connelly's 35th goal broke a 3-3 tie with six minutes remaining as Minnesota eliminated the Cougars, last year's playoff finalists, from playoff competition.

Marlies Defeat Canadians

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — Toronto Marlboros scored three goals in the second period and went on to defeat Kingston Canadians 5-1 Wednesday in the first game of their eight-point quarter-final in Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A action.

John Anderson, Mike Kaszycki, John Smrke, Mike McEwen and Mark Murphy scored for the Marlboros, which played without six regulars.

Barry Scully replied for Kingston which upset Toronto 32-34 in shots on goal.

After a scoreless first period, Toronto jumped into a 3-0 lead and led 3-1 going into the third period before 1,090 fans.

The second game is in Kingston Friday night and the third in Toronto Sunday.

IN MEMORIAM

GARRISON — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Olive May Garrison who passed away March 28, 1973.

She left us quietly,
Her thoughts unknown.
But left us a memory,
We are proud to own.
So treasure her Lord,
In your garden of rest.
For when on earth,
She was one of the best.

—Always remembered by her daughters and son and their families, Gertie, Greta, Beatrice and Nelson.

GRIFFIN — In loving memory of a dear wife, Lillian M. Griffin, who passed away March 27, 1958.

On happy hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memory still.
But death has left a loneliness,
The world can never fill.

—Ever remembered by her husband Peter.

McFARLAND — In loving memory of a dear wife Mildred who passed away March 26, 1972.

As the rainbow is a promise
Of a new and brighter dawn.
So has God our Father promised
That our loved ones will live on
In a place of light and beauty
That He has set aside,
A house of many mansions
Where our loved ones do abide.

—Always remembered by husband Thomas.

Friday and Saturday Horoscopes

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Friday, March 28

ARIES (March 21-Apr. 19) A situation where you have a vested interest is about to take an unfavorable turn. Be alert, to minimize its negative effect.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20) Don't push subordinates too hard today or they could cause problems you'll find unmanageable. Be patient and tolerant.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be extra careful in your work habits, especially if you're using new types of tools or materials you're unfamiliar with.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your thoughtless action stoday could cause a small social crisis. You might alienate someone who thinks very highly of you.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't tackle home - improvement chores today, leave them to experts. You might save a bit, but you'll cause costlier problems.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You tend to hurry things too much for your own good today. Nothing you have to accomplish is that urgent now.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The next few days, be as prudent as possible. Don't spend more than you take in. Keep your eye on the old bank balance.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22) Little of value is likely to be accomplished now. You're spreading yourself too thin. Put things in order—follow through.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 21) An important relationship is being jeopardized. You're isolating yourself too much from this individual.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't impose on one you've recently met. Seeking a favor from him now would only serve to scare him off.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 19) A goal you're hoping to achieve will elude you. You'll quit before you put forth your best effort. Blame only yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Do not discuss a futuristic idea with one who thinks only in traditional terms. His reaction will leave you questioning its worth.

Saturday, March 29

ARIES (March 21-Apr. 19) Something you do today out of kindness will make a more lasting impression than you realize. Later, your kindness will be repaid.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20) A compromise is called for in a partnership matter. Your tact and honesty will ease a potentially sticky situation.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You'll be called upon to do a favor that may cost a bit out of the pocket. The expense will be well worth the good will that results.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A function you weren't too keen on will turn out to be a real ball. Go and see for yourself, if you don't believe me.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're going to be drawn into an in-law situation you can't avoid. Surprisingly, it will turn out to be to your benefit, too.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Someone with whom you've had a recent difference is eager to patch it up. It's up to you to break the ice.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You're much sharper businesswise today than yesterday, but you still have a few blind spots. Continue on a proven, prudent program.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22) Subdue personal interests in order to placate your mate. If you have peace on the homefront, your day will be rewarding.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Because it could put you out, you'll be tempted to turn down someone who has helped you. But you'll perform like the good guy you are.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll run into someone you had a preconceived opinion about. When you get to know this person, you'll be glad you didn't act on it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20 - Feb. 19) Socially, you're going to find yourself in the company of one who can help your career. It's a good time to make your ambitions known.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Some news you're about to receive will disappoint you at first. Later, you'll realize it's bright, not bleak.

Nails and Flesh Part Company

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a little problem. Two fingernails and two toenails seem to be parting from the flesh underneath. I thought it was a funous, but my doctor told me it was old age. I am a young 68.

I've been told not much can be done about it. My doctor said he could cut the nail off but with no guarantee that it would not come back the same way. I asked the doctor about medication which, I had read, would take three months or so for results. He said it is used just for a fungus and that the side effects of it might not be good for me.

What would be your advice?—E. R.

The same as your doctor's, and for the same reasons, probably.

I have to agree that in your case the nail problems are most likely a matter of age. You are undoubtedly a young 68, indeed, but your nails just don't realize it.

If the problems were in the fingernails only, then one might suspect some allergic reaction to things such as household chemicals, detergents, or some other materials you might be contacting regularly. But with the toenails also involved, this possibility becomes remote, unless you can think of a substance that comes into contact with both in the course of your daily activities.

Therefore, since your doctor has found no signs of fungus infection, there is little else to lay the nail problem to but age. So the best advice is to continue to keep the rest of yourself young, and handle the nails with tender loving care, especially in manicuring.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am an eight-grade student. Our science class is learning about VD, and we want to know why a couple getting married needs a test for syphilis in New York, but not one for HSV II or for gonorrhea.—J .K.

The blood test for syphilis involves the taking of a small amount of blood and running a rather simple analysis of it. Reliable tests for gonorrhea are more elaborate, strangely enough, involving close examination of the genitals and a culture of secretions, all of which takes more time.

Your implied suggestion that this should be done for any thorough premarital examination is in my opinion correct, but the law does not require it.

As for the herpes simplex virus II (not to be confused with the non-venereal cold sore and shingles infections viruses) this is a relative newcomer to the VD scene. At present, its lesions are detected through a genital examination, although I am told that improved techniques for simplified detection of both this virus and the gonorrheal germ should be available in the not too distant future.

I'm pleased to learn your class is studying this important subject, which has been masked in silent ignorance these many years.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I had a very strong jaundice when I was 18 years old. I am now 42. Is it correct that I cannot take birth-control pills? Will I be able to take any pills at all when menopause comes? Also, can I be a blood donor?—J. D.

It it was hepatitis that caused your jaundice, you would be excluded as a blood donor forever. There are simple tests of liver function to evaluate the status of your liver to see whether or not you can use the birth-control pill. You will be able to take medication for menopause when the time comes, no matter what.

But why the pill now? You apparently have been using some other satisfactory birth-control method all these years. What went wrong.

Opening lead — 10 ♣

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

The wily Mordred was most unhappy. Not only was he holding bad cards, but his partner was Dinadan, the worst knight and bridge player of the round table. Now his opponents had bid a slam and, while he held four trumps to the 10, the whole thing seemed hopeless.

Dinadan opened the 10 of clubs. The peerless Lancelot won with the ace, played the ace of trumps, entered dummy with a heart, led a spade and played the queen. Dinadan followed with the five spot as if he had not a care in the world.

Lancelot led a second heart to dummy, led dummy's last spade and played the jack. Dinadan won the trick with the king and led the jack of hearts. This gave Mordred a chance to discard his last spade. Now there was no way for Lancelot to trump his six of spades in dummy without an over ruff. It cost him game, slam and rubber.

"Egad," said Lancelot. "What a magnificent play. Mordred himself couldn't have made a better one."

"Thank you," said Dinadan. "I'm afraid that the compliment is undeserved. I didn't see the king of spades until you led the suit the second time. If I had I surely would have taken it right away."

Rhodes Silent

TORONTO (CP)—John Rhodes, minister of transportation and communications refused to confirm or deny Wednesday published reports indicating Ontario is on the verge of quitting its Go-Urban rapid transit plan.

Home Costs Crticized

TORONTO (CP)—A provincial, home-rehabilitation program will have disbursed almost $10 million to 111 municipalities by the end of the fiscal year March 31, Housing Minister Donald Irvine said Wednesday.

But he came under fire from Ian Deans, the NDP housing critic, who termed government housing programs inadequate.

Mr. Deans (Wentworth) said owning a home was still beyond the reach of most Ontario residents and the government hasn't taken any steps to keep rents at a reasonable level.

Legislation Needed On Teachers' Pay

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government "could have and should have" introduced legislation last spring governing teacher-board negotiations, Jim Foulds NDP education critic, said Wednesday.

Replying to the speech from the throne the NDP member for Port Arthur told the legislature the failure to introduce any legislation was "one of the most blatant failures of the ministry of education."

Mr. Foulds said such legislation, if introduced last spring might have been subjected to "sane and rational debate" in a committee outside the legislature and would have been in place for the present school year.

Outlining what he described as his party's approach to "re-humanize the school system," the NDP education critic said the party would give teachers full bargaining rights, including the right to strike.

He said an NDP government also would realign government spending on education to close the gap between elementary and secondary school grants through an immediate $150-a-pupil increase in the ceiling for elementary students.

Cars Demolished, Two Dead

Two people were killed and six others injured following this two-car collision on Highway 401 early Friday. Both cars were demolished in the accident which saw a westbound car enter the eastbound lane, strike an oncoming vehicle, and flip overtop of it. Dead are men from London, Ont. and St. Leonard, Que. Firefighters were called to water down gasoline which escaped from the wreckage.

Bombs in Holy City

Guards Alert In Jerusalem

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Christians and Jews gathered in the holy places of Jerusalem this weekend for Easter and Passover. Israeli security patrols guarded against violence after the explosion of two bombs.

In Rome, Pope Paul called for the remembrance of those still suffering because of war and "political or civil conflicts."

Two small time-bombs wired to wristwatches exploded in Jerusalem Friday, wounding 13 persons. One went off in a crowded bus but the second one placed in a shopping bag in Zion Square was spotted and police cleared the street before it exploded.

Pope Paul, who reduced his Holy Week schedule last year because of ill health, carried a heavy wooden cross in the Good Friday Way of the Cross procession on Rome's Palatine Hill.

The 77-year-old pontiff took up the cross for more than 20 minutes and appeared to move with ease despite the chilly night air.

He then told a crowd of thousands gathered near the Coliseum in Rome that Christ's suffering on the cross could be known by "all who, still today, are suffering because of conflicts of war or because of political or civil conflicts."

At the Good Friday service in St. Peter' Basilica in Vatican City, the Pope wore simple red robes of mourning without the pontifical ring or other gems.

About 10,000 persons attended the service, as the pontiff knelt three times, prostrated himself and kissed the cross.

The Way of the Cross procession in Jerusalem followed a tangle of alleyways cutting through the old Arab city, with peddlers offering wooden crucifixes, soft drinks, post cards and even imitation cowboy hats.

Police reported there were fewer people in the Good Friday procession than last year, but they declined to speculate if that was because of the fear of terrorist attacks.

Students Fine for Finance But Not in Building Work

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

Belleville construction companies say students they hire are inadequate in spelling, mathematics and English.

Thursday the Belleville and District Employment Committee unveiled the results of a survey investigating business attitudes towards students and future employment.

The survey, prompted by industrial commissioner Fred Bemis last year, covered 100 manufacturing, construction and service businesses in the Belleville district. About 400 questionnaires were mailed with 2 per cent being returned.

Both manufacturing and construction businesses were highly critical of the basic language skills of today's student. All three groups also agreed today's students do not want to accept responsibility.

Businesses involved with finances praised students especially for their "eagerness and ambition", as well as a "positive approach to their work." This group's only complaint was that students have too much theory and little practical experience.

The manufacturing segment said secondary school students require a fair degree of training and lack understanding of industry. They said community college students were better trained.

Committee chairman Jim Staveley, from Ameliasburg, said construction industries are most likely receiving less academic students or the drop-outs. He said finance businesses would receive the top notch students.

Member Doug Sword, from the Canadian Labor Council, said the survey should not have been done by mail but rather it could have been a series of interviews. He felt there were not enough replies to give a full picture.

Alderman Brian Knudsen, the city's representative on the committee, suggested industries must learn to invest in employees but that employees, especially young people, must want, and expect, to be trained. "These students should be prepared to start at lower wages," he added.

Many businesses accused young people of wanting too high salaries in starting positions. Some members said unions tend to have little difference between the pay for laborers and skilled workers.

The survey shed little light on future employment patterns except to indicate the construction industry appears to need skilled workers, such as masons and carpenters. The lack of responses gave an incomplete picture.

The results of the survey will be presented at a one-day seminar involving various associations interested in training and re-training programs. The seminar will take place the third week in May.

Five Edmonton Men File Claim For Million Square Miles in Arctic

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP) — Using the purchase of an abandoned wartime pipeline project as a basis, a group of Edmonton men has begun legal action in a collosal claim of ownership to nearly one million square miles of the Western Arctic—roughly one-third of Canada

Included in the claim, but not part of the proceedings that began here Thursday in Northwest Territories Supreme Court, is the entire Yukon territory. The Yukon portion of the claim is expected to be filed next summer in Whitehorse.

Mr. Justice William G. Morrow adjourned the case Thursday until June 3 after counsel for the governments of Canada and the Northwest Territories said they had not been given sufficient documentation and time to prepare their cases.

The area being claimed by the five Edmonton men—under the name Barbarosa Enterprises of Hay River, N.W.T.—comprises the entire northern route of the proposed Mackenzie Valley natural gas pipeline. The area is bounded on the north by the Arctic coast and on the south by the 60th parallel.

The claim also engulfs the 400,000 square miles that, just 1½ years ago, Mr. Justice Morrow gave the treaty Indians of the Northwest Territories the right to file a caveat over, subject to appeal.

That appeal by Ottawa is scheduled to begin June 17. Until the appeal process has been exhausted, the caveat—or legal declaration of interest—cannot be registered.

Meanwhile, the Indian Brotherhood of the Northwest Territories and the Metis and Non-Status Indian Association is attempting to use the caveat as a bargaining lever in land-claim negotiations with Ottawa.

The Edmonton men, headed by Czechoslovakian-born company president Edmund Buchta, 46, also are seeking a caveat over the same land. Their application to file a caveat was rejected here last year by the land titles registrar because they did not have sufficient legal description of the land in question.

Barbarosa's claim is based on incidents that date back to the Second World War. In 1942, through a series of ambassadorial notes, Canada gave the United States the go-ahead to begin construction on the Canol project, a 600-mile oil pipeline from Norman Wells, N.W.T., to Whitehorse.

Later in the war, contends Barbarosa Enterprises, the Canadian government agreed to give the U. S. oil exploration and drilling rights to the Yukon and most of the Western Arctic.

But before the war ended, the U. S. had spent $134 million on the Canol project and decided the oil was no longer of strategic importance.

The U.S. government sold the project to L. B. Foster Co. of Pittsburgh, which court was told was involved in the construction of the Canol pipeline.

Subsequently, Foster sold project rights to Pembina Sales and Equipment of Westlock, Alta., for $200,000. When Pembina dissolved, one of the two partners—Thomas J. Rimmer of Edmonton—acquired the entire project.

In 1968, after Rimmer had completed salvage operations that included dismantling all but .0 miles of pipeline, he sold the project to Mr. Buchta.

Mr. Buchta then formed Barbarosa Enterprises in 1971.

Car Crosses Median

Two Killed In 401 Crash

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Two people are dead and six other are injured following a two-car collision on Highway 401 about one-half mile east of the Glen Miller Rd. just north of here early Friday.

Dead are Francesco Perugino, 55, of St. Leonard, Que. and Edouard Simon, 30, of London, Ont.

Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville said Perugino was the driver of a westbound late-model Thunderbird which crossed the median and collided with and flipped over a 1971 Ford LTD hardtop. Simon was a passenger in the eastbound car.

Listed in fair condition in the intensive care unit of Trenton Memorial Hospital is the driver of the second vehicle, Ferdinand Lecuyer, 31, of London.

Also in fair condition are his passengers, Collette White (age unknown), and her son, Robert, 13, both of London.

In satisfactory condition are the passengers from the westbound car — Iolanda Perugino, 50, her daughter, ina 21, both of St. Leonard and a niece, Amaryllis Attaie, 13, of Sutton, Ont.

Don McDermott, the investigating officer, said both vehicles were demolished. He estimated total damage at close to $10,000 in the 9:35 a.m. accident.

Airlift Collapses

Crowded Da Nang Left to Its Fate

SAIGON (AP) — The Saigon military command said today North Vietnamese forces fired hundreds of rockets and artillery shells into the vicinity of the air base, naval base and the South Vietnamese army headquarters in Da Nang, a city crammed with 500,000 refugees.

The Viet Cong delegation in Saigon announced earlier that their forces, "led by civilian residents," were attacking South Vietnamese government positions inside the northern coastal city.

Lt.-Col. Le Trung Hien, chief spokesman for the Saigon military command, said there was no fighting inside the city, but battles had broken out in an are three to six milees to the west and south of Da Nang.

A United States airlift to rescue civilians from Da Nang apparently collapsed.

One U.S. civilian jetliner landed at Da Nang during the day but its pilot said 400 South Vietnamese soldiers, pushing past civilians, forced their way aboard the 727 aircraft which arrived in Saigon, despite a wing damaged by gunfire and a rear ramp hanging open.

One soldier perished in the plane's undercarriage as he tried to crawl into the cargo compartment and airport sources said several other persons, hanging on to the wings, fell into the sea.

Two other planes turned back after receiving reports of chaos and firing at Da Nang.

South Vietnamese spokesman Hien said the shelling attacks at Da Nang began about 8 p.m. Friday and were heavy but tapered off just before dawn Saturday.

He said he had no reports on casualties or damage.

Hien said the fighting broke out when South Vietnamese infantrymen on patrol ran up against North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces edging closer to the city, the last government stronghold in the entire northern sector.

Witnesses said the city appeared quiet with traffic and people in the streets.

Khmer Rouge Forces Stab at Phnom Penh

PHOM PHEN — (AP) — Rebel forces have stabbed into Phom Penh's northern edfence line at several points, military sources said today, but there was no sign of any sustained attack on this capital of Cambodia.

A United States airlift of food and military supplies resumed after a 24-hour hat because of rebel fire on the city's airport.

Military informants said the Khmer Rouge insurgents pierced the defence line at Kap Srau, eight miles northwest of Phnom Penh. The sources added that Cambodian forces had pulled back about a mile and came under heavy mortar and artillery bombardment.

The government had been sending reinforcements into that area in an effort to hold back the Khmer Rouge, the Communist-led rebel force.

On the diplomatic front, the government of neighboring Thailand said it had sent a message to President Lon Nol of Cambodia informing him that Thailand could not take him in if he decides to leave Phnom Penh.

The Cambodian leader has been reported preparing to leave the country in a move to get peace negotiations going with the rebels.

Foreigners Told to Flee

PEKING, China (Reuter) — Cambodian Prince Norodom Sihanouk today warned all foreigners engaged in humanitarian work in Phnom Penh to leave the besieged Cambodian capital immediately.

The prince, titular head of Communist-led insurgent forces in Cambodia, said his forces cannot be held responsible fos "accidents which could happen to foreigners" if they did not leave Phnom Penh.

He said in a statement circulated to correspondents in the Chinese capital that the United States Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) had infiltrated agents into Cambodia disguised as relief workers.

Saigon Troops Exchange Fire Over Plane

SAIGON (Reuter) — South Vietnamese troops opened fire on each other in a panic-crazed scramble to board a United States airliner which arrived to pick up refugees from the beleaguered city of Da Nang today, the pilot said.

Captain Ken Healey of Oakland, Calif., said government troops in trucks, jeeps and cars chased the chartered world airways jet around the airport as half a dozen Communist rockets landed on the runway and set several buildings ablaze.

Lilies Are Top Easter Flower

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Sales of the traditional lily continue to bloom among the broad variety of blossoms and plants sold at Eastertime.

In fact, by Thursday, one city florist reported stocks low and concern over obtaining fresh supplies for the anticipated last-minute rush today.

"Lilies," confirmed another, "are the Easter flower, after all, and we never seem to have any of them left over."

There are other species high in popularity among those who find flowers the most appropriate gesture at holiday times.

And Easter, arriving with spring, sees blooms suggestive of the new season — daffodils, iris, tulips, and azaleas — also in demand.

Such floral fussing isn't exactly new. Flowers figured high in the festival with which Norsemen hailed the return of spring. They called the event Ostra or Eastre, credited as the source of the name of the modern holiday.

But is there a close rival plant for the lily these days?

One city florist seemed to think so. Also high in popularity this year, she said, is the hydrangea with its pink, blue, purple and — occasionally — white blossoms.

Builder Objects to Planning Report

A Quinte Planning Board report which indicates ample residential land is available in Belleville met with sharp criticism Friday from Quinte Home Builder president Bob Marcotte.

The report, tabled at a meeting of Belleville's subordinate planning advisory committee Wednesday, showed several hundred living units could be constructed in the city but property owners are leaving their lands idle.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey commented after the meeting, "The city's housing crisis could be solved immediately if land owners would develop their property."

Mr. Marcotte criticized the report as being "one-sided," during an interview with The Intelligencer."

He said the report was "inaccurate," and that "developers are not holding onto their land to intentionally drive prices up."

"The report should have given all the facts," said Mr. Marcotte. "The report writer overlooked the very important facet of market."

Mr. Marcotte pointed to 10 basements his firm has had in the ground for months as an example of poor selling climate.

"Why should we develop 100 new lots when we can't sell the 10 that we have now," he said.

The action began about 5.45 p.m. when John Stitt of Madoc left his 1968 Plymouth parked on Durham St. to enter a grocery store. When he returned 10 minutes later, the car was gone.

At about that time, police found his car rolled over and demolished on Highway 7, about five miles east of here. Damage was estimated at $1,000.

Early Testing Prevents Atrazine Residue Damage

Through a test available at Ridgetown College of Agricultural Technology, a farmer can now find out if atrazine residues will damage a crop he plans to grow this year. All he has to do is forward a description of the crop, soil samples for testing and, if possible, a history of atrazine use in the field sampled, to the college at Ridgetown, Ontario. If the test indicates residue damage is likely, the farmer can change his plans.

However, interested farmers must act now for the results to be obtained in time.

"Because we simulate field growing conditions in our greenhouse and plant the possibly susceptible crop in the soil sent by the farmer, the samples must be taken carefully and sent immediately," says R. H. Brown, biology and horticulture specialist at the college. "It takes four to six weeks after the soil samples have dried out to determine if the crop will develop normally in the soil samples or be damaged by atrazine residues."

Three soil samples of four to six quarts each should be sent. One should be taken from the top three inches of soil, another from the three- to six-inch level and the third from a similar soil type without atrazine residues. This sample is used as a check and sometimes has to be taken from a fence row or an adjacent field.

Residues are most likely to cause crop damage when atrazine has been used repeatedly on corn ground. Excessively high applications, dry, cool growing seasons unsuitable for attrazine breakdown, and postemergence rather than preemergence application of atrazine also contribute to the possibility of residue damage to susceptible crops.

"Since most corn growers in southwestern Ontario are now used to atrazine, residues are rarely a problem," says Mr. Brown. "But the Ridgetown test is useful for farmers unfamiliar with this herbicide or uncertain about previous atrazine application on newly acquired or rented land."

Farmers who want to know the atrazine residue level of their soil, but are too far from Ridgetown to send soil samples, should contact their county or district Ontario ministry of agriculture and food office.

Tree Planting Good Move

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

In years to come, Trenton streets may be more pleasant places for long summer walks if a new parks board tree-planting program proves successful.

That's not to say trees haven't been planted in Trenton in previous years. They have. But a change has been made in where they're being put into the ground.

Previously, the parks board planted eight-to-10-foot trees on town-owned boulevards. This year, the trees will be planted on private property, on a homeowners' front lawn.

As a result, the town hopes the mortality rate will drop, and Trenton streets will one day have more shade than some now do.

Let us hope that the switch in policy will bear fruit. But if it doesn't, the attempt to end what is being called a high death rate among trees planted on town boulevards must be commended.

Many trees on boulevards simply aren't surviving to maturity, says parks director Deno Gettas. There are several reasons.

A tree on a boulevard is easy prey to anyone passing it. Out goes an arm and snap goes a tree. Damage from vehicles striking young trees is also considerable, says the director.

Salt and dry summer weather are also enemies. In winter, salt thrown on town streets and then turned up on the boulevards by plows finds its way to the root area. It retards growth and eventually kills the tree. In summer, when watering must be frequent, town crews find it difficult to get to all trees. The homeowner doesn't think of watering the young tree, since it's not on his property.

The neglect and abuse mounts.

If a tree does manage to find itself mature, it's also likely to find itself interfering with overhead power lines. It's cut back.

You couldn't win — until now. The new policy of planting trees on private property should give the tree-planting program a better chance of success.

And it saves money as well. Director Gettas says that where once it cost $25 to plant a tree, it'll cost a third as much this year. Including the cost of the top soil and fertilizer, "we're getting 2½-trees for the price of one," he says.

It's just too bad the program wasn't instituted years ago.

Response to the new program by town residents has been "extremely enthusiastic" says the director. Let us hope that that enthusiasm will lead the parks board to continue the program in the future.

Look Carefully At Payments

By MARGARET HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Prince Edward County councillors, apparently mindful of inflation, are seeking more money after three years of receiving $30 per day for attendance on county council business.

Chairmen of the standing committees of county council have met with management committees to discuss the study of council payments. The study has been referred to consultant Fred Hilling of Stevenson-Kellogg.

The consultant will prepare two proposals, one a per diem rate as is now employed, and the other on a basis of annual salary.

The decision to investigate payments, on the surface appears reasonable, especially in view of the fact that its been three years since the last increase.

A glance at councillors payment totals from January 7, 1975, to February 18, 1975, raises questions, however.

Total payments for the 17 reeves and deputy-reeves of Prince Edward, including mileage payments was $3,393.

The individual councillors' payments range from $403 to Sophiasburg deputy-reeve Jack Sprague to $90 for Picton reeve Ross Cronkwright, who has now resigned from office.
MORE

Sophiasburg reeve George Foster was paid $376 for meetings attended in January and February while Athol reeve Keith Perry received $291.

Picton deputy-reeve Larry Richardson earned $240 and Bloomfield reeve Ben Prinzen $220.

Athol deputy-reeve Harold Sills received $226 and North Marysburg deputy-reeve Kenneth Hicks $201. All other councillors received less than $200 for the January-February period.

The public-spirited citizen who seeks office while hundreds of his peers hide behind excuses of "too busy" and "just couldn't do it" deserves a vote of thanks from ratepayers. He also deserves a salary that insures he is not losing financially in mileage because of his involvement in community affairs. But does he deserve an increase now in view of the present indemnity totals?

Each time county council meets it costs taxpayers approximately $500. This monthly meeting of the minds usually lasts from two to three hours with approximately one-third of the councillors participating steadily in discussion. This vocal-minority changes from month to month depending on the issues at hand and their relevance to the individual municipalities. Its a safe bet that at almost every meeting at least three councillors are paid to say nothing.

When county government or a single-tier system of government was under discussion in Prince Edward in 1974 one of the questions voiced frequently was "will it mean salaried councillors?"

Concern was expressed that a smaller group of men would be paid a great deal of money to conduct county business.

If county councillors receive an increase it may very well be that 17 men will be paid a great deal of money to administer county affairs.

Prince Edward County councillors should receive indemnities large enough to cover expenses but payments should be considered token — not stretched to create mini-salaries.

High Cost of Soybeans Prompts Feed Research

The high cost of soybean meal in 1973 left hog producers seeking other high-protein plant sources as economical alternatives to soybean meal in swine feeds. A preliminary research trial is now being conducted at the Kemptville College of Agricultural Technology to compare the feeding value of 60 per cent corn gluten meal — a byproduct of the wet-milling manufacture of corn starch or syrup — with soybean meal in swine rations.

D.R. McKnight, of the college's livestock section, says: "To my knowledge, there is very little data published on the feeding value of 60 per cent corn gluten meal. In our experiment, we will compare hogs on a corn-soybean meal diet with those on diets of barley or corn, each with 60 per cent corn gluten meal as the only source of supplemental protein." Both the soybean and corn gluten meals are to be purchased commercially.

Thirty-six crossbred weaner pigs, averaging about 20 kg (44 pounds), will be allotted one of the diets on the basis of initial weight, sex and litter. They will receive a grower of approximately 16 per cent crude protein to about 60 kg (132 pounds) average weight, then a finisher (14 per cent crude protein), until each pig weighs 90 kg (198 pounds) and is ready for slaughter. Feed and water are to be available free-choice.

Digestibility studies will be conducted once in each of the growing and finishing stages to establish dry matter, crude protein and energy availabilities. Records will also be kept of the daily gains on each diet, with the pigs weighed every 14 days; from these records, the feed: gain ratio can be determined. Backfat measurements, carcass weights and pig indices at slaughter are also included in the evaluation.

If gluten meal proves to be an economical source of supplemental protein, hog producers will have a good — and readily accessible — alternative to the traditional soybean meal.

Nutrient Level Low

A poor growing season across Ontario in 1974 resulted in a noticeable reduction of yields. But it may also be an indication of future problems. H.J. Clapp, dairy specialist in charge of the feed testing laboratory of levels of nutrients showing up in feed samples may cause production, reproduction and health problems by spring.

"The late spring, dry weather in the summer and early frost may have restricted uptake of nutrients by the plants, so these nutrients are not available to cattle," he says.

Just how serious the problems is depends on the crop. In pure samples taken from the 1974 Ontario crops, fall wheat, oats and corncob meal have a lower percent age of protein than in previous crop years. A wide variation from crop to crop and from area to area in the levels of macro- and microelements compounds the problem. In central and western Ontario the protein percentage of hay crop silage has fallen nearly three percent; corn silage across the province is down in nearly all elements.

'Other Half' is Dying

Washington is in mourning as Henry Kissinger licks his wounds from the Middle East peace mission debacle . . . and as Vietnam and Cambodia burn.

Ottawa is in a tissy over the Hamilton harbor dredging scandal.

Across the land, spring is in the air, but in our big cities it is reminiscent of the times leading up to the fall of the Roman Empire . . . La Dolce Vita and all that.

The movie programs in the bigger centres reflect the trend, and the kind of material being fed people in these decadent times. Note what might be termed th "S syndrome" in the titles in Montreal, suggestive of what once was known as sin, and now comes by the title of "permissiveness." Like these: Siv . . . a Swedish girl . . . The Sensuous Stewardness . . . The Naughty Stewardesses (as a group these girls might feel they are being maligned and misrepresented by films such as these, with their obvious sexist connotations) . . . The Screentest Girls . . . Sometime Sweet Susan . . . Shampoo . . . Sex clinic 74. Amid this surfeit of sensuous fare, there is the 7th Voyage of Sinbad, alone perhaps in the category of wholesomeness combined with excitement.

As Canadians lap up this sort of thing, along with reading material such as Reader's Digest's "Report from the Sexual Revolution" and "Can Marriage Survive," and listen to the latest on the dredging scandal ,in another corner of the world a ruthless and disciplined military machine is gobbling up the territory of South Vietnam and Cambodia.

So what? Let's get back to our contemplation of spring and lazing in the sun and those porn-style movies.

It's not our concern that women and children, besides the soldiery, are starving or dying from undernourishment or enemy action.

Isn't it? Isn't this the Global Village they talk about.

Shouldn't it concern us also that as front page news, the imparting of it in much of the media is essentially slanted. As on the BBC's Sunday Magazine where it was Australian correspondents — reportedly experts on Southeast Asia — who were again presenting the Americans in a bad light.

Remember when the Americans were being maligned for being in Vietnam. Now the pitch of this very subtle, but persistent slant of newcasts, is that the Americans cannot, or will not, do anything to stave off defeat for their side in Southeast Asia. In other words, damned if they do and damned if they don't . . . by the propagandists and their front organizations, including some branches of the media, in the West.

Lest this be regarded as of no concern here, remember that we're more than ever one world. Fragmented yes, but nevertheless inter-related. We ignore events in the Middle East and Southeast Asia — both areas now more fraught with danger than ever — at our peril.

Sequel to CN Mishap

The partial lifting of the disciplinary action against the CN conductor and brakeman of the freight involved in a collision with a passenger train near Napanee last December is a step in the right direction.

The two men were subjected to loss of status and seniority as a result of their action in applying the tail-end brake. Evidence was given at the inquest that this action was taken when the brake was not applied from the engineer's cab. The consensus is that if the two men in the caboose had not applied the brake when they did, the collision would have been more severe and there would have been heavy loss of life.

In the circumstances the CN authorities have acted wisely in their partial lifting of the disciplinary measures. Further grievance appeals are said to be pending with a view to full reinstatement. Meanwhile it is as well to keep in mind the unusual circumstances of the collision, as revealed at the inquest, and to consider the human elements involved.

Adventurous Women

We are well into International Women's Year, but it is not that anyone would notice.

There are seminars and discussions, that sort of thing, in Britain Mrs. Margaret Thatcher is the Conservative party's new leader; and here in Canada, there is talk of Flora MacDonald as a candidate for the same post here — but so far we get the feeling that this Women's Year thing has not exactly taken off as yet.

There is one group of women however who reportedly are "keen to do something different." They number 18, are New Zealanders, and they left Auckland last month for a 25-day trek in Nepal. That's where Sir Edmund Hillary has done a lot of work of an educational nature for the local people, following his conquest of Everest.

It so happens too that June Mulgrew, leader of the party, is the wife of a mountaineer. Their goal is a monastery 12,000 feet above sea level and in sight of Everest.

Any of our womenfolk out there feel like a trek in the Rockies?

The UFO Phenomenon

The latest UFO incident, this time at Hamilton, replete with a picure of the saucer-like vehicle taken by the student who saw it, revives the mystery and controversy over these phenomena.

Last summer there was a flurry of reports of sightings in the Minden and Haliburton area and the circumstances included some of the more bizarre and frightening aspects of UFO activity, such as phones and car engines going dead temporarily.

The theory is often advanced that what people are seeing is merely natural phenomena, from meteorites to planetary activity. but how to explain those extraordinary pictures whose authenticity has been documented and which have appeared in a variety of publications?

It is often said that military authorities know more about the subject of UFO's than they are prepared to say. To the rest of us they remain simply — or not so simply — Unidentified Flying Objects. There is much ado about them ,and people keep insisting they have seen them, but nobody is much the wiser.

Pollution is a lot older than we think. Modern science has shown that the problem existed 5,000 years before the birth of Christ.

Pollution is a cancer that will slowly destroy civilization unless we do something about it.

'Contract' Scribes 'Ghost-write' for Cabinet Members

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — So who was surprised to learn that some members of Prime Minister Trudeau's cabinet are using what Parliament Hill knows as "contract speech writers."

The only possible element of surprise was the obvious lack of confidence of these ministers in the abilities of professional speech-writers already on their habitually underworked and overpaid public relations staff.

Every department has its public relations division — some, like Industry Trade and Commerce, with a staff approaching 100 strong — to research, write and edit all the information for print and broadcast it produces including its minister's speeches.

To be precise and use the government's own official figures, there are 863 public relations people on staff, with vacancies for another 403, earning up to a top of $32,500.

In any department the unquestioned priority in the field of public relations and information has to be what the minister says, in statements, announcements or speeches.

But even at their premium pay with the high degree of writing skill that presumably should come with the money, the government's own army of public relations specialists are not always trusted by their ministers to do the No. 1 job.

So when a speech has to be written, some of them call in the "contract writers," who churn out the ministerial words of wisdom at the taxpayers' expense.

It is all tacked onto the bill for polishing the government's image.

The fee can go as high as $1,950 paid by Health Minister Marc Lalonde for one of 13 speeches he "contracted out."

The information surfaced when State Secretary Hugh Faulkner provided answers to the question asked by Joe Clark, young, two-term Conservative MP for the Alberta riding of Rocky Mountain:

"In the last year, on how many occasions did a Minister of the Crown employ or otherwise engage or arrange for the services of a freelance or contract speech writer .. who was the Minister in each case .. what was the fee ... and what the occasion?"

The non-surprise was that the cabinet sometimes detours around its ever bigger and better paid public relations staff — but the news was that inflation has raised the top rate from $1,000 two years ago to almost $2,000.

By the word, or by the speech, whichever way you figure it, that is 100 percent.

One of the most successful freelancers in the "contract speech" field, himself a former newspaperman and long since a valued public servant whose talents are in brisk demand, has told how and why it works.

The cabinet by-passes its own public relations troops, he recounts, because by the time the minister gets a speech from his own writers, it has been rewritten so many times by play-it-safe second-guessers that it is so routine, non-committal, plodding, and dull as to be beyond use.

After it is initially written, the speech is sifted through a critical screen of higher-level advisers up to the deputy minister who never believe they earn their more-than-comfortable salaries unless they "sanitize" it.

The less the minister is allowed to say, the safer everyone concerned is.

So if he really wants to say something of public significance in a speech he hopes will be widely read and discussed, he calls in the "contract writer."

Nobody interferes then. The freelancer and the minister work on it together and the second-guessers are all side-tracked.

It works out nicely for everyone.

The minister gets a lot of rewarding newspaper space and ego-nourishing air time.

The "contract writer" gets his $1,000 to 2,000 for maybe five thousand knowing words.

The department's public relations staff, free of this priority responsibility, the better may relax and enjoy its three-hour martini lunch.

And if the speech goes sour and the minister gets a curdling from the PM, all the high-level second-guessers can sympathize in comfort and safety of being able to murmur "don't blame us."

The Image of Women in Our Time

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

In our society women are fighting for equal rights, commending, appraising and evaluating everything from the color of their bedroom drapes to controversial abortion laws.

Women are often so absorbed in mass commercialization, they fail to appreciate the most important and valuable planetary object, themselves!

Too many of us are more concerned about what we are rather than who we are. With this type of thinking we become more of a package than a person.

Large cities such as New York and Chicago are typical examples where packaged women exist. Hundreds of women dressed in identical clothes walk the streets every day. In the same way, packages of cereal are stacked on shelves, never seeming any different except for their outward appearance.

When a woman becomes so involved with her appearance that she does not give much attention to the well-being of her inner-self, it becomes a great waste to mankind.

A social worker, working with Indian people informed me that this is the main problem facing them now. "It is important that they dispose of the wrappings which they find themselves in," he said.

Self-appreciation is one effective and fascinating way to put oneself in the right prospective. It will take the Indian women a bit longer because they don't have as many outlets as others, he added.

Miss Blanche Macdonald is a professional model who lectured at the University of Toronto on the importance of each woman paying much attention to herself.

"There is nothing spectacular in achieving the ability to see yourself for what you are, only a sense of being equal," she said.

If more women can do away with their outer shell, then perhaps this world will have a lot more women who really know what's happening.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The above editorial was written by Melissa Lazore of the St. Regis Indian Band. Miss Lazore, a first year journalism student at Sheridan College of Applied Arts at Oakville, recently spent two weeks gaining work experience at The Standard-Freeholder.

Gold Bullion Market And U.K. Headquarters

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

LONDON — The nerve centre of the worldwide market in gold bullion is in a starkly modern building in a narrow old thoroughfare called St. Swithin's Lane, two minutes walk from the Bank of England in Threadneedle St. in the City of London.

The building is the headquarters of N. M. Rothschilds and Sons Ltd., a 170-year-old merchant bank that is the recognized leader in gold trading.

Not that any of the modest executives of Rothschilds would be so brash as to assert that leadership. But the representatives of the four other bullion dealers that comprise the London gold market always meet at Rothschilds, and the chairman of the meeting is a representative of Rothschilds.

Other members of the London gold market are:

—Mocatta and Goldsmid Ltd., founded in 1684.

—Sharps Pixley Ltd., dating back to 1750.

—Johnson Matthey Bankers Ltd., with roots going back to 1817.

—Samuel Montagu and Co. Ltd., the newcomer, founded as recently as 1853.

Their meetings—called "fixings"—are strictly private affairs, at 10:30 a.m. and 3 p.m. each working day.

The fixings are surrounded by tradition and ritual, but they serve a practical purpose in balancing buy and sell orders and in arriving at an up-to-the-minute market value that is accepted by gold traders throughout the world.

Much more than the price of gold is affected by the activity on the bullion market.

Since gold dealings are both "spot" and "forward" (that is, for delivery within two days or at some date up to six months in the future), there is a close connection with the market in loans and deposits.

And since the London gold market is truly international (sterling and U.S. dollars are the basic currencies, but any other currency—except Rhodesian—is accepted), the bullion market is closely linked to the foreign-exchange market.

The normal unit of gold trading is 10 bars, or 4,000 ounces—but the same price applies to all amounts.

Because British residents are prohibited from holding bullion in any amount, they tend to invest in a one-ounce South African coin called the krugerrand. It sells for just four per cent more than the value of its gold content in the U.K. (but at a premium of six per cent or more in Canada) vs. about 35 per cent on the British sovereign and 70 per cent on the French napoleon.

Normally, between five and 10 tons of bullion change owners each day on the London gold market.

About half of that demand is industrial, chiefly for dentistry and jewelry. Sales of gold for ornamental purposes have been highly sensitive to price increases, however, and demand from the jewelry trade has dropped substantially as the price of gold has soared.

Speculative demand, on the other hand, has remained strong, with a much more decisive impact on the price of gold.

"In the last year, people have invested in gold increasingly as a hedge or security against dwindling monetary values," Francois Mayer, a Rothmans director, told me in an interview.

Mr. Mayer described himself as pessimistic "on certain monetary perspectives" and optimistic about the future of gold—but nevertheless he warned that the price of gold could be adversely affected in the short term through government action of one kind or another.

More on The Monarchy

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

E. A. Dandridge in "Canada and the Monarchy", attributes my viewpoint to 'abysmal ignorance'. He quotes the Civil List as evidence that the monarchy costs the people of Great Britain nothing. He implies that William III turned over land in return for an annual stipend, and that this is the source of the wealth of the royal family. As far as I can ascertain he turned over nothing.

In the course of history, the Civil List has been amended each time a new monarch is crowned, also making provisions for other members of the royal household. It's all set out very clearly in the Encyclopaedia Britannica under 'Civil List'.

Apart from monies from the Duchies of Lancaster and Cornwall, royal income, as Mr. Hamilton, in his book, "My Queen and I", points out, comes from the hard-pressed British taxpayer.

Mr. Dandridge is right in one thing, it isn't a "Red plot" when people question the frightening cost of royal upkeep. Britain's heavily crushed taxpayer, looks in askance at a system that excuses the Queen, one of the world's most wealthy women, from paying any taxes at all.

Pat Tyrrell in "A Question of Semantics", claims to be "sufficienlty well-educated" to know better than to call a Briton a 'Britisher'.

By referring to Funk and Wagnall, your writer can improve his or her education even further by discovering that Briton and Britisher mean the same thing.

Less haste, and more research, before galloping into print, to prove my 'ignorance' and 'lack of education', might have prevented your correspondents from demonstrating theirs.

EDITOR'S NOTE: In his original letter, Mr. Hockley referred at one point to "Brits" which was edited to read "Britons".

CP News Roundup

Butter Will Go Up 13 Cents

OTTAWA (CP) — Consumers face a 13-cents-a-pound increase in the price of butter, the second time the price has jumped this year, the agriculture department has announced.

The latest increase is the result of annual dairy policy revisions announced by the department Thursday after Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan discussed it at an all-day cabinet meeting.

The major change in policy is an increase in the so-called "target support price" for industrial milk to $11.02 a hundredweight from $10.02, to which it increased from $9.41 Jan. 24, when the retail price rose by five cents a pound.

Also increased Thursday were the government-set minimum prices for butter and skim milk powder. The butter price goes to $1.03 a pound from 90 cents, the powder to 64 cents a pound from 59 cents.

The skim milk powder increase will not be passed on directly to consumers, because the government is increasing its subsidy on this product by the same amount.

Further details on the latest changes, including a provision that apparently allows for indexing if producer costs increase further, are not to be released until April 18 when the agriculture minister is scheduled to address a Dairy Farmers of Canada meeting.

Drug Reviewed

OTTAWA (CP) — The health department is taking another look at a controversial study on the drug tolbutamide, used in the treatment of diabetes, says Dr. A. B. Morrison, assistant deputy minister of health.

The American Biometric Society recently published a statistical analysis of the study, completed four or five years ago by a United States group, which showed a higher incidence of heart disease in patients taking the drug than those in other controlled groups.

Dr. Morrison said Friday that the study was the subject of controversy among medical researchers and diabetes associations.

No Warning

WATERFORD, Conn. (AP) — Dozens of concerned residents called town hall Thursday about the evacuation of 1,200 contruction workers from the Northeast Utilities (NU) nuclear power plant complex.

The evacuation was ordered after 1,000 gallons of radioactive contaminated water overflowed in a heating boiler.

NU officials said through "some hitch in procedure" town officials were not notified of the incident.

"This was not an emergency situation. It was an abnormal occurence," said William Counsil, supervisor of the two Millstone nuclear power plants.

"We did not want to alarm the population, but as it turned out things did get a little out of hand."

Ford Cuts Back

DETROIT (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. is shutting assembly lines in eight plants next week, while General Motors and Chrysler will operate all their factories for a second straight week.

Bridge Tourney

TORONTO (CP) — Oliver Cromwell of Harrisburg, Pa., and Andrew Tylman of Toronto won the Lake Ontario Pairs Friday at the 75th annual Canadian National Regional bridge championships.

The five-day championships, sponsored by the Ontario Unit of the American Contract Bridge League, will end Sunday.

Tied for second in the Lake Ontario event were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Piafsky of Montreal and Dr. J. F. Knapp and John Dykes of Toronto.

Acid Leaks

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — Workers used caustic soda Friday in an attempt to neutralize sulphuric acid which leaked from tank cars after a nine-car train derailed 10 miles east of here on the Canadian National Railways main line.

A CN spokesman said four 100-ton cars developed leaks and auxiliary crews were brought in from Montreal and Capreol, Ont., to contain the acid by building dikes around the cars.

Clemency to End

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford's program of clemency for draft evaders and armed forces deserters will be halted on schedule Monday night, after two monthly extensions, with probably about 23,000 of the nearly 120,000 eligible persons joining.

About 6,000 signed up in each of the monthly extensions—in February and March.

Delay Opening

TORONTO (CP) — The scheduled opening this summer of Ontario Hydro's Bruce nuclear plant has been delayed several months to allow for sress relieving procedures being completed on its pressure tubes.

Cracks developed in pressure tubes in Unit 3 at Hydro's Pickering unit last August resulted in a heavy water leakage. Hydro decided to modify tubes already in place at the Bruce plant because of the Pickering mishap.

Startup of Unit 2 at Bruce has been rescheduled to early 1976.

Project Abandoned

TORONTO CP) — The art world has lost four budding gorilla artists at the Metropolitan Toronto Zoo.

The gorillas, who turned out finger paintings that sold for up to $50 to collectors from as far away as California and Hawaii, were getting bored with their careers, say zoo officials.

Zoo veterinarians began worrying about the gusto with which the animals ate the non-toxic paint instead of applying it to canvas, especially after their feces began turning blue.

Train Derailed

MARATHON, Ont. (CP) — Ontario Provincial Police (OPP) say a 90-car east-bound CPR freight train was derailed Friday afternoon near this Northwestern Ontario community about 250 miles northeast of Thunder Bay.

The OPP report said 24 freight cars and five diesel engines left the track about three miles west of Heron Bay.

Sales Increase

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's three major religious denominations say sales in their book outlets have increased.

Wilting Maple Disease Spreads

TORONTO (CP) — A disease that attacks maple trees is becoming more common in southern Ontario, says Dr. Martin Hubert, forestry professor at the University of Toronto.

Wilting maple disease first wilts leaves and if untreated, may kill the tree. There is no known cure. The only treatment is amputating diseased branches or cutting down or burning a wholly-diseased tree.

Like Dutch elm, wilting maple is a fungus disease. A white fungus, verticillium albo - alarm, chokes off the water-carrying vessels in branches, causing the leaves to die of thirst.

But unlike Dutch elm disease, spread by the elm bark beetle, man may be a major carrier of wilting maple because it seems to spread quicker in urban areas.

The disease, discovered in the United States, was first seen in Ottawa three years ago.

In Ottawa this week, the board of control approved an extra $33,000 in the city tree budget to fertilize healthy maples near diseased ones. Another $30,000 was approved for root injections of elms with the new Canadian-developed treatment for Dutch elm disease.

Timbrell Doesn't Expect Lougheed to Be Difficult

MONTREAL (CP) — Convicted abortionist Dr. Henry Morgentaler, sporting a lapel button that read "Why Not Repeal Section 251," gave himself up to police Thursday to begin serving an 18-month jail sentence.

Speaking at a news conference before being jailed, the doctor said he planned to spend his sentence writing his memoirs, reading chess books and studying Civil Disobedience by Henry David Thoreau.

The doctor said he had performed abortions "in response to the highest moral duty a doctor has—to help people in need."

"I am human, I don't appreciate going to jail. I don't relish losing my freedom for helping people."

His lawyer, Claude-Armand Sheppard, said the doctor would probably spend his sentence in the minimum-security Bordeaux Jail. He would be eligible for parole in nine months.

Warrant Upheld

QUEBEC (CP) —An arrest warrant served against Captain Brian Erb March 6 in connection with the cargo ship Answer was upheld Thursday in Quebec Superior Court.

Birds Seized

CAMBRIDGE, Ont. (CP) — The Cambridge office of the Ontario ministry of natural resources said Friday that three of its conservation officers raided two Hamilton homes Thursday night and seized more than 60 stuffed birds.

The ministry office said the inspectors, armed with search warrants, seized three stuffed ducks at one home. At the second, they seized more than 60 stuffed birds and six animal pelts.

Five Weeks Off

TORONTO (CP) — A study by the Ontario ministry of labor's research branch shows that the five-week annual vacation prevails now in more than 45 per cent of agreements in Ontario covering more than 200 employees.

The provisions apply to 57 per cent of the workers covered by 823 agreements analysed by the research branch.

Plan Meeting

OTTAWA (CP) — External Affairs Minister Allan MacEachen announced Friday that he will meet United States Secretary of State Henry Kissinger in Washington Monday.

Mr. MacEachen and Mr. Kissinger will review the situation in the Middle East in the light of Mr. Kissinger's recent assessment and Canada's continuing interests in developments in that area, a spokesman for the external affairs office said.

Labor Costs Small Factor In Food Prices

OTTAWA (CP) — Reports from the food prices review board said Thursday that labor costs on the farm and in the processing industry are responsible only in a minor way for the increase in food costs.

"Over most of the past decade, wages paid to farm labor have increased more rapidly than any other element of farm cost," the board says in a foreword to one of two reports adding that other cost factors such as transportation, feed prices, energy and fuel costs also had risen substantially.

"But with hired farm labor costs accounting for only a small portion of total farm operating expenses, the impact of increased farm wage rates on final food prices will be relatively small."

Another of the commissioned reports, which the board says do not necessarily reflect board opinion, says the same about labor costs in the food processing industry.

"Collective bargaining and increased direct labor costs in food processing have been responsible for only a relatively minor part of the over-all increase in the prices of food products from 1968 to 1974," it says.

A third report offered some slim hope that the upward pressure on food prices might slacken.

Second Man Held in Death

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto police charged Louis Stavroff of Toronto with conspiracy to murder and possession of explosives Friday.

Police said Stavroff and Howard Daniel Dean, 35, arrested and charged with murder punishable by life imprisonment last week, "conspired to murder a certain person.' They also said a stick of dynamite and a blasting cap were found in Stavroff's home.

Dean was arrested March 20 a few hours after the body of Jack Raymond Richardson, 43, was found in a field north of Toronto.

Jury Says Dead Girl Abused

HAMILTON (CP) — A coroner's jury has ruled that the death of a three-year-old Hamilton girl was caused by neglect and abuse.

Erin Ludkin died Jan. 24, two days after being admitted to hospital with multiple injuries.

Dr. John Groves, a pathologist, testified the girl had suffered severe injuries to her head and abdomen.

"They're not the sort of injuries you would see in a child who was playing in a home and tripped or fell off a chair—they're major injuries of the kind received in a major, high-speed crash or falling off a third-floor balcony and hitting something on the way down," he said.

Thomas Connolly, 29, a friend of the child's mother, who was taking care of the child on the night of the incident, told the inquest the child had fallen in the bathroom, hitting a heating register.

Morgentaler Begins 18-month Sentence

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Energy Minister Dennis Timbrell says he doesn't think Alberat Premier Peter Lougheed's overwhelming victory in Wednesday's provincial election in Alberta will make him more difficult to deal with at a first minister's meeting in Ottawa next month.

"The premier went to the people on the basis of his record over the last 3½ years and on the basis of a particular issue, and I cant see that he's going to be any more or any less difficult," Mr. Timbrell said Thursday.

Provincial premiers and energy ministers will meet with Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau April 9-10 to discuss adjustments to the price of Alberta crude oil, which sells at $6.50 a barrel on the domestic market. A freeze on that price comes off at the end of June.

Mr. Lougheed campaigned for a provincial mandate which would give him a strong bargaining position for a higher domestic crude price at the energy conference. His Progressive Conservative government swept to victory by winning 69 of the 75 seats in the Alberta legislature.

Overloaded Sewers Pollute Great Lakes

WASHINGTON (CP) — Canada and the United States "have done little to control pollution" of the Great Lakes when heavy rains cause overloading of municipal sewer systems, a congressional study agency has concluded.

The General Accounting Office (GAO) recommends that the United States take the lead in exploring with Canada a joint program of research and development to find less-costly methods of controlling such pollution.

The GAO report was released Thursday by Representative Charles Vanik, a Democrat from the Lake Erie area of Ohio, who accompanied it with a statement denouncing the pace and commitment of the U.S. government to the Great Lakes water quality agreement signed with Canada in 1972.

"While there may be some small movement toward the agreement's goals," Vanik's statement said, "it is not what was expected when the agreement was signed, nor is it what is needed right now."

He criticized the "huge disparities" between the way Canada and the United States have implemented the agreement, noting that he U.S. rails Canada "by at least three years in constructing needed municipal waste-treatment facilities."

American officials have readily acknowledged the gap in the past.

The GAO, which serves a function similar to the auditor-general's office in Ottawa, cited estimates that it might cost up to $13 billion to control sewer overflows in the U.S. and $1.5 billion in Canada.

School Moves Out to Stables—Kids and Horses Happy

ISABEL HUGGGAN
Women's Reporter

A wisp of a child shovels manure out of the pony's stall. Another, a little older, spends time brushing the thick winter coat and combs and braids the mane.

At the end of the stable two ten-year-old boys finish their chores and reward their patient horse with a handful of hay.

These aren't farm children, helping their parents in the barn. These are students from King George Public School. And technically, although they're at Simcoe Farm off Highway 37, theyre really in school.

These 10 children — from Grade 1 up to Grade 6 — chose equestrian management as their elective, out of 29 options presented by the school. Supervised by special education resource teacher Doris Freeland, they spent nearly two hours each Tuesday for the past ten weeks learning about how to care for horses.

"Watching them during these weeks has been wonderful," says Mrs. Freeland. "They've all gained so much confidence in the way they handle the horses.

"The credit all goes to Nancy Allen, who has volunteered her time to the school for this program. She's been so patient and firm, the kids have learned a lot from her."

Every Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. Freeland has conducted a follow-up lesson to the morning's activities. The students have met to read books and magazines about horses, to add to their practical experience.

During their last visit the children presented Mrs. Allen with a bright blue bridle for her prize white stallion 'Simin'. And as a treat for them, she allowed each student to ride the stallion around the barnyard.

"Actually, we do have one more visit to make as part of the course," says Mrs. Freeland. "One of the mares is due to drop a foal in a month's time, and we'll come out again then."

One of the noticeable results of the weekly class is that the children of various ages have come together.

This means that one of the elective program's objective has been met, according to Les Jewell, vice-principal and co-ordinator of the projects.

"Another of the purposes in giving the students several activities to choose from is to expand their interests, and improve their physical skills," he says.

"But in all the programs, all the age levels can take part together. We've hoped that this contact would work out well, and it has.

"In the swimming class, for example, the older children have instructed the younger.'

Mr. Jewell stressed that the qualities that come with achievement — self-discipline, increased initiative and responsibility — are the traits encouraged by the teachers and parent volunteers who assist with the interest groups.

"We also have had several Quinte Secondary School students helping out," he says, "as well as the YMCA staff and St. John Ambulance instructors."

That the program has been a success, no one in Nancy Allen's stables would deny, least of all the happy Grade 2 student sitting proudly on her horse's back.

Even the horse, an old brood mare, looked happy.

Showmanship Helps Sell Homes

Norma Bland, F.R.I.

First impressions are lasting. There is a saying, "Your house is sold by the time the buyer reaches the front hall".

Let us look at that statement. How can it be? Your Realtor has caught the clients attention by his sign on the front lawn or an "ad" and selected the homes in the area that would be suitable. The appointment is made and as the client approaches the house, he feels instinctively that the area is to his liking, he passes by the neat exterior in through the well-painted door and he is in the front hall.

Generally speaking he feels at home there or not and if something clicks he will want to buy.

Of course, he has been qualified and can meet your terms and if the rest of the home is as well kept as the exterior and foyer he will BUY.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I have this friend who was always pretty stuck on herself. We went to high school together. That was her reputation then and it's the same now.

One thing that really gripes me is that when Miss Uppity is introduced to someone, instead of shaking hands with her right hand she condescendingly extends her left hand and acts like she is doing you a big favor.

Will you please say a word about these people. Isn't this the height of arrogance— Slightly Nauseated

Dear S.N.: Not always. Some people have arthritis in their hands and one hand is in better shape than the other. Perhaps your old high school chum is one of these unfortunate people.

I can tell you from personal experience that after I've shaken a few hundred hands I would just love to substitute the left one and I don't have arthritis-so please refrain from making hasty judgments until you know all the facts.

Dear Ann Landers: I've always gotten along beautifully with my mother-in-law. I couldn't have asked for a better one. But I see a problem coming.

My husband and I are expecting our first baby. This will be the first grandchild and first great-grandchild in the family. My mother-in-law wants to know if I want to bring the baby to her home from the hospital so she can help out, or would I rather have her move into our apartment for a week.

Ann, I'd appreciate all the help I can get, but she wants to handle the baby. What I need is someone to do the cooking and cleaning. I want to take care of the baby's needs myself.

Please tell me how to get the idea across tactfully. I don't want to ruin my relationship with my mother-in-law, but I do want to be charge of my first child when I bring him or her home from the hospital — Quandried.

Dear Q.: First, don't move into your mother-in-law's home Ask her to come to yours. You will have much better control on your own turf.

Second, don't decide now who is going to do what. There will be enough chores involving the baby so that both you and your mother-in-law will be plenty busy. Keeps things peaceful even if you have to give in a little. It will be worth it.

B.C. Dean of Women: 'My Job Is 'Obsolete'

VANCOUVER (CP) — It takes a dean of women to say the dean of women's job is obsolete.

In fact, Dr. Margaret Fulton, dean of women at the University of British Columbia, isn't sure she can take it.

She has been in the chair less than a year, but her regular job-switching runs in seven-year cycles.

"I don't know whether I can stand this for seven years," Dr. Fulton said.

Twenty-five years ago, she explained, a proper dean of women helped wayward girls, raised women's residences and battled for entrance to traditionally male faculties such as law and engineering.

"Now, with Grade 5 sex education, bra-burning and cohabitation, I don't have these problems," Dr. Fulton said.

"I am a clearing house. If a young woman is emotionally upset I send her to the fleet of trained counsellors—psychiatrists, psychologists on campus. If there's trouble with her studies we have academic and vocational counsellors to help."

Dr. Fulton taught in a one-room schoolhouse in the country outside Winnipeg before she realized higher education was necessary for a career.

"I love teaching, but perhaps it's better to get off the ivory tower," she said. "In this job, I'm more in the world."

One of her projects for 1975, International Women's Year, is to spotlight accomplished women in B.C.

"I'm ready to give full marks to all the women who burned their bras, who worked to stop the discrepancies between men and women in the work force. But now it's time for more creative building."

Back a fighter.

SOUTHEND-ON-SEA, England (CP) — Rosemary Amos claimed in court that sex lost its appeal when husband Victor, 42, started to get fat. Love-making became uncomfortable and painful and she developed an aversion to his presence, she said. The judge agreed Mrs. Amos, 40, and mother of five, was unhappy but ruled this was not grounds for divorce.

No Loss of Morale For Navy Cadets

OTTAWA (CP) — There may be talk of lower morale in the Canadian Armed Forces but you won't hear any of it from the official responsible for naval cadet programs.

Jack Koyl, national president of the Navy League of Canada, a civilian organization, said in an interview he is looking forward to new developments that will increase the popularity of the youth programs sponsored by the league.

There were more than 15,000 young people involved in various navy cadet programs in 1974. They included 9,682 sea cadets, boys between the ages of 13 and 18; 3,728 Navy League cadets, boys between 12 and 13, and 2,015 Wrenettes, girls between 13 and 18.

While the number of male cadets stayed about the same from 1973 to 1974, the number of Wrenettes increased 33 per cent. Mr. Koyl believes this number may increase even more dramatically when legislative changes give girls equal status with boys in the cadet program.

Since 1941, the defence department has jointly sponsored the sea cadet program with the League. It has provided uniforms, paid officers involved in cadet training and sponsored summer camps. But until now this assistance has never been available to female cadets.

Once the proposed legislation is passed, the president says, the girls will participate on an equal footing with boys and even drill with them.

He hopes the girls will help to attract more boys to the sea cadet program. But what is just as important, he says, is healthy competition between boys and girls in the movement.

The commitment from the defence department to League programs has remained strong despite constraints on the defence budget, Mr. Koyl said. But the cadets worked closely with other government departments as well.

"More cadets go away on coast guard vessels than on armed forces vessels," he said.

About 35 per cent of the enrolment at the Coast Guard College at Sydney, N.S., was made up of former cadets and many entered the marine section of the RCMP in addition to the armed forces.

Sea voyages are "carrots you hold in front of the kids," he said. Every year cadets sail on coast guard vessels at sea and on inland waters.

Others join the crews of weather ships and some get a chance to travel on naval ships from the East Coast to British Columbia through the Panama Canal.

Cadets attending summer camps at the B.C. bases of Quadra and Esquimalt are responsible for patrolling part of the area between Vancouver Island and the mainland in 65-foot patrol boats for the forces' air-sea rescue unit. Others follow courses in scuba diving.

Pensioners Going Abroad Need Advice on Taxes

OTTAWA (CP) — Pensioners and others planning long trips abroad would be well advised to put their tax affairs in order before leaving.

The revenue department has a campaign under way to ensure that taxes are collected from such payments as pensions before the money is sent out of the country.

However, deductions are not required on all pension payments and a trip to a local tax office will sort out some of the details.

There may, for example, be taxes due on a house rented here by someone living abroad.

One question to be considered is whether a traveller continues to be a Canadian resident for tax purposes while abroad. For many this may be best but not for all. Teachers, for example, can live free of income tax in some countries for up to two years.

The general rule is that anyone spending more than half of the tax year in Canada is considered a resident for tax purposes. But a resident is not clearly defined.

Anyone planning a trip abroad during which payments, such as pensions, will be mailed outside the country should consult a government tax office to clarify the situation.

Income from a variety of sources is subject to a 15 per cent non-resident tax if sent to certain countries. The tax—which is to go to 25 per cent next year—does not apply in countries with which Canada has a tax treaty, which include the United States and Britain. Government pensions sent to France or Germany are subject to the non-resident tax but private pension payments are not.

A pension fund or a trust fund will need approval from the revenue department, in some cases, to be exempt from the tax.

If someone maintains a home here, either rented or owned, the person generally is considered a resident for tax purposes. This means, for one thing, that the revenue department expects that person to file a Canadian income tax return.

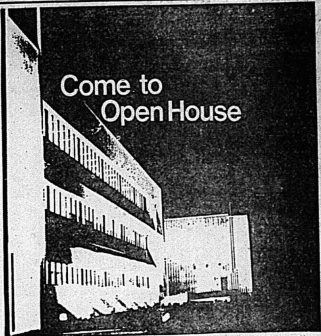
Another tax problem is created when someone rents a home or sub-lets an apartment while living abroad.

There is the possibility of capital gains tax if the house is owned. But it is possible to get an exemption from capital gains tax for up to five years if the home still is claimed as the principle residence.

Tenants have a tax liability under the law if they send rent payments out of the country. Tenants, or agents sending rent outside the country, are required to send 15 per cent of the rent to the revenue department.

Owners of houses, or those sub-letting apartments, must file a return with the revenue department if they are non-residents. They can deduct expenses in computing the 15-per-cent tax.

Teachers are in a special category when travelling to some countries. Tax treaties allow them to live free of income tax for up to two years in several countries, including the U.S. and Britain. France, Australia and New Zealand are among countries which do not share such agreements with Canada.



Displays, demonstrations, films, arts and crafts from the four counties; plus labs, workshop, television and radio studios, bands, dancing, refreshments . . .

Since 1970 a total of 20 Transit Operations across Canada have changed to an Exact fare System. One of the main reasons for this change is for the protection of Bus Drivers. The recent events in Toronto involving the murder of one Taxi Driver and the robbery of a second at knife point certainly points out the dangers involved.

Each passenger will be expected to have the exact fare ready when they board the bus. If you are unable to have the exact fare, please board the bus and discuss the problem with the bus driver. He will be happy to assist you to the best of his ability. Quite often another passenger on the bus may be able to make change for you etc.

The Commission and its Employees intend to make every effort to assure you that no one is refused a ride and in return we are respectfully requesting the full co-operation of our passengers.

Climbing Ship's Ladder Worst Job in Arrest

SUMMERSIDE, P.E.I. (CP) — Climbing an extension ladder set precariously against the side of the salvage ship Answer was about the most hazardous part of a successful effort to take control of the vessel, said a member of the RCMP boarding party stationed at Summerside.

Cpl. David Holmes was one of a group of officers on Prince Edward Island designated to take part in the recent boarding of the runaway vessel in the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Cpl. Holmes said the danger the RCMP faced lay in a 300-foot walk across the ice from the icebreaker Sir John A. Macdonald and climbing the ladder, which was set on thin ice and bent under the weight of each officer as they climbed aboard.

He said the first persons the policemen saw after going over the gunwales were reporters who were following the story of Capt. Brian Erb, his young crew and the ship.

Capt. Erb, who has been charged with stealing the ship, was described by the officer as being cordial and polite and the crew co-operative.

Cpl. Holmes said the ship was dirty and while the crew did not seem uncomfortable, there was little food left.

He said that when all on board were ready to leave the Answer, he was "relieved to see that the John A. had come alongside and put up boarding equipment so we . . . didn't have to go down that ladder again."

After boaring the icebreaker, the crew and captain were given the opportunity to clean up and to eat.

"One interesting thing was the way Capt. Erb was treated by the captain of the John A. He was invited to sit at the captain's table for dinner even though he was a prisoner."

Cpl. Holmes said five members of the RCMP vessel Nicholson later were put aboard the Answer and found it in poor condition.

He said the seagoing officers had difficulty starting one of the engines.

Ghosts Haunt West Bengal State Building

BOMBAY (CP) — One of the most historic public buildings in India is said to be haunted.

Newspaper reports say that ghosts have been seen in the main conference hall of Writers Building, headquarters of the West Bengal state administration in Calcutta.

The Times of India News Service identified one of the ghosts as that of the wife of a British official.

In British colonial days the hall was used by senior officials for cocktail parties. During one of the riotous events an Englishwoman is reported to have collapsed and died.

Bengali-language newspapers say there was a drunken fight among the guests one night some 60 years ago and several were knifed to death. Since then, the high-ceilinged conference hall is said to have been haunted by ghosts.

The Times of India News Service quotes a messenger boy of Chief Minister Sidharta Ray as saying he has heard "angry stamping of feet and loud wailing."

A senior government official is quoted as saying that British administrators had conceded that the building is haunted.

"I know it is considered old-fashioned to believe in ghosts," said the official. "But there are documents in West Bengal's state archives to show that a senior British official commissioned a Tibetan lama to try to drive away the ghosts."

Chief Minister Ray is said to have laughed at the story. But a night watchman who patrols the labyrinthine passages of Writers Building said: "everything depends on where you are placed between 9 p.m. and 5 a.m. If you are alone at midnight near the conference hall, the sounds you hear are enough to drive you crazy."

Meanwhile, several Calcutta youths have asked the government to give them an opportunity to prove that the ghost story is a myth. They have offered to spend a night alone in the conference hall.

"If the British were superstitious, it does not mean we should accept their version without an investigation," said Dilip Mazumdar, a student of Calcutta University.

Let us Worship Together at Easter

Experience of Christians Is Proof of Resurrection

By GORDEN C. SMYTHHE

The prime evidence of the Resurrection is the experience of the early Christians. They were so aware of, Christ's living presence that three great things happened which were of a different order from that could have happened as the result of another martyr-death like that of Socrates.

First of those historical events was the birth of the Church. All the evidence of the New Testament indicates that the Church was in no sense a society for perpetuating the memory of a dead leader. The Church sprang into being because his followers were convinced that he was alive and with them. Apart from that, the Christian movement would have died when Jesus hung on the Cross.

The second event was the observance of the day on which the Lord arose as the great day of worship. The early Christians were Jews who had been reared in an almost fanatical devotion to the Sabbath. The adoption of another day as their Holy Day could be the result only of something revolutionary in their experience. For them, as someone has said, every Sunday was, in its way, "a little Easter".

The third event that points to the Ressurection is the observance of the Lord's Supper as a sacrament of glad thanksgiving. Even though it was associated with the sad meeting of the apostles with their Master, it was not recognized as an occasion for mournful memories. His death had been the entrance to new life, both for him and for them. They therefore called it "Eucharist", a Greek word whose key meaning is thankfulness.

We use a strange word like miracle to describe the Resurrection. It is a miracle in the sense of Dr. Leslie D. Weatherhead's definition of it as an event "by which God accomplishes his purpose through the release of energies which are normal on a plane of being higher than any with which we are familiar."

Implied in this, of course, is a view of the universe, not as a closed mechanical system but as the scene of man's response to God's creative activity. Surely our generation, with its many discoveries, can see that nature is more mysterious or surprising than was assumed.

So skepticism should be less. And lesser still when one reflects, not on the Resurrection by itself but on the person of Jesus Christ. He is the great miracle. His ministry has continued down the centuries, renewing individual lives and human societies.

Christ's victory over death assures us of life beyond death, and assures us also that the final triumph on this earth is not with the powers of evil but with Almighty God.

Old Time Religion In Demand Today

TORONTO (CP) — Gimme that old time religion. . . .

That's the message many Toronto clergymen are getting in these days of rising unemployment, inflation and recession.

"We're hearing this kind of plea about stressing the gospel," said Rev. J. Berkeley Reynolds of the United Church of Canada. "It's in all the churches."

Mr. Reynolds, regarded as a conservative in United Church ranks, said it is a healthy sign to see congregations returning to an evangelical form of worship.

"It's better to talk about God than sit around examining one's belly button."

Rev. D. C. Hunt, area dean of the Anglican Church and rector of the church of the Messiah, said there is "real therapy in the familiar." On his visits to churches, the congregation asked for old favorites such as the 23rd Psalm instead of things added to church liturgy in the last 10 years.

Rev. William McGeachie, ideological consultant to the Anglican Bishop of Toronto, said recent efforts heve been to recover the fundamentals of worship, faith and church life.

He said his position was created because the bishop "was convinced the time was ripe for a real theological emphasis."

"He wanted a high profile for the roots and heritage of the faith."

Demands by the younger clergy to "get with it" have led to a neglect of the gospel, he said. Now clergymen are trying harder to preach biblically and doctrinally. social and political action were being played down.

He said with secular society falling apart, it is a bad time for churches to try and translate faith into humanist terms.

Housing for Elderly on Council Agenda

More housing for the elderly in Belleville may come under provincial study after next Tuesday's meeting of city council.

On council's agenda is its suggested participation in the needed preliminaries for such development: An Ontario government needs study on rent-geared-to-income accommodation for senior citizens.

Council already has asked for 150 more senior citizens' units in the city.

Meantime, formal approval of the city's official plan again is before council. This is because original application earlier this year for provincial approval does not now coincide with senior government procedures.

The original document was submitted as the official plan for the Belleville section of the Quinte Planning area (including Sidney and Thurlow townships and Trenton). The area has not yet completed its overall official plan. The housing ministry therefore suggests the Belleville plan be submitted as an amendment to its older, existing plan for the city — since this would expedite approval of the city's new plan.

Also before council is a long-lingering issue — barbershop definotions. The change in hair-styling in recent years has created a polarity between terms — barbers and hair stylists — which involves the city's closing-hours ordinance for the trade.

Also anticipated at the meeting is a delegation from the Ontario Humane Society, with which the city has decided to end its contract next month and establish its own animal control service.

Among applications for city grants: $15,000, from the Hastings County Museum; $12,000 from the United Community Services; $1,000 from the Highlands of Hastings Tourist Region.

Labor Objects To Residence Rule

A Belleville alderman's proposal that hiring of civic employees should hinge on their residency inside city limits now has drawn fire from organized labor.

Douglas Sword, president of the Quinte and District Labor Council (QDLC) says such a move should be rejected as "parochialism by bylaw."

Mr. Sword issued the formal protest this weekend on behalf of the QDLC.

The announcement criticizes a motion of Ald. Joe Cox scheduled for debate at Tuesday's meeting of city council.

The councillor March 19 introduced a notice-of-motion proposing that city residency be a condition — where possible . . . of hiring Belleville municipal employees.

Spokesmen for organized labor in city employ already have queried the implications of such a move. Representatives for locals of the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE) have said they are seeking advice from union lawyers on its legality. Residency restrictions have been negotiated out of work contracts, they say.

Peter Ouderkirk, president of CUPE Local 140 — bargaining agent for city hall technical and clerical staff — said Thursday night, before city hall closed for the Easter holiday, his labor unit may send a deputation to Tuesday's meeting to oppose the proposal.

Mr. Sword said the QDLC felt Ald. Cox's suggestion was "an attempt to force the shortcomings of urban living" on workers who have escaped to the "serenity" of a rural environment.

The contributions of residents to the city economy — either by consumer spending or community-service donations - should be considered, he said.

In such perspective "parochialism by bylaw becomes somewhat ridiculous . . . We don't feel the city should adopt a closed-door policy and we don't feel it should make it a matter of record . .," said Mr. Sword.

The QDLC president said the same proposal some years ago had been put before council but rejected

Mr. Sword said the proposal reminded him of stipulations in Russia where residents outside the city boundaries of Moscow required a permit to work inside city limits.

"Would this be Belleville's next step?" he queried.

Education Beat

Teacher Power Touchy Subject

By RON CARSON

Staff Reporter

Many educational issues are destroyed with emotional appeals. The standing argument against teachers seeking election to boards of education falls prey to this error.

Most recently, the issue was raised again by the Hastings-Prince Edward Separate School Board. Trustees voted secretly to reject any move preventing legislation which would disallow teachers from seeking office. Their method of voting was wrong but their conclusion was right.

The negative position argues teachers are too close to the system to be involved in policy-setting processes. It also argues teachers have an unavoidable conflict of interest over salary and contract negotiations.

But what these people are really saying is the government should not give teachers any more political leverage than already exists. Some people in recent years have become skeptical about teacher's federations. Many view them as powerful unions which can influence the government.

These are the feelings which force people to argue in favor of discriminating legislation against teachers. The issue is not teacher representation on school boards but rather it is when and how to curb teacher power.

Many see the teacher sitting on the school board as yet another element in the power struggle. It's fear and distrust that motivates this issue.

The government should not decide who is to sit on boards of education. The electorate, that ambiguous group which is seldom given credit, is the due process which must decide who is to represent the public's interest in education.

The existing legislation is based on common sense and it should be retained. A teacher from a neighboring board can seek election on another board, however, a teacher can not serve on his or her own board of education.

Those who object to the growing strength of teacher federations should not attack the basic rights afforded to teachers by democratic principles.

If they are concerned about the power struggle then petition the provincial government by what ever means possible to restrict the influence of federations on the government and boards of education.

Loyalist Opens Doors Wide Wednesday

An increased number of arts and crafts exhibits from the Quinte area will highlight this year's Loyalist College open house April 2.

Ray Cunningham, chairman of the open house committee, said Wednesday the major display will be contributed to by artists and craftsmen from the four-county area served by the college (Hastings, Lennox-Addington, Northumberland-Durham and Prince Edward).

He said the display, to be set up in the Pioneer Building, will be "largely organized by the extension department." It will include exhibits from Warkworth Institution, he added.

Actual public viewing of college facilities and general displays will occur between 6.30-8.30 p.m. Then a two-hour public dance will follow in the cafeteria to the music of Slewfoot.

Entertainment during the open house portion will include three performances in the gymnasium — singer Danny Matheson (7:30-8), Trenton Citizens Brass Band (8-8:30) and the Cobourg Pipe Band and Highland Dancers (8:30-9).

And in the student lounge will be the Mohawk dancers from the Tyendinaga Reserve and a display of Judo by an extension division group in Brighton.

As a special treat, there will be "roving singers . . . or singers at large who may appear at any time . . . sort of a barbershop quartet," remarked Mr. Cunnington.

As for night classes, "teaching will be cancelled but there might be some examples of teaching going on," he noted.

There will even be an opportunity for people to investigate joining classes. "People actually actively interested . . . in finding out details about the program, the registrar's office will be open," Mr. Cunnington pointed out.

He said there will be no guided tours but if ayone has an idea of what they wish to see, guides will be available to show the way.

All rooms, shops, laboratories and studios will be open, he emphasized. "The whole college will be on display."

Mr. Cunnington suggested everyone should visit both the Kente and Pioneer buildings. Light refreshments will be provided and cablevue will be active.

He estimated the event crowd as las year which wsa set at about 6,000 visitors.

City Clergymen Feel Easter More Relevant Than Ever

REV. C. K. BENN

Calvary Temple

"To know Christ and His resurrection power in our lives is relevant all year," says Rev. C. K. Benn of Calvary Temple. "If we don't know Jesus Christ, if we don't have a personal contact with him, Easter is no more than a commercial event. Easter is as relevant in the '70s as at any other time in history. There's actually more proof of the resurrection of Christ than of any event in history."

MSGR. J. A. CARLEY

St. Joseph's Catholic

"I believe the resurrection is a proof, a pledge and a plea," comments Msgr. J. A. Carley of St. Joseph's Catholic Church. ". . . proof that Christ is God, a pledge that one day on His word we will rise again and a plea that one day we should come forth from the tomb of any sin like hatred with the wounds of any sin forgotten and shining with forgiveness."

REV. L. K. DANIEL

Emmanuel Baptist

"I think the world is staggering now because of a lack of faith," says Rev. L. Keith Daniel of Emmanuel Baptist Church. He notes some people believe in Christian values but not in the basis for these values. He says the crucifixion "gives a basis for your confidence and your actions. We've been passing through an upsurge in disbelief. The danger right now is most people don't believe in it (Easter)."

REV. D. HIMMELMAN

Holy Trinity Lutheran

"There's nothing for the Christian church that can be more relevant because the resurrection started the . . . church," remarks Rev. Donald Himmelman of Holy Trinity Lutheran Church, past president of the Belleville Ministerial Association. "It's really the pinnacle of the religious faith. It certainly represents our thinking in terms of faith and the meaning of life. That's the whole reason why the church is here in the first place."

CAPTAIN BOB SLOUS

Salvation Army

"The true meaning of Easter in one's life it not going to be proved by one's attendance in church on Easter Sunday but on the following Sunday," comments Capt. Bob Slous of the Salvation Army. "Proof of its relevance is shown in people's daily experience. Any practical implications of Christian service or witness today must stem from the realty of a living Christ. This is the very essence of Christian life."

REV. A. L. SUTHERLAND

St. Andrew's Presbyterian

Rev. A. L. Sutherland of St Andrew's Presbyterian Church points out, "it gives the whole idea of worthwhileness to life and hope . . that whole perspective . . . some reason for living . . . it makes life meningful It dosn't los its rlingful It doesn't lose its relevance. I think it's very relevant to church people to whom it's still meaningful."

CANON PETER TETT

St. Thomas Anglican

"Easter is the pivot of Christian faith beliefs," says Canon Peter M. Tett of St. Thomas Parish Hall. "I think it is very relevant as long as the Christian faith survives. Easter and Christmas are the two religious observances even nominal Christians do retain. They do still come out in large numbers."

REV. GEORGE WARD

Bridge St. United

Rev. George Ward of Bridge St. United Church says, "the '70s do not affect the truth of Easter. The truth of Easter should affect the '70s. Easter is relevant for any day. It will be relevant a thousand years from now."

Nordiques Hear Toro Footsteps

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

After almost half a season trailing Quebec Nordiques in the World Hockey Association's Canadian Division, Toronto Toros suddenly see a chance to retake the lead.

No sooner had the Toros beaten Edmonton Oilers 5-4 Friday night than they were looking forward to tonight's visit to Quebec where a win over the Nordiques could tie them for the lead.

Quebec, with 84 points, has six games remaining, including three at home and three on the road. Toronto, with 82 points, has four home games after tonight's trip to Quebec City.

"It looks like tomorrow night's game against Quebec is going to be the game of the year," said Toros coach Bobby Leduc.

In one other WHA game Friday, Phoenix Roadrunners and Minnesota Fighting Saints tied 2-2.

In Thursday's games, Gordie Howe ran his major-league career total to 2,001 points when he scored two goals and two assists in Houston Aeros' 8-0 win over Winnipeg Jets while New England Whalers beat Cleveland Crusaders 5-3, San Diego Mariners defeated Indianapolis Racers 5-2 and Edmonton tied 2-2 against Baltimore Blades.

Leduc and his players have stopped worrying about Winnipeg overtaking them for second place and are aiming for first.

"I think everybody on this team wants first place," said Leduc. "Winnipeg is now six points back of us and they have six games left. They'll have to win four of six and we'll have to lose all of ours to beat us out for second spot and I don't think that's going to happen."

The Toros victory eliminated both the Oilers' and Vancouver Blazers' chances of overtaking Toronto for second spot. Edmonton could still tie Toronto on points but Toronto would qualify by virtue of more wins.

The loss left Bill Hunter, Edmonton manager-coach, in a bitter mood and he sounded off at Toros president John F. Bassett who has signed promising junior player Mark Napier without waiting for the WHA draft.

"I hope the Toros go out of the playoffs in four straight games," said Hunter. "It's a disgrace signing an 18-year-old without going through a draft. The Toros are ruining the league and it's guys like Bassett causing the ruination."

The star of the Toros' win was centre Wayne Dillon who had two goals and two assists, running his season's points total to 92, tying the Toros club record set by Wayne Carleton, now with New England.

Tom Simpson added his 51st goal and Vaclav Nedomansky and Frank Mahovlich added single goals. Ken Baird, Blair MacDonald, Bruce MacGregor and Tim Sheehy scored for the Oilers.

Rob Florek scored late in the third period to give Phoenix the tie that lasted through overtime against Minnesota.

Phoenix took an early lead on a goal by Murray Keogan but the Saints went in front on third-period scores by Don Tannahill and Mike Antonovich.

Vail Bright Light for Flames

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Eric Vail of Atlanta Flames made another strong bid Friday for the National Hockey League Rookie-of-the-Year award when he scored his 35th and 36th goals of the season.

The two goals allowed the Flames to recover from a 2-0 Buffalo lead and the Flames went on to beat the Sabres 3-2.

In other NHL games Friday, Washington Capitals won their first road victory of the season, beating California Seals 5-3 at Oakland, while Vancouver Canucks defeated Los Angeles Kings 4-2.

Tom Lysiaks power-play goal at 13:38 of the third period gave Atlanta the come-from-behind victory which enabled the Flames to close to within three points of third-place New York Islanders in the race for a Patrick Division playoff berth.

Vail, who finished his first pro season last year with only 10 goals for Omaha in the Central Hockey League and two goals in 23 games with the Flames, scored his first goal of the night in the first period.

Buffalo clung to its 2-1 lead until midway in the final period when Vail tied it up, skating in to flip a backhand shot over a sprawling goalie Gerry Desjardins.

The Atlanta crowd of 13,786 gave Vail a long standing ovation for the tying goal.

"I've never seen any more enthusiastic reaction from a crowd," said Flames coach Fred Creighton.

"If that doesn't pump you up, I don't know what will. You would have to be a statue not to be affected by it. I know it gave me a tingle and I'm sure it got to the players, too. I'm sure that ovation had a great deal to do with our scoring the winning goal."

Nelson Pyatt scored twice to help Washington to its first victory in 38 games on the road this season.

The Capitals were never behind as Doug Mohns, Ron Anderson and Gord Smith scored to give them a 3-1 first-period lead.

The Seals tied it after a second-period score by Charlie Simmer and Dave Gardner's goal early in the third period, but Pyatt's two goals clinched the win.

At Vancouver, the Canucks' win gave them a one-point lead over Chicago Black Hawks and a three-point lead over third-place St. Louis Blues atop the Smythe Division.

John Gould, Leon Rochefort, Dennis Ververgaert and Don Lever scored for the Canucks who outshot the Kings 41-16.

Bob Nevin and Bob Berry scored for Los Angeles.

Troubles Mount For Marlboros

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Marlboros not only had troubles on the ice Friday but off the ice their woes continued to mount.

Kingston Canadians defeated Toronto 9-4 to even their Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A quarter final series at 2-2 in points while a Marlboros 48-goal scorer celebrated his 18th birthday by refusing to play that night's game.

In other eight-point series action Sudbury Wolves won their third straight game, defeating Ottawa '67s 7-5 and Oshawa Generals and Peterborough Petes tied 4-4.

Play resumes tonight with Oshawa in Peterborough and Hamilton Fincups travelling to meet St. Catharines Black Hawks.

On Sunday, Kingston visits Toronto and Ottawa again entertains Sudbury.

A sellout crowd of 4,072 in Kingston watched the Canadians take period leads of 6-0 and 7-1 and former Marlboro Greg Hotham score three goals.

Brad Rhiness scored a pair and assisted on three others while other Kingston goals went to Larry Murphy, Mark Suzor, Tony McKegney and Rob Plumb.

Mark Napier, Craig Crawford, Ron Wilson and John Smrke replied for Toronto, outshot 48-32.

Earlier Friday, two hours before the team bus left for Kingston, forward John Anderson told Frank Bonello, Marlboro general manager, that he would not make the trip.

Anderson joins linemate John Tonelli, who withdraw Wednesday on his 18th birthday.

The players are concerned that to continue playing hockey after they are eligible to sign professional contracts would prevent their signing with professional clubs.

Anderson told Bonello that he has not been approached by a professional club, but wants to know where he stands in respect to the Marlboro contract, which he, Tonelli and other Marlboros signed at the beginning of the season.

Tonelli has signed a conditional contract with the Houston Aeros of the World Hockey Association.

Wolves 7 '67s 5

A crowd of 6,210 fans in Ottawa watched Sudbury build up period leads of 3-2 and 5-2 to go on to take a 6-0 lead in points.

Rod Schutt led the Wolves with two goals while Ron Duguay, Ron Mason, Richie Hansen, Dave Farrish and Paul Crowley got the others.

Norm Kajola, Tim Young, Doug Wilson, Peter Lee and Dan Blair replied for Ottawa, outshot 37-31.

Petes 4 Generals 4

Mike Fryia scored the tying goal midway through the third period, capping the Peterborough three-goal rally.

After a scoreless first period, the Generals took a 3-1 lead early in the third period. The win gives the Petes a 5-1 margin in points.

Other Peterborough goals went to Dave Shand, Mark Perras and Doug Jarvis.

Brian Dillon, Pete Vandemark, Joe Kowal and Glenn Kirkham replied for Oshawa which outshot the visitors 36-34 before 2,407 spectators at home.

Signed by Network

TORONTO (CP) — Mike Wadsworth, a former defensive linesman with Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League, has been signed by the CTV network as color commentator for the 1975-76 CFL television season. Wadsworth, a Toronto lawyer, formerly was color commentator for Argonaut games at radio station CFTR in Toronto. He joins Pat Marsden and Bill Stephenson in the network's CFL broadcast booth.

Howe Skates Past 2000 Mark

HOUSTON (AP) — Gordie Howe felt good and was confident it was going to be a "skate night".

The 46-year-old Houston Aeros right-winger was right. He skated so well Thursday night he scored two goals and had two assists, increasing his career scoring total to 2,001 points, in the Aeros' 8-0 World Hockey Association victory over Winnipeg Jets.

No other major league hockey player has reached the 2,000 mark. Bobby Hull of Winnipeg is second in career points with 1,428.

Gordie, who plans to retire after playing just one game next season, said he had been working for the 2,000-point mark.

"And it was good to get it on a night when everything fell into place," he said.

Howe was pleased that goalie Ron Grahame got his fourth shutout of the season, that the Aeros had clinched the WHA's Western Division title, and that son Mark Howe got a goal.

"I felt good," Gordie said. "When we were skating in warmup, my legs felt good and I told Mark it was going to be a skate night. It all adds to the enjoyment of the game.'

Against Winnipeg, Gordie skated around Hull to score a short-handed goal and his 1,998th point at 11:08 in the first period. At 9:03 in the third period, he got his 32nd goal of the season.

Just 27 seconds later, Howe centred to Jim Sherrit for his 2,000th point when Sherrit's goal gave the Aeros a 6-0 lead. Gordie's final point of the night came at 16:10 when he and Sherrit provided assists for Mark's 32nd goal of the season.

Coach Bill Dineen said he believed the Aeros this year are 25 per cent better than the Houston team that won the WHA championship last season.

"We have the depth this year," he said. "That and our ability to win on the road have been our improvement this year."

A first-period goal against Winnipeg by Glen Irwin set a WHA record for the most goals by a team in a single season. The previous mark of 332 was set by Minnesota Fighting Saints last season.

The Aeros also set a WHA record for the most games won in a season at 49. They set the league record of 48 last season.

It was Houston's sixth shutout of the season, also a WHA record.

18th Birthdays Rough on Marlies

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—Toronto Marlboro John Anderson celebrated his 18th birthday Friday by refusing to play in an Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A playoff game against Kingston Canadians.

Anderson, a 48 - goal scorer this season, joins linemate John Tonelli, who withdrew on his 18th birthday Wednesday—date of the first quarter-final game.

As 18-year olds, both players, eligible for professional hockey, are concerned that to continue play after reaching the age of majority would prevent them signing from professional contracts.

Frank Bonello, Toronto general—manager, has refused to revoke the standard OHA contract which Tonelli, Anderson and other Marlboros signed at the beginning of the season.

Bonello said Anderson, unlike Tonelli, has not requested that his three-year contract be changed to free him to sign with a professional club at the season's end.

Anderson told Bonello in a telephone call two hours before the team bus left for Kingston Friday that he has not been approached by a professional club and wanted to know where he stands in respect to his Toronto contract.

Tonelli has signed a conditional contract with Hoston Aeros of the World Hockey Association.

Another team-mate, Mark Napier, has signed a pro contract with Toronto Toros of the WHA for next season.

Bonello also said that Anderson and his lawyer Norm Caplan asked for assurance from OHA legal advisor Joe Kane that the Toronto contract would not be binding and would not prevent Anderson from turning professional.

"I guess the only way we are going to find out if it is a valid contract is if somebody takes it to court," Bonello said.

On Sunday, Trevor Johansen turns 18.

In the game Friday, Kingston defeated Toronto 9-4 to even the eight-point series at 2-2. The series resumes Sunday in Toronto.

Foresters In Final

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — Al Osborne's goal at 2:05 of overtime gave Brantford Foresters a berth Friday in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A best-of-seven playoff final.

The Foresters defeated Whitby McDonalds 4-3 in the seventh and deciding game of their semi-final series before 1,449 fans.

Brantford will face Barrie Flyers who earlier eliminated Orillia Terriers in four consecutive games. Game dates have not been decided.

The Foresters came from behind a two-goal deficit. Whitby led 2-1 at the end of the first period and the score was tied 2-2 at the end of the second.

Osborne's goal was his second of the game. Playing-coach John McMillan and Wayne Ego each scored singles.

Steve Hunt, Pete Vipond and Carl Ahlsten scored for Whitby, which outshot the Foresters 38-37.

Belleville Out at Georgetown

GEORGETOWN, Ont. (CP) — Brian Freshwater scored two unassisted, short-handed goals Friday to lead Detroit Little Ceasars to victory over Detroit Chevy in the A series of the Kinsmen international bantam hockey tournament.

The Ceasars won the first game 2-0 and lost the second 2-1, but won a spot in the final today against Burlington, Ont. on the basis of total goals scored during the two-game series.

Burlington defeated Nepean, Ont. in semi-final action 5-0 and 4-0.

In B series action, Brockville, Ont. downed Gloucester, Ont. 4-1 and 6-1 to meet Port Colborne, Ont. in the final today.

Markham, Ont. beat Ancaster, Ont. 2-0 in the first game in C series action, then tied the second 4-4. Markham will face Napanee, Ont. in the series final.

In D series action, Frazer, Mich., downed Port Perry, Ont 6-3 in the first match and lost the second 5-4. Frazer won a spot in the final against Levack, Ont.

Levack tied Bolton, Ont. 2-2 and 4-1 in the second game to qualify for the final.

CIAU Looking at Metric System

OTTAWA (CP) — Effects of future metric conversion on football are being considered by the rules committee for amateur football, the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union (CIAU) has announced.

The committee—founded by the CIAU to develop a rule book for university football 15 years ago—decided at its annual meeting Wednesday to study a proposal for changing field dimensions to metric units and to examine other possible effects of the conversion on the game, a CIAU spokesman said.

Changes in the committee's rule book—the only one used by amateur football in Canada's also included changes in time-out periods, the use of obscene language by players and rough play.

Perfect Record for Knights On March to Tourney Title

By DOUG WALSH
Sports Editor

TRENTON — Toronto Blues elected to spend much of their time in one, two and three-man sorties against Ottawa West Golden Knight ace Bobby Smith here, Thursday night and that questionable practice cost them heavily.

By the time Blues realized the futility of their attempts to blanket Smith, they were trailing on the scoreboard 4-1 and play was in the third period.

Blues turned to a more reasonable game plan and closed the gap to 4-3 with a pair of counters. But close was all they could manage.

Ottawa's Tom Rutherford found the empty Toronto net with 33 seconds remaining to cement his club's perfect record on the march to the grand championship of the Golden Hawk Midget Hockey Tournament. Final score was 5-3.

It was the second win of the day for Knights who finished the tourney with a 6-0 mark. Earlier they shaded Nepean Raiders 3-2 in a showdown of unbeaten teams, in the A final.

Blues advanced to the shot at the grand championship by knocking Belleville Lions out 6-2 and then sending last year's winner, Nepean home, 3-2.

Nepean, rated a good chance to repeat as champions, were in the hunt until the last day and it was only then that Raiders tasted defeat and each time by a one-goal margin.

In the title match, Blues shot in front early in the second period but later in the same frame, Smith, a rangy winger with all the moves, went to work.

Reported to be ticketed for delivery to Ottawa '67s of the Major Junior A Hockey League next season, Smith scored once and helped arrange another pair of Counters as Knights potted four to take command.

Martin Greenop sparked a Toronto comeback with two goals, giving Blues the opportunity to pull goalie Bill Jenkins with 58 seconds remaining in regulation time, in a last ditch effort to get the equalizer.

The move backfired when Rutherford won a race to the rolling puck in Toronto territory and fired it home.

Jenkins, later to share tournament most valuable goalie honors with teammate Vince Fiore, was all that held Blues in the game when they were giving all that attention to Smith. Inone rapid fire sequence, Jenkins stopped three point-blank drives; cleared the puck to the corner, and then was called on for two more big saves before flopping, exhausted, puck smothered, to halt the play.

Rutherford's insurance marker was his second of the game. Hugh Mitchener, Barry Hills and Smith had the others.

John Deyman added a single Toronto counter to the pair by Greenop.

Blues had to work to get by Nepean in the tourney's 61st game. Raiders opened up a 2-0 lead but couldn't hang on as Bob Millard, John Lovatsis and Greenop counted in the third period to pull it out 3-2.

Smith didn't score in the Ottawa cliff-hanger with Nepean but he set up all three of his club's goals. Dan Alcorn shot a pair for Knights, including the winner, in the 3-2 squeaker.

In their first match of the day, Blues gained a measure of revenge when they put Belleville Lions on the sidelines, 6-2.

It was Lions who put Blues on the B side in tourney play when they tripped the Toronto squad 4-1, Sunday.

A pair of Toronto goals 38 seconds apart early in the game made things tough for the Belleville squad.

Blues were in front 6-0 after two periods but Lions refused to quit and scored the only two goals of the final 20 minutes.

Lovatsis led the Toronto attack with three goals.

Lions' goals were supplied by Robb Chase and Kelvin Pope.

Officials of the Belleville club had to be satisfied with their club's showing. Lions were one of four teams still in the running on the final day of the 62-game, six-day event.

Ottawa's Smith Takes MVP Award

TRENTON — Doug Beale, president of the Trenton Minor Hockey Association; Harold A. Roberts, tournament chairman; Deno Gettas, assistant chairman; Sharon Gaudaur, tournament co-ordinator; John Lyttle, billet chairman; Bob Cameron, in charge of first aid and referees; Bill Slimmon, timekeepers; Jim Steenburg, registrar; Jack Wilson, souvenirs and publicity, and Bill Boutilier, all-star selections, are a few of the people responsible for the success of this year's Golden Hawk Midget Hockey Tournament.

Most of the group were on hand to officiate at trophy presentations following Ottawa West Golden Knights' grand championship win, Thursday night at the Community Gardens here.

Knights took the Miller Brothers Co., Ltd. Trophy while the James Kerr Memorial Trophy went to Toronto Blues, runnersup.

As a runnerup Nepean Raiders received the Quinte Machine and Repair Co. Trophy and Belleville Lions, B runnerup, took the Trenton Minor Hockey Association Trophy.

Recipient of tournaments most valuable player and most valuable forward awards was Golden Knights' Bobby Smith who picked up a free week at Tam O'Shanter Hockey School, the Bill Huffman Trophy and a wrist watch from Ostranders Jewellers for his efforts.

Selected as the most gentlemanly player was Frankford's Paul Scobie. Most valuable defenceman honors went to Nepean's Allen Robinson while the Toronto Blues' tandem of Bill Jenkins and Vince Riore shared the most valuable goalie award.

Members of the Ottawa and Toronto teams each received a Golden Hawk "shell" jacket.

B Runnerup

Trenton Golden Hawk Midget Hockey Tournament timekeeper chairman Bill Slimmon presents Trenton Minor Hockey Association Trophy to Paul Hayman, captain of Belleville Lions Majors. Lions finished 32-team tournament as runner-sup to B champion after 6-2 Thursday. loss to Toronto Blues.

Reid's In Final

Moe Hunter's single goal of the game at 5:46 of the opening period was all Reid's Dairy needed to advance to Quinte Hockey League final series. Hunter's marker proved to be the winner as Reid's shutout Stinson Construction 3-0 to win their best-of-five semi-final series. The two clubs were tied previous to Thursday's encounter. They had each won two with one game tied.

The tally from Hunter stood as the lone light on the scoreboard until 11:24 of the final frame when Ralph Plane scored.

On the final buzzer of the game, Bob Boyle made it 3-0 as he hit the open net.

Reid's now faces Cornerstone Builders for the league championship. That series begins Thursday at the Memorial Arena. Game Time is 8:30 p.m.

Frame Hopes to See Organized Junior Development for Tennis

Jack Frame is a 45-year-old tennis instructor. He's lived in the Belleville area for four years. Since he's come to this region he has established tennis programs in nearly all the small towns throughout the Belleville hinterland.

Trenton, Brighton, Cobourg, Port Hope, Campbellford, Corbyville, Napanee and Bayside have all felt the effects of his teachings. In the former four, his influence was instrumental in forming competitive tennis teams for the North Shore Tennis League (one which Belleville rarely participates in).

Frame is frustrated, however. His penetration inside the Belleville city limits has been almost nil.

Frame's prime concern is to establish, in Belleville, a Junior Tennis Development Program. Though he makes his living by way of his tennis instruction (he is also currently involved with the YMCA's Outreach program) he says he would be willing to donate his time to get such a program off the ground.

"It gauls me to think we don't have a junior program," said Frame, "all the towns that surround us are interested in developing their young talent, but Belleville is content to let an untapped resource go undeveloped."

Frame has been able to take one young soul in hand. Gary Adams, of Consecon, began playing tennis when he was 12. A year later he fell under the wing of Frame. Now, at age 17, Adams is the number one seeded player by the Eastern Ontario Lawn Tennis Association.

"I really found it beneficial to be taught the correct way," said Adams, "I had only been playing a year on my own before Jack started teaching me, but even by that time I had developed some bad playing habits."

"If you're taught the right way from the beginning you can't go wrong," added the prodigy.

Adams now helps Frame instruct a junior development program sponsored by the Recreation and Arena Department. At the present time a mid-winter break program is under way. Commencing April 4, juniors (12-18 years of age) may enroll in a six-week program (also sponsored by the Recreation and Arena Department). This program consists of one Friday afternoon session per week with the overall cost at $10. Registration is still open for this course. Interested juniors should visit the Recreation and Arena Department on Pinnacle Street.

Frame believes that even this is hardly enough. "I'd really like to see a decent summer junior development program get going."

The pro feels that by a well organized summer program the city will be able to develop at least 10 competitive youngsters a year and would therefore be able to be adequately represented in the North Shore Tennis League and at Ontario Lawn Tennis Association sanctioned competitions.

Gary Adams (right), top seeded junior in Eastern Ontario, gives instruction to a group of players — age 12-18 — at Ben Bleecker Auditorium. His class consists of (left-to-right) Karen Claney, Wayne Hockney, Julie Nightingale, Doug Mitchell and Dale Swallow. Adams is the assistant instructor at the mid-winter break junior tennis development program, sponsored by the Recreation and Arena Department. The city plans to run another program, beginning April 4, at which Gary may also be helping with instruction.

Duggan and Nicks Eye Greater Laurels

By MIKE BRADSHAW
Sports Staff

Where do you go when you move to the head of the class? You move to a better class.

Gary Duggan, coach of the Nicholson Catholic College Nicks, isn't exactly sure what lies ahead for his senior basketball team, but he isn't the kind of guy who looks to last week's vitamins for this week's energy.

"I'm not sure what we'll do next year," said Duggan, "I really haven't had time to talk it over with the rest of the team."

Duggan's Nicks captured the Ontario Federation of Schools Athletic Associations (OFSAA) A championship last week in Collingwood. The Nicks took the title with nearly an entire first year squad. For 1976 the Nicks have 10 of 12 players returning.

"Peter Wilkinson and Chris Kalnay are the only ones graduating," said the coach, be able to replace him al- "Kalnay is more or less my sixth man, but I think we'll right."

The championship capped off a very successful season for the local seniors. In all, they won 42 games and lost eight. They won five tournament grand championships and one consolation championship.

"I've been blessed with a great deal of talent and depth," explained Duggan, "more than most teams."

Because of the number of students enrolled at Nicholson Catholic College (450) Duggan may remain in A class competition. But after winning the Ontario championship in A it would only make sense for him to set his sights on an AA or AAA target.

"A team like this only comes along once in a lifetime," expounded the coach, "I really can't commit myself as to what class of ball we'll pay next season. We have until January to decide."

the Quinte Saints, and Brian

Both Jim Murray, coach of MacKenzie, coach of the

GARY DUGGAN

Belleville Collegiate BCI seniors, anticipate the Nicks going AA in '76.

That may not be where the Nicks stop however. They just may go AAA.

"I have at least two and maybe three players on my team right now that should advance to university basketball," said Duggan, "and the only way to get them there is to give them the exposure."

Players get the greatest exposure in AAA competition. University scouts are on hand and television and press coverage is excellent. AAA squads are supposedly the best in the province (although classifications are generally based on enrolment).

Next season BCI, which is AA this year, and Quinte, an AAA team this year, will have to watch out for the Nicks, the best A team in the province this year and quite possibly the best AAA team next year.

Shells Fall One Short in Petawawa

PETAWAWA — One overtime goal was all that stood between spectacular back-to-back tournament wins for Belleville's Shell juvenile all-stars.

The Shells had won five games in a row — three in capturing top honors in the first annual Pembroke juvenile tournament Wednesday — and two more here Thursday before settling for the consolation trophy in a 4-3 overtime loss to the host CFB Petawawa team.

Earlier in the day the Shells downed Eganville 3-1 on goals by Wayne Clapp, Ross MacLeod, and Joe Muldoon, and Don Thompson and Paul Colotelo shared goaltending chores in a 4-0 shutout over Pembroke. Martin Thistel, Joe Muldoon, Mark Foster, and "Rod" Growden accounted for the Belleville scoring.

In the "A" championship final, Belleville had to rally from an early 2-0 deficit on goals by Muldoon and MacLeod and Ken Just's late third period score put the game into overtime.

In all, the Reid Mallory-coached Shells won 24 trophies in their last two days of play this season.

Joe Muldoon was picked as the best forward in the Petawawa tourney, and Don Thompson and Paul Colotelo each were awarded outstanding goaltending trophies, sharing the honors with the two Petawawa backstops.

Belleville's trip to the final also earned the team a handsome consolation trophy.

The previous day, in addition to the Pembroke championship trophy and 16 individual "keepers", Wayne Clapp, Joe Muldoon, and Gord Male won individual game most valuable player awards.

The defensive corps of Clapp, Larry Woodley, and Dave Stott helped keep Belleville's goals-against total in their last six games of the season to a stingy eight.

The Shells spread their 17 goals around, with regular Ross Lawrenson the only forward failing to cash in.

Miller Leaves Quietly

Nicklaus in Limelight

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) —Jack Nicklaus, challenged by Johnny Miller's gaudy exploits of the last year or so, responded with one of the most outstanding efforts of his career Friday, an eight-under-par 63.

"It's a better round than the (record) 64 at Augusta," Nicklaus said, comparing his effort against the 1965 round that matched the record in the Masters.

"This is a tougher course than Augusta."

And, while Nicklaus was stretching his lead to six shots halfway through the $200,000 Heritage Classic, Miller quietly abandoned this resort island off the South Carolina coast.

He was a victim of the 36-hole cut. He shot 151, 22 strokes behind Nicklaus.

It was the first time he had failed to make the cut since the 1973 Canadian Open.

"No excuses," said Miller. "I just played lousy."

Nicklaus' 63, which gave him a two-round total of 129, 13 under par, was two strokes away from the 61s Miller scored in Tucson and Phoenix earlier this season. But the courses and conditions don't compare.

Lee Trevino calls the 6,655-yard par-71 Harbour Town golf links "the toughest course in the world."

Gary Player of South Africa termed it "one of the world's finest; it requires every shot."

And Nicklaus played them all well.

"I didn't hit a bad shot," he said. "I hit three shots that I wasn't completely happy with."

He missed two greens. On one of those he came within three or four inches of holing an explosion shot for birdie. He came out of another bunker to within three feet.

On all the others he laced his shots dead at the pins on the tiny greens that nestle among the massive sand traps and the moss-hung old cypress. He was never more than 22 feet from the cup. His longest birdie putt was 18 feet. Four times he threw his irons inside of three feet—and he missed one of those putts.

Tom Weiskopf matched the previous course record of 65 and was alone in second place, six strokes behind with a 135. Hale Irwin and Tom Kite each shot a 68 and were tied a 137.

Trevino shot 67 for 140 and Player had a 70 for 141. Arnold Palmer shot a 75 for 149.

George Knudson of Toronto survived the cut with a 75 for 148.

Two Three-Run Homers

Montgomery Fills That Gap

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bob Montgomery, a journeyman catcher who'll be 31 next month, is faced with the task of filling in for Boston's injury-prone Carlton Fisk for the second year in a row.

On Friday, he hit a three-run triple off Chicago's Wilbur Wood in the sixth inning and a three-run homer off Jack Kucek in the 10th, leading the Red Sox to a 9-5 exhibition baseball victory over the White Sox.

"Shucks, days like this only come natural," Montgomery joked with reporters. "Just look at the homers I hit and the runs I've driven in in my career."

For the record, Montgomery has 16 homers and 98 RBI in 2[illegible] major league games. With Fisk sidelined for lengthy periods last season with groin and knee injuries, he got into 88 games and hit .252 with four homers and 38 RBIs.

This time, Fisk is out until mid-May at least with a broken arm and Montgomery is due for plenty of action. He seems ready with a .371 spring batting average, 13 hits and nine RBIs.

Montgomery had to share batting laurels Friday with Juan Beniquez, who had two doubles and three singles and doubled home the tying run with two out in the ninth.

Baltimore's hot-hitting Don Baylor is outdoing Montgomery. Baylor hit a two-run homer, his eighth in spring training, leading the Orioles to a 4-2 victory over Kansas City Royals. Baylor, who also doubled, boosted his hitting streak to 14 games and raised his home-run total to eight and his batting average to .547.

Elsewhere, Doc Medich of New York Yankees continued his hot pitching while Cincinnati's Gary Nolan and Texas' Fergie Jenkins took their lumps. A pair of knee cases, Detroit's Willie Horton and Minnesota's Tony Oliva, did some lusty hitting.

Medich allowed three hits and one run in seven innings as the Yanks beat Atlanta Braves 4-1. He has allowed only two runs in 28 innings. Bob Oliver's tie-breaikng two-run homer was the big blow.

Detroit pummeled Cincinnati's Nolan and two relievers for 18 hits in a 7-4 triumph over the Reds. Horton collected three singles and a solo homer while Johnny Bench accounted for three Cincinnati runs with a pair of homers.

Houston Astros rocked Jenkins for 11 hits and eight runs in the first three innings and beat the Rangers 15-10. The Astros got 22 hits, led by Greg Gross, who went three for three and drove in four runs.

Oliva hit two doubles and a single and Vic Albury became the first Minnesota pitcher to go seven innings as the Twins defeated Montreal Expos and Dave McNally 5-1.

In other games, Cleveland Indians edged Oakland A's 9-8, California Angels beat Milwaukee Brewers 3-2, San Francisco Giants defeated San Diego Padres 3-2 and Atlanta Braves beat Los Angeles Dodgers 5-4.

McNally Loses Third In a Row as Expo

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Tony Oliva hit two doubles and a single and southpaw Vic Albury became the first Minnesota pitcher to go as many as seven innings this spring as the Twins defeated Montreal 5-1 in exhibition baseball Friday night.

Oliva, who had been used sparingly this spring, boosted his pre-season batting mark to .346. Rod Carew and Bob Darwin each added two singles in Minnesota's 10-hit attack.

Albury scattered four hits in seven innings and surrendered the lone Expo score on a fifth-inning home run by Pete Mackanin. Jim Hughes finished for the Twins, retiring six consecutive batters.

Expo starter Dave McNally gave up three runs in the opening inning before settling down. McNally lost his third spring game in a row.

Milwaukee Bucking For NBA Playoff Berth

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Milwaukee Bucks won a game Friday night and coach Larry Costello saw a glimmer of hope that his club could still catch a National Basketball Association playoff berth.

"Detroit's got to lose a game," said Costello. "If they do and we win all ours, we're in. If they win them all, we're out. It's that simple."

Detroit plays at Golden State tonight and at home against Chicago next Wednesday. If the Pistons split those two games and Milwaukee wins its last five—including two meetings with the Pistons—both teams would finish with 40-42 records. The Bucks then would earn the wild card playoff berth in the Western Conference with a 5-4 edge in the season series.

Friday night, Milwaukee beat Portland Trail Blazers 128-105 while Detroit was idle. Elsewhere, Houston Rockets downed Cleveland Cavaliers 112-105, New Orleans Jazz stunned New York Knicks 111-102, Boston Celtics defeated Chicago Bulls 97-92, Los Angeles Lakers beat Kansas City-Omaha Kings 114-103, Seattle SuperSonics defeated Golden State Warriors 96-92 and Buffalo Braves beat Philadelphia 76ers 115-104.

The Bucks were led by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar's 38 points and Gary Brokaw's 24 in breaking a five-game losing streak and pulling within 3½ games of Detroit.

Houston pulled into a tie for second place with Cleveland in the Western Division. The victory, the rockets' second in 11 games, put Houston and the Cavaliers one game ahead of New York Knicks in the race for the wild card berth in the East.

Houston had five players in double figures, led by Calvin Murphy with 28 points and Rudy Tomjanovich with 20.

Pete Maravich scored 32 points and grabbed 10 rebounds to lead New Orleans' comeback victory. New York built an 18-point lead in the first quarter but the Jazz scored a team-record 41 points in the second period to tie it at 62 by half-time.

Gail Goodrich scored a career-high 53 points for Los Angeles, 36 in the second half. He pumped in 2 points in the fourth period during a head-to-pumped in 22 points in the Kings' sensational Nate Archibald. Archibald finished with 40 points.

Bob McAdoo's 27 points paced Buffalo's victory. It was Philadelphia's fourth defeat in a row and mathematically ended the 76ers' shot at the playoffs.

Wepner Used Dazzling Footwork to Down Ali

CLEVEAND (AP) — A news photo has shown that Chuck Wepner's foot was on Muhammad Ali's as Ali tried to step backwards and fell in the ninth round of his heavyweight title victory last Monday night.

Referee Tony Perez ruled that Ali was knocked down.

Wepner threw a right to the body, and as Ali moved away he went down.

"It was a plain knockdown," said Perez. "He tripped a little on his own foot after the punch. In my opinion he went down after the punch."

"Play it in slow motion," Ali said. "His foot was on my toe."

A Cleveland Plain Dealer photo proved Ali right.

Gabriel to Appeal Case

HAMILTON (CP) — Tony Gabriel of Hamilton Tiger-Cats has filed a notice of appeal of a Supreme Court of Ontario decision this month that rejected the Canadian Football League player's bid for additional money for two games added to the Eastern Conference schedule last season.

John Agro, a Hamilton lawyer, said Friday that it's "really the Canadian Football League Players' Association that is filing the appeal" and Gabriel is lending "his name" to the association.

In his decision this month, Mr. Justice Dennis O'Leary ruled that Gabriel should have known he was expected to play 16 games for Hamilton rather than the 14 for which he claimed he signed.

he players' association is interested in the case because a ruling favoring Gabriel might affect the status of other players in the eastern conference.

Agro said the hearing into the appeal will be held in Toronto. He hoped it would be before the 1975 football season.

Conroy Keeps Stoke City Alive

LONDON (Reuter) — Irish international Terry Conroy kept Stoke City in the English league soccer championship race Friday with two goals which earned Stoke a 2-2 draw at West Ham.

The point which Stoke gained from the game lifted them from fifth place to third place in the First Division table. Everton is in the lead with 44 points with a match in hand of second-placed Liverpool (43 points) and Stoke (42).

West Ham took the lead in the 28th minute with a score by Trevor Brooking, but Conroy's goals in the 39th and 49th minutes put Stoke in front. Billy Jennings got West Ham's equalizer after 68 minutes.

Joe Corrigan, Manchester City's goalkeeper, frustrated Middlesbrough, whose championship challenge faded with a 2-1 defeat by the Manchester club. Corrigan made a string of superb saves and was beaten only once, by David Mills. Rodney Marsh and Colin Bell scored for City.

Tottenham Hotspur brightened their hopes with a 3-0 win over Wolverhampton Wanderers—their first home win since Dec. 7. Tottenham's new skipper, Steve Perryman, scored twice after John Duncan gave them a 38th-minute lead.

Tottenham now is third from the bottom with 26 points. Luton Town also has 26 points and Carlisle United is in last spot with 21.

Sunderland cut Manchester United's lead at the top of the Second Division from six points to five by defeating Orient 3-0 while United was held to a 1-1 draw on Bristol Rovers ground.

Dave Watson, Billy Hughes and Joe Bolton all scored for Sunderland.

Bristol Rovers substitute Bruce Bannister robbed Manchester United of victory with a last-minute score after Lou Macari gave United the lead in the 35th minute.

Semotiuk Replaces Cosentino

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Darwin Semotiuk, 30, has been named head coach of the University of Western Ontario's football Mustangs, it was announced Thursday.

Gentiles and Not Jews Were Jesus' Executors

By GEORGE CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Christian preaching, dramas and controversial discussion have been employed through the centuries to accuse "the Jews" of killing Christ.

Yet the charge is contrary to the words of Jesus Himself.

It is also demonstrably false, says Paul Winter, a scholar of the New Testament.

"In the contemporary reassessments of Scriptural and historical evidence, the churches generally have recognized this factual substance and voiced remorse for the past slanders against Judaism. They note that they not only were spurious, but actually distort basic church doctrine that all sinful humanity crucifies God's truth and goodness, embodied in Jesus, thus needing His forgiving grace," he said.

For it was Roman soldiers under command of the provincial governor, Pontius Pilate, who went on the night-time patrol that arrested Jesus.

Pilate, sitting as a Roman court, tried the prisoner and sentenced Him to crucifixion. A Roman document stated He was condemned as a menace to imperial rule. And it was Roman soldiers who carried out the execution.

In 1961, a statement by the representative General Assembly of the World Council of Churches read: "Jews were the first to accept Jesus and are not the only ones who do not yet recognize him" in modern times.

Roman Catholicism's Second Vatican Council, signalling a major shift in relation to judaism, declared in 1965 that Christ "in His boundless love freely underwent His passion and death because of the sins of all men." It added that what happened; "cannot be blamed upon the Jews now living, without distinction, or upon the Jews of today.

Jesus Himself stated explicitly that it was the Gentiles who would crucify Him. Before the final, turbulent Passover week, He told His apostles in Luke 18:31-33:

"Behold, we are going up to Jerusalem and everything that is written of the Son of man by the prophets will be accomplished, for He will be delivered to the Gentiles, and will be mocked and shamefully treated and spat upon, they will scourge Him and kill Him, and on the third day He will rise."

In other accounts of Matthew and Mark, He also says that the chief priest will condemn Him but, that it is the Gentiles who will impose the violence, the flogging, the abuse and the execution.

The gospels indicate that Joseph Caiaphas, the high priest who replaced four previous priests because of his subserviency, and his Sadducean party, which dominated the priesthood and the Jewish Council, were under pressure to cooperate in dealing with Jesus.

"If we let Him go on thus, everyone will believe in Him, and the Romans will come and destroy both our holy places and our nation," it is said in John 11:48-49.

As for the people generally, Jewish literature of that period, makes clear that they keenly resented both the opportunistic, calculating Sadducees and the Roman overlords, a mood that recurrently burst into open revolt.

But the Temple officials were blocked in acting against Jesus because: "They feared the multitudes" who "held Him to be a prophet," says Matthew 21:46.

In Luke 19:48 it says: "They did not find anything they could do, for all the people hung on His words."

Consequently, as reported in Matthew 26:3 to 5, the high priest Caiaphas and his Temple chieftains met in council to decide how to "arrest Jesus by stealth and kill Him,' deciding it could not be done openly in the presence of the festival crowds, "lest there be a tumult among the people."

This was agreed to by the Temple officials and implemented by Pilate.

Jesus, praying in the woods on the Mount of Olives, was seized and bound, and the long, harassing night of interrogation and intimidation ensued. The gospel accounts vary as to precisely what happened.

Matthew and Mark cite only a late-night questioning before Caiaphas. John reports interrogations first at the house of Annas, Caiaphas' father-in-law, and then before Caiaphas. Luke cites questioning that night and in the early morning.

The definitive fact is that Pilate had the case in his own hands. Pilate's sending of Jesus across town to be viewed by the puppet Herod Antipas, the Roman trial and the march to Calvary were all completed by the "third hour." That is, Jesus was on the cross by 9 a.m., the time for morning prayers, before most Jews had even had breakfast.

Most prisoners remained in cells for weeks before trial, but abnormal haste marked the dealing with Jesus.

Although the gospel account depicts a raucous crowd calling for Jesus' crucifixion, the circumstances indicate it would only have been a few early-morning loiterers and Temple subordinates rounded up and egged on by officials whose positions depended on satisfying Rome.

Jews couldn't enter the walled courtyard where Pilate had his judgment seat, John 18:28 notes. Only a mere knot of them could have clogged the eight-foot gate and the narrow street outside would have held only a dawn handful.

The Temple minions said in Luke 23:3-5: "We found this man perverting our nation, and forbidding us to give tribute to Caesar, and saying He Himself is Christ, a king."

As Jesus hung on the cross, a Roman titulus dangled from his neck specifying His offence. Penned by Pilate, as related in John 19:19, it read: "Jesus of Nazareth, the King of the Jews."

He hung there six hours, as the sky darkened, thunder cracked and tremors shook the earth. At 3 p.m. He died, victim of a form of execution never used by Judaism, but employed by the Romans on runaway slaves and native challengers to imperial supremacy.

Sun Harnessed

TIMONIUM, Md. (AP) — This town boasts the first school in the country that uses solar energy both for heating and cooling. The elementary school installed equipment for heat by solar energy in one wing about a year ago. Solar collectors atop the building absorb the sun's rays and heat water which is circulated through convectors for space heating. Hot water is directed to the cooling unit to serve as its power supply.

THE UNEXPLAINED

by Allen Spraggett

Car Sheds Paint Like Reptile

There's probably a perfectly normal explanation but so far nobody's come up with it — including the experts.

And meanwhile Richard Letkemann's almost-new car, a Gremlin as it happens, goes on acting as though it had a real gremlin.

The problem is that the car sheds its paint like a reptile shedding its skin — again, and again and again.

Letkemann of Niagara Falls, Ont., says he bought the 1974 model new from a local dealer in October, 1973. Almost from the start it shed its paint.

The stuff just flaked off, peeled off or fell off in chunks. Thus far the car has had six different paint jobs and the stuff's still coming off.

Don't tell Richard Letkemann to try the experts — he has. They had no more success explaining or stopping the paint-peeling than he had.

"Nothing seems to work," says the discouraged car owner.

Various parts of the vehicle have be re-painted and re-painted and last November (1974) the entire car was re-done.

"Yet look at it now," said Letkemann in an interview three months later.

The car is a mess. The paint comes off even if a gentle spray of hot water touches it.

At first the local dealership bent over backwards to heed Richard Letkemann's complaints about his paint-peeling car. But eventually — well, enough is enough.

Letkemann says he noticed a certain pain on their faces whenever they saw him coming with his crazy car that wouldn't stay painted.

Finally Richard Letkemann went to the auto company's head office for Canada in Brampton, Ontario, and a top official took the car out for a drive. He agreed to re-paint it completely, like new.

This was done. But two months later — same weird story. The gremlin started eating the paint off the Gremlin.

The latest word is that the company has agreed to a do-or-die effort. The whole car will be stripped completely, re-primed and totally re-painted. If that doesn't work then it's really part of the unexplained...

There have been some strange cases reminiscent of the paint-peeling, but in reverse. In these, peculiar stains or marks have been involved which no amount of scrubbing or cleaning could remove.

There also have been reports of "jinxed" cars or (boats or planes), even so-called "death cars," which seemed to have an unusually large number of accidents or fatalities associated with them.

But a car with a paint-peeling jinx?

That's a first in the annals of the unexplained...

To Absent Friend

EARDISLEY, England (CP) — Although they lived hundreds of miles apart, Robert Stevens of this Herefordshire village and lifelong friend Stewart Nicol often got together to share a bottle and discuss their love of good wine. When Stevens, 80, died he left his friend three dozen bottles each of vintage claret and burgundy from his cellar.

Peace With Sauna

WEDNESBURG, England (CP) — Mixed saunas will be allowed when the council's new baths open in this Staffordshire town soon. But there's a catch—customers must arrive in pairs, and wear bathing costumes.

LONDON (AP) — More than 1,500 Gilbert and Sullivan fans, including British Prime Minister Harold Wilson, packed London's Savoy Theatre Tuesday night to celebrate the centenary of the start of the musical partnership.

The program, which lasted almost six hours, began with a sketch written by William Douglas Home, playwright-brother of former prime minister Sir Alec Douglas Home.

Next came a performance of Trial By Jury one hundred years to the night since it was first produced at the Royalty Theatre. A performance of The Sorcerer ended the evening.

Prime Minister Wilson offered his services to the company "in the only capacity I em qualified—as prompter unpaid."

He remembered with pride how he won $64 in a quiz show in Canada by naming six Gilbert and Sullivan operas and their subtitles in 15 seconds. "You try and do that," he challenged the audience.

HOLLYWOOD (Reuter) — Singer Frank Sinatra is planning a tour of Europe about two months from now—his first in more than 10 years, his agents announced Tuesday.

The tour is expected to include France, Germany, Austria, Belgium, Switzerland and Holland, and two concerts in London.

Sinatra's last European tour was in 1962. He appeared in England in 1970 at London's Royal Festival Hall.

NEW YORK (AP) — Claiming that Paramount Pictures "usurped" his rights as producer of the film The Great Gatsby, Broadway producer David Merrick sued the company Tuesday for $7.5-million damages.

Merrick claimed that Paramount Pictures, which made the film for him after he had obtained rights from the author's daughter, Frances Scott Fitzgerald Smith, incurred unnecessary expenses, caused delays and did not exert its best efforts in marketing the film.

Paramount has 20 days in which to aswer the suit filed in State Supreme Court.

Sunday and Monday Horoscopes

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Sunday, March 30

ARIES (March 21-Apr. 19) One you need help from will come through, but you'll have to gain her confidence first. Be patient. Move slowly.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20) An old friend has some sage advice for you. You'll discover his wisdom after you discuss what's been troubling you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Make haste slowly. The goal you hope is within reach, but it can only be attained a step at a time.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll be getting some pleasant news from one you're quite fond of, but who now lives at a considerable distance.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Latch on to an idea you'll get today. It has the solution to a problem you thought would take a long time to solve.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll be a bit restless today. A short trip would do you a world of good. Don't drag it out or stay overnight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A source for expanding your income will be presented to you. It won't make you rich, but it could bring a few extra shekels.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You need some form of social outlet today. If nothing's cooking, drum something up. Throw a come-as-you-are party.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll be surprised by the candid remarks of someone whose confidence you didn't think you enjoyed so intimately.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're more comfortable today dealing with small groups. Limit your get-together to a few close pals.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 19) You're going to realize a modest return today from something you do on your own initiative. Pride of accomplishment will exceed profit.

Pisces (Feb. 20 - March 20) Your words carry considerable weight today. One you think you have little influence on will follow your instruction to a "T."

MONDAY, MARCH 31

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You'll enjoy much success now with plans you have that unselfishly include others. Think in terms of WE—not ME.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It's to your benefit to let others take the initiative in business. Don't disclose your motives or ideas till you've heard theirs.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your best advantages come through close personal associations. Be co-operative; any favor granted now will be returned—with a bonus.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Persons who have a direct effect upon your work or career view your efforts favorably. Discuss present aims with the boss.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It's the time to step in and take the reins in a situation you know could be managed better. Don't wait to be asked.

Opening lead K♥

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

South saw after one look at dummy that six diamonds would have been a cinch except against a 5-0 trump break. He could ruff the first heart in his own hand, lead a trump to dummy, ruff a second heart, discard two of his clubs on dummy's long trumps, the last one on the ace of hearts and wind up making seven.

All that thought was totally unimportant. South was in six spades and he was unhappy about the whole thing. Of course, if East held the ace of clubs, six would wrap up but he was sure that West held that card. Finally he figured out a way to make the contract in spite of that.

He ruffed that first heart, ran off all his trumps while discarding one club from dummy and then ran the diamonds. He won the last diamond in dummy to come down to a three-card ending. He held all his three clubs, dummy one club and the ace-jack of hearts.

West was also down to three cards. Two of them were the queen and three of hearts, the other the ace of clubs. West had thrown his highest hearts in order to look like a man with two clubs and one heart, but South had figured things out correctly. He threw West in with the ace of clubs and made the last two tricks with dummy's ace and jack of hearts.

Hairs Link Car To Kidnapping

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — Hairs similar to those taken from a kidnapping victim and two policemen shot while investigating the abduction were found in a vehicle in which one of two men charged with the police murders was arrested, an RCMP expert testified Thursday.

The Crown in the Supreme Court trial called two witnesses Thursday in its effort to link Richard Ambrose, 26, and James Hutchison, 47, to the killing of the two policemen through money seized after the kidnapping and hair and fibre evidence.

The Crown said it may present one or two witnesses in addition to the 11 who remained to testify in the trial which ends its second week Saturday.

The court did not sit Friday.

Ambrose and Hutchison are standing trial on charges of murder punishable by death in the shooting of Constable Michael O'Leary and Corporal Aurele Bourgeois during an investigation of the kidnapping of Raymond Stein, 14, last Dec. 13.

The boy was released after a $15,000 ranson was paid by his restaurateur father.

Keith Sanders, a hair and fibre examiner, was declared an expert witness and testified that he found hair similar to samples taken from Hutchison, Ambrose, Raymond Stein, Cpl. Bourgeois and Constable O'Leary in various parts of the 1969 Cadillac in which Ambrose was arrested Dec. 13.

France Bans Foreign Wines

PARIS (Reuter) — France stepped up its "wine war" with Italy on Friday by announcing, in effect, a ban on imports of foreign wines.

Farmers in Italy—the European Common Market's second major wine producer after France—called the move a breach of Market rules and threatened retaliation against French interests.

But Common Market officials in Brussels said they were mystified at a French government statement Friday that it is taking measures to stop importing foreign wine for a month.

Both France and Italy have enjoyed bumper harvests which have produced a surplus and depressed prices.

Apple Craft Supper

Reproductions of Leonardo da Vinci's famous painting of the Last Supper might not cause much of a stir but local interest has been aroused by this example done in apple craft, being displayed at the Hastings County Museum. Admiring the work are museum guide Sheila McMurray and museum curator Martin Lewis. The artist is Elizabeth Nind of Belleville, a former Wellington resident, and the exhibit has been borrowed from the Wellington Museum until April 27. Mrs. Nind, a former curator in Wellington, has other works at Black Creek Pioneer Village.

Hastings Museum Seeks Aid in Summer Projects

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Hastings County Museum has applied to both senior governments for four summer programs that will send museum affairs out of Glanmore House and into the community.

Martin Lewis, curator of the museum, said Sunday one program has already received approval from the Ontario ministry of colleges and universities that will provide for three staff members this summer.

The program, entitled Operation Museum Catalog, is aimed at completion of museum inventory, indexing each historical article with cross references that detail the significance of the piece. The same program was in operation at Glanmore House last summer, said Mr. Lewis.

The secretary fo state has also been approached for grants under the Student Community Services program that gives funds for a broad range of museum activities, with accent on youth involvement.

If the grant is received, Mr. Lewis said, a three-way program has been planned.

Program workers will be developing new approaches to training museum guides, formulating a new guide book, and doing some actual guiding. They will become involved with the mini-museum that tours fairs and exhibitions during the summer, said Mr. Lewis.

Two other programs are being sought through the federal government's Opportunities For Youth program, he said.

"The programs — if approved — will allow the museum broad opportunity to get out into the community," said Mr. Lewis.

Blood Donations Far Below January

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

A Red Cross blood donor clinic in the Masonic Temple Thursday drew 193 pints of blood from local donors, it was announced Sunday following final tallying.

While the total is far below the 1,000 pints collected in January, the January figure was a "record-setting total for the city and Easter holidays were working against a busy clinic last week," said Mrs. Beverley McKerracher, registrar of the Belleville Blood Bank.

During the clinic, 46 potential donors were rejected because of medication in the blood making it unsuitable for transfer. Another 35 were turned away because they had donated in January.

Regulations on donors now include no medication (including aspirin) within 72 hours prior to donating blood and that blood cannot be donated less than three months after the last donation.

The next blood donor clinic will be held May 29, when local organizers are looking for a strong turn out.

The record number of people who donated in January will again be eligible to donate in May, said Mrs. McKerracher.

Donated blood is sent to Toronto laboratories where a wide range of blood products are manufactured.

Mrs. McKerracher said it is "extremely important that belleville residents participate in the donor program".

In past years, city residents' donations haven't equaled a third of the amount of blood used at Belleville General Hospital in operations, Mrs. McKeerracher said.

As Da Nang Falls Yanks Quit Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — The Communist advance through South Vietnam today threatened the Saigon government's last enclaves on the central coast, touched off an evacuation of U.S. citizens from Saigon and suspended the United States evacuation of an estimated 1.5 million Vietnamese refugees from Da Nang.

Heavy fighting was reported 25 miles northwest of Qui Nhon, the country's third largest city, as North Vietnamese forces from the central highlands pushed eastward toward the central coast.

Radio contact between Qui Nhon and Saigon, 270 miles to the southeast, was reported broken. But sources said the city still was in government hands.

U.S. officials said all Americans had been evacuated from Qui Nhon and from Tuy Hoa, 50 miles to the south. U.S. civilians and their families were being evacuated from Nha Trang, 60 miles south of Tuy Hoa, but the U.S. Consulate there still was open, officials said.

Informed sources said the U.S. embassy began the evacuation of staff members and their families from Saigon because of the possibility of political turmoil and anti-U.S. demonstrations as well as an attack on the city.

U.S. officials estimate there were about 6,000 Americans in Vietnam when the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong offensive began a month ago. Most of them were in Saigon.

The Viet Cong delegation in Saigon said Sunday the South Vietnamese army "fled (De Nang) in complete rout, and thousands of soldiers handed over their weapons and surrendered."

Hanoi Radio said the people poured into the streets to welcome the Viet Cong. It said many government officers "mutinied, punished their die-hard commanders and came over to the revolution with weapons."

Other Saigon troops were "seized with panic" and were wiped out or taken prisoner, Hanoi said.

The loss of Da Nang without a fight intensified demands in Saigon for the replacement of President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Informed Western and Vietnamese sources believe that more Communist successes might result in Thieu's replacement, either to rally resistance against the Communists or to negotiate with them.

The military debacle of the last three weeks—during which the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have extended their control over more than half of the country—has raised widespread doubts in Saigon that even the South Vietnamese government's bastion could withstand a massive Communist attack.

More than 50,000 troops were reported left behind in the northern provinces and the central highlands, along with hundreds of millions of dollars in military equipment, most of it intact.

And the losses have had an incalculable effect on the morale of the troops the government still has along the central coastal strip, in Saigon and the provinces around it and in the Mekong Delta.

Million and Half Refugees Trapped

SAIGON (AP) — Communist shelling has forced a halt in the United States evacuation of Da Nang by sea, cutting the last escape route for an estimated 1.5 million refugees trapped in the fallen city, U.S. military sources said today.

The last jet plane took off Saturday and North Vietnamese forces, who captured Da Nang on Sunday, control the surrounding provinces.

The suspension of the sealift came less than 12 hours after the Viet Cong delegation in Saigon called the evecuation a "deceptive trick" and said its forces in Da Nang were "determined to punish all acts of encroachment upon their sovereignty."

U.S. officials estimated that from 30,000 to 50,000 refugees had fled Da Nang by sea since Wednesday while another 2,000 to 4,000 managed to escape by air.

South Vietnamese government officials estimated that the city's normal population of 500,000 had been swollen to about two million by the influx from the northern provinces taken over by the Communists.

The U.S. embassy said Consul General Al Francis, who had been assisting with the sealift, had escaped aboard the last voyage of the Pioneer Commander, one of the ships chartered for the evacuation.

Two freighters packed with refugees were unloading them at Cam Ranh Bay today, and a U.S. Navy freighter, the Andrew Miller, was awaiting orders off Cam Ranh Bay after unloading about 6,000 refugees early.

The freighter Trans-Colorado was due in the Da Nang area today, and the American Challenger was ordered to head for the Vietnamese coast.

South Vietnam Marines Shoot Refugees

DA NANG (AP) — South Vietnamese marines shot and killed about 25 people on the fantail of the United States evacuation ship Pioneer Commander during frantic attempts to escape fallen Da Nang, crew members said. The marines claimed they were killing Viet Cong suspects.

Marauding South Vietnamese troops fought sea battles to take over lighters and barges to reach the Pioneer Commander and its sister ship the Pioneer Contender as the Viet Cong moved into South Vietnam's second largest city Easter weekend.

B. C. Gale Kills Six

VANCOUVER (CP) — Six persons are believed dead, several hundred Easter vacationers stranded and damage is more than $1 million after winds that gusted to 70 miles an hour swept from the British Columbia coast into the interior of the province.

Two Edmonton residents, Joseph Edward Dunn, 33, and his 13-year-old son, Joe, drowned when their boat capsized in the north arm of the Fraser River, just south of Vancouver.

Missing and presumed drowned are Lorraine Bartlett, about 30, of Vancouver, Jack Payne, 47, and Art Winchester, 48, both of Edmonton.

Searchers said two boats, both about 20 feet long, capsized and their seven occupants were thrown into the frothing water. The accident apparently occurred as people from one boat were trying to rescue those on board the other.

Four Missing In Parham Fire

PARHAM, Ont. (CP) — Four persons were missing and believed dead Sunday after a fire in two houses in this hamlet, 40 miles north of Kingston.

Missing are William Thompson, 86, and Harold Thompson, 66, ocupents of the house, and Blanche Bridgen, 60, and Elaine Powell, 35, of nearby Tichborne.

Neighbors say they saw four persons in one house about 20 minutes before the fire started.

Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Brown and their five children in the house next door escaped injury.

Cause of the fire was undetermined. The Ontario fire marshal's office was called in to investigate.

Montreal Dockers Away from Jobs

MONTREAL (CP) — Negotiators for longshoremen and the Maritime Employers Association (MEA) were to meet today with a federally-appointed mediator in efforts to end a conflicth that has closed the port of Montreal since Saturday.

The harbor shutdown was described as "disastrous" by MEA spokesman Jacques Belanger, who said several ships on the way to Montreal have been rerouted to other ports. About 15 ships, some waiting to be unloaded, are tied up in the harbor.

As Labor Minister John Munro announced the appointment of mediator Charles Poirier Sunday, a spokesman for the International Longshoremen's Association (ILA) denied MEA claims that the unions 1,400 Montreal workers are on strike.

Jean-Claude Morisset, president of the union's Quebec City local, said in Montreal that the longshoremen "simply refused to work overtime Saturday and no one was called to work for Sunday or Monday.

"There isn't a single picket in the Port of Montreal," he added.

Daily Disappointments Don't Matter

Pope Paul Refuses to Be Dismayed By Lost Hopes for Peace and Plenty

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bells pealed out the joyous message of the risen Christ on Easter Sunday as sunshine bathed the holy city of Jerusalem and Pope Paul urged that the disappointments of earthly life be viewed in the light and promise of Jesus' resurrection.

A high mass held in Jerusalem in the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, traditional burial place of Jesus, was attended by thousands.

But despite the celebrations, there were constant reminders that the war is not over in the Middle East. An Israeli policeman rummaged through large handbags before letting the bearers into the church, and armed troops mingled among tourists and merchants in the walled city.

At the Vatican, Pope Paul told a crowd of 300,000 in St. Peter's Square: "The resurrection of Christ is not only a personal triumph of His, it is also the principle of our salvation and hence of our resurrection.

"It does not matter, brethren, if the experience of the frailty of human powers daily disappoints our fragile hopes for a stable ordering of human society.

"Nor does it matter if from the daily progress generated by modern development and from the exploitation of the useful secrets of nature there seems to be for man neither fullness nor certainty of life, but rather the torment of unsatisfied aspirations.

"It does not matter, for a new, original and inexhaustible source of life has been infused into the world by a risen Christ."

Forage Seed Costs Less

PICTON — Prince Edward County farmers can expect to pay less for their forage seeds this spring, says Beverley Gibson, assistant manager of a feed supplier here.

Mr. Gibson said some varieties are down as much as 35 per cent. However, due to an early frost last fall, seed corn is up in price considerably this spring, he said.

Mr. Gibson added that fertilizer has jumped 30 per cent in cost, and "has probably reached its peak for the spring".

Shrubs Basic Garden Plant

By ROSS HAWTHORNE

Today I'd like you to pause for a moment and consider whether or not there hasn't been one common denominator among all the gardens you've ever admired, especially a garden that exuded an atmosphere of relaxation, coolness and privacy. Without even asking, I'll bet each and every garden you enjoyed was surfeited with the richness of flowering shrubs. And for good reason. No plant family does quite so much for a discursive gardening plan and does it so well — and for so little.

Compare the benefits flowering shrubs provide with any other plant family and judge for yourself, the relative worth of this diversified plant species.

First, they're inexpensive. Not only is their initial price low, but if you spread that price over their years of usefulness, their cost per year runs in pennies. For example: around some of the historic homes of Ontario, there are lilacs and flowering quinzes that were planted when the homes were built — over 100 years ago. I have a golden elder that is now about ten feet tall and provides a dense privacy screen. Eight years ago I bought it for 99 cents. Every August, for the past three years I've taken eight to ten quarts of berries from it. In other words, the 99 cents has been paid for over and over again.

And there are a multitude of other flowering shrubs that provide a fast privacy screen.

Or you can use flowering shrubs for themselves alone — for beauty of leaf, flower or berries. And some provide all three. And with proper planning, you can plant flowering shrubs that will provide you with armfuls of flowers from early May to late fall. And we'll help you with that planning by reviewing in a later program the characteristics of various flowering shrubs available for your exterior landscape plan.

And now, let's look at some of the basic fundamentals by which every shrub should be analyzed before you lay out good money.

First, let's consider — form. The shape in which a shrub grows is always a key factor in its use. The arching fountain-like sprays of the spires or forsythia are well-suited to loose informal hedges where ground space presents no problem, but would be an entirely wrong choice any where within 4 to 8 feet of a pathway or sidewalk.

Next, you should look at a shrub for what it offers in the way of texture. The size, arrangement and shape of the leaves. In addition, twigs and bark can also be important. Colored bark such as in the dogwood, or unusually shaped bark such as the winged euonymus, are startlingy beautiful against the snow. As are the twisted spirals of the corkscrew hazel or the rugged branches of the smoke bush. And remember, while dense leaved foliage makes effective privacy screens and windbreaks, you can also plant loose feathery foliage shrubs to allow welcome views and breezes into your yard. And of course, don't forget color. In addition to the color of the flowers and stems are the colors of the berries and the leaves — which can range from all shades of greens through reds, purples, golds and even various tints of silver.

Remember to make your selection not only in relation to your own tastes, but surrounding plantings and even the color of your home. And dcn't mix and match at random. By that I mean this. If you're planning to choose a dozen shrubs, you'll be far more pleased with the results it you choose three plantings of four, or four plantings of three rather than a dozen all different. And above all else — remember size. Not the size the plant is now — but the size it will be when it reaches maturity in five years. A mock orange or purple sandcherry may look just great right now sandwiched in a 2-foot space between two evergreens. But please don't be upset when you have to move it in a couple of years and find you have no place to move it to. But that's another good feature of flowering shrubs — their mobility.

Spring or Fall, they're easy to move and usually adapt readily to each new location.

GARY AKEY
9 ISABEL STREET, BELLEVILLE

DATE OF BIRTH: DECEMBER 20, 1970 PARENTS: TOM AND PAT
Gary is one of the children in our area with cystic fibrosis. This disease affects many parts of the body, but the most serious involvement is in the lungs and digestive system. Gary has to have daily postural drainage and chest clapping in order to clear his lungs. He must take pills with every meal in order to digest his food; he also takes a number of other different pills for his C.F. condition. This is very costly and the Ontario Society For Crippled Children through Easter Seals is able to assist this family financially so that Gary can get the necessary drugs to keep him alive. An active happy little fellow, Gary can now look forward to a relatively normal life as long as he gets the necessary treatments.

Should Taxi Firms Give Senior Citizens a Break?

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Town Taxi fleet owner Doug Ridley asked council recently if it could amend a town bylaw that prohibits him from discounting the metered fares of senior citizens by 10 - cents.

He says that he is breaking a town bylaw and has been twice warned by town police that he could be charged for its contravention.

People in downtown Trenton were asked this week for their reaction to the fare discount for senior citizens. Their reaction:

HERBERT CURTIS

Now retired and teaching art in the winter months, Herbert (Bert) Curtis says the taxi owner should be allowed to run his business as he sees fit, "so long as he meets other obligations (ie. licence fees)."

The bylaw, says Mr. Curtis, is "pretty stupid. He's doing something good for others."

The discount is helpful to a senior citizen living solely on a pension, he says.

DONNA BONISTEL

Donna Bonisteel said the bylaw should be obeyed as it now stands, but if it is changed, it would have to be written to specifically apply to senior citizens.

But she added that laws that can't be enforced shouldn't be on the books. The bylaw would have to apply equally to both town taxi companies. She said she didn't know how hotly they competed for business.

MORLEY ALLEN

A Belleville salesman, Morley Allen, said the taxi fare discounts should only apply to senior citizens.

"They should have some privileges, but not if the law is being broken. You're on touchy ground."

He worried that "if you bend it (the bylaw) one way, you can bend it a lot of ways".

WILLIAM HOCKLEY

Belleville resident William Hockley suggested that there should be more people that contravene such an unfair bylaw.

"Anything that eases the lot of the senior citizen should be commended," he said, and suggested that the legislation be thoroughly overhauled.

JAMES COWARD

Accountant James Coward, indicating that it was hard for him to speak knowingly without having all the facts.

"The cab companies should get together as to how they are going to treat senior citizens," he said. Once they agreed, they should both go to council.

RON BAILEY

Ron Bailey of RR1, Wooler, said that "as long as its only regarding senior citizens, it's a very good idea, even if it's breaking the law".

"They don't get that many breaks," he said, adding that it was difficult enough for people on fixed incomes.

Rylstone Cheese Factory Goes Under the Hammer

By CHRIS ALMEY
Staff Rorrespondent

STIRLING — Major components from Ontario's shrinking cheddar cheese factory inventory are being used to build the cheese producing industry in Quebec and western Canada, said Don Stewart, president of the co-operative that operated the now-closed Rylstone cheese factory, Saturday.

The industry is being ravaged even further by the Ontario Milk Marketing Board's policy of reducing milk allotments and imposing a whey disposal system upon the cheese industry, Mr. Stewart continued.

A further complication is that milk quotas from folding cheese factories can be freely sold, he said. The OMMB also permits large corporations to acquire more milk quotas than they actually can use while denying more milk to others trying to stay in business, he added.

Saturday the Rylstone Cheese and Butter Co-Op, a few miles northwest of Stirling was sold by public auction. This factory originally had a quota of seven million pounds a year but the OMMB gradually reduced it to just over five million pounds a year, according to the co-op president.

This forced the Rylstone factory to lease two million pounds of milk from Cow and Gate, but the quota was never used since the factory closed.

Attending the auction sale of the Rylstone factory were Rolland Patenaude and his son, Danny, of Crysler, Ont. They were there with one specific item in mind from the cheese factory. If the price was right, this cheese making equipment would be on its way to Edmonton, Alberta, now.

The senior Patenaude once owned a cheese factory at Crysler, but he sold his milk quota to Cow and Gate of Brockville a number of years ago and proceeded to buy cheese making equipment and sell it to at least 20 cheese factories across Canada from Vancouver to New Brunswick.

Since the Rylstone factory was receiving two million pounds less through the OMMB than it originally started out with, the cheese plant started to dip into its 1974 milk quota in November of 1973, Don Stewart, co-op president said.

Mr. Stewart said they should have shut down at the time, but operated until January, 1974, and then closed for two months, re-opening in April, 1974. To ensure the Rylstone factory would have enough milk to operate right through 1975, a two-million - pound quota was leased from Cow and Gate. However, on February 7 this year, they ceased operations and never touched the quota, Mr. Stewart explained.

"It was nip and tuck to break even," Mr. Stewart noted. "If we made all number one grade we could have been in the black with six million pounds of milk. It's a funny setup. The OMMB gives you the quota then keeps taking it away from you a bit every year."

There are not many factories left producing cheddar cheese in the province now. There were 410 plants in 1950. Ten years later the count was 148. It declined to 81 by 1970 and by 1974 there were 37 left.

Area Pipe Band Tops Florida Highland Games

COBOURG — "At times, we were almost embarassed by their reaction," said Cobourg Canadian Legion Pipe Band manager George Stinson Thursday.

And reaction was enthusiastic in Dunedin, Florida, from where Cobourg's branch 133 pipe band returned this week.

The band, led by pipe major George Lovett of Trenton, came back to Canada after a week's stay, with top prize in the Highland Games pipe band competition. Not only did the band's music generate excite, win first prize, but it also prompted invitations to return.

If that will be possible is still in the future. Mr. Stinson said it took the 20-member band a year to raise the money necessary for the long trip to Dunedin, about 20 miles outside Tampa.

Asked why the band went so far, the manager said "We hoped for a win. We felt confident we could put up a good showing down there."

Indeed they did. Four individual awards were handed out among the 13 band members who attended the competition. Not all members — scattered in Belleville, Cobourg, Trenton, Smithfield and Brighton — were able to attend the Highland Games.

The Cobourg-based band, which competed against five other bands, did not take its Scottish dancers, nor its vocalist to Florida.

PICTON —A representative from the Canada Manpower regional office in Toronto will be present at a labor meeting, at the agricultural office in Picton, Wednesday night, to discuss labor pools, offshore labor and changes in the program from previous years. There will also be talks on housing standards for seasonal farm workers and assistance available for the construction of this housing.

Cost Too High

TRENTON — Council recently refused to okay a $1,336 expenditure to create a new office in the town hall until other cost estimates could be obtained.

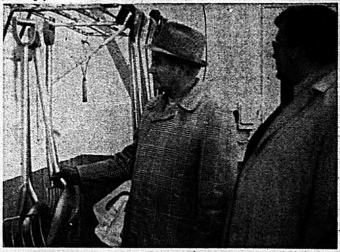
The dollar sum was considered too high by councillors.

Additional office space was to be created by partitions. Included in the price was the cost of a door and glass for a window to look into the remainder of the third floor offices. The office was to measure 10 by 12 feet.

Alarm Box

Belleville firefighters responded to the following call for assistance during a 48-hour period which ended at 8 a.m. today.

Sunday, March 30, 5:46 p.m. — short in wiring in rangette in upstairs apartment on John St., no damage.



Looking It Over

Ken and Brenda Partridge of Warkworth attended the auction sale of the Rylstone Cheese and Butter Co-op on Saturday, saying they were interested in a few things. Everything was sold, including the building.

Flag Theft Prompts Reward

TWEED — The thief or thieves who stole two flags and their holders from the Tweed Branch 428, Royal Canadian Legion had to remove eight screws 2½-inches long, Sgt.-at-Arms Oscar Thurston said Sunday night.

Last week he placed an advertisement in the local newspaper offering a $500 reward for the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible.

Last year at the memorial centre, five new flags were stolen in six weeks, Mr. Thurston said. Now a steel cable is used for the halyard.

"The reason we made the point of going for $500 reward was more or less to deter any further thefts," the legionnaire said.

Each passenger will be expected to have the exact fare ready when they board the bus. If you are unable to have the exact fare, please board the bus and discuss the problem with the bus driver. By leasing the land on which the houses will be built, OHC removes the land costs from the necessary down payment for a house. As a result, the home may be purchased with a down payment as low as five per cent of the house price. With a minimum down payment, a family with a gross current annual income as low as $9,720 may qualify for a house.

The lots are offered on the basis of a 50-year lease, with the home owner having the option to buy the land at any time after five years of the lease have elapsed. Monthly land lease payments will be approximately $36.

Mortgage financing for the purchase of the houses is being provided by the Province of Ontario at 9¾ per cent interest on a five-year term with an ammortization period of 35 years.

All applicants must have been resident in Ontario for at least one full year prior to applying for a house.

Applicants are restricted to single-income families whose current gross annual incomes do not exceed $14,500 and to two-income families whose incomes do not exceed $17,000. In the latter case, the major wage earner's income must not exceed $14,500.

Preference will be given to applicants who do not own a home. H.O.M.E. Plan houses must be owner-occupied and not rented.

Families who have previously purchased a dwelling sponsored under an OHC program are not eligible.

Monthly carrying charges, including mortgage payments, ground rent and estimated municipal taxes, must not amount to more than 30 per cent of the family's gross current annual income.

Military as Cushion Against Economic Chaos

Canada—and Olympics—May Be on a Collision Course with Terrorism

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

How secure are our societies? Who or what might be burrowing away at the foundations of North American ways-of-life, American and Canadian, taking advantage of their economic decline and the spectre of a recession which could slowly change into a depression.

Item: Three years have passed since a bue-ribbon dinner party of New York industriaists heard visiting Brazilian generals suggest openly that America like Brazil would soon need the military in power to stop economic and social decay.

The generals were not the uncouth hard hats who unleash Latin America's many senseless coups, but sophisticated senior staf members of Brazil's highly - regarded Superior War College.

Their comments were made at a private dinner in their honor. These generals suggested their scenario of March, 1964, which put their country on the road to both economic stability and political authoritarianism when that huge hemispheric nation had tottered on the brink of chaos, had meaning for America in the 70s.

And they had said so before the recent galloping, Brazilian-style inflation arrived in the United States and when former President Nixon's law-and-order programs still looked as though they would work.

Item: In Canada there is a growing unease inside our military and security forces that the 1976 Montreal Summer Olympics will be the place for international terrorists to repeat a Munich-style attack.

Unlike the United States, where there is incipient fear of Pentagon politics and now of civilian security forces in general, thanks to exposes of the CIA, Canadians continue to take a placid view of security operations and a head-in-the-sand approach to the prospect of domestic terrorism.

However, recent revelations of new international crime activities in Montreal's always big underworld, including the mass murder last January of 12 guests at a Mafia-frequented bar in Montreal, have put a scare into many Canadians.

They now believe that Montreal, the world's second largest French-speaking city, could spew out terror on a scale reminding them of the FLQ terrorist crisis of October, 1970.

The Montreal FLQ political crisis, like Latin America's terrorist outfits and the secret operations in the United States of the Simbianese Liberation Movement, have shown us conclusively that terrorists need only small well-trained, fast-moving units to hold cities to ransom and tie up huge police forces.

In spite of legitimate public concern about the over-zealous surveillance roles of the FBI and CIA, a Canada-U.S. task of identifying and infiltrating known domestic and foreign terrorist groups goes on.

Both countries now admit about 25 to 40 of these organizations have potential for new terror.

In the United States, admitted bombings of busy offices of multi-national corporations in New York by local terrorists and in Canada, a growing Montreal underworld of crime and intensely left-wing labor unions with neo-Marxist leaders, only distinctly related, may well be precursors of worse to come if the North American slump deepens.

Significance of Easter

To Christians, this Easter time marking the crucifixion and the resurrection of Jesus is a time of special significance.

Amid a changing world that presents an image of extraordinary perplexity, vast inequities and horrifying cruelties — with war on the one hand and poverty on the other — the Easter message remains timeless.

Contemplating our own relatively fortunate situation in Canada, it is appropriate that Easter marks not only the observance of a spiritual occasion, but also a time of emphasis on the needs of our fellow man.

One such initiative, at the local as well as provincial level, is the Easter Seals campaign on behalf of crippled children. In Belleville, the Rotary Club is the agent of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children, sending out its publicity material and spearheading its campaign for funds.

The campaign is well under way now and at last report the amount raised totalled more than $9,000.

An interesting new adjunct of this work locally has been the establishment of a parents group under the presidency of Mrs. Noreen Davis. Mrs. Davis is the wife of Belleville dentist Dr. James Davis and they have four sons, one of whom suffers from cerebral palsy.

The group is an important one in the work of helping parents who have handicapped children and maintaining their morale. The routine difficulties of any parent are of even greater complexity when coupled with the demands of family members requiring special care. They can be eased though when there is a community effort such as that of the Easter Seals campaign and its member organizations.

Rotary Crippled Children Committee chairman Enos David sees the new parents' group as one that will contribute emotionally and financially to the work on behalf of the young people.

Easter is a time of regeneration and hope, and it is in endeavors such as this that the age old humanitarian spiritual beliefs of people at this special time are given substance.

Residential

We have received a number of letters, some of them copies of ones sent to City Council, taking issue with Ald. Joe Cox's motion calling for hiring of local residents only.

Such a motion, if passed, would not ony be an infringement of the right of people to live wherever they choose, it would also be unworkable. As it is, a number of city employees live in the immediate vicinity of Belleville, in surrounding townships, in localities which in fact may one day become part of Belleville proper.

The mailing address of some of these employees is Belleville, or rural routes thereof, and much if not all of their shopping and social comings and goings are carried out in Belleville.

Belleville city council has better things to do than in effect order its employees where they should live. Ald. Cox's motion should be given short shrift.

Sex and The Schools

Sex . . . permissiveness . . . pregnancies . . . among the young people in our schools

It's been common knowledge for the past decade or more. As Norma Pickering, a teacher in a Kingston extension program for pregnant school girls, has put it: "Regardless of whether it's right or wrong, it's reality."

For all the familiarity with the problem, the answers to it are not so easy to come by. Answers that is, which without moralizing and wringing of hands, would nevertheless bring young people to a more knowledgeable and responsible level of behavior where the facts of life are concerned.

Having said that, it may be noted that there has indeed been some wringing of hands — by Hastings board of education. This newspaper is not in competition with the board, or out to "get it," so to speak, but we offer no apologies for having published a report on a prospsoed program to discourage girls from leaving school due to unwanted pregnancies.

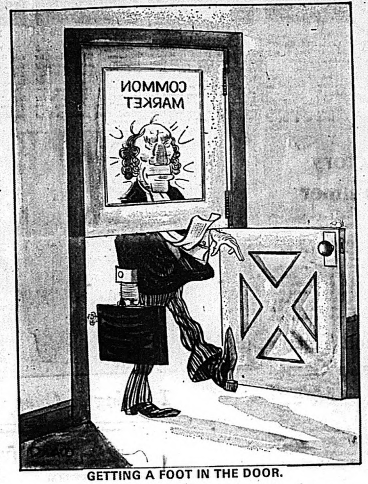
Reporter Ron Carson obtained the information from Mrs. Margaret Flett, the board's home-help instructor and the board is upset over publicity in advance of the matter being discussed by trustees. In a tone that is patronizing, acting Director of Education L. F. Reid seeks to shift the blame by calling it a "misunderstanding" that was the product of a "naive teacher and a conscientious reporter."

One thing we would say Mrs. Flett is not, is "naive." Not when she is discussing the manifest needs of our young people.

If the board of education has been left out in the cold in this matter, it's too bad, but we are not standing in the way of their discussing it further if they wish. The subject is compelling enough that it should be fully aired; as has been noted, the problem has been around the schools for some time.

Meanwhile the education board seems overly sensitive in a number of areas. Chairman Miriam Graham says debate over the proposed course has been hampered by prior publicity, while acting director Reid says the media uses educators as "whipping boys" when the permissive society fails.

Rubbish! The permissive society is the product of our steadily deteriorating neglect of discipline in recent years. All must accept responsibility — the families and the churches whom Mr. Reid cites as abdicating their responsibilities — and including the schools. It has been a general trend and if we are to see any improvement of the human species it is going to take generous mixes of love and concern — yes, and discipline too — in all areas of human endeavor.



GETTING A FOOT IN THE DOOR.

Grim Prospects for Middle East

By PETE BUCKLEY

WASHINGTON (CP) — Uncertainty and tension have been chronic conditions in the Middle East for decades, but the last week's developments augur a potentially treacherous increase in both factors.

For the present, diplomatic observers here are withholding judgment on both the extent and direction of changes that can be expected from the failure of State, Secretary Henry Kissinger's peace mission and the assassination of Saudi Arabia's King Faisal.

Some observers believe that any changes will appear slowly, by evolution rather than revolution. But even that tentative conclusion is acknowledged to be patched together from hope and guesswork rather than a deliberate assessment based on full background knowledge.

What remains are largely somber questions without immediate answers:

—If the painstaking, step-by-step efforts conducted by Kissinger could not achieve progress in the Arab-Israeli confrontation, what hope is there for success from a Geneva conference likely to be rife with power plays, intrigue and public posturing?

—Will the new leadership in Saudi Arabia be able to exercise the moderating influence that King Faisal is widely credited with having wielded on fellow Arab leaders?

—Does the change of power in Saudi Arabia portend more trouble for oil-importing Western nations, with the new leaders tempted toward militant policies as a means of consolidating their position among fellow members of the oil-producers' cartel?

"All the calculations and assumptions" of the past about both Middle Eastern politics and the energy crisis "must now be held in reserve, tested against the new circumstances forced upon the world," the New York Times has warned in an editorial.

Kissinger's decision to approach the Soviet Union in the near future about convening the Geneva conference on the Mideast can be assumed to have been taken reluctantly.

The United States has made no secret of its belief that such a conference—grouping the two super-powers and all the parties in the Middle East dispute—provided a forum with more potential for mischief than for substantive progress.

The U.S. view has not been universally shared, however, even by some Western allies. And Moscow, in particular, resented being excluded from Kissinger's lengthy negotiating program in a region which the Soviets had been cultivating at painful expense.

United Kingdom's Fuel Outlook Good

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

LONDON — A year ago, Britain's energy supplies were so precarious that industry and commerce could operate only three days a week.

The result was not just temporary discomfort. The death rate among older people increased as heating supplies dropped and a great many small businesses went bankrupt.

Today, the energy picture has changed dramatically. No shortages are apparent, the government's conservation propaganda seems to be largely ignored and the Energy Ministry speaks confidently of self-sufficiency by 1980.

The task of getting through the past winter without a recurrence of energy shortages was made easier by remarkably mild weather. December's average temperature was higher than October's, for the first time on record.

Nor was there a recurrence of the crippling 1973-74 strike of coal miners—a hike that was only ended by huge wage boosts that have set the pattern for other industries and thereby sent prices skyrocketing.

(A further 35 per cent pay hike was won by the men at the coalface a few weeks ago.)

Nevertheless, the outlines of a long-lasting solution to the chronic problem of energy supply are becoming much clearer.

Here is the outlook for the four major fuels:

—Oil accounts for 46 per cent of U.K. energy consumption. All of it is imported, at great expense to the already staggering trade deficit.

British hopes are riding on the wild, unpredictable North Sea. Although the first small shipments of North Sea oil will not reach Britain's shores until later this year, the government says that by 1980 this source will account for as much oil as Britain consumes.

—Coal, nearly all of it produced domesically, supplies 38 per cent of U.K. Energy needs.

Britain has the world's oldest and largest coal industry, with reserves good for at least the next 100 years. The recently discovered Selby field in Yorkshire is said to contain the energy equivalent of all the oil and gas under the North Sea.

Until a few years ago, however, oil and natural gas were so cheap that both Labor and Conservative governments endorsed the run-down of the coal industry. They supported elaborate schemes to bring miners out of the pits where they had worked all their lives, and retrain them for assembly-line jobs in lighter industry.

Now that program has been thrown into reverse. Massive re-education of miners and management is under way, and the coal industry—entirely nationalized—will spend $1.5-billion during the next 12 months to expand existing pits and open new collieries.

—Natural gas, all of it from the North Sea, now accounts for 12 per cent of U.K. energy consumption—and is rapidly displacing manufactured gas. Consumption rose by one-sixth last year.

—Electricity provides the remaining four per cent of energy requirements, with nuclear reactors accounting for six-sevenths of the electrical power generated.

All of the nuclear reactors in operation today are of the first generation, known as Magnox. Five second-generation reactors are under construction.

The third generation will consist of the Canadian-designed Candu type, which the U.K. government selected last July in preference to a U.S. system.

The British were congratulating themselves on that choice recently, when the U.S. government ordered several reactors to be shut down for safety checks.

Nuclear reactors have been remarkably well received by the people of this small and crowded island, despite the public opposition to them in some less heavily populated countries.

Surveying the energy field, a satisfied energy minister, Eric Varley, was able to say the other day:

"We can look forward to developing for the first time within a few years a self-sufficient four-fuel economy."

LETTERS

Y and The Community

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

A few weeks ago there appeared relief for the long suffering taxpayers of Belleville. We were told the YMCA would be paying off its mortgage thereby, hopefully, reducing the annual amount of handout from the tax chest.

Any such hope was dashed by the blatant announcement that they will be asking for double what they got last year in addition to the usual tax forgiveness.

Of course they don't really expect to get what they are asking for, they will willingly settle for less. This way, they get what they want, and the apparent reduction, by a willing council, then appears as a compromise by our city fathers who would have us believe they are taking a tough line. That way, everybody, except the taxpayer is happy.

I have long questioned the right of city council to give away our money to causes that we might not choose to support if allowed any say in the matter.

The YMCA, like other agencies, should raise their own money and stand or fall on the support they can command. I, for one, strongly object, to constantly seeing my tax money tossed into the kitty to keep YMCA professional staff in accordance to the style they have become accustomed to.

Their request should be thrown out by council as being, frivolous, and insulting. We have many better ways of spending our tax money.

Slower Industrial Growth Forecast for Belleville

Belleville will not be able to match its 1974 rate of industrial growth as industry becomes cautious against over expansion, says industrial commission chairman Bruce Nickson.

"Last year industry in general was anxious to get going and locate in new areas before land prices climbed beyond the com any's grasp," said Mr. Nickson, general purchasing agent for Corby Distilleries.

"They were hot to trot but now there is a lot of hesitancy due to the slow economy," he said.

Nearly a dozen new industries located in the city last year — a record of industrial commission achievement Mr. Nickson termed "phenomenal".

"Thre is little likelihood we would be able to match that under any cjcrumstances," he said.

"We probably won't have the same level of development but we are looking forward to a good year," said Mr. Nickson.

"I'm not pessimistic," he said. "There are sill a number of red hot prospects that haven't said yes but they haven't said no, either."

Seven Hurt In Crash

TWEED — Seven persons, including four Tweed area residents, were injured during a three-car pileup Sunday on Highway 37, 2½ miles north of this village.

Ontario Provincial Police at Madoc have identified the drivers of two southbound cars as Marilyn Levitan, 19, of Ottawa and John Frederick Belisle, 48, of Carleton Place and the driver of a northbound vehicle as Lionel Fobear 28, of RR 3, Tweed (Actinolite).

Levitan is listed in fair condition with arm and head injuries in the intensive care unit at Belleville General Hospital. Fobear is in fair condition with a fractured hip. Belisle, who was alone, was uninjured.

Two passengers in the Levitan car were identified as Roseanne Zuckerman and Benjamin Hecht, both 20 years of age and both of Ottawa. Zuckerman is in satisfactory condition with a fractured left ankle while Hecht was treated and released for minor injuries.

Three passengers in the Fobear vehicle, all RR 3, Tweed residents, were Sharon Deline, 25, Nicole Deline, 4 and Samantha Deline, 9. The three victims are all listed in fair condition. Sharon has left leg, left arm and head injuries. Nicole is under observation for possible head injuries and Samantha has head injuries and scalp lacerations.

Two members of the Quinte Rescue Squad cut the battery cables in one of the three cars involved in an accident Sunday north of Tweed on Highway 37 which injured seven people, four from the Tweed area. The wires are cut to avoid an electrical short which might play havoc with rescue operations in the event gasoline has been spilled.

Students to Vote April 10 For Association Officers

The election of officers of the Students Association of Loyalist College (SALC) will take place April 10 in the student lounge from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The new officers will comprise the Students Administrative Council (SAC) for 1975-76

Charley Benson of the student services division, an ex-officio member of the council, says SAC is composed of five main officers and five division representatives.

He lists the five main officers as president, vice-president of administration, vice-president of program, secretary and treasurer.

The five representatives are from the schools of technology, business, communications, community studies, and health sciences.

Who is eligible to vote and hold office? "Members of SALC who are fee - paying post-secondary students," says Mr. Benson. That fee is the $35 activity fee.

And why are the elections held during this term, leaving next year's first-year students without a voice? Mr. Benson explains the college fiscal year runs from May 1 to April 30 and the new officers are required to set up the following year's activity program during the off-season with advice from their divisions.

Bus Fares Up Tuesday

It will cost Belleville residents an extra five cents to ride on city buses beginning Tuesday.

The fare increase received approval from the provincial and municipal governments earlier this month.

Under the new fare structure, adults will pay 30 cents, senior citizens 20 cents and children will remain the same at 10 cents.

Passengers will also be required to have the exact change. Marylea Burtt, chairman of the transit commission, said drivers will make change for the first month allowing passengers to become accustomed to the new system.

This marks the first fare increase since 1971.

Cow, Car Collide

PICTON — A 17-year-old youth escaped injury late Saturday night when his car was in collision with a cow owned by William Terpstra of RR 3, Picton. The cow, valued at $400 was killed in the accident.

Teachers Okay Fee Hike

Hastings County secondary school teachers earning about $15,400 a year will pay $54 more in Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation (OSSTF) membership dues this year.

During the four-day annual assembly of the OSSTF in Toronto two weeks ago delegates voted to increase the membership dues for the 34,000 member federation.

Judie Carty, Hastings district OSSTF president, said county delegates were split on the fee increase.

The province's average salary for a secondary school teacher is $15,388.

PROCLAMATION

"Cancer Research Week"

This, the first week in April is Cancer Research Week, beginning the Canadian Cancer Societies April campaign for funds.

Most people think of the war against cancer as being waged only in the laboratories, in the university, in research institutions, however, the conquest of cancer must also be won by ordinary people — by voluneer workers, by fund-raisers. Each of us can help make the "test tube battle" possible. Volunteers rank equally with the professionals . . . each supplementing and complementing each other.

The canvasser who rings your doorbell for a donation to the annual campaign of the Canadian Cancer Society is just one of a nation-wide network of 120,000 dedicated volunteers. They gather funds for a growing research program as well as for public education and services to cancer patients.

They also offer their services for many and varied tasks; teaching hobbies to patients, making countless dressings, driving millions of miles annually to transport patients to treatment centres, visiting hospitals, implementing public education programs. It is safe to say that never before have so many people devoted themselves to the defeat of a disease.

All Canadians are urged to take part in this battle against cancer. Do it by having regular medical examinations to guard your health. Do it by making a contribution to the April campaign for funds. Do it by offering the most generous gift of all — your services as a volunteer.

Therefore, by the virtue of the authority vested in me as the Mayor of the City of Belleville, I do hereby proclaim the first week of April, 1975 as

"CANCER RESEARCH WEEK"

ROBIN JEFFREY,
MAYOR.

Used Clothes Stretch Tight Budgets

Story and Photo
by Rose Richardson

Thanks to inflation, second-hand clothes shops are doing a booming business.

In the Belleville-Trenton area there are several stores — the Opportunity Shop, Salvation Army, Petticoat Lane, The Mary-L-Boutique— which sell used clothing for men, women and children at low prices.

The opportunity Shop, 29 Market Street has been in operation in Belleville for 27 year. It is operated by the hospital auxillary.

Mary Parsons, shop volunteer, says the shop sells approximately $1,000 worth of clothes a month. The money goes to the hospital for equipment and other necessities.

Mrs. Parsons says there are always "herds of people from all walks of life" buying clothes in the store.

"There are people who are too poor to buy new clothes, young kids finding the latest hippie styles and also very well-to-do ladies."

A good coat may be bought for $10 or less, dresses for $5 and shoes for $2.

The Salvation Army has opened a welfare office in Trenton where it sells used clothing.

Captain George Swaddling says if someone cannot afford clothes they are given away. There are alway many people attending Salvation Army rummage sales, held three times a week, on Dundas St. East, in Belleville.

Dresses, shirts, winter coats, pants, shoes, may be bought and prices range from 50 cents to $10.

"The donators are generous and always have been. The high cost of living has not stopped them from giving," said Captain Swaddling.

The money made as a result of these sales goes into the welfare fund to feed or lodge people who have no money.

Petticoat Lane, Dundas St. W., Trenton, is open six days a week. It sells used clothing that has been donated, according to Norah Ellis.

Money raised by the shop goes to the Trenton Memorial Hospital Auxiliary for its hospital work.

The Mary-L-Boutique, is a second-hand shop which opened last May, just East of Towers, on Highway 2.

There is always someone coming in with a box full of good used clothing to sell on consignment basis, says owner Mary Lois Vaughan.

Many people from all walks of life come into the shop said Mrs. Vaughan. Men come to buy a good used suit coat, women for the latest style in dress, at a low price, and toys for children.

The store only accepts good clean clothes. The owner of the clothes receives 60 percent of the sale price and the store receives the 40 percent.

Rene Robertson, one of the volunteer assistants at Belleville's Opportunity Shop, puts a fashionable white vinyl vest on display. Items like this one never stay unsold for long at this used clothing shop run by the Belleville General Hospital Auxiliary.

Homemade Maple Syrup Can Be Sweet Success

These beautiful slushy days and frosty nights are a maple-syrup-lover's dream.

This kind of weather means the sap is running. And that means bottles of clear amber syrup lined up ready for pancakes and waffles in the year ahead.

The cost of maple syrup has risen steadily over the last few years so that this year $13 or $14 a gallon seems to be a reasonable price.

Reasonable, but still more than you might like to spend. But if you have access to a maple tree or two, you can make at least enough syrup to say you've done it, and it won't cost you much at all.

With a few household utensils and bought or borrowed spiles, you have all the equipment you need — as long as you have a backyard where you can make a fire for the "boiling down".

Select trees for tapping that are more than 10 inches in diameter at breast height. Sugar maples or black maples grown in the open with large crowns (the spreading tops of the trees) are the best sap producers.

Drill one tap hole if the tree is between 10 and 14 inches in diameter; two holes if it's between 15 and 18 inches; three holes if it's between 20 and 24 inches, and four holes if it's greater than 25 inches around.

Holes can be drilled with a brace and bit, or an electric hand drill with an extension cord using a ½-inch fast cutting wood bit. Drill each hole approximately three inches deep, slanting slightly downward to the outside. Drill on any convenient side of the tree at a convenient height.

After cleaning woodchips and sawdust out of the tap-hole, insert the spile — the metal tube with spout that carries the sap out to the surface and allows it to drip into the pail which is hung on the spile hook.

Walker's Hardware on Front Street has a few spiles left in stock, and you may be able to get others from farmers who now use plastic spiles and tubing.

After hanging your buckets on the spiles, place covers — aluminum foil is better than nothing — over the pails to prevent debris from falling in.

Set up a fireplace in your backyard to do the boiling down of the sap. Don't do the job indoors, for a variety of reasons. The expense of keeping a stove on will ruin any hopes you had of making no-cost syrup. Your house will be like a hot, damp tropical garden from all the steam rising from the pan. And, worst of all, says Burton Hubble, professional maple syrup manufacturer, you'll have walls and ceilings covered with a film that's terribly hard to remove.

Large rocks set in a ring, with a grill set on top, make an adequate fireplace for your boiling down.

Strain the sap through cheesecloth and pour into a large pan, shallow if possible. Don't fill to the top or the sap will boil over.

As the water boils off, keep pouring in more sap. It takes a long time, so be prepared for several hours of steam-watching.

It takes between 30 and 40 gallons of sap to make one gallon of syrup. That's a lot of steam to face, but don't try to hurry the process with a fierce blaze under the pot. If you scorch the syrup, you'll be left with very unpleasant, dark stuff quite unlike the clear, sweet liquid you want.

To decide whether the syrup is ready, use a candy thermometer. Add seven degrees Farenheit to the reading on the thermometer in boiling water, and this is the reading that your syrup should be when it's done. Syrup at this temperature will contain between 65 and 66 per cent sugar.

After boiling, strain the syrup through a felt strainer, or allow to cool in the pan so that a sediment is left in the bottom. Pour off the syrup so that the sediment is not disturbed.

Because syrup should be bottled at 180 degrees Farenheit, if you allow it to cool, reheat it on the stove before bottling. Pour into jars, and seal with air-tight lids.

If syrup is too thin, it won't keep, and if it's too thick it will crystallize on the bottom of the jar.

Many devotees of maple syrup swear by freezing it (be careful not to fill the jars full, as it will expand as it freezes, to preserve the delicate flavor.

When the season is over, the sap acquires an off flavor syrup makers describe as "buddy". That's your signal to shut down because this sap makes for poor syrup.

Tapping the Sap

Closely observed by eager neighborhood children, Everett Hubble drills the tap hole in an old maple, ready for the spile to be inserted. A bucket will hang from the spile hook, and fill with clear slightly-sweet sap during the warm days of spring.

Fight Back to Resist Rape

Dear Ann Landers: Rape is on the increase in almost every large city in the United States. As a young woman living alone (in a not-too-good neighborhood), I would appreciate some advice on what to do if I am attacked by a rapist.

I have heard some so-called experts say the best thing to do is accept the dehumanizing experience, co-operate with the rapist and not make him angry. The reasoning behind this is that he will get what he wants and leave.

Recently a well-read friend informed me that the quiet acceptance approach is wrong. The best thing to do, she said, is to fight back, scream and kick the attacker in the groin. The would-be-rapist would then flee and seek a less troublesome victim.

Will you please check with the authorities and share your findings with your readers? It would be a wonderful service.—N.Y. Daily News Reader.

Dear N.Y.: No matter what the subject, you are bound to find disagreement among the experts, I go along with Dr. James Selkin at the centre for the Study of Violence at Denver General Hospital. Dr. Selkin advises women against being calm or trying to talk the attacker out of it. According to Dr. Selkin it is important to resist rape violently, at the beginning. Dr. Selkin claims the would-be-rapist would be inclined to run off—rather than risk being seized by the police or a Good Samaritan. Moreover, the attacker's plan for a smooth sex-fantasy trip is ruined by a shrieking, clawing woman.

If, however, a rapist enters a woman's bedroom while she is asleep, and puts a gun to her head or a knife to her throat, the best thing to do is submit.

Dr. Selkin has statistics to support his position. Less than nine per cent of the Denver women who resisted rape by yelling and fighting back suffered anything more serious than a cut or a bruise. "Murders," he said, "are usually committed when the rapist feels safe and no one is giving him any trouble."

Dr. Selkin warned against women being too friendly and trusting to strangers. Nurses and teachers are so frequently raped, he said, because they fall into this category.

Dear Ann Landers: I found something in the wallet of my brother who passed away after an extended illness. I don't know where it came from but I wanted to share it with you. Perhaps you will print it. It helped me think—and it might do the same for others. Here it is:

Don't look. You might see.

Don't listen. You might hear.

Don't think. You might learn.

Don't make a decision. You might be wrong.

Dont walk. You might stumble.

Don't run. You might fall.

Don't live. You might die.

—A Faithful Reader

Dear Faithful: Thank you for sharing. I'm flattered that your brother clipped and carried that little piece of philosophy. It appeared in my column 11 years ago.

Books May Help 'Hoping'

Dear Doris: To the lady who has never really experienced a climax in physical relations, after 29 years of marriage, I can suggest a book "The Key to Feminine Response' published by Random House.

The right kind of reading may help her and save her marriage. Also, if she feels this is the cause of her trouble, perhaps she could get hold of a 1968 October' issue of Reader's Digest. It has a real good short article on this and she might be able to get a reprint.

If she can't, I will write it out for her. I really don't want to send her the whole book because I don't like to part with it.

A small booklet in a doctor's office for women on a matter like this would be a great help to a lot of us.

Trying To Help.

Thank you — perhaps what you have suggested will be exactly what "Hoping Desperately" needs.

Dear Doris: I admired your reply to "Help Me". She was concerned about her daughter's reputation, because of her wanting to sleep with her boy friend before marriage. She said, "I know times have changed, but not God."

Your reply: "All too often, the girl ends up feeling used and frustrated." Stick to your moral convictions. Keep up your good work.

I am not in favor of abortions. It should be a woman's decision whether she wants to have a baby or not. No man has any right to pressure her. It is too bad a man can't go through that ordeal. Then there would be no population explosion to worry people.

As for this so called New Morality, it is as old as the hills. History is repeating itself. In the Old Testament, conditions at that time were similar to conditions today. People were running here and there until Jesus was born and taught people how to live.

Concerned.

Dear Concerned: Thank you for giving us your ideas. It does seem as if there are some surprising similarities between today's loose behavior and the conditions which persons in the past have striven to improve.

Confidential to Lost In Love: Celebrated artists rarely reveal their home addresses. After all, they value their privacy.

Dont make a fool of yourself running away in the hope of winning his love. Come down to earth, girl! Look around at all the nice guys right in your own town — and they're available, too!

Abortions Popular In Soviet Union

MOSCOW (AP) — "You are depriving yourself of happiness," said the poster on the hospital wall.

But the women in the waiting room ignored the warning. They were determined to go ahead with their abortions.

Because of its declining birth rate and growing labor shortage, the Soviet Union encourages its women to have more babies. But at the same time, it provides cheap, legal abortions to any woman 18 and over who wishes one.

Many women do. Most are married working women who either don't want children or want to keep their families limited to one or two. The reasons for that decision are various: cramped housing, lack of time and money to care for another child, desire to have more time for oneself.

Most use abortions as the only means of birth control.

Intra-uterine devices are rarely prescribed in the Soviet Union and the pill is used on a limited basis.

"Soviet doctors are extremely wary of the pill," explained one physician. "We have not yet amassed sufficient evidence to assess the changes in the system when it has been under the influence of the pill for a long time."

But some Soviet citizens don't share the skepticism of their doctors. Those few who are allowed to travel in the West or know people who do often buy huge quantities of pills for themselves or their wives or sweethearts.

In 1973 the Soviet birth rate was 17.6 per thousand down from 17.8 per thousand in 1971.

Men rarely take responsibility for birth control. Condoms are sold in most drug stores but their quality is poor and they are not popular. Vasectomies are virtually unknown.

At least one demographic scholar, E. Sadovkasova, has stressed the need for "reliable, easily obtainable" contraceptives.

"In this respect, the situation in our country leaves much to be desired," she has written. "We still have no contraceptive means which, by their certainty of effectiveness, could compete against abortion.

"It is also a question of insufficient knowledge among women and particularly women just reaching marriageable age and starting their sex life, and their inability to use contraceptives in the right way."

That lack of knowledge is not unexpected in a society that publicly ignores the existence of sex, banning sexy scenes in movies, magazines and books.

Sex is a taboo subject in most Soviet homes and schools. "My parents never talked about sex," said one young Muscovite. "I learned everything from my friends."

Despite society's uptight attitude, many young people have developed a casual attitude about sex. Premarital sex and pregnancies are common.

A woman who wants an abortion first goes to her neighborhood clinic for a certificate giving permission.

"It's here where she gets the first pitch about having the baby," said Boris, a young man knowledgeable about such things. "The doctor will probably ask her, 'Have you considered that this may have a detrimental effect on your health?' He may also say, 'Our country needs more girls and boys.'"

The Soviet ministry of health spends considerable money on brochures, posters and other forms of publicity to try to persuade pregnant women to have their babies.

But, the persuasion doesn't appear to be working. There are no official figures on the number of abortions but Western experts have estimated that the ratio of abortions to live births in the Soviet Union is almost two to one.

Women have complained of hostility at the hospital in which they undergo their abortions.

"Many women I know say they were treated like prostitutes, although some were married women," said Boris.

"In spite of the fact that abortion is legal, we Soviet doctors are against it," said Vera V. Kochemasova, chief gynecologist of the ministry of health.

To avoid the hostility, lectures and humiliation of an official abortion, some women arrange an unofficial abortion in their homes or a doctor's office.

An official abortion is free for a working woman and five rubles ($6.85) for one who doesn't work. That includes the operation and three days in hospital to make sure there are no complications.

Paul Never Forsook Link with Judaism

By GEORGE CORNELL

The mother church in Jerusalem clung closely to Judaism, but it and its guiding influence were wiped out in the Roman destruction of Israel in 70 AD.

But the Jewish scholar Paul, who championed and into the wider world, never forsook the cradling faith, and maintained the church should not do so either.

"Remember, it is not you that support the root, but the root that supports you," he writes in Romans 11, likening Christianity to a branch grafted into a nurturing and holy tree.

In pressing steadily to open the broadened dimensions of the new faith, Paul writes in his letter to the Galatians: "There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither slave nor free, there neither male nor female; for you are all one in Christ Jesus. And if you are Christ's then you are Abraham's offspring, heirs according to the promise."

It was an expanded scope, an inclusive vision, initially unforeseen by the apostles who worked directly with Jesus and who, even after His resurrection, still centred their hopes in Israel.

Jesus, before parting from their sight, left His apostles with an enlarged horizon, without rejecting the original: "It is not for you to know the times or the seasons which the Father has fixed by his own authority. But you shall receive power when the Holy Spirit has come upon you; and you will be my witnesses in Jerusalem and in all Judea and Samaria and to the end of the earth."

After the resurrection appearances, lasting over a period of 40 days, that spiritual infusion came about 10 days later. It was the day of the Pentecost, commemorating God's revelation of the law to Moses, and the hesitant, uncertain apostles suddenly became fervent, forthright preachers.

Joining the cause that day of Pentecost, were 3,000 people, soon becoming 5,000, and the church commenced. It was a pervasively Jewish church, one of various groups within Judaism, just as Jesus Himself had focused His work within that heritage.

As Acts 2:46 notes, believers attended Temple services daily and they taught in the synagogues, as Paul did later, both in Jerusalem and elsewhere.

"They were all together, part of the same Jewish community, which included all sorts of movements," said Presbyterian scholar Harry E. Gaylord, editor of a current, 10-volume publishing project concerning the first two centuries of Christianity.

"The Christians, as they eventually were called, didn't have a uniform approach to Jewish law, but they were not trying to break away from Judaism," he added.

Two strange things then happened. One was Saul's conversion to believing in Jesus. Later, he was called Paul. Meanwhile, James the Just, a brother of Jesus, who was of orthodox practice, emerged as the presiding officer of Jerusalem's church.

But rivalry soon appeared between the mother church and Paul, who favored admitting Gentiles without their first being circumcised into Judaism and without adhering to other scriptural disciplines.

Paul was summoned before the church council in 49 AD, 20 years after the death and resurrection of Jesus. Peter defended Paul's lenient approach while others opposed it as compromising the high standards of God's revealed laws in a pagan world.

James, in pronouncing the councils judgment, took a middle course and excused Gentile believers from detailed requirements. But he insisted they must uphold basic moral standards and discretions in keeping with Judaism.

The differences persisted. Paul says he had been "entrusted with a gospel to the uncircumcised" while Peter carried the "gospel to the circumcised." Paul castigates those holding a "different gospel from his and, in 2nd Corinthians 11, belabors those "false apostles" preaching "another Jesus than the one we preached."

Paul himself, while insisting on freedom from Jewish observences and sharply reproaching those not accepting Jesus, stresses the ethical ideals of Judaism. He repeatedly emphasizes, as in Romans 11, that "God has not rejected his people whom he foreknew."

Several church scholars, beginning in the 1950s with the late Reinhold Niebuhr, have opposed Christian proselytizing of Jews, concluding that Judaism, although not recognizing Jesus as a messiah, remains a permanently valid and divinely sanctioned instrument of salvetion of God's chosen people, while Jesus extends it to others.

"If the Jewish people are not already members of God's family, we who are Gentiles remain lost, for the Jewish covenant into which Jesus leads us would be revealed as a delusion," said theologian A. Roy Eckardt.

"Only a Jew, Jesus, could accomplish the miracle of opening the covenant to the pagan world," he said.

Sólar Heat Houses Planned

LIVERPOOL, England (CP)—Prototype houses using solar energy for heating are to be built on Merseyside.

Nine of the houses, specially designed for elderly people, will form part of a project at High Bebington, near here. Five houses, heated conventionally, will also be built on the same site. After a year's occupation, energy usage in the two types will be compared.

The solar-heated houses will be of brick, with one outside wall surface covered by a double glazed skin. This wall will absorb solar radiation and re-radiate heat into the house, its release being controlled by the occupants. The houses will, of course, be insulated to a high standard.

There will also be a flat plate solar energy collector on the roof to help in water heating. The houses are to be fitted with fan-assisted cooling systems to cope with possible overheating in summer.

Laboratory experiments and computer simulations have shown that a solar-heated house can use from about one-third to two-thirds less energy than an ordinary one. The scheme will put some real figures and experience into the research.

Work is expected to begin on the houses by the middle of this year. They have been designed by Loughborough University of Technology in collaboration with Pilkington Bros. Ltd, the famous glass-making firm. The project will cost ($322,000) and the money is being provided by the department of the environment.

EDMONTON (CP) — A subsidized mortgage interest program for farm families with an annual net income of less than $8,500 has been introduced by the Alberta government. Interest rates will be subsidized to as low as nine per cent on a graduated scale related to income.

Shamrocks Popular

KANSAS CITY (AP) — St. Patrick's Day cards sent this year by Americans outnumbered the people in Ireland by more than three-to-one, say industry sources. Dennis Burns of Hallmark estimated the green-papered blizzard at some 11 million cards. Ireland itself has only three million inhabitants.

Sap Boildown Coming

PERTH, Ont. (CP) — Perth will close one of its streets April 29 to hold a maple sap boil-down. Sponsored by the maple committee of the Perth Chamber of Commerce, the Lanark County Maple Syrup Producers' Association will supply the Spring Festival of Maples with sap and an evaporator. Pancakes and sausages will be served with syrup.

Old Axe Recalls Tale Of Early Expedition

NELSON, B.C. (CP) — Members of the Kootenay Mountaineering Club found a 59-year-old axe last summer while hiking in the Lake Bonny Gem area of the central Purcell Mountains in eastern British Columbia.

The axe is believed to belong to one of three men who were the first to explore the beautiful alpine regions around the lake in July, 1915.

It was left as a marker by William J. Seaman to help guide companion J. L. Wright back to the campsite after Mr. Wright scaled nearby Mount Lake.

As it happened Mr. Wright arrived at the camp by a different route, so the axe remained as the only trace of the expedition.

The story of the three explorers is told in a pamphlet entitled The Ascent of Mount Lillian and the Christening of Lake Bonny Gem, written by Mr. Seaman. It now is in the possession of Helen Butling of Nelson.

"It is just a little soft-backed pamphlet and there's no publisher mentioned, just a date for the expedition—July, 1915,' she said.

Mrs. Butling, who is the mountaineering club's librarian, said she has unsuccessfully tried to trace the origins of the book which she received 10 years ago. However, she believes the axe is the same mentioned in the book.

"He (Seaman) described it as a Hudson Bay axe (which has a small notch under the blade) and where he left it.

"It is exactly like the one found when a party of about 22 of us went on a hiking trip to Lake Bonny Gem in August."

The mountaineering club is trying to find any survivors of the original expedition as part of a publicity campaign to save Lake Bonny Gem as a wilderness area.

Mrs. Butling said the club is concerned that the approaches might be destroyed by logging and that logging roads would improve access, resulting in too many people entering and spoiling the area.

Dig American Ads

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — A marketing survey of Africans shows they like advertisements displaying the American way of life. The bureau of market research at the University of South Africa said the survey showed most Africans regard the Americans as "a wealthy, progressive nation—good examples on which to base their own way of life."

Want Cheap Funeral? Better Avoid Montreal

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadians trying to save on funeral expenses should arrange to die in British Columbia and avoid Montreal, which has possibly the highest-priced funerals in the country.

Jill Watt, author of the Canadian Guide to Death and Dying, said, "The average funeral in Montreal is $2,300, in Vancouver between $750 and $900."

"The reason is simple," Mrs. Watt said. "There are 85,000 members of the Memorial Society in this province and they keep the undertakers in line."

Mrs. Watt, a former nurse, recommends her book "to people who for the first time in their life are responsible for someone and don't know the procedures of death."

"They don't even know the vocabulary."

To help them understand, she has included a glossary telling the reader that casket means coffin and testacy means the practice of leaving a will at death.

Mrs. Watt's book discusses all aspects of death's complications from transporting the body—trucking companies seldom will accept bodies on Fridays-to donating parts of the body to science-Roman Catholics should ask the church for permission.

She had trouble collecting the information.

"Nobody was hostile but some were evasive or just didn't answer.

"I wrote 16 medical schools but only got six replies, and from 17 cemetery and crematorium companies I again only had six answers."

Mrs. Watt also had trouble interviewing lawyers about their role. Eventually she gave up and relied on her own experience and discussions with others who had experienced legal complications.

She suggests that people ask for a breakdown of legal charges, from the cost of writing letters to the fee for settling an estate.

"Lawyers will invariably charge you on a percentage basis for simple matters and on a straight hourly rate for more complicated problems. Around $40 an hour and two per cent of the value of the estate is the normal charge."

Mrs. Watt said the executor normally takes an additional five per cent of the value of the estate.

Although she found comparative shopping impossible, she lists average undertakers' prices: Embalming is $65; cremation $45. The book says the cheapest coffins often are displayed side by side with the most expensive.

"If someone is upset, it's a bad time to decide on a cheaper coffin."

She advises people not to leave instructions for their funerals in their wills because the will usually is read after the funeral service.

The book is published by Self-Counsel Press.

Mrs. Watt said she loves collecting facts. She has just completed a directory of services for Greater Vancouver. In her spare time, she transcribes print into braille and indexes Canadian books at the University of B.C. on a volunteer basis.

Turks Said Holding Prisoners

NICOSIA (AP) — Glafcos Clerides, a Greek-Cypriot leader, has accused Turkey of holding prisoners of war and missing civilians without releasing their names.

Clerides made his accusation Saturday to hundreds of sobbing Greek-Cypriot women who were demanding urgent action for the release and tracing of their missing men.

The women gathered outside the Cyprus House of Representatives after marching through the streets of the war-divided Cypriot capital demanding prompt action by the International Red Cross, the United Nations peace force in Cyprus, the Cyprus government and international public opinion for the tracing of the 2,700 missing Greek-Cypriots.

The fate of these men is unknown eight months after the end of fighting that followed the Turkish invasion and occupation of nearly half the island last summer.

Addressing the women, Clerides said:

"We have fresh unshakable evidence that the Turks are holding a number of missing Greek-Cypriots they had previously denied capturing. This unshakable evidence has been provided by the International Red Cross and other international organizations whose representatives have seen these missing persons in captivity."

Rough Treatment

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — Police here are looking for a beaten-up bandit.

Saturday night, a man armed with a hammer walked into the small variety store run by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Sloan and ordered Mrs. Sloan, behind the counter, to hand over the cash.

Mr. Sloan walked out of the attached house with a wooden pole in his hands and started clouting the man.

Mrs. Sloan picked up a three-foot section of iron pipe and joined in.

Inquest to Open

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP) — A jury of six men with backgrounds in aviation will begin to hear testimony Tuesday at a coroner's inquest into the causes of a plane crash last Oct. 30 which killed 32 men in the worst air disaster in the history of the Canadian Arctic.

Coroner Walter England, a hardware merchant in this territorial capital who has served as a coroner for 15 years, said it will be the jury's task to determine when, where, how and by what means the 32 men died. The jury will make recommendations to the territorial government on how similar accidents can be avoided.

Burglaries Increase

TORONTO (CP) — Break-ins in Metropolitan Toronto have increased in recent weeks but armed robberies have decreased, police said Sunday.

Thieves took $14,500 worth of goods, including televisions, stereo components and jewelry, during break-ins Saturday at eight residences and one store, police said. No armed robberies were reported during the weekend.

Not Same Man

TORONTO (CP) — An official of the Law Society of Upper Canada said in a letter to the editor in The Globe and Mail today that Michael A. Wadsworth, a Toronto lawyer known in football and broadcasting, is not the man recently disciplined by the society.

Kenneth Jarvis, society secretary, said there has been confusion because of the similarity of names.

Boys Wounded

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — Walter Rossler, 15, of Brantford, Ont., is in critical condition after being shot in the head Saturday when his .22-calibre rifle accidentally discharged while he was hunting in the Trout Creek area 20 miles south of here.

Pastor-cop Finds Two Jobs Mix Well

MILLIKEN, Colo. (AP) — When somebody calls a cop in Milliken, the call is answered by a pistol-packing preacher.

He's James Marostica, 31, "Brother Jim" to the 65 members of the Assembly of God Church.

Marostica formerly was a dairy farmer in nearby Johnstown. Last year he sold his farm, moved to this eastern Colorado town of 1,000 and set up shop as Milliken's first and only police officer.

"I wasn't looking for a job as a policeman, but the job came open," Marostica said.

Then, last December, when Earl Fread retired as pastor of the church, Marostica entered the pulpit as a preacher, paid from the collection plate each Sunday.

Marostica said there's little crime in Milliken, "mainly because we don't have any bars," and his job as a cop, for which he says he's paid $715 a month, primarily involves mediating family squabbles.

"Being a pastor helps in those situations, where nobody has committed a crime," Marostica said. "I just quiet the folks down and tell them where to go for help."

Marostica said word has got around Milliken that the policeman is a preacher, but most people consider him a law officer rather than a man of the cloth when he answers a call.

He said he's never been required to decide between his beliefs as a Christian and his duty to maintain order, but he said that he could kill a man if he had to.

"If it came down to the point where it was him or somebody else or him or me, it would have to be him," Marostica said.

Prices Vary

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retail sugar prices have dropped in a few world capitals, including Ottawa, since the first of the year but have continued climbing in most, the United States agriculture department said today.

The store price of sugar in Washington was 52 cents a pound March 5, a decline of 34 per cent from 79 cents Jan. 3, the department said.

Sugar sold in Ottawa March 3 for 50 cents a pound, down from the 64 cents charged Canadian shoppers two months earlier, the report said.

Declines also were reported in Brasilia, Buenos Aires and Stockholm.

But in London the price was 37 cents a pound, an increase of 60 per cent from 23 cents Jan. 3.

Paid to Reduce

SPRING GROVE, Ill (AP) — The president of a manufacturing firm, concerned about the health of his overweight employees, is paying $3 for each pound they lose. He figures the competition will cost hime more than $17,600.

Jim Miller, head of Intermatic Inc., a manufacturer of timers and heaters, said that "Out of a work force of 500, we have 144 employees signed up to lose nearly three tons within the next year."

"The program is limited to those 15 pounds or more overweight on the basis of insurance tables. Overweight is a disease that kills. We have seven enrolled who are more than 100 pounds overweight and we have three who weigh more than 300 pounds."

Open All Year

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP)—On Wednesday, it will have been one year to the day since Great Lakes shipping lanes were last closed. But it has taken $7 million, hundreds of people and eight agencies to fight the ice that hampers year-round shipping, government spokesmen say.

U.S. Steel has been the only shipper so far to take advantage of the coast guard's ice-breaking efforts on the lakes, sending $76 million worth of ore through the Soo locks.

The ore represented 2½ million gross tons of taconite pellets U.S. Steel was able to ship from Minnesota to Gary, Ind., and Chicago because the locks were kept open all winter for the first time in history.

Traffic Heavy

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Police said Easter-holiday traffic on Highway 401 near here Sunday was bumper-to-bumper after a two-inch snowfall and high winds created icy, snowcovered roads and poor visibility.

Police said traffic from Kitchener to London was moving about 30 m.p.h. West of London, speeds were reduced to between five and 10 miles an hour at times.

Croatian Exiles' Arsenal Discovered

HAMILTON, Ont. (CP) — Five Hamilton men, who say they are members of the Croatian armed forces in exile, were charged after police seized loaded guns and explosive materials in a city apartment Saturday.

Charged with possession of explosives and possesion of an unregistered, restricted weapon were Sime Bogdanic, 50; his sons Petar 25, and Daniel 28, and Ivo Bernatovic, 27.

Vladimir Baotic, 27, was charged with possession of explosives.

A spokesman for the Croatian armed forces in exile said it is an international group aiming to eventually liberate Croatia from Yugoslavia. Sime Bogdanic is self-proclaimed commander-in-chief of the forces and claims to be a direct descendent of the royal family of Croatia.

The men are to appear in Hamilton provincial court April 15.

Police seized a quantity of chemicals and apparatus used in the manufacture of nitroglycerine and other explosives.

They said about five gallons of various chemicals, several boxes of acid, distilled water, glycerine and articles which may be used in the manufacture of explosive were seized.

Also found was literature outlining various methods of sabotage, espionage and bomb-making.

Police said no bombs or nitroglycerine were found in the building and that material found will be sent to the Ontario attorney-general's office for tests.

A spokesman for the Croatian armed forces said that although the materials seized could have been used to make a bomb, no such devices were ever made.

He said they were used to educate soldiers "for when the time comes to return to Croatia."

The spokesman also said the federal government has been aware of the group's activities for the last three years and that "we had a mutual agreement with them."

U.S. Crime Rate Higher

WASHINGTON (AP) — The rate of serious crime in the United States increased 17 per cent in 1974, the largest advance in 14 years, FBI statistics show.

Attorney-General Edward Levi said today the increase indicates a "a dismal and tragic failure on the part of our present system of justice."

Last year's increase compares with a climb of six per cent in 1973 and a decline of four per cent in 1972. Property crimes, such as burglary and larceny, showed the highest rates of increase last year.

Eleven Die In Family Quarrel

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — What began as an Easter reunion for Charity Ruppert's family ended in tragedy with 11 members of the family dead and another charged with murder.

Police found Mrs. Ruppert, 65; her son, Leonard, 42; his wife, Alma, and their eight children, ranging in age from three to 18, shot to death Sunday night at the grandmother's two-storey home.

All but one had been shot in the head, police said. The other was shot in the chest.

Mrs. Ruppert's other son, James, 40, a jobless draftsman, was charged with aggravated murder.

He was scheduled for a preliminary hearing Wednesday, said Butler County Prosecutor John Holcomb.

Ruppert, being held in jail, has refused to talk, Holcomb said.

270 Arrested

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Youths on vacation clashed with police Easter morning, and police said about 270 persons were arrested. The disturbance broke out when youths started jumping off balconies at two beachfront motels, police said. Disorder spread after a motorist smashed into three parked cars, including an unmarked police cruiser.

Waters Acid-free After Rail Wreck

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — Local waterways have been pronounced free of contamination by a spokesman for the Ontario environment ministry following the derailment Friday of a Canadian National Railways freight train, which caused 30,000 gallons of sulphuric acid to spill from tank cars.

The spokesman said Sunday that the ministry is "quite pleased" that acid levels in waterways surrounding the CNR mainline 10 miles east of here are normal.

A CNR spokesman in Toronto said the line was cleared late Saturday of nine 100-ton tank cars, part of a 69-car train on the way from the Canadian Industries Ltd. plant at nearby Copper Cliff to Sorel, Que., and New Brunswick.

A broken line caused the derailment, the spokesman said. No injuries were reported.

Haldeman Says Nixon Liked Connally as Vice

WASHINGTON (AP) — H. R. Haldeman says Richard Nixon discussed the possibility of appointing John Connally vice-president long before Shiro Agnew was touched by scandal. The talk, Haldeman says, was that Agnew was unhappy and might quit in the middle of the first term.

Agnew resigned Oct. 10, 1973, 10 months into his second term, after pleading no contest to one count of income-tax evasion. Connally later was indicted on bribery charges in the milk-fund case and goes on trial Tuesday.

In an interview to be telecast by CBS Sunday, Haldeman also said:

—He thinks "Deep Throat," the clandestine source of Watergate information to Washington Post reporters Carl Bernstein and Robert Woodward, was W. Mark Felt, former associate director of the FBI.

—Henry Kissinger, now state secretary, threatened to resign "quite a few" times while he was Nixon's chief national security adviser. Kissinger was not unstable, but had "a tendency to ups and downs."

—John Mitchell did not quit as head of Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign because of Watergate, but because of pressure by his wife, Martha.

The interview was taped in Haldeman's Los Angeles home March 4-5 and edited to two one-hour programs, the first of which was shown last Sunday. Haldeman is reported to have been paid $25,000 to $50,000 by CBS.

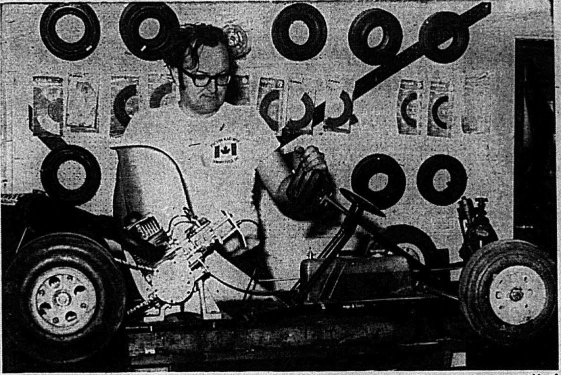
The second registration for the league takes place on Saturday at Golden Mile Restaurant from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.



Picton Kartway owner, John Long, prepares one of his machines at the track workshop. Long was a key factor in organizing go-kart owners in Southern Ontario into a racing association. The association has close to 50 members, all of whom own racing karts. These machines are capable of travelling at speeds up to 100 mph. and are valued at nearly $1,000. Long owns five such karts.

Go-karts on the Move in Quinte District

A go-kart is not an unfamiliar sight in the Bay of Quinte area. People are used to seeing the bulky, metal framework propelled by last year's lawn mower engine in open fields around the Quinte district.

Now, however, there are go-karts that might tend to confuse area residents on sight. These have a general resemblance to their sluggish predecessors, but that is all. The new breed of karts is streamlined, sleek in appearance, and designed specifically for racing at speeds up to 100 m.p.h.

A club, the South Eastern Ontario Karting Federation (SEOKF), was formed recently with the specific purpose of uniting area kart racers.

"Interest has really picked up in the last couple of years," said the club's secretary, Bev Long, "so we decided it was time we had some kind of association."

The club's president, Bob Harvie, from Demorestville, was the key to getting things going. He mailed out invitations to all kart owners in the area before Christmas and the response was tremendous.

"We have about 42 members right now," said Mrs. Long, "some come from Toronto and few come from Kingston, but mainly they are from our own area."

Bev and her husband, John, race-director of the Federation were the catylists to the kart racing bug. They moved to the area three years ago. With them they brought six years of kart racing experience. They then constructed a track on their property and purchased several racing karts. The track was open to the public and quickly became a money-making venture for the Longs.

After the boom in interest last year, and the fact that more and more people were buying their own machines, the Longs felt it was time the area had a governing association. Together with Harvie, they got the idea off the ground.

Along with Harvie and the Longs on the executive, John Thompson, from Picton, was elected vice-president, and Ingrid Kristalyn, from Wellington, was elected treasurer.

Competition go-karts are sophisticated machines, refined through years of development. Standard equipment includes hydraulic disc brakes, six-inch wide racing slicks, fiberglass and aluminum components and specially built, high powered racing engines with tuned exhausts.

The karts that the Longs own cost nearly $1,000 each. Bodies costs are in the $600 range and engines are $300. Most of their karts are imported from England.

The club plans to run every Sunday at the Longs track — Picton Kartway — near Demorestville. (South on Highway 14 from Belleville,) turn east on Demorestville road for approximately four miles.)

Actual competitions are a while away yet. There are still a few organizational meetings. All meetings are at Picton Kartway and they are open to the public. The next one is scheduled for April 6. For further information contact Picton Kartway at 1-476-7021.

Tigers Take Title

WELLAND (Special) — Success wasn't measured in numbers for Trenton Atom Major Tigers in the annual Little NHL Tournament here on the weekend.

With only 12 players, including two goaltenders, in the lineup, Tigers skated to the A and AA Consolation Championship here.

The Trenton team got by Sarnia 7-2; Faustina 5-1 and Peterborough 2-1 after losing 5-1 to Welland in its first start.

In the AA championship match with Sarnia, Vern Nutley's charges roared to the title on a pair of goals each by Jim Raeside and Mike Kaine, and singles by Darrell Shiels, Kevin Willerton and Jeff Chouinard.

In the A showdown, Tigers were led by Kaine and Mark Farrar who each clicked twice. Willerton had the other counter.

Chouinard and Kaine looked after the scoring in the 2-1 defeat of Peterborough.

Lone Trenton marksman in the loss to Welland was Farrar.

Sharing the goaltending for Tigers were Michael Ayres and Ricky Terefenko.

Macs Sign Two More

JACK JURY

The MacDonald's team has added two more locals to their list of signed players. Jack Jury and Brian Gariepy are the new members of the Ontario Fastball League squad.

Jury, 30-years-old, played for Auger Men's Wear, of the Quinte Fastball League last season. Gariepy comes to the McDonald's in his first year out of the junior ranks, making him the youngest on the team, at 21.

Jury, a left fielder, checks in at over six-feet and around 200 pounds. Though better known for his defensive skills (particularly his strong arm and speed in covering ground) Jack came into his own at the plate last season. He finished off with a .376 average.

"He adds the long ball threat to the McDonald's lineup," said general manager Dale Duvall.

A Trenton resident, Jury has proven his ability in pounding the ball beyond the fences.

Gariepy is not only the youngest, but also the smallest member of the McDonald's. Though he is only five-foot-seven, 155 pounds, his defensive prowess at second base is undaunted. He covers more area between first and second than most of his colleagues in the Quinte area.

"Brian's age is his greatest asset," said Adams. "He's good now, but he still has the time to blossom into a great ball player."

Although Brian has never had a big season at the plate, he came through with many game winning hits in clutch situations last year, for the Ellis Juniors.

Trenton Softball Enthusiasts May Get Long Awaited Field

TRENTON — At long last it seems that faithful followers of softball in Trenton are going to get a break they deserve.

At this point in time whether they are able to enjoy their favorite summer pastime in modern accommodations depends on the prompt action of the town fathers.

A new softball diamond in Centennial Park this year is possible providing construction on the project gets under way within the next few weeks.

Already the local Rotary Club, wholeheartedly behind the idea from the outset, has committed $40,000 toward the undertaking.

The balance, between $25,000 and $40,000 is required to complete one of the two plans as presented by the town's parks and recreation commission.

The commission approved the expenditure (whichever amount is decided upon) and now awaits official go ahead from town council.

Considered to be good news is a report from Rotary's Wilfred Wilkinson, CA, who says he understands council favored the appropriation and included the town's share in the current budget. Mr. Wilkinson is chairman of the J. Nolan Sisson committee for the Trenton Rotary Club.

A new softball diamond is at the top of the list of local sports facility needs since the playing field at Bayshore Park has outlived its usefulness after four decades of annual wear and tear.

The proposed replacement would comprise many advantages for both the players and fans Mr. Wilkinson revealed. "Very important and essential is improved lighting for night games badly lacking at Bayshore Park. Better lights will extend the season and be most helpful in August when the days get shorter and so much depends on adequate lighting when the playoffs are at their height."

When the new facility is available both players and fans owe a debt of gratitude to the thoughtfulness of the former publisher of the Trenton Courier Advocate — J. Nolan Sisson.

A bequest from his estate called for funds to be provided service clubs to sponsor recreation in the municipalities of Trenton and Swift Current. In order to qualify, the recipient must match the amount made available by the Sisson state.

Since the Sisson bequest became effective in 1967-8 the Trenton Rotary Club has obtained funds from this source to further a number of recreation endeavors for the benefit of townspeople — in particular youth.

RALPH HOUK

Lolich Rocked; Houk Shocked

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Manager Ralph Houk of Detroit Tigers told reporters last week: "You can say what you want about me, but don't say anything about ny players. Don't write bad things now, not in spring training."

OK, Ralph, but your pitching staff is making it difficult.

Mickey Lolich, the Detroit ace, gave up eight runs and nine hits, including three-run homers by Joe Morgan and Bill Plummer in the second inning of Sundays exhibition baseball game against Cincinnati Reds.

Even Houk shed his rose-colored glasses and told it like it is after lifting the lefthander following the second-inning barrage.

"I didn't want him to go out there again after that," said baseball's perennial optimist. "Mickey didn't have good stuff at all. Everything was hanging; his velocity just wasn't there. He didn't throw the ball very well at all."

In six exhibition starts, the 34-year-old Lolich has pitched 26 innings and allowed 44 hits, including seven homers, and 25 runs. His earned-run average is 8.65 and his record is 0-4. It would be 0-5, but Cincinnati's Clay Kirby, Clay Carroll and Pedro Borbon couldn't hold the 8-0 lead and the Tigers rallied to win a wild 34-hit, six-homer slugfest 13-12 on a two-run single in the bottom of the ninth by Bill Freehan, who homered earlier.

Lolich's rubbery left arm, which has pitched 2,978 innings in the last 11 years, may be losing some of its elasticity. After a 25-14 mark and 2.92 ERA in 1971, followed by 22-14 and 2.50 in '72, Lolich has fallen off the last two years to 16-15, 3.82 in 1973 and 16-21, 4.15 a year ago.

Another veteran southpaw, Baltimore's Mike Cuellar, took a six-inning pounding in the Orioles' 11-1 loss to Texas Rangers. Cuellar was shelled for all 11 runs and 15 of the Rangers' 16 hits. Jeff Burroughs, the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1974, had two homers—his third and fourth of the spring—a double and single and drove in six runs. Tom Grieve also homered.

In other Sunday games, Houston defeated Montreal 12-7, Minnesota beat Atlanta 12-4, Philadelphia edged Chicago White Sox 3-2, St. Louis beat New York Mets 5-4, another Texas squad beat New York Yankees 11-7, Pittsburgh defeated Kansas City 8-6, Los Angeles defeated Boston 7-2, San Francisco beat California 9-5, Milwaukee blanked Cleveland 6-0, Oakland shut out Chicago Cubs 5-0 and San Diego beat its Hawaii farm club 3-2.

Jose Cruz, a Houston rookie, outdid Burroughs, driving in six runs with three homers—two off Steve Rogers—to lead the Astros past the Expos. Montreal outfielder Bob Bailey suffered a broken left hand when he was hit by a pitch from Jim York and will be sidelined for a month or so.

Chris Speier drove in three runs with a homer and single and San Francisco Giants scored six runs in the last two innings off Luis Quintana to beat California.

Cox, Laver Win Titles

ATLANTA (AP) — Fifth-seeded Mark Cox of Great Britain, a resident of Vancouver defeated Australia's John Alexander 6-3, 7-6 Sunday to capture the title in the World Championship Tennis $60,000 Atlanta tournament.

Cox received $12,000 for the victory, his second on the WCT Red Group tour. Alexander won $6,000.

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Rod Laver tied Stan Smith's World Championship Tennis record of 20 consecutive match victories Sunday by beating Vitas Gerulaitis 6-4, 6-4 to capture the $60,000 Blue Group tournament.

Laver, who was Smith's first victim when Smith racked up 20 match victories in 1973, now has won four Blue Group events in a row this year. The $12,000 first-place prize boosted his season's WCT earnings to $74,000, tops on the circuit.

Look Out, Miller Nicklaus Is Back

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, overshadowed in recent months by the gaudy exploits of Johnny Miller, has reasserted his superiority on the professional golf tour.

Nicklaus has won his last two times out and Miller was in the field each time.

And his last victory—in the Heritage Classic on Sunday—came over an elite invitational field that included almost all of the Masters hopefuls. Among them were Miller, Gary Player, Arnold Palmer, Lee Trevino, Tom Weiskopf, Bruce Crampton, Hale Irwin and most of the young stars.

He stunned them with a 63 in Friday's round, gave them life with a 74 Saturday and put them all away with a solid 68 Sunday that completed a tournament record total of 271, 13 under par.

Nicklaus now goes to Augusta, Ga., and the upcoming Masters at the top of his game, perhaps playing as well as he ever has in the last 10 years.

"My swing pattern is very good, better than it has been in two or three years," said Nicklaus, who annually makes the Masters his first big goal of the season.

Pressed to compare the state of his game—which has produced victories in his last two starts—with previous pre-Masters' seasons, Nicklaus went back 10 years.

"It's hard to say if this is the best," he said. "My game was awfully good in '65. I don't know what my record may have been as far as wins are concerned, but it seemed that everytime I teed it up it was a 66 or a 68 or a 67."

And that was the season he set the Masters record.

This year compares very favorably. In his last three tournaments he's had a 63 on one of the world's toughest golf courses, a pair of 66s, a 67, a couple of 68s and three 69s.

He appeared to play just as well as need be in the final round over the 6,655-yard Harbour Town Golf Links.

His lapse in the third round had dropped him back into a tie with Weiskopf for the top. They remained that way through the first nine holes and then Nicklaus pulled away.

He birdied the 11th after a seven-iron shot to within six or seven feet and Weiskopf bogeyed the 12th, missing the green. That gave Jack a two-stroke margin and it was just a matter of finishing.

"I'm disappointed at not winning," Weiskopf said, "but at least I'm glad I could make a golf tournament out of it."

He closed with a par 71 and was second at 274. They were the only two in the chase. Charles Coody came on with a 65 and took third at 279, eight shots back.

Seattle Squad Scores a First

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The old order continues to change in the National Basketball Association with Seattle SuperSonics, of all people, clinching a playoff berth and Milwaukee Bucks, of all people, virtually out of it.

The Sonics made it into the playoffs for the first time in their eight-year history Sunday with a 98-88 victory over Portland.

The Bucks, perennial playoff participants, moved to the brink of elimination with a 111-99 loss to New York. The Knicks' backcourt tandem of Earl Monroe with 24 points and Walt Frazier with 18 points and 14 assists proved too much for Milwaukee.

The Bucks are last in the Midwest Division, 3½ games back of third-place Detroit in the race for the Western Conference wild-card playoff spot. One Piston victory or one Milwaukee loss will eliminate the Bucks.

Elsewhere in the NBA Sunday, Washington beat Chicago 94-92, New Orleans defeated Atlanta 108-105 and Los Angeles beat Phoenix 104-90.

In the American association, New York beat San Antonio 130-104, St. Louis defeated San Diego 116-112, Indiana beat Denver 128-121 and Kentucky defeated Memphis 113-109.

Saturday's NBA results: Buffalo 102, Boston 96; Atlanta 103 Cleveland 97; Houston 107 New Orleans 105; Golden State 115 Detroit 112; Kansas City-Omaha

JOSE NAPOLES

Winner Injured

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP) — Jose Napoles retained his welterweight title but will have to be under doctor's care for at least a month because of injuries he suffered during a Saturday night fight, his doctor said Sunday.

Judges charged that challenger Armando Muni had butted Napoles in the face several times with his head, and suspended the fight in the 12th round. Napoles was declared the winner by points.

Victor Weiss, the challenger's manager said: "We will protest this decision. When a fight is suspended because of dangerous injuries like these, it is considered a technical knockout against the boxer who can no longer fight, but here the opposite occured."

Napoles, 35, suffered a severe wound on his left eyelid and another small cut on his right eyebrow, in the fight which earned the champion $150,000. Muntz earned $15,000.

Hargitay Pushes Hungary in Front

LONDON (AP) — World record holder Andras Hargitay powered Hungary into a narrow halfway lead in the 14-country swimming tournament at London's Crystal Palace pool Saturday.

Hargitay easily won the 400-metre individual medley, the last event on the first day, in a time of 4.32.39.

His victory lifted Hungary to top spot with 54 points. Australia was second on 52 and Canada third on 50.

In the women's 400-metre freestyle, rising Australian star Sonya Gray swam the second-fastest of all time with 4:16.56, establishing a Commonwealth record. The time was less than a second slower than American Shirley Babashoff's record 4:15.77 set at Concord, Calif., last August.

Another Australian, Jerry Turrall, was second in the event with a time of 4.17.6, fully 10 seconds ahead of third-place Liz McKinnon of Thunder Bay, Ont., who was timed in 4:27.86.

Cheryl Gibson of Edmonton placed fifth in 4:33.24.

Canadian girls Barbara Clark and Becky Smith put their country into third place in the standings with two wins each. Miss Clark, 18, of Stettler, Alta., had a winning time of 59.06 seconds in the 100-metre freestyle, then won the 100-metre butterfly event in 1:04.90.

Miss Smith, 15, of Edmonton, edged Hungarian Gabrielle Verruszto in the 100-metres backstroke in 1:07.47.

Canada then was one-two in the women's 200 individual medley relay with Miss Smith in 2:24.68, edging compatriot Miss Gibson, 2:25.96 with Australian Judy Hudson third,

Tomorrow morning, when you get up and turn on the radio or open the paper, there'll be no more Fahrenheit in the weather forecasts and temperature reports. Because April 1, 1975 is the day that Canada officially adopts degrees Celsius to measure these temperatures.

Using degrees Celsius is one step in Canada's gradual conversion to the metric system. Once we're used to the new terms, using the metric system will make measuring anything simpler and more logical. Hull — 75 in 73 Games

Scoring Mark Within Reach

WINNIPEG (AP) — "If 77 is more than 76 then I will have surpassed my friend Phil Esposito's goal scoring record," said Bobby Hull, the Winnipeg Jets' playing coach whose three goals against New England Saturday night gave him 75 goals in 73 World Hockey Association games.

Hull will aim to tie and break Esposito's 1970-71 mark of 76 National Hockey League goals in 78 games when the Jets play Indianapolis Racers tonight in a game postponed from January.

"Rocket Richard's record of 50 goals in 50 games was an outstanding accomplishment," said Hull. "Esposito's 76 was marvelous, but that doesn't detract from whatever total I make this year.

"Scoring that many goals in any league is a tremendous accomplishment" said the 36-year-old former Chicago Black Hawks star.

Rudy Pilous, Jets assistant coach and former boss with the Stanley Cup winning Chicago team of 1960-61, said: "Richard got his 50 goals against wartime opposition. No one ever heard of him the first half of the year. He had 25 of them before anyone put a check on Rocket. Hull is still bothered and guarded constantly."

A year ago, Hull was suffering both physically, with an ulcer, and mentally, as the Jets missed the WHA playoffs. The infusion of new blood in the form of Swedish linemates Ulf Nilsson and Anders Hedberg have given Bobby a new lease on life.

Nilsson, the centre and Hedberg, the right wing, lug the puck for Hull, who doesn't have to do all the work himself as he did in his first two years with Winnipeg and in some of his seasons with Chicago.

Hull is leading the WHA in points with 135 on 73 goals and 60 assists. Nilsson is fourth with 23-87 110 and Hedberg ninth at 48-43-91. Hedberg missed 13 games with injuries.

"In our first workouts last August in camp, I sensed that Nilsson and Hedberg had magic. They had great speed and could move the puck. And they had imagination. When one of us vacates a spot the other switches and the flow of the line continues.

"I didn't have to do all the work myself and we work together naturally. Most of the time they don't look for me, except that night when we went for the 50 goals in 50 games.

"I have never seen anyone as fast as Hedberg. When he is in top flight he is poetry," said Hull who scored 604 NHL goals in 15 seasons before joining the WHA.

Asked to compare the NHL and WHA, Hull said: "There are four or five teams in the NHL that the rest of the league cant handle. Except for a few teams on the bottom of the WHA, our teams can play with the rest of the NHL. The Jets have matured this season and I feel the only way the WHA can go is up."

Flyers, Sabres Habs Battle

By GLENN COLE
The Canadian Press

With one week remaining in the 720-game Netional Hockey League schedule, a tight battle still exists among clubs for the best over-all points-total in the leage.

Philadelphia Flyers, leaders of the Patrick Division with 108 points, hold a one-point edge over Buffalo Sabres, leaders in the Adams Division and Montreal Canadiens, the top club in the Norris Division. The team with the highest regular-season points-total wins the home ice advantage in the Stanley Cup playoffs.

The final playoff positions in the Patrick Division are still up for grabs with New York Rangers, New York Islanders and Atlanta Flames all in the running.

First place in the Smythe Division is still in doubt with Vancouver Canucks, Chicago Black Hawks and St. Louis Blues vying for top spot.

The Black Hawks blew a chance to move into a first-place tie with idle Vancouver Sunday night when they dropped a 4-1 decision to Philadelphia. Saturday, the Flyers topped the Black Hawks 5-2.

In other Sunday games, Montrea played to a 2-2 tie with Boston Bruins, Toronto Maple Leafs surprised Buffalo 5-4, Atlanta tied the Islanders 2-2, the Rangers topped Kansas City Scouts 8-2, Pittsbugh Penguins defeated Minnesota North Stars 4-1 and Detroit Red Wings outscored Washington Capitals 8-5.

In other Saturday action, Montreal topped Kansas City 4-1, Vancouver and Los Angeles Kings fought to a 3-3 tie, the Islanders clipped the Rangers 6-4, Boston and Toronto tied 1-1, St. Louis edged Minnesota 2-1 and Pittsburgh defeated Detroit 4-2.

At Philadelphia Sunday, Reggie Leach set a team scoring record as the Flyers ran their latest unbeaten streak to 11 games. Leach scored his 44th goal of the year, breaking Bill Flett's record for a right winger.

Guy Lafleur set a Montreal club record by scoring his 51st goal of the year to give the Canadiens their tie at Boston.

Lafleur, who became the third Montreal player to score 50 goals in a season Saturday night against Kansas City, got his 51st in the third period at Boston, only moments after Bobby Orr had put the Bruins ahead with his 44th goal. The Boston defenceman also had an assist to run his league-leading points-total to 131.

Two goals by George Ferguson led the Maple Leafs to their win at Buffalo while Tom Lysiak's goal with 4:57 to play in the third period gave Atlanta its tie with the Islanders and kept the Flames' flickering playoff hopes alive.

The Flames, who have 80 points, are five behind the Islanders and Rangers, deadlocked for second with 85 points. The Flames have four games remaining — one each against the Islanders and Rangers—while the two New York clubs have three games to play, including one against each other.

A four-goal effort by Steve Vickers led New York's attack against the Scouts, winless in their last 16 games.

The Penguins won their eighth in a row at home with Vic Hadfield, Pierre Larouche, Bob Kelly and Bob McManama scoring the goals.

Pittsburgh's Jean Pronovost suffered a head cut that was closed with 28 stitches and he returned to the ice. Minnesota veteran Lou Nanne was sent to hospital for observation with a possible concussion after being checked by Pittsburgh's Dennis Owchar in the second period.

Bill Hogaboam scored two goals 12 seconds apart and Marcel Dionne got his 46th and 47th goals of the year to pace Detroit's win over Washington.

Toros Miss Their Chance

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

New England Whalers, plagued by injuries all season, lost their coach and two players Sunday but still managed to beat Toronto Toros, a club that needed the victory much more.

The Whalers, who clinched the World Hockey Association Eastern Division title earlier this month, beat the Toros 4-2, stalling Toronto's drive for the Canadian Division lead.

The New England victory came with general manager Jack Kelley replacing ailing coach Ron Ryan behind the bench.

"We're still hurting bad," Kelley said after the win. "We lost Ted Green in the first period and Terry Caffery in the third. I think Caffery is out for the balance of the season with a separated shoulder."

Green picked up a groin injury in the first period. He and Caffery join Garry Swain and Rick Ley on the sidelines.

In other WHA games Sunday, Quebec Nordiques retained the Canadian Division lead with a 6-5 win over Phoenix Roadrunners, Vancouver Blazers defeated Baltimore Blades 4-3, Cleveland Crusaders beat Chicago Cougars 7-6, Minnesota Fighting Saints defeated Indianapolis Races 5-3 and the San Diego at Edmonton game was postponed due to bad ice conditions.

Saturday, Winnipeg Jets beat New England 9-3, Cleveland beat Indianapolis 7-5, Houston defeated Minnesota 8-2, Toronto edged Quebec 5-4 in overtime and San Diego defeated Vancouver 7-3.

When the Whalers landed in Toronto Sunday, coach Ryan suffered a dizzy spell and fell, striking his head on concrete. He was taken to hospital for tests and later released but was unable to coach the team.

Don Blackburn scored twice to start the Whalers on their way to the win and second-string goalie Bruce Landon held off the Toros when they outshot New England 16-4 in a third-period comeback attempt.

The loss meant the Toros failed to retain the tie for the division lead gained in their win Saturday at Quebec.

At Quebec, the Nordiques regained a two-point lead over the Toros with an overtime victory on Renald Leclerc's disputed goal.

Phoenix defenceman Jim Niekamp protested that the puck did not cross the goal line but referee Bob Sloan ignored the protest and Leclerc's goal stood as the winner.

Marc Tardif and Rejean Houle each scored twice for Quebec while Robbie Ftoric had two goals for Phoenix, including the tying score in the third period which forced the overtime.

Larry Israelson and ob Walton scored third-period goals to provide the Blazers win over the Blades at Vancouver. The win broke a seven-game Vancouver losing streak.

Mike Walton of Minnesota scored his 47th goal of the season to help the Saints beat Indianapolis.

Walton's power-play goal was the first of three goals by the Saints in less than three minutes of the second period as they took a 4-2 edge.

Lafleur — 50-goal Plateau

A 'Well Done' From Richard

MONTREAL (CP) — Maurice Richard, the first professional hockey player to score 50 goals in regular-season play, was quick to congratulate Guy Lafleur after the Montreal Canadiens right winger scored his 50th goal Saturday night in a National Hockey League game against Kansas City Scouts.

"Guy seemed very happy that I called him," said Richard, who had 50 goals in 50 games for Montreal during the 1944-45 season. "I was very happy to congratulate him. He really deserves it, especially after the troubles he's had in his first few years in the league."

Richard was not at the game Saturday night but telephoned Lafleur after the first period.

Lafleur's feat marked the 19th time the 50-goal mark had been reached but it was the first time a member of the Canadiens had accomplished the feat since Bernie Geeoffrion did it in 1960-61.

"It probably bothered me the first time it happened, but now it doesn't bother me at all," Richard said. "After all, there are so many games.

"The league's not the same. Its all brand new. There should be another record book starting with expansion. It doesn't make much sense, but I never talk about that.

"I'm glad for the players who are making good salaries. Why criticize them? It doesn't bother me any more. I'm getting too old for that."

AHL Showdown

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The American Hockey League completed its 1974-75 regular-season schedule Sunday night with one of the playoff berths still in question.

After Baltimore Clippers dropped from the Southern Division earlier in the season, league directors decided the top four teams in the Northern Division and the top three in the South would automatically qualify for post-season playoffs.

However, the directors ruled that should the fifth-place team in the North have more points or a better percentage than the fourth-place team in the South, the teams would play a sudden-death final to determine the eighth contender.

The final standings show New Haven Nighthawks, the fifth-place team in the North, with 71 points, and Syracuse, the fourth-place finishers in the South, with 53 points.

Syracuse and New Haven will play Tuesday night to decide who takes on Virginia Red Wings, who finished first in the Southern Division with 75 points.

Plan a few visits to our new garden annex this spring. Open evenings after daylight savings time.
The name annex may sound a litlte grandiose, but its intentional. The idea is that our main store will close as usual every day at 5:30, Saturdays at noon; the annex (north side of our parking lot) will remain open evenings and Saturday afternoons offering limited services (no office, no bulk seeds, no farm service.)
And please be patient. This will be our first attempt at nursery stock sales and frankly, we don't know all about it. We think our selection will be pretty good and we'll do our best to help. Parking should be O.K. in the evenings.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

ANIMAL HOSPITAL

No House Calls!

You can lead a horse to the vet but you can't lead a vet to the horse. At least that's the way an Intelligencer photographer saw it when he found this horse trailer parked outside of the animal hospital on Dundas St. East. Apparently, even veterinarians don't make house calls anymore.

Canada Finances Tropical Studies

OTTAWA (CP)—Two million dollars of Canadian taxpayers' money has been earmarked for research toward improvement of intensified agriculture in the monsoon regions of Asia.

The announcement of the grants by Dr. W. David Hopper, president of the International Development draws attention to a little-known government agency set up in 1970 as part of this country's foreign-aid program.

In the 1975-76 fiscal year the IDRC expects to spend $27 million to aid science and technology in developing countries. That sum is part of the Canadian International Development Agency (CIDA) budget of $734 million.

Research to improve food production has been high on the IDRC aid list in its four-year history, but other study projects have ranged from the manufacture of wooden building slabs in Ghana to studies of fertility factors in Brazil.

The most recent grants went to a study the IDRC has been funding since 1971, research into multiple-cropping techniques in southern Asia.

Multiple cropping is the harvesting of more than one crop from the same parcel of land in one year. The centre's aim in this program is to develop a network of multiple-cropping research projects all over southern Asia.

Improvement of multiple-cropping systems would allow small farmers to produce more food.

The centre made three grants for research into multiple cropping with rice. The largest, $1.30 million over two years, was granted to the International Rice Research Institute in the Philippines.

In conjunction with this grant the University of the Philippines will receive $228,000 for evaluating the productivity of various crop strains and the Bangladesh Rice Research Institute will get $418,000 to determine how the findings of the study can apply in Bangladesh.

The idea to create the IDRC came from the late prime minister Lester Pearson, who wanted a Canadian counterpart to organizations like the Ford and Rockefeller foundations but which would be publicly, not privately funded.

In 1970 the International Centre was set up by an act of Parliament, with a first-year budget of $2.44 million. By 1973-74 its budget had risen to $14 million and in 1974-75 to $19 million.

The centre's announced overall aim is to develop scientific and technological skills within Third-World countries. It does not conduct its own research, but grants money to existing programs, allowing researchers in the country concerned to do the work themselves. The centre also co-ordinates research between countries by publishing results of its programs.

The IDRC runs programs in four basic areas: population and health sciences, food and nutrition, information and special projects in the social and physical sciences.

Support is started when an institute with a program already under way submits an informal application to the IDRC. If the proposal interests the centre and fits in with programs already being sponsored, a program officer is sent to look at the work going on and a formal proposal with a budget is prepared and submitted to the centre's board of governors.

If this proposal is accepted, a formal contract is signed. In return for the money the centre grants, it receives a progress report.

If money allotted to the project is used other than as outlined in the budget, the program may be cut off, says Ed Weber, an officer in charge of funding with the IDRC.

The board of governors overseeing the centre is composed of 11 Canadians and 10 foreigners, the majority of them from Third-World countries.

Though the research centre's budget is voted annually as part of the federal external-aid budget, its distribution is controlled by the board of govrnors.

The IDRC specializes in risk projects which, if successful, are turned over to larger agencies such as CIDA for the large-scale funding the centre is unable to provide.

Third World Sees Waldheim as Hero

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Third World countries give Kurt Waldheim a hero's welcome when he visits their capitals and some Western leaders say that the trend may weigh against him should he seek a second term.

A high United States official commented recently that Waldheim, a 56-year-old Austrian serving the fourth year of a five-year term, seems more like the secretary-general of the Third World than of the United Nations.

During Waldheim's current trip abroad, Chancellor Helmut Schmidt of West Germany criticized "bloc-building in the UN" — a reference to the powerful voting array of the Third World.

In a talk with a reporter, Waldheim said, "I don't think I'm biased." But he remarked that times have changed since the West dominated a United Nations of only 51 members.

He noted the membership now is 138 "and the great majority of them are Third World countries, developing countries."

"How can you expect me not to respect the interests of these countries, too? We have a moral obligation to see that there is absolute equality here."

Much of the concern in the U.S. delegation was prompted by the elaborate reception given Palestinian guerrilla leader Yasir Arafat when he came to New York last November to address the General Assembly.

U.S. diplomats were particularly aroused by the presence in the chamber of a chair customarily reserved for heads of state.

While Waldheim vigorously defended Arafat's right to appear before the Assembly, he said he had nothing to do with bringing the chair into the chamber.

He said he found the chair already in place when he came into the room shortly before Arafat's appearance and learned that Assembly President Abdelaziz Bouteflika of Algeria had ordered it. He said he told Bouteflika it was against protocol and Bouteflika agreed that Arafat should not sit in the chair but just lean an arm on it.

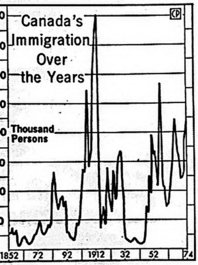
Waldheim said it was too late to remove the chair because it had already been wired for simultaneous interpretations. He also said much of the solicitude shown by UN officials over Arafat was prompted by the U.S. Mission which had asked Waldheim to "lend all help" to protect the security of the Palestinians.

Waldheim spoke of "tremendous nervous anxiety" in his job and said it is much more complicated, because of the vastly bigger membership, than in the days when Norway's Trygve Lie, the first secretary-general, called it "the most impossible job in the world."

He said he has no family life and that his wife is "complaining bitterly" about his burdens.

Nevertheless, he said he likes the challenge and does not rule out a second term if it is offered. To get it, he needs the approval of the veto-wielding permanent powers—The United States, Soviet Union, China,' Britain and France.

Looking back on his first three years, Waldheim said a major disappointment was the failure of the UN to deal with the fighting in Vietnam. Among the satisfactions were results achieved in humanitarian cases involving prisoners in Chile and imprisoned Jews, both in the Soviet Union



Immigration Higher

A total of 218,465 immigrants arrived in Canada last year, an increase of 18.6 per cent over 1973 total of 184,200. More than half the new arrivals, 120,115 went to Ontario, followed by British Columbia, 34,481, Quebec, 33,458; Alberta, 14,289, and Manitoba 7,423. Since 1852 almost 11 million persons have emigrated to Canada to help build up a population that today is about 22.5 million. CP Newsmap)

To Have Washrooms

TORONTO (CP) — Commuters were happy when they learned that some highway buses on order for GO (for Government of Ontario) Transit will have washrooms. But the bad news was that the first buses are not expected to be in service until the summer of 1977.

Vote Buy Machine

TORONTO (CP) — Chairman Paul Godfrey of Metropolitan Toronto said his staff will look into the possibility of using automatic voting machines after 45 votes were recorded during a Metro Council meeting. A clerk estimated the cost of the roll-call votes in clerical expense at $2,250.

Hawkins Brought New Musical Era

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—If the "big time" has always slightly exceeded Ronnie Hawkins' reach, he has enjoyed nearly two decades of rare prominence and influence on the Canadian pop-music scene from what he calls "the top level of the small time."

Hawkins, recently here with his new group Elephant, had several years' experience of the kind of life-style that goes with striving for super-stardom.

That was in his native United States during the '50s, when he was turning out hit records like Forty Days, Mary Lou and Who Do You Love?

"I'd put in all those years when there were two or three guys sleeping in the same car; staying on the road 30 or 40 days, playing every night and driving 300 or 400 miles between gigs; worrying if you were going to have a breakdown and if you had a blow-out how you were going to buy a tire; renting one room so everybody could run in to clean up and shave.

"I got tired of that and I said if ther's ever a record company that will have enough faith in me to put out enough money so I can take a band and go first class, then I'll stay on the road.

"But a band can't perform properly if you're just beat. In the old days we were operating at 60 per cent of our ability because everybody was just tired.

"So when I came to Canada, I found a few rooms where I could play just about the year round. I made less money but I didn't have to travel."

Hawkins' arrival in Canada—off and on from 1958 and then settling in Toronto in 1961—heralded a new era for Canadian musicians. Whatever their opinions of Hawkins, and rock journalist Richie Yorke has written that "the Hawk is the sort of man one either loves or hates—ardently," there is general agreement that he built up an aura of acceptance for Canadian bands that never existed previously.

"When I first came here you couldnt book a Canadian act in any of the nightclubs."

He has built up several Canadian bands over the years, the most famous of these being The Band (originally called The Hawks).

Others who started with Hawkins and split to achieve more of a name for themselves on their own include Crowbar, Bearfoot (known as Atkinson, Denko and Ford when with Hawkins) Skylark and singers Bobby Curtola, Robbie Lane, Ray Hutchinson, King Biscuit Boy and Toby Lark.

There's ever so slight a hint of bitterness in Hawkins' attitude now to managing bands.

"A lot of them get really good and they get big offers and they leave. I'm not going to manage a group any more, not as long as I'm playing myself. I've tried to help a few acts out but it's too much trouble."

That's excluding Elephant of course, a six-member group, all but one of whom are from Ontario, with which he hopes to land the kind of recording contract that will include those "first-class transportation" provisions he is keen on. (He plans a recording session at Band member Levon Helms' new studio in Woodstock, N.Y., with others of his old group also backing him up.)

Meanwhile, he finds he can afford to get out on the night-club circuit more than in the past because there are more of the kind of "middle-class rooms' which will pay his price—in the $4,000-and $5,000-a-week vicinity—and throw in free rooms and meals.

"It means that we can all make enough so that we get back home with a little more money than we could make just staying in one place.'

(Hawkins maintains an apartment home in Toronto, has a farm in Peterborough and owns a nightclub in London, Ont. and has kept his gig limited pretty much to these environs, but he went to Chicago and was talking about a tour as warmup act for Johnny Rivers.)

Playing this sort of club has resulted in a slight toning down of the kind of music played in his "Rompin' Ronnie" days.

We play it a little quieter, a little more country, because the club owners want that now. I always play my old stuff, of course. It's considered country now, but it was rock 'n' roll then.

"We were doing my style rock 'n' roll and then a little heavier rock, but it was drawing too many 18-year-olds to suit some of the clubs, so we've revamped it a little bit to play the better rooms."

Hawkins is a professional who doesn't rely on commercial slickness or any sort of elaborate showmanship for his pipularity. And he is not one for image-changing to exploit whatever happens to be the current popular-music trend.

Basically, he has always relied on simple, unsophisticated tunes that are infectiously upbeat but strongly rooted in country traditions. The fiddle and steel guitar, for instance, are prominently featured in Elephant's instrumentation.

Hawkin's stage stetson and light southern drawl—he's from Arkansas—keep the country-boy-at-heart image in the forefront, even when he is belting out numbers like Blue Suede Shoes or Bo D ddley.

Members of Elephant are Al Brisco of Renfrew on steel; Andy Greatrix of Timmins on bass; Barry Haggarty of Peterborough on lead guitar; Don Harriss, originally from San Francisco, on piano and organ; Karl Mathers of Ottawa playing fiddle and Mike Turpenny of Toronto on drums.

Together with Hawkins, they present a program of predominately toe-tapping, hand-slapping music that probably has its strongest appeal for those in their late 20s and early-to mid-30s who will find a comfortable nostalgia in the familiarity of the numbers and their well-below-deafening presentation.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL
Tuesday, April 1

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You won't accomplish as much as you're capable of today because of your self-doubts. Strive for more inner faith.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your ambitious scheme is not in accord with a friend's ideas. Cross words will result if you don't handle this with extreme tact.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You'll eagerly pick another's brain for advice. But when it comes to making decisions, you'll ignore the advice!

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Do give credit where credit is due, especially to one who has proven to be a capable assistant. Appreciation goes a long way.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) One you're closely associated with will be annoyed if he thinks you're not telling him all. Don't hold back facts.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Matters relating to family finances should continue to take precedence over all others today. Don't invest in frivolous ventures.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This will be a pleasant day in the social sense. However, you'll have a tendency to ignore work that should be done.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Keep information concerning personal finances to yourself. One you talk with will put it on the teletype for all the world to read.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A good idea you have will not muster all the support it deserves because you won't have all your facts in order.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It will prove embarrassing to the donor if you reveal the source of something given you. He'll regret his generosity.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) There will be some game-playing today with an acquaintance. Each of you will try to outmaneuvre the other for his own advantage.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) What you do will be noticed. It won't be necessary to blow your own horn. Let others boast on your behalf.

Histamine Doses Desensitize Body

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have been bothered with severe headaches that come on when I sleep. I cannot get back to sleep, even after taking aspirin. They seem centred around the left eye, the left forehead, the left upper cheekbone, and the left side of my nose feels cold, as if it is just coming out of a novocain shot.

Last month I had an EKG, was tasted for urine, sugar and cholesterol, and had my blood pressure checked. Everything was fine. Then I had another severe headache, and went to a nose, ear, and throat specialist. He said it was histomanic cephalgia. Please explain what this is. The doctor asked me to come back every month for an injection. He said this will teach my body how to handle this buildup it manufactures.—A.

You are phonetically close in your name for the problem. It is histaminic cephalgia, a condition described by Dr. B. T. Horton of the Mayo Clinic in 1956, and since become more popularly known as "cluster headache.'

Dr. Horton postulated that a form of headache (cephalgia) was caused by the sudden release of histamine, a body chemical found in all tissue. When this chemical is released suddenly it causes a rather sudden dilation of blood vessels, and this provokes the headache. It is not clear why the sudden release occurs in some people.

You have described the classic cephalgic histamine attack—the severe suddenness, the occurrence at night, the one-sidedness of the symptoms, the nasal stuffiness, discharge, and so on. These headaches occur sporadically and affect men more than women by a six-to-one ratio. At one time, there were no less than 22 forms of treatment for it, none of which gave more than temporary relief.

I presume that your doctor is going to begin histamine injections, starting with a tiny dose, then gradually increasing the amount, keeping the level just short of what would provoke an attack. The idea is to desensitize your body against its own sudden release of the substance. This may or may not work, but it is usually worth the try.

The Mayo report on these headaches noted that a particular personality is more subject to these attacks than are others. As in migraine headache, the individual leans toward perfectionism, is tense, conscientious, meticulous, and strives for perfection with great zeal.

Significantly, psychotherapy has helped some victims. In some instances an ergotamine preparation has helped break an attack.

These headaches seem to strike in the early spring and fall more than at other times, and they are sometimes related to heavy drinking or smoking. They can be confused with sinusitis or tic douloureux.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am seven months pregnant and have had a black tongue for three days now. Could you please tell me what causes this?—Mrs. L. N.

The usual cause of black tongue is the development of fungi between the pipillae, those tiny, cone-like protrusions that cover the tongue. It is often a reaction to a chemical, often to iron compounds or to bismuth, a metallic substance used in a variety of medications.

If your doctor has you on an iron supplement during your pregnancy, you might look to this as a possible source of your trouble. You should bring this to his attention.

He may want to alter your prescription.

The symptoms usually disappear with proper attention, and leave no lasting effect.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any exercise or anything at all to tighten up a sagging derriere?—Mrs. A.

Walking and leg exercise should help.

Renovate Museum

ALMONTE, Ont. (CP) — The R. Tait McKenzie Memorial Museum near this eastern Ontario town is to be renovated this year at a cost of $40,000 by the Mississippi Valley conservation authority. The museum, part of the Mill of Kintail conservation area, draws about 8,000 visitors each season. The building houses about 700 of the late doctor-sculptor's works.

Fish and Chips OK

OTTAWA (CP) — Frozen fish-and-chip dinners can provide up to one-third of the average adult's daily protein needs, says the Consumers Association of Canada. Average protein requirement for a man is 56 grams, for a woman 41 and for children 22 to 54 depending on age and sex.

Opening lead — Q ♦

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

Jim: "Have you ever stopped to think that good declarers possess split personalities?"

Oswald: "I don't have to stop to think to know our readers want bridge, not psychiatry."

Jim: "Sometimes even expert players find themselves in bad contracts—due of course, to partner's bad bidding. And they have to hope for the best. They must be optimistic. But when you arrive at a very good contract, 'that's the time for pessimism."

Oswald: "That's what today's hand is all about. After the opening lead, South sees that he is in a very good contract. In fact, he could take all thirteen tricks without a finesse provided trumps divide three-two."

Jim: "But he's only in a small slam. So he lets pessimism take hold. What if trumps are four-one? That if the club king is wrong, the answer is—take out a little insurance!"

Oswald: "At the second trick, South plays a low spade from both hands, letting East win the spade seven. Now a club is played. Declarer wins the ace, trumps a diamond in dummy, returns to his hand with a high spade and trumps his last diamond in dummy. Now the heart king is the entry to his hand to draw the remaining trumps and the good hearts in dummy are enough tricks to make the contract.

Oil Profiteering Squabble Raging

WASHINGTON (AP) - United States government investigators of alleged oil company profiteering at the height of the Arab oil embargo are fighting among themselves over whether to seek criminal indictments, sources close to the case say.

The U.S. customs service wants the cases criminally prosecuted, the sources said, but the federal energy administration (FEA) is arguing that the matter should be pursued through administrative channels. The justice department is reported caught in the middle but so far has sided with customs.

FEA lawyers say published reports that oil copanies may have overcharged U.S. consumers by billions of dollars are gross exaggerations without evidence to support them.

Tabulations Saturday showed the FEA has forced the oil industry to give back about $612 million through refunds, price rollbacks or cancellation of claims on future price increases.

Investigators say the industry may have cheated the public out of $861 million or more since the Arab oil embargo.

The investigation is going on in several cities, but only one case so far has reached the stage of being presented to a grand jury. It is in Jacksonville, Fla.

The customs service says the joint customs-FEA investigation began last August and was focused on residual fuel oil imported chiefly through East Coast ports. A major portion of the residual fuel oil brought into the U.S. is used by public utilities.

During the embargo that began in late 1973, some countries outside the Arab bloc continued to sell oil at pre-embargo prices while others boosted their charge nearly 500 per cent.

The theory of the case is that some oil companies with contracts to deliver fuel to utilities and other large consumers obtained their foreign oil from countries with relatively low prices but falsified the required custom documents to make it appear that the oil came from countries where the price had skyrocketed. The extraordinary increases were then passed on to the consumers with the oil companies pocketing the difference.

Trudeau Supports 'Asbestos Comrades'

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau sent a telegram during the weekend expressing support for 3,500 striking asbestos miners and millworkers in Thetford Mines, Que.

The message was in reply to a telegram sent by strikers' representatives last week reminding Mr. Trudeau, Transport Minister Jean Marchand and Communications Minister Gerard Pelletier of their active participation in the 1949 asbestos strike.

"Pelletier, Marchand and I express our solidarity with our asbestos comrades," said the prime minister's telegram to the Confederation of National Trade Unions local in Thetford Mines.

"We know the price asbestos miners have paid to better their lot. We sympathize with your struggle and [illegible] unable to intervene, we hope a solution to your [illegible] be found th[illegible] bor laws."

The current strike, which began Ma[illegible] creased wages, a cost-of-living bonus and improved health measures.

In its telegram to the federal politicians last week, a common front of unions representing the strikers said: "Knowing you are defiant men, we hope you will join us and that together we will achieve the goals you advocated more than 20 years ago.'

The five-month 1949 strike by 5,000 asbestos workers in Thetford Mines and nearby Asbestos saw several violent incidents after then premier Maurice Duplessis sent provincial police to Thetford Mines, 70 miles south of Quebec City.

During the 1949 strike, Mr. Trudeau joined his friends Mr. Pelletier and Mr. Marchand on the picket lines in support of the strikers.

HEROES ARE MADE-NOT BORN

Star Says Teachers Urged to Fight Davis

TORONTO (CP) — The Star says that Ontario's 100,000 teachers are being urged to contribute time and money to a large-scale "political action" campaign aimed at the next provincial election.

More than $100,000 already have committed to financing the campaign, The Star said Saturday. The newspaper added that additional millions of dollars might be available later as the province's 34,000 high school teachers have each pledged a further $600 if needed.

Teacher leaders have stressed that at present the political thrust is non-partisan, but The Star said this seems to be aimed at Premier William Davis and his Progressive Conservative government.

The Star said Mr. Davis does not have to call an election until October, 1976, but that he is expected to go to the polls later this year.

Neil Doherty of the Ontario Catholic English Teachers Association said the increase in teachers' interest in politics can be traced to the ceilings imposed on education spending and the threat of legislation that might limit teachers in bargaining for higher salaries.

Moncton Trial Nearing Finish

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — The trial of two men charged with murdering two Moncton policemen was to resume today with the Crown presenting some of its final witnesses.

About 65 Crown witnesses testified during the first two weeks of the trial and six to eight more are expected.

A soil expert testified Saturdgy that samples he took from the site where the two policemen were found Dec. 15 matched in color and texture samples he took frm pair of shoes he was asked to check.

There was testimony earlier that the shoes wepe taken from the apartment of James Lawrence Hutchison, 43, one of the defendants.

Hutchison and Richard Ambrose, 26, are charged with the murder, punishable by death, of Cpl. Aurele Bourgeois and Constable Michael O'Leary, who disappeared Dec. 13 while investigating the kidnapping of Raymond Stein, 14.

The boy was released unharmed Dec. 13 after his father paid a $15,000 ransom.

Testimony about the soil samples taken from the grave site was given by Kenneth Langmaid, a federal agriculture soils expert.

Mr. Langmaid also examined soil from a shovel discovered in the Shediac River about two miles from the grave site. He said the soil matched a sample taken from where the bodies were found.

A Moncton hardware salesman said a customer with a moustache and long black hair purchased two shovels, a pick and axe Dec. 13.

Euclide LeBlanc said he later went to RCMP headquarters but could only say the customer might have been one of three men shown in photographs of 10 persons.

Asked if he could see the customer in the courtroom, the witness answered "No."

'Unlivable' Society Forecast

UTTERSON, Ont. (CP) — Dr. Robert Theobald, a British socio-economist, said Sunday that society will be "unlivable" in five years if people cannot learn to change their directions.

There has been a breakdown in society as a result of its institutions not working together, he said in an interview.

Dr. Theobald was a speaker at the annual conference on the future sponsored by the Global conference centre in this community about 50 miles north of Orillia.

He said persons attending the three-day conference defined the breakdown nationally and internationally as the result of failure of general leadership and commitment from society's institutions, ranging from the family to the church, schools and politics.

Dr. Theobald said persons at the conference were unable to suggest methods to remedy the breakdown.

Winds Prevent Tower Erection

TORONTO (CP) — Gusting winds kept the CN tower from becoming the world's tallest free-standing structure during the weekend.

If weather conditions permit it may reach 1,756 feet this morning, beating Moscow's 1,748-foot Ostankino Tower to take the world title.
